RECENT RAINS HELPFUL TO FARM CROPS

Prospects Much Brighter for Better Crops in Millbrook District.

PICNIC POSTPONED

Western Section of W.M.S. of Cobourg Presbyterial Will Meet at Roseneath.

MILLBROOK, June 25.—The rain on Thursday, with scattered showers the following day, was a boon to the farming community, gardens, lawns and flower beds reaping the benefit also. There was a decided need of moisture, and just such a steady rain as Thursday provided met the situation nicely; the cry is now for continued warm weather and satisfactory growth is assured.

Fall wheat is apparently making fair progress, as are also clover and alfalfa, though a good deal of the latter, in this section, was winter killed. Garden stuff is up and growing well; green peas in blossom in some cases, and new potatoes seem assured by the date usually counted upon, generally speaking, July 12.

Pasturage will improve with the recent rain, and corn, which is fairly well up now, will require much warmer weather to bring it to maturity.

PASTOR GIVES FINAL SERMON

Rev. Ernest Harston is Leaving Campbellford Church This Week.

CHURCH CROWDED.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25.—St. John's United Church was filled to the doors last night on the occasion of the Reverend Ernest Harston's farewell sermon before leaving to assume his duties as pastor of the Simcoe Street United Church, Oshawa. Although there was no one turned away, it is doubtful if any more people could have found seats in the church. Two anthems by the choir were "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan), and "Sweet Saviour, Bless Us," (Fricker). After the service, members of the congregation and friends of other churches waited at the door to say farewell to Mr. Harston. Although only one year in Campbellford, it is felt that he has accomplished much for his church, and although many regret his departure, all appreciate his work here. He leaves with the sincere wishes of his parishioners for every success in his new field.

Just before announcing the last hymn, Mr. Harston wishes to express his deep appreciation for the large number of friends who were present at the service and hoped they had derived some spiritual benefit from it. To the people of St. John's, he said that although his work here had been brief, it had been hard. But he had been assisted by the cheer of many friends. These friendships, he hoped, would not soon be forgotten. For the many hard things which had been said about him during the last few weeks, he willingly forgave those who had said them. He would watch the progress of the church and hoped that it would receive the richest blessing from Heaven. He hoped the people of the church would not forget him and they would pause a moment to give him a kind word and thought as they went about their daily tasks. In his new field he would need their prayers and asked that they remember him after this fashion as well.

Sermon on Deliverance

Chosing as his text the thirty-fifth verse of Hebrews 11, Mr. Harston said he was particularly anxious to leave two messages, to preach deliverance to the captives and others were tortured, not accepting deliverance. In all the scriptures, the most conspicuous message was that of deliverance through faith. The Bible was a record of these deliverances. Joseph had been delivered from his brothers, from the pit, and from prison. He had later become an instrument in the hands of God. Moses had been delivered from the wrath of Pharaoh. The Israelites had been delivered from bondage, from the waters of the Red Sea, from thirst and starvation in the desert. All of David's psalms were songs of deliverance. They illustrated the power of faith to deliver men, and God's willingness to deliver men who have faith.

There was the story of the madman whom chains and fetters would not hold, and who dashed madly about striking terror into the hearts of the people as he cried out that his name was Legion for "We are many." The man was possessed of an evil spirit from which he was later freed and became a follower of Christ. There was also the man with the withered hand, whose faith had made him whole. The blind man who cried out "One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I can see," was healed by faith. There was also the faith of the woman who touched Christ's garment. Her faith made her whole.

Through faith comes the fruits of liberty and freedom from all bondage. There was the incident of the small body of Christians in the upper room who prayed for the deliverance of Peter, who was in prison. During the night, Peter's chains and shackles fell off, his guards fell asleep and he was free. There was also Saul of Tarsus, later the apostle Paul, who was delivered from the angry mob when he was guilty of violation of the temple laws, from a shipwreck and the perils of the sea, from the prison after all due precautions had been taken to prevent it. He was also immune from the sting of the deadly viper when he cast it off in the name of the Lord. The most conspicuous blessing of faith was deliverance, said Mr. Harston.

Natural Loveliness

Is ever the reward of sensible skin care—to safeguard your children's complexion and your own, just follow this simple daily rule

NATURAL beauty, simple and alluring, is the beauty standard of today.

The modern mother starts early with protective skin care for her children . . . and preserves her own youthful freshness in precisely the same way. That is, by the exclusion of artificial methods, often so hazardous to the skin.

Skin beauty starts with skin cleanliness; pores kept healthfully clean with the softening lather of olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive. World's leading specialists on skin care agree to this.

Retail Price 10¢

MADE IN CANADA

Nature's simple rule to keep that schoolgirl complexion

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive. Then massage it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly. Then repeat both washing and rinsing. Let the final rinsing be with cold water. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream — that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening.

Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake—then note the difference one week makes.

PETERBOROUGH'S PLAYGROUNDS.

Peterborough's supervised playgrounds are to open a week from to-morrow, and it is announced that daily during the six weeks following special attention will be given to teaching the young patrons of these recreation areas the necessity of following safety first rules.

Such instruction, doubly necessary at the season of the year when traffic is at its peak and when water hazards combine with street dangers to take a toll of young lives, should be of particular value when it is combined with the children's playtime, and will add to the many benefits that are provided by supervised recreation areas.

Chief Supervisor Abraham, an enthusiast over such work, has a splendid corps of assistants, and there is no doubt that the three playgrounds, in the centre, south and eastern portions of the city, will amply justify their existence during the summer months, solving as they do the problem of providing safe and enjoyable recreation for the hundreds of local youngsters who are unable to spend a vacation on lake or river.

Parents surely do not need to be reminded of the duty of impressing upon their children the desirability of confining their play to supervised recreation grounds and their swimming to supervised beaches.

THE ROLL OF HONOR.

This week The Examiner will publish the final list of names of Peterborough's war dead, and citizens of the city and county are requested to check this roll of honor as thoroughly as possible in order that omissions or mistakes may be corrected.

This will be the final revision as the lettering of the war memorial is to be commencing in a short time, and after this week it will be too late to make any further changes.

It has been a most exacting and difficult task to compile this list, involving an amount of labor that would surprise any one who has not been brought into touch with the work, and those who have devoted much time and effort to the securing of the names and the checking and re-checking of the honor roll would like to feel that they have succeeded in compiling a complete and accurate list of the men of Peterborough City and County who gave their lives in the Great War.

The public can do much to assure them of that by a careful reading of the list as published and a speedy reporting of errors that may be detected.

To our readers The Examiner would say: "If you notice a mistake or know of a name that has been left out, let us know at once; don't take it for granted somebody else will report it, but make sure of it by looking after the matter yourself."

A FINE SHOWING.

Congratulations are in order for the officers, non-commissioned officers and rank and file of No. 3 Company, Canadian Machine Gun Corps, the 24th Field Battery and the Peterborough Rangers upon the excellent showing made at the inspection of the units on Saturday.

Despite the shortness of notice, all three were able to show a splendid attendance, and the smartness with which their work throughout was executed indicated that all ranks of Peterborough's militia units are taking their training seriously.

It has been no easy task to keep the Canadian militia alive since the war, the cutting down of establishment and reduced appropriations for training purposes that eventuated in the post-war period making the problem of maintaining the various units a most acute one for those in charge.

Fortunately, these obstacles have not been great enough to chill the enthusiasm of a keen and energetic coterie of officers and non-coms, most of them with war experience, who have literally stuck to their guns until gradually but surely militia units are becoming smart and efficient corps, albeit smaller in numbers than seems desirable, and a real nucleus of a defence force should one be needed.

SHOULD BE DEDUCTED.

In an open letter to the members of the Canadian Tax Conference the Citizens' Research Institute calls attention to a taxation problem that should be of general interest.

The point raised is, that while the Dominion income tax authorities allow general municipal taxation as an item of expenditure in arriving at net income, any amounts paid during the year for local improvement taxation are not so allowed, and thus taxpayers are paying a tax upon a tax.

The justice of not making allowance for local improvement taxes is doubtful, especially in view of the fact that municipal improvements are not undertaken on the local improvement plan in all the municipalities in Canada.

It is the practice in Ontario, but in some other Canadian cities such improvements as sidewalks, pavements, etc., are charged to the municipality at large.

Thus a taxpayer in such a city would be permitted to include in his expenditure when estimating his net income under the Income War Tax Act an item of taxation that a citizen of an Ontario municipality would be forced to exclude, although each expenditure was made for exactly the same type of improvement.

Then, of course, cities vary in the portion charged the taxpayer directly benefitted by local improvements.

One municipality makes a practice of charging as much as 99 per cent. of the total cost of a sidewalk or pavement to the abutting property, in another the percentage is over 90 per cent., and in many other cities the percentage is only 60 or less.

Because of these inequalities the Citizens' Research Institute argues that local improvement taxes should be allowed as a deduction under the Act.

SPEECHES SHORTER BUT NOT SO GOOD.

An editorial correspondent of the New York Times, writing on the close of the session of the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa, makes the following observation:

"The House of Commons has conducted its first session under a rule limiting speeches to forty minutes and the result has disappointed the expectations of those who hoped it would shorten proceedings. As much time was consumed as in the past, with more members sharing in the debates. Back benchers have been heard from more frequently, for the edification of the official reporters, and while this may be a desirable step in the march of democracy, the parliamentary correspondents express the opinion that the quality of speeches has not improved at all under the time limit."

Many readers of despatches from Ottawa during the session were forcibly struck by the absence of high lights in debate. The Opposition failed in many respects to produce any telling arraignment of the government, the debate on the Speech from the Throne and the budget produced as many repetitions as ever, and covered ground long worn bare by previous speakers. There was as much valuable time consumed as ever and the end of Parliament witnessed the traditional rush to get away with tens of millions appropriated in the dying hours.

Whether there should be reform in the type of men who are sent to Parliament or in Parliament procedure may be a moot point. Probably the fault lies in leadership, as much as anywhere, and procedure can be radically changed to expedite the despatch of national business, if the leaders but take the bit between their teeth. Under present conditions, Parliament is more of a clearing house for opinions, an opportunity for every axe to be ground and an invitation to every M.P. to get recorded in Hansard for the edification of the people back home. After that, comes big national business in a hurry.—St. Catharines Standard.

ANGLOPHOBIA IS LIKELY UNTIL NOVEMBER.

There are symptoms of Anglophobia in the United States political situation which are making themselves manifest in the Presidential campaign. A war-time document from Lord Balfour on the fitness of Mr. Hoover to handle a big job is Exhibit A, and may be broadcasted from every housetop in the Republic before the election is over. With what success, it is impossible to say, but the chances are that the American people of reasoning power will not become so hysterical over this document as to forsake party allegiance and regard the orphan of Iowa as anything but 100 per cent. American. Lord Balfour is said to have written as follows:

"Our Dear President Wilson: If you will appoint Herbert Hoover, of London, as food commissioner of the United States, you will perform an act which will be of great assistance to the Allied cause. Mr. Hoover is a former citizen of the United States, and has been a resident of London for 16 years. We can assure you of his ability in that line of work. If you decide to accede to our request please cable and Mr. Hoover will depart for the States upon the first steamer."

Outside of careless verbiage, there isn't much wrong with a communication like the above, as between Allies in war, except that Mr. Hoover, as implied, had not given up his American citizenship. If people can be led to believe that he did, however, so much the better for the political cause.

There is also another outbreak of Anglophobia from a different source. Col. Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association, which is opposed to the St. Lawrence waterway project, recently did some twisting of the British Lion's tail and endeavored to work on anti-British prejudice in a recent speech. Col. Carrington, who is the largest stockholder in the Hudson River Navigation Corporation, appealed to his hearers as follows:

"George Washington in his farewell address advised us to keep out of foreign entanglements.

"By lending aid and comfort in every possible way to the seceding Southern States in the Civil War, Great Britain endeavored to divide this nation.

"Great Britain has quietly and subtly, but nevertheless effectively, outstripped us in naval armament.

"All our great wars have been with Great Britain.

"Down in Baltimore from whence I came the Star Spangled Banner was written while British shells screamed across the ramparts of Fort McHenry.

"The American nation will never be too proud to fight, and I hope it will always be prepared to fight.

"Our flag was built out of British tyranny and hate.

"I pray God that it may wave forever, not over North or South or East or West, but over a God-fearing united nation of freemen."

It may possibly happen that Canadians will do some flag-waving on the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway project, before the issue is definitely determined, but how foolish it all is, to settle a great economic question with appeals to national sentiment and prejudice against another country and another friendly people. What merit, except success at any price, has such propaganda? Has anything for the benefit of the world ever been settled in hysteria?

Canadians can watch this sort of outbreak to the South with equanimity. The great body of American opinion is not in accord with the spirit which prompts it. If the election is to prove a political brainstorm for Uncle Sam, so much the worse for the United States, and so much the worse, too, if the utilization of one of the greatest waterways in the world is to be postponed because 150 years ago "British shells screamed across Fort McHenry."—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Another county problem is to float a new Ennismore bridge scheme to replace the present floating structure.

The Union Station bandits will probably not agree with Wilson MacDonald's description of Toronto as an "unfriendly city."

Good roads make travel easy, but they have not, unfortunately, had the same effect upon municipal financing.

The Peterborough Ball Club can at least boast of the fact that it lost no games last week.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 25 (Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain on the Montreal market Saturday was of a very limited character owing to the fact that exporters received little response to the offers of foreign buyers overnight. The undertone to the market for car lots was steady.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a moderate demand from all sources.

A moderate amount of business was done with United States in millfeed. The domestic trade was also fair and prices were unchanged. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but firm.

The inquiry for all grades of eggs was good and values were unchanged. The receipts Saturday were 2,503 cases.

A fair trade was transacted in butter and the undertone was steady. The receipts were 3,673 packages.

The local and foreign demand for cheese continued good and a large volume of business was tranacted at firm prices. The receipts were 11,792 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 25 (Canadian Press).—Corn took the lead in a brisk upturn of all grain values during the late transactions Saturday. Scarcity of offerings in the corn market, especially corn available for July delivery, did much to bring about general buying. Besides, indications pointing to further unwelcome rains in the wheat harvest region southwest.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1½ to 3⅜c net higher. Wheat finished 1⅛ to 1½c up, oats at ¼ to ½c advance, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 7c.

Urgent buying for previous speculative sellers of corn eclipsed other features in the grain pit as the day drew to a close. As a result July delivery of corn advanced nearly 4c above the previous day's finish and went to 4½c premium at one time as compared with September. Country advices showing only scant stocks of corn on hand at various points in Illinois threw a scare into speculators who have been partial to the bear side of the market, and there was also apprehension about prospective rainy weather.

Warm dry conditions are at present needed for corn, and this in particular is the case where the crop is late. Tightening up of prices for future deliveries was also influenced by good demand for immediate shipping purposes and industrial use. Meanwhile, arrivals of corn in Chicago Saturday totalled only 78 cars, and other centres here reported bidding higher than a Chicago parity. Many traders too were acting on knowledge that Monday is a traditional date to buy corn. The theory is that corn crop conditions usually deteriorate from that time on. Oats followed corn.

Late advances in the wheat market were due in part t corn strength but also to a forecast of stormy weather ahead in Kansas and elsewhere that wheat is ready to cut. Besides, North American wheat exports for the week were shown to be of liberal volume, and a Chicago crop authority was out with a statement that it is highly improbable the United States this season will raise within 100,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat harvest. Earlier Saturday, however, the wheat market here had a downward trend owing to reports of clearing weather southwest and because on lower quotations at Liverpool.

Provisions averaged higher.

The Question Box

A.—By air line, 125 miles.

V. S. Q.—A few days ago you gave a list of blue laws. Wasn't it these laws which made illegal the celebrating of Christmas?

A.—Yes. In the previous answer we gave only a few of the many blue laws. The one to which you refer reads: "No one shall read common-prayer, keep Christmas or saint days, make minced pies, dance, play cards or any instrument of music, except the drum, trumpet and Jew's-harp."

H. L. Q.—Has tin or zinc the higher cohesive force?

A.—Tin. Test of a rod of each, one inch square, shows that tin has a breaking strain of 5,500 pounds, while the breaking strain of zinc is 2,600 pounds.

F. D. Q.—How many trees do I need to plant half an acre, if I plant them 6 feet apart?

A.—605.

S. P. Q.—What is the principle of Esperanto?

A.—Esperanto is designed as a universal language. Every letter keeps the same sound and every word is written as it is pronounced, while the accent always falls on the last syllable but one: EsperAnto; parolAnto. There are no exceptions to any rule in Esperanto, and it is a very simple language to learn. The advantages are great. Anyone in Peterborough having a knowledge of Esperanto can communicate with hundreds of Esperantists in all countries of the world. If sufficient readers indicate an interest in the subject, the Editor will endeavor to arrange for a 15-minute lesson to be printed in The Examiner every day.

More than 6,000 lives have been lost in shipwrecks on the Great Lakes during the last 50 years.

A Thought

PRACTICAL WISDOM.

One of the banes of life is that so many of us have not the courage to be ourselves; we give too much thought to "What will people say?" "Gang your own gait." Do not interfere with other people's concerns, nor let them interfere with yours. Never give your confidence indiscriminately.

Treat all those with whom you come into contact fairly and courteously; but do not hesitate to resent forcibly any abuse of your generosity — or any form of intrusion. Give assistance to such as deserve it as far as your means allow. For those who are bound to you by the sacred ties of love and friendship, those to whom you are, as Emmerson says, "bought and sold," nothing that you can do is excessive.

Is it not better to reserve for them all your faculties, moral and material, than to fritter away your substance on such as you do not belong to and who do not belong to you?

In all things be guided more by what is fair than the desire to be liberal. Let your kindness have an edge to it. Remember always that there are those who trespass on good nature and delicacy, and that there are times when even harshness is indispensable. The words of Michelangelo should not be forgotten: "To help a good man makes him better, but to assist a vagabond is to produce a worse."

To sum up— "Love thy neighbor as thyself," but no more.

—E. M. B.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy. He will not always chide; neither will He keep His anger forever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as the Heaven is high above the earth, so great is His mercy toward them that fear Him. As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us. Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.—Ps. 103: 8-13.

O Almighty God and gracious Father, we beseech Thee, hear our prayer today. Bless us with all health and happiness. Give us sane minds, light hearts, unsullied vision of our duties and responsibilities, and, above all, a right judgment in all things. Guard our inexperience; keep us from all self-conceit; make us become as little children, that we may be wise; to become gentle, that we may be strong; to become humble, that we may become divine.

Prepare us to fulfil our course in life with honor; and grant that we may so live in this world that, in the word; to come, we may have life everlasting. through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

BRITISH COLUMBIA
"the land of opportunity"

More Beautiful than the Fjords of Norway

NOWHERE else a boat trip like British Columbia's famous "Inside Passage" far north to the Portland Canal and Alaskan territory! As the steamer glides through those island-sheltered waters, a thrilling panorama unfolds. Majestic mountains seem to rise straight out of the sea like stepping stones to higher ranges frosted with eternal snow. Here glows a crescent silver beach . . . there a valley, flower-starred and green. Now, one hears the tinkling of a waterfall . . . then thundering torrents . . . and icy waters rippling where some great glacier slips its frozen feet into the sea. Indian villages, busy mining camps, canneries and mills, dot the inlets here and there, reminders that this beautiful wilderness is inhabited by man.

THE TRIANGLE TRIP

If you're coming to British Columbia this year, you can make this Pacific boat trip part of a wonderful "triangle tour." Plan to come by the inspiring Canadian Pacific route with its majestic climb to the Great Divide, its sudden sweeping plunge through Kicking Horse Canyon, then rising through the spiral tunnels high above the glittering Yoho Valley. You can see the jagged peaks of snow-capped Cathedral, Chancellor, Stephen and President . . . surmounted by the triple spires of Mt. Goodsir, nearly 12,000 feet high . . . breaking into the sky-line. And so through a diversity of scenery that has attracted tourists from all parts of the world, the traveller reaches the famous Pacific Coast . . . first seen by that intrepid explorer, Mackenzie.

From Vancouver and Victoria you have the glorious coast steamship trip; then, from Prince Rupert, take the Canadian National route eastward once more, through the beautiful Skeena, Bulkley and Nechako Valley country, to Jasper Park, where lordly Mt. Robson soars over 13,000 feet into the clouds. This interesting northerly part of the province, with its rich agricultural areas and active mining towns interspersing wonderful wilderness parks, is comparatively new territory.

MANY AMUSEMENTS

A lifetime could not exhaust the alluring vacation trips in British Columbia! Besides the wonderful tours by rail and sail, thousands of miles of motorways are beckoning you. You can hunt and fish in a "Sportsman's Paradise" of vast virgin territories. You can swim at silvery sea beaches, or plunge in crystal mountain lakes, or bathe away your ills in the health-giving waters of famous Harrison and other hot springs. You can golf on evergreen fairways beside the sea, or on mountain rimmed plateaus.

CAN YOU COME TO STAY?

And more than this, British Columbia is the Land of Business Opportunity, today . . . fast coming into the limelight of the world's attention. Bountiful nature offers unlimited raw materials in forest, field, mine and sea, unlimited power in mountain streams and a wonderful climate. Access to the world's markets is assured by three transcontinental railways and over fifty steamship lines.

REVENUE OF THE YEAR

Already, with a population of only 617,000, annual revenue is estimated as follows: Lumbering, 84 million; agriculture, 73 million; mining, 62 million; fisheries, 27 million. The very diversity of production is the stabilizing factor of British Columbia's prosperity. The world's foremost business experts are pointing to Canada's Pacific Province as the surest investment of the day.

Just a Joke

OUCH!

"How do you like the dress I have bought on the deferred payment plan?"

"It looks as if you have only put on the first installment."—T.t-Bits.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

SOME PEOPLE are hard to convince that every change is not one for the worse; that every innovation is not designed to wreck old standards of business or morals.

While idling on George street on Saturday I heard a lady exclaim, "Isn't that terrible," and I turned to view the awful thing that had called forth the denunciation. All I saw was a very trim-looking miss, in a fetching frock of the new spotted silk crepe. Probably her knees WERE exposed, showing a generous expanse of nude silk hose, but what of it? Is not such a girl neater and freer and more alive than the girl of no farther back than fifteen years ago? Pick up a fashion plate of 1913 and hear yourself exclaim "dowdy!" Girls were, then, compared with our 1928 standards. A few matrons may be chasing themselves to the dogs, but it would be a melancholy world if we judged youth as a whole by the morons we may chance to find among the young people. We do not call apples a bad fruit because some have blemishes.

Youth to-day has refused to believe many of the myths upon which older people were nurtured. Youth has snapped tradition in many lines—and apparently the new freedom must be attractive, for see how many oldsters are following them into modern release from sweltering dress and weighty hair and confined spheres!

Just the same, spotted crepe, there must be a limit somewhere!

In a tennis game last week one of the players wore the new bob sock briefly mentioned previously. It is said these socks are to be popular this year. Any reader interested in knitting her own may obtain full instructions free by enclosing an addressed, stamped envelope with her request to Marion, at The Examiner office.

New nightdress cases just seen in the city are of attractive design. One, made to hang from a bed-post, is in satin. The bag is cut 18 inches long and one yard wide, with a 2-inch hem at the bottom, drawn in tightly and weighted with a bead tassel, the other edge being gathered on to a wooden embroidery ring. The lid is formed with another ring, covered with satin on the inside, stitched to the bag over tapes, to form a hinge. The outside of the lid is ornamented with tiny frills of satin or ribbon. A silk cord and a button fasten the case.

By the way, do you know that a local modiste advises, as a safe choice, coral pink or yellow for brunettes, and mavis blue or mauve for blondes?

And when asked what kind of dress she favored for tennis, a well-known Central Ontario Association player declared, "The less you can bear to wear the better."

At a picnic at Wallace's Point one lady had the most delicious and novel sandwiches imaginable. Rolls of the long-pointed sort were cut in halves, and some of the soft crumb scooped out. Minced ham, mixed with a little mayonnaise, then lettuce, and then a little more of the ham filled the hollow.

Mrs. C. B. writes offering this recipe, which, while it seems extravagant, really costs little more than the brick of ice-cream which it replaces. Cut a half pound of marshmallows into quarters and break up the contents of a small tin of pineapple into small bits. Whip a half pint of cream and add the beaten white of one egg. Add the marshmallow and pineapple. Mix and serve in custard glasses.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

BLACK-EYED SUSAN

Required: Large seedless oranges, puffed raisins, lettuce and grated orange-rind.

Peel the oranges carefully, and separate each section from the white skin without breaking. On a lettuce-bed place a flat centre of the puffed raisins, which have been mixed with the grated orange-rind. Place the orange sections around this, daisy-fashion, and serve with mayonnaise.

TOO MANY DIVORCES FOR SENATE ACTION

It is becoming increasingly difficult at Ottawa to handle all the divorce bills that are presented to parliament. Mr. Woodsworth complains that no attention to their merits is given by the house of commons and that they are passed in a perfunctory way. But this is inevitable. Dependence has to be placed on the senate's divorce committee and it has been split into three bodies in order to cope with the pressure. An Alberta member, Mr. Gardiner, suggests that a bill be passed transferring the Ontario cases which constitute a large proportion of the total, to the courts of that province. This is clearly the remedy and, despite the opposition that it is certain to encounter, it must ultimately be adopted.

A FUSSY CHILD!

He was a small boy with curly hair and a discontented expression. His mother had taken him into Woolworth's for an ice-cream cone, but he scorned the cone in no uncertain tones and loudly demanded a drink of water. The clerk brought him water in an apparently satisfactory glass, but he refused to drink it. On inquiry, it transpired that the glass was too thick and he didn't like the look of it.

"He wanted a drink in the Clinic but he said the glass was too small there, and he wouldn't drink it," explained his mother, with a fond look at the squeamish prodigy, who cried furiously and beat his heels against the counter.

"I want a drink—I want a drink," he yelled.

"I guess you'll have to get him some ginger beer, but I don't know whether he'll drink that either," said his parent.

"Perhaps you spoil him a little," remarked a bystanding lady.

The mother bent a dark look on the speaker and bent to the task of coaxing her small son to drink the ginger beer. He shook his head and did some more tattooing against the counter.

Finally, she took him out, still athirst, but still refusing to drink from plebeian vessels.

Queen Victoria, who ruled from 1837 to 1901, had the longest reign of all English monarchs.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Flesh-colored suede glove as indicated above may be worn with sleeveless afternoon frocks—leaving the upper arm bare. For afternoon or evening wear with sleeveless or short-sleeved frock you may choose the pure white suede glove indicated below.

Now that sleeveless frocks have been revived, comes the question of appropriate gloves. To the French women there never has been anything incongruous about bare arms and wrist-length gloves. Even before women adopted the fashion, children in France, as a matter of course, wore their little white cotton gloves with short-sleeved or sleeveless frocks and suits. It was one of the things that Americans in Paris always considered especially amusing.

We are much more apt to let our children go entirely gloveless in this country, and many women, too, wear gloves reluctantly once warm weather has come. Still there is a certain advantage to be gained from wearing gloves with the formal afternoon frock, and this season you may follow the French fashion and wear short gloves or conform to American taste and wear longer gloves. Incidentally a good many French women are wearing these longer gloves with their sleeveless frocks this season. Unless your arms are very nearly perfect the longer gloves are better.

For the afternoon frock with short sleeves or no sleeves at all you may choose suede gloves. If your stockings are flesh-colored, then choose flesh-colored gloves. If the color scheme of your ensemble is best served with light gray stockings then light gray suede gloves may be chosen. For evening or with the white afternoon ensemble, pure white suede gloves are chosen in the event that you choose to wear gloves in the evening. Some women choose silk gloves—though for formal evening wear the suede would be better.

Bracelets seem to be as popular as ever, though many women, instead of wearing a number of narrow bands and links, wear a single very wide bracelet or armlet. And some women wear these bracelets over their gloves.

GUIDES' SINGING IS CRITICIZED

Dr. Bairstow Says Girls Must Love to Sing To Do It Well.

Winnipeg, Man., June 25. — 'You don't make hay out here? You leave it to somebody else, what?" was Dr. Bairstow's rhetorical question to the Girl Guides, when he appeared to adjudicate in the Grade A class in competition for the Lady Aikins' cup awarded for singing. The test piece was 'The Haymaker's Roundelay." 'Not half of you were singing with your whole selves." The failure of this class to measure up to a high standard was mainly due to the fact that they had taken the singing as a task, instead of as a pleasure. 'We can't order you to sing, as we can order you to halt or March. You must want to do it. You must love to do it," he stressed.

Dr. Bairstow had fault to find with the "r" once more. 'Hark," he said had sounded more like 'haa-erk." Then, the choirs had not been careful of the emphasis they placed upon the words. "The point is, the words must be just as natural when you sing them as when you speak them."

W.M.S. SUPPORTS 300 MISSIONARIES

Allocation of $1,000,000 Announced at United Church Meeting.

Toronto, Ont., June 25 (CP).—Allocations amounting to $1,000,000 for the missionary work of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada were announced at the annual meeting of the Dominion Board. About 300 missionaries are being supported by the society, it was stated, and at present owing to the troubled conditions in China, there were a large number on furlough.

Discussion on West China and the evacuation of the missionaries showed that there were about 25 women missionaries home on furlough and that Chinese co-workers were carrying on the W.M.S. work in West China. If conditions improved, the missionaries would return to Honan, it was stated, and if not, those who wished would be temporarily appointed to work in Canada.

PET NAME.

By John Tilton.

Billy Winch halted his horse at the cross-trail and slipped from the saddle to tighten a girth. As he lifted his head he heard a light footstep on the sand and bounded into the saddle.

"Ho, Miss Pretty," he cried.

The girl stopped short and looked at him from indignant blue eyes. There was a lunch basket swinging from one hand and she carried some school books in the other.

"How dare you speak to me in that way?" she asked.

He bared his dark head sheepishly.

"Sorry, Ma'am—I didn't know that I was speaking to you," he said humbly.

The lovely young face flushed deeper. She turned off into a by-path.

"I'm getting off the trail—we're hiking right along—don't you walk in the tall grass—there might be rattlers," he suggested.

She skipped back again. "I hope that's the truth," she said suspiciously.

"Look behind you—look out!" She backed away with a little scream, for coiled in the path was a small rattlesnake basking in the hot sun.

"Is he alive?"

"Just now he is—but wait a minute." He whipped out a gun and fired. There was a flurry of dust and something flopped into the sagebrush and was still. The horse danced excitedly.

"Oh!" screamed the girl, shutting her eyes from death in the light and sunshine of a beautiful day. "How cruel men are!"

"I'll be hanged!" growled the exasperated Mr. Winch. "Women always did get my goat! Oh, Pretty Lady, have a heart—be still!"

"You are impossible!" tossed Beth over her shoulder as she ran down the trail toward Blair's ranch, where she was boarding. Mr. Blair was chairman of the board of school trustees, and Beth Carvel was the new school teacher from the East.

Beth thought Billy Winch was handsome, and secretly she believed he was the nicest cowpuncher she had met out in the Stone Gulch country. But, although she knew him so slightly, she had been annoyed and finally angered by his familiarity in calling her "Miss Pretty" or "Pretty Lady." More than once she had left him haughtily when he had said it to her, but always there was the same look of dumb surprise in his hazel eyes.

The next day when she met Billy Winch she barely inclined her proud little head.

He stopped his horse and watched her until her straight, slim form was out of sight. He sat like a bronze figure, dumb misery on his face. He had been waiting for her—to tell her that he loved her—and that if it was necessary he would go to school all over again—although away back in Massachusetts he had graduated from a well-known university.

* * * * * *

Lunch hour was over and the children in the little schoolhouse under the cottonwoods were drawing near the entrance waiting for Beth and her bell.

Two of the larger boys who rode home for the midday meal came racing back to the schoolhour.

"Oh, teacher! Something happened to Billy Winch this morning—something awful!"

"What—w—was it?" chattered Beth, leaning against the doorpost white and sick. She could see him now—sitting his horse like a young centaur—that hurt look on his face——

"He was riding like everything—like he does when he's mad or when he's after somethin'—and his hoss stepped into a gopher hole and threw him—and he's unconscious yet—they took him to Blair's."

"The doctor?" gasped Beth.

"He was on the way when I left—ain't it awful—and him so kind to all kids—letting us ride Miss Pretty and ——"

"Miss what?" screamed Beth.

"Miss Pretty—that's the name of his hoss—the one he always rides—sometimes he calls her 'Pretty Lady.'"

That afternoon, when she approached Blair's house, she crept in unseen and tiptoed into her own room and closed the door.

But her room was occupied. In her pretty white bed lay the invalid—Billy Winch, pale and diffident in his strange quarters. His unhappy eyes had wistfully surveyed all the dainty belongings of this most desirable of girls.

"Oh," she half sobbed, "I am so glad they put you here—it's the best room in the house."

"They said they'd have to till tomorrow—I'm shamed, Miss Culver—when I know you don't like me—to be laid up here with a broken leg—it's an unwarranted intrusion ma'am."

"Please don't say that, Billy Winch," she pleaded, kneeling beside him; "I was mean this morning; I'm sorry; I didn't understand that your horse was named —Miss Pretty, and I thought you were calling me that!" Lower the head sank until it was buried in the bed covering.

She did not see the wonderful light that came into the hazel eyes, but she did feel the tender touch of his brown hand on her bonny head, and she obeyed the thrilling tone of his deep voice.

"I love you, Beth," he told her honestly; "could you love me enough to marry me?"

"I could—I could, if you will promise to call me 'Miss Pretty' sometimes," she told him, her face against his hand.

"That's easy!" he laughed, "because you are!

HANDICRAFTS ARE TO BE EXHIBITED

Prizes Restricted To Articles Made in Western Homes By Settlers.

Winnipeg, Man.; June 25 (CP)—The Canadian Handicrafts Guild, which, at the invitation of the Canadian Pacific Railway, undertook, with the aid of its recently formed branches in the West, the organization of the whole handicraft section of the festival to be held at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, in this city, June 19 to 23, has sent a careful selection of eastern Canadian handicrafts. This has been assembled by its own technical committee, from Quebec, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Ontario as a special "hors concours" exhibit. Mrs. Hughes-Charles, of Montreal, is in charge.

Prizes at this festival will be restricted to articles made in their new homes by western settlers of continental European extraction. The Manitoba branch of the guild is arranging to have demonstration workers of perhaps ten different nationalities, wearing their various peasant costumes, to display the actual process of the numerous crafts they have brought with them to this country.

The program will include also folk-singing and dancing and the popular homely contributions of the workers will be varied by displays of highly highly specialized immigrant talent. The Ukrainian groups are expected to be well organized for public appearances, and their dancing, ballet and girls' orchestral contributions, all given in their decorative native costumes, will be outstanding features of the festival.

EFFORT MADE FOR MATERNAL WELFARE

Reduction of Mortality Through Education Prwoposed By Council.

Toronto, Ont.; June 25 (CP).—Reduction of maternal mortality, through the education of the public as to the importance of prenatal care of mothers, was the object of a resolution discussed at the meeting of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council here recently. One of the members suggested that the term "material mortality" be changed to "materlal welfare," and he stated that the public had a perfect right to make inquiry into the cause of every case of maternal mortality. Representatives of the League of Nations and the Women's Labor League rose to speak of the work of their organizations with regard to this problem.

BALDWIN'S DAUGHTE IS A TRAIL RANGER

Mrs. Huntingdon-Whitley Joins Canadian Rockies Roving Group.

London, England, June 25 (CP).—Among the latest recruits to qualify as 'Trail-Riders of the Canadian Rockies" are Mrs. Huntingdon-Whitley, daughter of Mr. Baldwin, and her husband, Commander Huntingdon-Whitley. There are nearly 1,000 members of the fraternity, but at present they mostly hail from Canada and the United States, and there are as yet only about a score resident in this country.

'Trail-Riders'' are not some secret society like the 'Black Hand," or the 'Ku Klux Klan," but simply a group of enthusiasts drawn together by a mutual love of open-air life, who have come under the spell cast by the Canadian Rockies. The movement has grown from small beginnings to be a well-organized society with the officers, council and committee drawn from prominent business men in Canada and the United States. Among the council also are the chief of the Kootenay tribe of Indians and the chief of the Stoney tribe. A program of official rides is drawn up every year, of which dates and particulars may be had on application, but members may take any unofficial ride they like. They have only to ntify the secretary, who will help them with advice and information.

They must qualify for the bronze button, given to those who have completed fifty miles of trail. Then there is the silver button, the gold button, the gold and enamel button, and, lastly, the most-prized possession of all, the full enamel button only awarded to those who have travelled 2,500 miles along the trails.

HOUSEHOLD PETS MUST MATCH ROOM

Dogs and Cats Should Be Bought With an Eye to Color Scheme.

Toronto, Ont., June 25.—'If you are buying a dog or cat, consider the color scheme of the room they are likely to inhabit." So says the writer of an article in 'Canadian Homes and Gardens," dealing with the decorative value of pets.

"A red cocker spaniel would be lovely in a room of deep blue and copper shades, but quite off in a rose boudoir, for instance. Black cats and dogs look well in any room. If you have a cushion for your dog or cat let it be of a color that enhances the animal. A cat basket in a living-room should not be fancy. Bows, laces and furbelows should be kept for the boudoir or bedroom and don't worry poor kitty with ribbons and bells on her neck. Perhaps she can wear a bow that goes well with her coat on state occasions, but keep it for that.

'Gold fish bowls may be very distinctive. Even the traditional round bowl is beautiful and the gleaming goldfish may brighten a dark corner or be reflected in the depths of a polished table.

'Birds can be more decorative, their colorings are so varied, and each year the manufacturers are making cages more and more artistic. An old-fashioned wicker cage silhouetted against a sunny window brings memories of Masterlinck's Blue Bird.' You can get birds of a color to match or harmonize with you rooms."

No. 1.

"Other days, other manners." In bygone years, women were pursued, or at least they kept up the polite fiction that they were pursued. In reality, they probably went half way and then waited demurely for results.

Nowadays, they go half way and probably a little farther. The flapper had her own peculiar methods, which are gradually falling into the discard. The stars predict a return to more feminine ways and graces. The bob is gradually giving way to the braids and the curls which presage a return of the hair-pin and the switch; the skirt is coming down a bit, the straight-line effects in gowns are being replaced by degrees by graceful, picturesque lines. We are going back to a more refined type of speech, a different sort of music, a more romantic attitude toward life and love. Perhaps we may have in time a return of the blush—who knows.

But to go back to our muttons, as the French say in their famous story. This art of winning men has been practised by the female of the species from time immemorial. And the general principles have not changed materially. The method may differ. The older type of maiden used to say, when introduced to a man: "How do you do," give him a swift glance, flush and drop her eyes. The modern girl, if she is quite young, probably asks him where he has been all her life, hooks her arms in his, and escorts him off to do the tango. But the basic idea remains the same.

This doesn't mean that every girl who gets married has gone out gunning for her husband. She probably didn't know just why she adopted certain mannerisms and appearances when she was with him, but she did it involuntarily, and she followed out certain set rules.

Then again, although many fortunate individuals of the feminine sex have ingrained methods which they follow without taking thought, getting the desired results very quickly, there are hundreds of girls who have many natural charms and don't know how to use them. Even when they have impulses which prompt them to do the right thing in winning a man, they don't follow them out, because of fear of ridicule.

If you belong to this class, and have the very natural desire to appear attractive in the eyes of the other sex, you may be interested in the hints along this line which will appear from time to time in these columns.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

For Sunday, June 24, 1928.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an uncertain and threatening day that fortunately is not a time for transacting business.

The planetary influences tend to serious thought and religious meditation and for that reason the clergy should benefit.

There is a sign read as presaging the exploitation of prophets or teachers who offer to the Christian world a new variety of faith.

Thousands of men and women are to engage in occult study and research, if the stars are rightly read.

All the aspects of the stars are believed to accentuate religious prejudice and to prevent liberality of judgment among those of differing creeds.

A London astrologer prognosticates for the United States remarkable occult aid for a candidate aspiring to the highest office in the government.

A man of destiny is to be wonderfully favored, the seers prophesy, but he will arraign against him powerful forces that are not easily overcome.

Cases of robbery and forgery will be numerous all through the year, astrologers predict, and city police departments will be harshly blamed for incompetence.

Organized crime is to flourish as never before, it is predicted, and sensational cases of a previous unknown character will be reported.

This week may be better for the stock market than usual but it is wise to avoid the temptation to speculate.

Storms and even earthquakes may disturb the British Isles and other parts of the globe are likely to sustain unusual shocks of nature.

It is well to watch one's words while this configuration prevails, for there will be much attention paid to correct speech in the next few months.

Persons whose birthdate it is may enjoy many social contacts in the coming year which probably contain much pleasure.

Children born on this day probably will be lovable and cheerful. The subjects of this sign are generally very popular and they are inclined to extravagance in dress.

For Monday, June 25, 1928.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The planetary government of this day is menacing, according to astrology which reads in the signs evil omens.

The sway influences the mind in a way conducive to confused thinking and illogical reasoning.

The direction of the stars appears to be thwarting and troublesome for all who have important work to do in the line of molding public opinion.

Under this rule, mental processes are supposed to be slower than normally. It is not a favorable day for serious intellectual labor.

While the imagination may be exceedingly active to-day, it may be concerned with destructive rather than constructive thoughts.

This is read as an inauspicious day for starting on journeys, especially on ocean voyages.

Industry is subject to fairly good conditions to-day, for the stars encourage work with hands much more than work with brains alone.

As the summer quarter advances there will be intense interest in naval affairs, it is prognosticated, and a naval officer will gain fame in UnitedStates.

Many nations will look for new heroes to whom they may entrust leadership. Dictators appear to be even more firmly established than they have been, a fact that will encourage the rise of unknowns who desire power.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be most prudent and careful all through the coming year, which may bring a few problems.

Children born on this day may be too easily influenced for their own good. They should be trained in uncompromising virtues.

FIELD DAY HELD FOR RED CROSS

Judges—Robert Knox, Tom Tanner, James Downing.

The three act comedy, "His Uncle's Niece," presented by St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. was a scream from start to finish and delighted the big audience, whose demonstrations of appreciation equally delighted the performers. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence, in introducing the play, spoke very warmly of the kindness and fellowship of the players in giving their time and services on this occasion to Apsley and expressed on behalf of the audience very cordial thanks for their generous assistance to Red Cross field day, so freely and ly given. Though in a way perhaps handicapped by the small stage and unfamiliar setting, the performers gave a splendid portrayal of the characters, V. Sedgwick as Simon Felton, the irascible uncle, and Mrs. W. L. Hepburn as Mrs. Sarah Ann Mullen, particularly excelling in their respective roles. C. Hope, as his uncle's niece, had a most difficult part in impersonation, which he very ably filled, though a better make-up would have given him even better results in that regard. The cast was as follows:

Richard Tate, a rising young lawyer, O. Heap; Francis Felton, his uncle's niece, C. Hope; Mrs. Sarah Ann Mullen, a woman of few words, Mrs. W. A. Hepburn; Doris Hale, Frank's sweetheart, Miss F. Pammett; Alec Smith, a friend of Doris, Miss A. Hope; Simon Felton, Frank's uncle, V. Sedgwick; Philander Fillmore, G. Maniece; Silas Sicklemore, the village cop, M. Perry; Timothy Hays, the gardener, Joseph Grierson.

Mrs. Spence prepared the scenery and setting.

After the play, before taking their return journey, the visitors were entertained to supper in the rectory.

WEDDING BELLS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BIRD—CONLEY.

MADOC, June 26. — A very pleasing event took place at the home of the bride's mother on Wednesday morning, June 20, when Miss Blanche Conley, of Madoc, became the bride of Mr. Carl Bird, of Huntingdon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Rivers, B.A., B.D., of Trinity United Church, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

GEORGE—BROWN.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25. — A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at St John's parsonage at one o'clock Saturday afternoon when Verna Myrtle Brown, Toronto, became the bride of Charles Henry George, Toronto. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Ernest Harston. Miss Flora Elsie Brown, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Roy Yeoman, Toronto, was groomsman.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a creation of biege georgette with picture hat and shoes to match. The bridesmaid wore shell pink georgette with picture hat to match.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the parsonage to ten guests which included close relatives and friends of the bride and groom. An interesting item in connection with the ceremony is the fact that Saturday is the twenty-first (silver) anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents.

After the wedding breakfast, the young couple left amid a shower of best wishes for a motor trip to Geneva, N.Y., and a tour of several states. Upon their return they will reside in Toronto. For travelling, the bride wore a sand costume with cloche hat and shoes to match.

OBITUARY

MRS. MINNIE McGRATH.

Word was received this morning by Mr. James Lynch of the death of Mrs. Minnie McGrath, relict of the late Dr. Edward McGrath of this city. The deceased previous to her marriage was Minnie O'Sullivan, and was a resident of Peterborough for a number of years.

Funeral announcement will be made later.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MRS. WILLIAM VANCE.

HAVELOCK, June 25.— There was laid to rest at Pine Grove cemetery on Thursday afternoon one of the best known woman residents of the village, the late Mrs. William Vance. Death occurred on Tuesday morning following an illness extending over a period of several months.

The service was conducted by Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton, of Norwood, and was held in St. John's Anglican church, which was filled to capacity by sorrowing friends.

The late Mrs. Vance, whose maiden name was Miss Jane Hind, was born in Dornock, Dunfrieshire, Scotland, in 1851 and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hind. She was twice married. Her first first husband, the late William Martin, passed away in Scotland. In 1883 she came to Canada and settled at Ottawa and in 1887 she was married to Mr. Vance in Smiths Falls, moving to Havelock about 38 years ago. Mrs. Vance was a devout member of St. John's Anglican church, being president of the local Women's Auxiliary for many years. She possessed an amiable and lovable disposition, always taking a deep interest in everything that tended to the betterment of the community in which she lived. She was also Regent of the Harry Lauder Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and president of the Havelock branch of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

the unfilled lamps, the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. The rich man had committed no sinful action but was condemned simply because he had done nothing to help his fellow-men. In the Kingdom of Heaven, there was no room for men or institutions that had outlived their usefulness.

At the present time there was need to emphasize this aspect of the teachings of Christ. Religion was not only a thing to be enjoyed but a task to be performed. In the hive of Christianity, there were many drones. Christianity was something which must not only be impressed but also expressed, "He that doeth the will of My Father which is in Heaven."

Many Illustrations.

Dr. Uren followed this statement by numerous illustrations from modern life. Abraham Lincoln had planted a thistle or a rose according to the likelihood of which would grow best in that particular spot. The picture, The Man With the Hoe (Millar) was expressive of life, since the man in the picture was earning his passage through life by means of the hoe. What were we using to earn our way? Were we pulling our weight in the boat? Was there anything in the life of smart society to justify its existence? Recently on the occasion of a disastrous train wreck in the south of Scotland, many people had been killed. One woman had rushed frantically from place to place, calling for her golf clubs. The woman, said Dr. Uren, was not fit to live. Yet she was permitted to live since she was not even fit to die.

All things lead to one end, service. It was for the advocates of the Christian religion to sound an alarm not sing a lullaby. Useless institutions were doomed. Darwin's law applied to them as well as to the animals and plants. The Church as an institution must be useful to man or it must perish.

Referring to the second part of his text, Mr. Harston said that faith sometimes gives more courage to refuse deliverance when offered. In the Old Testament time it had not always been an easy matter to be a follower of Jehovah, particularly so when not in the country inhabited by believers in Him. But at all times there was deliverance at hand if the tempted person cared to accept it. The book of Daniel cited several cases of this kind. There were the three men who were cast into the fiery furnace because they would not refrain from worshipping Jehovah. Had they wished they could have foregone their religion and been spared the experience. Daniel was thrust into the lions' den because he lifted up his voice in praise to Jehovah inside the thirty days which had been set as a forbidden time.

Suffering for Christ.

Thus there was always a way out, but the old Christians would not accept deliverance, although their decision was a matter of choice between life and death, freedom and captivity. In the present time, all have their cross to bear. Regardless of what kind of cross, there is always deliverance if it is desired. True it may be hidden and disguised, but it is always there. But who knows but that we are called upon to forego deliverance? We must remain faithful.

The same issue confronted men in public service in municipal life and in the larger arena of the political world. Criticisms of their policies often tempted them to throw off the harness and give the responsibilities to their critics. The tragedy came when this change was made at the expense of high ideals. In the Christian service circumstances were similar. Most of the difficulties of the Christian service sprang from irritant, bothersome and interfering people. These often tempted ministers to wash their hands of all responsibility. But they did not frequently do it since they deemed it better to accept the torture of criticism rather than sacrifice the purpose of their life.

In the realm of the spiritual and of the intellectual difficulties often appear and the means of deliverance seemed difficult. There were problems of pain and evil in the world. The cutting off of a life that seemed valuable, and while other people who are irresponsible are allowed to tarry, is perplexing. When Burns, Keats, Shelly and Byron were cut off in the prime of their achievements, many were baffled and searched for an explanation. They were tempted to lose faith in the love of God and the goodness of His plans. But it was better far to be tortured with faith and unbelief and still hold to faith than to accept a cheap deliverance by sweeping into oblivion statements of faith which had brought comfort to the hearts of men.

There was the same issue manifest in the temptations of Christ. Easy ways of deliverance were opened to Him. But he preferred to accept the rough road and Calvary in order that He might become the true Deliverer of captives.

A general good time was spent in dancing and social intercourse, after which the assembly was called to order and on behalf of those present, Mr. R. Bristol read an address deeply regretting the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Nugent and assuring them of long-continued friendship and remembrance. Mrs. P. McCoy presented them with two beautiful silver trays as a memento from Madoc friends, and all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies at the close of the evening.

W.M.S. Social Tea

The W.M.S. of Trinity United Church held a social afternoon and tea with a sale of a few articles of fancy work at the home of Mrs. F. Dafoe on Thursday afternoon.

Fancy work, piano solos, singing, and a reading by Miss Lillian Rivers filled in a very pleasant program, and the delightful tea hour was very much enjoyed. In spite of the pouring rain about twenty attended and a silver collection with the proceeds of the sale of work gave a very satisfactory contribution to the W.M.S. funds.

MISSIONARY SECTIONAL RALLY HELD IN CAVANUNITED CHURCH

Representatives From Fairmount and Springville Are Well Represented at Meeting.

REPORTS READ.

Miss Rose, a Returned Missionary From Korea, Gives Interesting Talk.

CAVAN, June 23.—On Wednesday afternoon in Cavan United church, a missionary sectional rally was held. Bensfort, Bailleboro, Springville, Fairmount, Cavan and Bethany W. M. Societeis were included in this rally.

Fairmount, Springville and Cavan were well represented, but owing to unavoidable circumstances there were none present from the other societies.

Mrs. P. S. Staples, president of the Cavan W.M.S., opened the meeting by having the hymn "Jesus Saves" sung, Mrs. Ray Syer presiding at the organ.

The president of the Peterborough W. M. S. Presbyterial, Mrs. Bookhout, then took charge of the meeting: She expressed her pleasure at being present, but had not expected to preside. Mrs. Monk, Bethany, vice-president of the W.M.S. Presbyterial, was to have conducted the meeting Illness prevented her being present.

As a Scripture lesson, Mrs. Bookhout requested the ladies to stand and repeat Psalm twenty-three in unison. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison.

Mrs. Bookhout urged that all should assist the cause of temperance in every way, to put first things first, and especially in the use of our franchise to vote as in the sight of our leader, Jesus Christ. We must consider the walfare of our young people.

It was suggested that the vice-presidents of the different W.M.S. have charge of the temperance work.

Report Read.

Mrs. M. Johnston, Springville, who had been delegate to the third annual meeting of the W.M.S. of the Bay of Quinte Conference, held recently in Lindsay, gave a very comprehensive and interesting report of the branch meeting.

The hymn, 'For the Beauty of the Earth," was then sung.

After a few remarks on the report heard, Mrs. Bookhout then introduced Miss Rose, of Nova Scotia, a returned missionary from Korea.

Miss Rose had come to Ontario to attend a Dominion Board meeting held in Toronto, and had been requested to spend a few weeks, addressing meetings in Ontario on the missionary work in Korea. She had consented to devote a week to that work. She described the work done and the life led by a missionary in Korea.

Along Three Lines.

The work is along educational, evangelistic and medical lines; in fact all these phases of the work are really evangelistic. As the Bible is taught in schools, and in the hospitals, devotional exercises are held each day with the native staff. Prayer is always offered before operations, and Bible women are in charge of the patients. A good many churches have been formed from the patients. The first work of the missionary is to learn the language. As soon as they have a working knowledge of it they are set to work.

Miss Rose was in charge of women's work in her district. She had to visit the women and hold classes. She asked her hearers to go with her on an imaginary journey to the country. In getting ready for a trip, food and bedding had to be carried. All the food that could be gotten would be rice, fish, eggs and fowl, anything else must be taken along.

Describes Journey.

The first part of the journey into the interior of the country could be taken in a train, but after that a two-wheeled ox-cart must be used. The country is very mountainous, hence this manner of travelling is slow. The missionary and her native woman helper travelled all day and at night reached a heathen village, where they secured lodgings for the night, cooked her own food over a charcoal pot (the native helper ate rice with the Koreans), and in the morning started again and by evening had reached their objective, a Christian village. The women came out to welcome them. Here the homes were clean.

They held classes here divided into three groups:

1—Were those who desired to know more of the Christian doctrine.

2—Women who knew something concerning it.

3—Christian women.

Singing, reading, writing, arithmetic, are taught, because these women had not the privilege of learning in schools as the younger generation now have.

The missionary teaches all morning and one or two hours in the afternoon. Then spends the rest of the day in visiting Christian homes, and trying to visit heathen homes: not all will receive her at first. She tells the "old, old story,' 'and invites them to the class. If she can persuade them to come once, they almost invariably come again, because there is such a difference between "the story of love" and their heathen religion.

Some women walk as much as thirty miles a week to study. Christianity takes a deeper hold upon women who have experienced heathendom than in Christian lands.

Then the missionary must move on and repeat the work. The women always invite her back soon, but the field is so large that she can only visit them once a year. She takes in about three classes on a trip of three weeks. She then stays in town a few days and prepares food and clothing for another trip.

Lately Miss Rose has been in charge of a girls' school. It is a nice brick building built by the W.M.S. of Canada. It has eight teachers. She is the only foreigner. They study Japanese ten hours and Korean three hours. Almost all subjects are taught in Japanese. The Koreans do not like this, but must submit. They are taught singing, sewing, drawing, and writing, and some of the pupils become very proficient. Japanese history and geography are taught.

All school girls must attend church and Sunday school, and the older girls teach.

Korea is a land of Sunday schools; every man, woman and child in a church attends its Sunday school.

She told of their methods of winning the heathen children and through them their parents.

Offered Prizes.

Sunday school scholars are offered rewards, cards, etc., for bringing in new pupils.

She said there is a great work yet to be done in Korea; 2,000,000 people and only 50 Christian workers.

Hundreds and thousands of villages have never heard of Christ.

The missionary lives under difficultities, talks Korean all the time, carries her food in a box for about three weeks, when it is often mouldy, spends her time travelling in ox-carts, and sits on the floor while out in the country; it is not a life of luxury but it has joys that nothing else can give. One is the knowledge that you have been God's instrument in saving souls.

She has a moving picture of lives being gradually changed from heathendom to Christianity.

Much is yet to be done. Sisters are yet in darkness and she closed by urging the ladies engaged in W.M.S. work to assist by their prayers, sympathy, gifts and the training of Christian young people to carry on the work.

The different auxiliaries then gave their reports.

"I gave my life for Thee," was sung.

Mrs. Bookout and Miss Rose extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. R. S. Staples, who had been their hostess, and to those who had attended and given such good attention.

Mrs. Staples replied saying that thanks were due Mrs. Bookout and Miss Rose; also Mrs. Johnson, who had given such interesting and instructive addresses.

Lunch was served by the Cavan ladies in the basement of the church.

Mrs. Hunter, Springville, and Mrs. Hanbidge, Fairmount, moved and seconded a vote of thanks to Cavan ladies for their hospitality.

Again Mrs. Staples replied, stating that it had been a pleasure to entertain them.

TEN DIE IN FLOODS

BUCHAREST, June 23 (Canadian Press).—Torrential rains lasting 36 hours have caused considerable havoc throughout Roumania. In Bessarabia the rain was accompanied by an intense electrical storm. It flooded ten villages, caused the death of ten people.

BEWARE of CONSTIPATION

CONSTIPATION is undermining the health of millions because faulty elimination clogs the digestive system. Slowly—ceaselessly, body poisons are absorbed into the system.

Doctors say that sufficient roughage of the right kind in the food you eat will prevent the cruel consequences of constipation. Post's Bran Flakes provides just that necessary roughage. You will delight in eating Post's Bran Flakes regularly because of the delightful flavor in each golden, crisp-toasted flake.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation brought about by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. You will like it as well as any cereal you ever tasted.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time.

But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity.

Anticipating Results

A teacher asked her class the difference between "results" and "consequences." A bright boy replied, "Results are what you expect, and consequences are what you get."

When you shop at the C. D. S. you expect to get full value for your money. And that is exactly what you do get. There is no fine distinction between the expected and the ultimate result.

These values have been made possible in a large measure by the C. D. S. plan of "cash selling." Cash selling reduces the number of operations necessary to a sale, eliminates risk on the part of the seller and allows him the full selling price on his goods at once. It is not difficult then to understand why C. D. S. "cash prices" should be and are lower.

ALL AT SEA

By CAROLYN WELLS

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

CHAPTER XLII.

Stone smiled at him affectionately. "I'm excluding Mr. Sears as a possible suspect," he said, "because he didn't do it. But the police are not so sure of that as I am, and so to prove my point I must find the real murderer."

"Who is" Sears appended, "the man who bought a bundle of junk at the auction room late in the evening the night before the murder."

"And who," Anastasia broke in, "bought it for Carmelita Valdon. Oh, it wasn't necessary for her to go out and buy it herself. She is a woman who has others to do her underhand work. And I've listened to all you've said, Mr. Stone, and it all comes back to her. For who else knew in advance that my brother was coming down here? No one knew it except the Valdon crowd."

"That includes Roger Neville," said Stone, thoughtfully. "Has no breath of suspicion been wafted his way?"

"No," Tite Riggs said. "It hasn't. I've wondered why, but nobody seems to think of him in that way."

"Certainly not," snapped Miss Folsom. "Roger Neville is no saint, but he and Garry were intimate friends. They were fond of each other, and, though they quarrelled now and then, they were really devoted. Why, they both made wills leaving large sums to the other. Had Roger died first Garry would have come into quite a fortune."

"Which he didn't need," suggested Stone.

"Oh, no. My brother was a rich man. Well, Mr. Stone, I suppose it's too late for you to do anything further tonight. I hope you'll get busy in the morning and round up that Carmelita woman! Remember, she's about the only one in all Ocean Town who knew beforehand that my brother was coming down here."

With this parting bit of suggestion, Miss Folsom went off to her own room, and the men remained for a few more words.

"My aunt is a strange personage," Pelton said, thoughtfully, "but she's nobody's fool. And her arguments against Mrs. Valdon are just plausible enough to catch the attention of the police if they are brought to their notice. So, Mr. Stone, while I don't ask you to ignore Aunt Anastasia's suspicions and suggestions, I do ask you to look into the matter yourself before you give it much publicity."

"I shall certainly do that, Mr. Pelton," Stone said, "and if it is of any comfort to you, and I dare say it is, I can tell you that I think there is so far very little evidence against Mrs. Valdon."

"Bless you for that!" said Dan Pelton so earnestly that Stone was touched. "Yes," he went on, noticing Stone's quick glance, "as my aunt says, I have fallen for that woman. To me she is a waif of fortune, a toy of fate, but not the scheming adventuress my aunt would make her seem. Nor is she a murderess! The very idea is unthinkable! But my uncle did have a hold over her; did have letters from her, and she did try to get them without the knowledge of the sensation-seeking police. Those things I know.

"What was in the letters or whether she did finally get them, I don't know. But they were here, in the suitcase right on top, and they're not here now. I am frank, Mr. Stone, because I want the matter cleared up as well as my aunt does, and if you can get at the real truth you can do away with all hint of suspicion of Mrs. Valdon."

Stone looked at him a little quizzically.

"I had but two legitimate suspects," he said, with pretended ruefulness. "Sears here and Mrs. Valdon. If you deprive me of both, at one fell swoop, what, pray, am I to do?"

"Get the real one," said Tite Riggs, rising to go. "I can't do it; I haven't a glimmer of a notion what way to look, but I'll bet you manage it, Mr. Stone."

"I'll bet he does," agreed Pelton, but the anxious eyes of Croydon Sears did not echo their assurance.

"I'll have a try at it," Stone told them. "But I don't mind admitting that at the present I've no evidence to work on, no clue to follow up. I'm all at sea."

"Then you're right on the spot," said Pelton, with a flash of his irrepressible gayety, "for that's where the crime was committed!"

"A strange case," Stone said to Sears as they left the room and went toward their own apartments. "I've never before heard of a murder in the ocean. It is clever, I'll say that for it. Just think, Croy, no fingerprints, no clues left lying about, no witnesses, no evidence to be drawn from the scene of this crime, and I feel sure the murderer thought there would be no weapon found. Why, there's nothing material to work on. Nothing to consider but the mental attitudes of the victim and his possible enemies. And of those I know almost nothing. Small wonder I'm all at sea!"

"True enough, old man. But for heaven's sake get me out of it! Do you know since you've come, and the thing is getting into shape as you see it, I'm more than ever certain my part in the matter must come out."

"Probably not, Croy. But if it is necessary, you'll have to buck up and stand it. Better have the thing lanced than to let it fester."

"Yes, I know. And if it comes to that I'll stand up to it, of course. If it were not for Robin I'd make a clean breast of the whole matter, but the boy—and Angelica—"

"I know. Don't think about it at present. We'll likely get a new line on it all tomorrow. Big hotel, isn't it?"

"Yes, the Majusaca is one of the newest and finest on the beach. Well, here's your room; do get a little sleep."

Fleming Stone didn't require much sleep, but the sea air made for drowsiness, and he put in a good night's rest before he joined Croydon Sears at breakfast.

Robin was there, too, and Ned Barron, the girls having their breakfast in their rooms.

"Did the night bring any counsel?" Barron inquired, his big voice toned down to a discreet pitch.

"Some," Stone returned, smiling. "But as I told Sears, I'm all at sea, unless I can get a straw to show which way the wind may, can or must be blowing." HH

"You can't make bricks w'thout straws, can you?" Robin smiled, and added, "I'll bet you've crossed my dad off the list of possib'es."

"I'll bet I haven't." Stone said. "But that's because he never was on it. And, it's a very small list, anyway. However, we're only starting in, and no telling what favoring winds may blow us to port sooner than we expect."

"Who's at the top of your list?" Barron asked, h curiosity getting the better of him.

"A beautiful lady," Stone said. "Don't ask her name yet, for something tells me she'll be crossed off speedily. Indeed, so far it's all a blank mystery. I'm lost in a fog of hovering possibilities none of which will take shape or tangibility. The only straight facts are that Garrett Folsom was stabbed and that somebody stabbed him."

"Couldn't have been suicide?" asked Barron.

"Not a chance. The doctors agree on that, and—by the way, you stood next to him. Can you see a suicide act?"

"No, indeed." Ned Barron shrugged his shoulders. "I was paying no attention to him, for I wanted to discourage his stetmpts at conversation, but as I look back and visualize the scene, I seem to see h's two hands grasping the rope next to my own."

"You saw him go under?"

"No, for I was turned away, speaking to Madeline. But I saw and heard a commotion and next thing I knew they were carrying him out. I didn't notice it much, assuming it was a case of cramps. It happens so often."

"Well, your testimony doesn't help me an . You didn't know him at all?"

"Not at all. Never heard of him before that day. It was the merest chance that we stood near him."

"Well, it's a puzzle," sighed Stone. "I've nothing to work on but people's prejudices, a dagger and a few dolls! That doesn't seem much for an able-bodied detective!"

"Dolls!" exclaimed Robin, "what dolls?"

Montreal Royals Even Series With Reading

LEAFS BREAK WITH SKEETERS

Now Tied With Rochester For First Place in League.

ORIOLES WIN TWO.

JERSEY CITY, June 25. — Dropping the first three games of their four-game series to Toronto, the Jersey City Skeeters displayed a surprising reversal of form in the final round of yesterday's double-header, after dropping the opener by a score of 7 to 2, and stopped the Leafs' winning strides with a 1 to 0 verdict in an abbreviated contest of seven innings. Not only did the locals check O'Hara's men, but this unexpected victory by the locals spoiled the Leafs' chance to lead the league alone, Rochester Red Wings having been beaten twice at Baltimore yesterday.

Threatening weather promised to sidetrack yesterday's events, as an overcast sky was dripping rain when the opening game started. It soon cleared, hwever, and a bright sun appeared, but the early rain affected the attendance, which was the smallest week-end gathering of the season.

An Even Split.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 25. — Two sizzling hits decided the issue in yesterday's double-header with the Rochester Red Wings, enabling Baltimore to hop away with an even split on the six games series after dropping the first two games. In the first edition the Orioles came from behind in the eighth inning, Bolen's single being the smack to settle the tussle, 6-4. The nightcap found the score tied at 1-1 in the fifth, but Moorers ropped one over the fence for his third hit of the game and sent Devine galloping home ahead of him to win by 3-1.

Make Thirty Hits.

READING, Pa., June 25. — Montreal evened the series with Reading by winning the final game from Reading yesterday 8 to 7, in a free-hitting contest. Reading came from behind twice to go into the lead, but failed to hold its advantage.

Bears in Their Stride.

NEWARK, June 25. — By capturing both ends of the double-header yesterday afternoon, the Bears made a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Bisons. The scores were 11 to 3 and 2 to 1.

RUTH SCORES 28TH HOME RUN

Helps Yankees Defeat Boston 4-0 at New York.

AHEAD OF LAST YEAR.

NEW YORK, June 25. — George Pipgras's superb pitching yesterday helped the Yankees shut out the Red Sox, 4 to 0, for the only victory of the series, Boston winning it by two victories to one. Incidentally, it was Pipgras's thirteenth victory out of fifteen decisions. He allowed the Red Sox but three hits, two coming in the ninth.

Babe Ruth made his twenty-eighth homer in the third inning, and his third homer in two days, he having hit two on Saturday, when the Hugmen lost both games. Durst also drove out a homer with none on in the fifth.

The drive put Ruth 19 games, 15 days and 4 runs ahead of the pace he followed last year to establish a new season record of 60. Ruth hit his twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth homers last year on July 9.

Kojac Sets New Swimming Record

DETROIT, June 25.—(Canadian Press).—Establishment of a new world's record by George Kojac for the 100-metre backstroke and the dethroning of Pete Desjardines as national springboard diving champion, a title he has held for three years, featured the Olympic swimming trials here Saturday. Mickey Riley, of Los Angeles, is the new champion diver.

Kojac, who forced Johnny Weismuller to a new mark in the national meet several weeks ago on the Pacific Coast, shattered the record of 1.11 3-5 established by Walter Laufer, of Chicago, at Berlin in 1926. He rated his pace nicely, keeping with the field until he reached the half-way mark and then began to draw away with a powerful stroke to win by a yard and a half from Paul Wyatt, of Uniontown, Pa., and clip two seconds from the world's standard.

FINE PITCHING BEATS GIANTS

BEATS CINCINNATI.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Jess Petty's superb pitching and a flawless infield defence sparkled at Brooklyn yesterday as the Robins defeated the Giants 2 to 0. Petty held New York to six scattered hits and the fast and efficient fielding of Dave Bancroft and Harvey Hendrick took care of the rest. Although the field at the start of the game was a morass, due to early rains, the only error for either team was Faulkner's wild throw.

Faulkner went the route for the Giants. In the second inning, Hendrick walked, took third on Bressler's double, and scored on Bissonette's infield hit. A pass to Carey, Bressler's bunt and Tyson's double added the other run in the eighth.

Grover Alexander, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, won his third game from Cincinnati within eight days, when he defeated the Reds at Cincinnati yesterday, 7 to 4. Alexander pitched last Sunday against the Reds and won. He went back on Tuesday and beat them again.

MEET CARSTEEL IN PLAY-OFFS

Play With Canadian National for Right to Represent P.Q.F.A.

MONTREAL, Que., June 25 (Canadian Press). — Canadian National and Carsteel will play off on Dominion Day for the right to represent the P.O.F.A., in the inter-provincial stage of the Dominion soccer championships. In the semi-finals played on Saturday, C.N.R., Montreal, routed the C.N.R., Ottawa, aggregation by an 8-1 score.

C.N.R., Ottawa, representatives of the Ottawa and District Association, were outplayed throughout, although inth e second session the locals slackened their pace and the Ottawa team grasped the occasional opportunity to carry play into their opponents' territory.

The start of the tilt had the earmarks of a battle royal, as within a couple of minutes from the commencement the Ottawa centre, Torrence, had penetrated the home defence and sent the sphere well out of the reach of Nelson. The early reverse awakened the home side, and while the visitors had a share of the play for the next ten minutes, they fared badly from that time to the end of the game. By half-time, the Montreal team led by 3-1. While the score remained unchanged during the early part of the second period, when the locals started scoring, they did it rapidly, netting the ball five times before the final whistle. Undaunted by the heavy reverse, the Ottawa squad were pressing at the end.

British Lawn Tennis Championships Open At Wimbledon Stadium To-Day

WIMBLEDON, June 25. (Associated Press. — The British lawn tennis championship begins at Wimbledon to-day.

The world's greatest stars—from five continents and many islands—are awaiting start of plays on a score of courts at the all-England Club. The entries total 208 men and women.

Of these the experts have selected eight outstanding favorites in the men's singles. These include: Henri Cochet, defending champion and conqueror of Tilden in the semi-final round of 1927; John Hennessey and Francis T. Hunter of the United States, and Gerald Patterson, veteran Australian star, in the upper half of the draw; Tilden, Rene La Coste and Jean Borotra, of France, and Baron H. L. Demorpurgo, Italian Davis Cup star, in the lower half.

In the women's singles, the odds heavily favor Miss Helen Wills to retain her title against the field of eighty. Both Senorita Elia de Alvarez of Spain, and Eileen Bennett of England, counted upon to provide the most serious challenge to Miss Wills' supremacy, are in the opposite half of the draw.

EARLY RING CHAMPIONS

The following skeletonized record of prize ring championships from the days of the immortal Figg, who was England's Jack Dempsey of his day, supplies some interesting data on the history of the old bare-knuckle fighters, according to an article in the July "Fight Stories" magazine.

WORK OF FUEL BOARD

The Dominion Fuel Board since its inception has conducted exhaustive studies with a view to making Canada independent in the consumption of fuel, with the result that Pennsylvania anthracite is being displaced by other fuels in Ontario and Quebec to the extent of 1,500,000 tons a year. Another beneficial feature is that a variety of fuels has established competition in the markets of domestic fuel supplies.

FOUR RECORDS ARE BROKEN

FOR WOMEN

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 25 (Canadian Press). — Four records were broken and three new ones established for events which had no previous marks, and the shot, which was slightly under weight, was thrown 2 feet 4½ inches farther than the record, in the maritime track and field championships for women on the Allison Grounds here on Saturday afternoon before a gallery of approximately 500 people.

Gertrude Phinney, of the ex-Dalhousie Club, Halifax, was the star of the meet, retaining her maritime title with five firsts one second, and four new records to her credit. In the flat races she made a mark of 7 2-5 seconds for the sixty yards (this was a new event), in the 100 yards she clipped three-fifths of a second off her previous maritime record, cut her own marq in the 220 yards by 2-5 seconds to 27 3-5 seconds, and clipped one-fifth of a second from her previous mark of 9 3-5 seconds in the 60-yard hurdles.

Greta Fowler, of the Y.W.C.A., St. John, had tough luck in putting the shot, for after throwing the weight 29 feet 10 inches, which was 3½ inches beyond the maritime mark, it was found the metal was three ounces below the required weight. However, Miss Fowler broke the record for the high jump, going half an inch beyond the former record.

Miss M. Juden, of the Y.W.C.A., Halifax, established a mark for the discus with a hurl of 49 feet 2½ inches. Miss S. Coleman, unattached, threw the baseball 197.3 feet to establish a maritime mark.

The cups and medals were presented immediately following the meet.

McLean's Toro Wins $25,000 Latonia Derby

NEW YORK, June 25.—(Canadian Press).—Outclassing all opposition, R. B. McLean's Toro, one of the season's greatest three-year-olds, Saturday romped away with the $25,000 Latonia Derby.

Toro's victory, gained by a ten-length margin, was a rather hollow one, for his expected rival, Misstep, winner of the Fairmount Derby, was scratched before post time. His owner, Leo J. Marks, said track conditions were such as to handicap his entry.

Toro jumped into the lead shortly after the field of five got away and steadily increased his advantage to the end. P. Reuter's Galahad was second, a length and a half in front of H. P. Headley's Pigeon Hole. The time for the mile and a half was 2.41 1-5. Toro, the favorite, paid $3.10 for a $2 ticket to win and $2.64 to place. Galahad paid $4.10 to place. No show mutuels were sold.

WILLIAM FOX presents
WHY SAILORS GO WRONG

CANNIBAL A LAUGHTER ROMANCE ON ISLANDS

Thurs.-Fri.-Sat.—BEBE DANIELS in "FEEL MY PULSE"

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

A MIRTHQUAKE OF THRILLS AND LAUGHTERS IS "WHY SAILORS GO WRONG" THE FEATURE ATTRACTION AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT.

Never has there been turned loose, perhaps, such a riot of fun and laughter in one picture as there is in "Why Sailors Go Wrong", which had its first local showing at the Capitol Theatre this afternoon. This latest Fox Films feature is the story of a boy and a girl played by Sally Phipps and Nick Stuart and two cab drivers, all of whom are made prisoners on board a yacht which after a storm at sea is wrecked on a tropic island.

Here is a picture that is sure to drive away all care for the most confirmed pessimist and will prove equally entertaining for every member of the family.

AT THE REGENT.

PETITE FOX FILMS STAR BOTH DEMURE AND MODERN IN "PUBLICITY MADNESS."

"Publicity Madness," a hilarious satire on modern business produced by Fox Films with Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran co-starred in the featured roles, will open at the Regent Theatre to-night.

According to all who have seen this production it is made up of five reels of laughs with a delightful romance and a variety of thrills thrown in for good measure. The situations in which the grandiloquent hero finds himself are especially funny and the unusual ending puts him in complete control of the business.

The story itself was adapted by Andrew Bennison from an original tale by Anita Loos. It deals with a fresh, garrulous, soap salesman, whose ego is only surpassed by the daring of his advertising schemes. After being fired from one concern he worms his way into another old fashioned competitor, and from then on things begin to move swiftly and humorously.

The romance in the picture has to do with his love for the daughter of the president of the second concern, the thrills are connected with a record breaking flight to the Philippines which is part of his advertising scheme.

Edmund Lowe plays Pete King, the salesman and Lois Moran is Violet Henley. Others in the cast are Arthur Housman as a running representative of a credit clothing house, E. J. Ratcliffe as "Uncle" Elmer Henly, old-fashioned owner of the Henly Soap Company. James Gordon, as his competitor, Bryon Munson as Violet's other suitor and Norman Pack as Wilbur ,the high brow office boy.

Albert Ray, who already has a long list of comedy successes to his credit, directed the production.

AQUATIC MEET GIVES THRILLS TO SPECTATORS

Aquaplaning and Sea-Flea Racing Most Exciting Events.

ALL CONTESTS KEEN.

Greasy Pole and Tilting Give Many Boys Sudden Plunge.

Peterborough's first aquatic meet of the year, held opposite George street wharf, in Little Lake, in spite of the threatening weather turned out to be a real success. A very large number of spectators lined the wharf and the entries very successfully entertained all who came. The afternoon was not without its thrills. In the speed boat race a sea-flea, captained by Grant Gillespie, turned over at the buoy below the C.P.R. bridge, throwing the driver into the water. The greasy pole gave everyone a good laugh and the tilting was good. Aquaplaning was another thrill giver, and in spite of wide swinging turns with hair breadth escapes from falling or hitting the wharf the water rates stuck on their uncertain footing.

The young entries priveded the most fun. All were so serious, some putting on a very good exhibition indeed. The diving was very closely contested. The divers were Tom Dunlop, Tom Gardner, Isadore Gosland, Bob Weir, Russel Little, Joe Reid, Arthur Hunter, and Bert Little. These fellows were judged according to the best in—a plain dive, a fancy dive, and any kind of a dive they wished to try. Robert Killaly was the judge and Tom Dunlop and Jack Gardner were declared to be tied after the three trials. In the fourth trial Tom Dunlop kept his feet together and went in the water neater, so was awarded first place, with Jack Gardner a close second. In the boys' swimming race, these two also contested for the honors and up to the last ten yards Jack Gardner led the field when Tom Dunlop showed a burst of speed and passed a few feet in front of him at the tape.

The greasy pole attracted many spectators and gave the entrants a lot of fun. A long pole fastened to the wharf and projecting over the water was greased with some of the C.P.C. Rose Brand lard, and proved the stumbling block for many. V. Cooms was the only one who was successful in reaching the entire length of the pole, most of the lads slipping off before they got half way out. Cooms, a very slim lad in a grey bathing suit, started on a run and slid the length of the pole and off the end into the water.

There were only two entries in the girls' race—Margaret Rogers and Peggy Scott. The latter carried off the honors. The girls' diving was great and was very closely contested between Margaret Dunlop and Mary Rogers. Margaret won when she did what she called the Naughty Boy. It was judged by Jim Matthews, who marked the girls on the three dives, the same as the boys.

The tilting was next, Wyatt and Milt. Mesley were the conquering water knights, forcing their rivals into the water and narrowly escaping themselves when one of the opposing team grabbed their canoe as he hit the lake.

The Class C motor boats was the blue ribbon feature of the day. Four speedy entries started. Bob Carter, in Canada Flier VIII., Bob Goodfellow, Grant Gillespie, and Don Wood in Bat and Son. After a false start the contestants were called back to another start, and then the sea-fleas leaped into their stride and twice around the course far out into Little Lake. Two tragedies occurred. Bob Goodfellow's engine froze up, and Grant Gillespie hit the water when trying to make the turn too sharp in order to gain time. Bob Carter's Canada Flier was away in the lead and finished an easy first, with Bat and Son a close second.

In Classes A and B there were only two entries, with Wood coming in first in both entries. This was not as speedy as Class C, but was as thrilling.

Ernie Dennison was the premier aquaplane rider o fthe day, giving the spectators a demonstration such as has rarely been seen here before. Bob Goodfellow, who drove the speed boat, could not seem to shake him off. He hit the water once on a turn and slid along the surface for about ten feet.

That was his only fall and it looked very much as if it was on purpose to give the spectators a thrill and a laugh, as he took many harder stunts with ease. Many others tried this and they were good. This sport seemed to be fascinating from all standpoints.

The meet was a success for a first attempt. Wait until the next one. Everything is in working order and the events that failed to come off will be there the next time. It needed some one with a little nerve to get the things started which are now under way, and a bigger entry list will be scheduled and many more interesting events.

PETES TO PLAY IN BELLEVILLE ON WEDNESDAY

Postponed Fixture of Several Weeks Ago To Be Played Off.

NO GAME SATURDAY.

Rain Prevented Battles Both in Deloro and in Peterborough.

Saturday's rain made it necessary to postpone both the Belleville-Peterborough fixture here and the Oshawa-Deloro battle at Deloro. The Belleville team had a fruitless trip to Peterborough while the Oshawa team got as far as Trenton on their way to Deloro when they were headed off.

As a result of these and other postponements, this week, which was practically an off week in the schedule, will be busy after all. Belleville slated to play in Oshawa Wednesday will visit the Motor town to-morrow, and on Wednesday the Petes will journey to Belleville to play the game postponed several weeks ago on account of rain.

On the same day Deloro will play in Kingston, while on Saturday Oshawa will play a postponed game in Deloro.

COBOURG-ROCHESTER STEAMSHIP ROUTE
Ontario Car Ferry Company.

Commencing June 30 the present four days per week service of the Ontario Car Ferry steamers across Lake Ontario, between Cobourg, Ontario, and Genesee Dock (port of Rochester, N. Y.,) will be increased to the full summer service of one round trip daily, leaving Genesee dock in the morning, and leaving Cobourg in the afternoon.

The two steamers operating in this service, "Ontario No. 1" and "Ontario No. 2," are equipped for the handling of passengers, with splendid wide promenade decks, excellent dining room and buffet service, where meals are served at popular prices, music and dance rooms, and also some private cabins and state rooms available for the benefit of those who may desire rest or privacy during the trip across the lake. The steamers are also equipped with a "Panatrope" machine—a type of electrically operated gramaphone, providing ample music at all times in various parts of the ships, including the dance room and the dining saloon.

One of the steamers provides the regular scheduled service, Rochester to Cobourg and return, while the other steamer is used to take care of the many special organized excursion parties, which, during the summer season, both from the north and south sides of the lake, avail themselves of the pleasures of a day's outing on these fine vessels.

Excellent arrangements have also been made for the handling of tourist automobiles on these steamers.

This route provides a very convenient and attractive short cut between Central Ontario and Central New York State points.

Full information, tickets, etc., may be had of any Canadian National Railways' Agent.

A SOLDIER'S REVERIE

I stand on guard by the guns to-night
In the midnight silent gloom,
Away in the distance a star shell bursts,
'Mid the sound of a gun's deep boom.

It is Sunday night and my thoughts go back
To my own dear home once more,
Although far away I can see it now,
On Canada's distant shore.

In fancy I hear the church bells chime
('Tis the time for service I know)
And I see again our dear old church
Into which the people go.
I thrill as I think I hear them sing,
The hymns I love so well,
'Tis "Jesus Lover of My Soul,"
I can hear the music swell.

I can hear again our pastor's voice,
In his beautiful evening prayer,
He prays for us boys who are far away—
Each one doing his share.

The hush of the church seems to fall on me,
And I join with him as he pleads,
Our Father in Heaven to guard us all,
And give us the strength we need.

They are filing out now, I can see them all,
The friends that I love so dear,
They are talking about us with those around,
They seem quite close to me here.

"God Bless Them," I breath, as I guard the guns,
And do my bit with the rest,
But my Sunday's thoughts are hallowed thoughts,
And help me to do my best.
—These were sent home by Driver Percy Hamlin, 33rd Battery.

Johnny Farrell Wins National Open Title

OLYMIA Fields, Chicago, June 25.— (Canadian Press). — Johnny Farrell, of New York, yesterday won the national open golf championship after a strenuous 36-hole playoff with Bobby Jones, of Atlanta. Farrell won by one stroke, getting 143.

Farrell sank an eight-foot putt on the 18th green to clinch the championship, with a birdie four. At the time Jones was only three feet from the cup for his birdie. Farrell, leading by three strokes at the end of the first 18 holes, withstood a sensational rally by Jones in the afternoon to win. Farrell put together rounds of 70-73—143 to 73-71 — 144 for Jones.

FESTIVAL TE DEUM IS WELL RENDERED

Beautiful and Inspiring Composition Sung By George Street Choir.

(By Jeanette)

The Festival Te Deum presented by the choir of George Street United church last evening in connection with Flower Day services, was a beautiful and inspiring musical presentation. This cantata, written in thanksgiving for the recovery from a serious illness of the Prince of Wales, later King Edward Seventh, bears the impress of its composer in its quality of bright, buoyant music, while the atmosphere of thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty is carried out also from beginning to end of a very attractive composition, that opens with a chorus of adoration and closes with a prayer for the continuance of blessing and favors from the hand of God.

The triumphant, soaring melody has in its various passages the crescendo type of music that commences mildly and swells out into a burst of aspiring sound. The different sections of the choir take up the refrain, repeat it, and join in the swelling outburst which marks the finale of each passage.

This type of treatment makes for a very interesting presentation, and sustains the joyous note to the conclusion. An outstanding portion was the passage, "We believe that Thou shalt come to be our Judge," emphasizing the majestic and dignified note. The conclusion, "O Lord, Save Thy People," with each section catching up the reiterated words, in turn, and the military beat of the organ accompaniment, was a noble and dignified conclusion to a beautiful rendition, that had an added effectiveness in the little bits of unaccompanied music which interspersed the main production.

A very satisfying factor in the presentation, which was under the expert direction of G. F. Liddle, organist and choir leader, was the splendid enunciation, each word being easily distinguishable.

Mrs. G. F. Liddle's lovely, soft contralto, with its well-trained modulations and attractive sweetness, and Miss Daisy Murray's fine, high-pitched soprano, strong, powerful and even were heard to splendid advantage in the solo portions: "When Thou Took-est Upon Thee," for soprano voice, and the solo for "O Lord, Save Thy People," for contralto.

MASONS HOLD CHURCH PARADE

co-operate with God's grace to attain the ideal. The haphazard life never gets anywhere· there must be aims and standards and the moral courage and strength to try to live up to them.

Life must be loyal. The workers on the Temple were loyal and saw the significance of what they were doing—and stayed there. Hiram, the widow's son, gave up his life rather than betray his trust. So in Masonry and everyday life is loyalty necessary. Loyalty and equity and other fine qualities are conveyed to men by the craft and by the Word of God.

Faith is the third thing needed. All the workers on the Temple believed that they were carrying out God's purpose and they never changed the plans given them because some man or other thought he could improve on them. Faith in God and faith that the plan of life is God's plan and superior to man's own plans are necessary. If man tries to plan for himself he does not attain to the perfection intended. Man is intended to carry out God's plan and God's purpose. There is only one moral force to which he should yield and that is conveyed through God's word.

The service was fully choral, and was led by a choir of men and boys. During the offertory the Masonic octette sang two selections. The familiar hymns, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," were heartily sung by choir and congregation.

At the conclusion of the service, the brethren marched back to their hall, where they dismissed.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE FOLLOW FASHION.

We follow fashion because we want to be in the swim. No one wants to be regarded as an old fogie, a back number.

Suggestions and imitation are the great twin sisters that beguile us all into following Dame Fashion. We are like sheep, we follow the crowd. The crowded thoroughfares have a fascination for all of us. We follow a crowd, even when we have no special objective. The most effective means of advertising a car or a book is to place it among the best sellers. Everyone will then want to be one of the crowd of purchasers.

Fashions seem quite arbitrary at first sight, but close investigation shows that such is not the case. "I have been told by persons of experience in matters of taste," says Emerson, "that the fashion follows a law of gradation, and are never arbitrary. The new mode is always only a step onward in the same direction as the last mode, and a cultivated eye is prepared for and predicts the new fashions."

Changes in fashion are not purely commercial in motivation. The commercial interests merely give expression to the innate human desire for novelty and change. Despite the fact that we become very much attached to our old clothes we do not care to wear the same things over and over again. We prefer to make changes and come back to the old when we tire of the new. This is exactly what fashion does. It goes around in a circle.

We follow fashion through the urge for novelty and change, through the law of suggestion and imitation, and the social impulse which prompts us to be good fellows.

WINDOW PLACED IN ST. JAMES'

beautiful window would be something to look and to think upon, and to remind us of one whose life is still with us, one who went up and down this conference telling and preaching the Word of God. Since his retirement from active service, Mr. Greatrix had been an interested, sympathetic and helpful member of his congregation in Trinity United Church.

He was born in the city of London, England, in 1850, coming to Canada in 1861, where he resided in Thurlow in Hastings County. Here he was apprenticed to a blacksmith for a few years, and later entered the ministry. His first charge was in the village of Atherley, followed by years of service in each of the following places: South Monaghan, Cavan, Little Britain, Cannington, Trenton, Campbellford, Port Perry, Belleville, Simcoe Street, Oshawa, and in St. James', Peterborough, which he founded and where he closed his active ministry.

When he first entered the work, it was in the time when men were eager for the word of God, but now, said Mr. Wren, there is no work quite so difficult as that of the ministry.

Again referring to St. James', he expressed the wish that the best days of the church might still be in the offing, that God might bless this church and that its founder might be long spared to watch its progress. In closing, he said that Mr. Greatrix would live just as long as the memory of those with whom he had come in contact.

The beautiful window just unveiled was the work of the Luxfer Prism Company of Toronto, showing a picture of Christ saying, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock." At its base is the inscription, "Erected by the members and friends of St. James' United Church, with grateful appreciation of the Rev. Benjamin Greatrix as pastor during the erection of the Church, 1914-1919, on this his jubilee year of entering the ministry, 1928."

Very effective music was again rendered by the choir in the anthem, "Rejoice the Lord is King" (Coerne), the solo part taken by Mrs. E. Frost.

Master Edward Murch, boy soprano, of Toronto, delighted the congregation in his two beautiful solos, "Teach me to do Thy will" (Vernon Eville), and "Just for to-day" (Seaver), also in the duet sung with Mrs. William Murch, "Jesus is calling."

REV. J. W. GORDON ENDS PASTORATE

much about the sorrow and death of Arthur Hallam. Tennyson replied, that the kind of thing you say is like chaff in the wind.

"Is the kind of thing you say to people what you should say? There is the failing business man, a strong man failing in health or the loss of a very dear friend. Often your presence is necessary to a party, a community drive or an art club, but do people in our dark days think of us?

"The man who can comfort and straight out the life of another is speaking the greatest and the most difficult words. We often are dumb in silent and mutual woe.

"A word in season, no matter what reforms of life will be found hard by men. Isaiah received the word by listening, not at a minute, but twenty years, ten years, or five years. He had his eyes opened and at last came the word in season.

"Received as God gave it. This congregation did not become what they are by going to church once, but by going the last one hundred years People have been worshipping. No single event of church going makes the community what it is. You people read the Bible and you say you do not understand it, you feel that your prayers at times are flung back at you. These great things come slowly, cumulative with the years. Paul, Luther, Wesley, and like men arose through no single happening. It was the cumulative result on the hearts of man.

"Moses, Samuel, Jeremiah, Paul, Jesus and the great men to the present time all made contributions to God because they listened. The word in season comes to him that is weary through the darkness and horror of the time. Isaiah said 'I set my face like a flint.' What great men have set their faces like a flint? The same great men that have listened to God and heard the Word in season. They stood face to face with hell, and cared not. They are sacred who in their chambers listen to God.

"When Martin Luther stood before Charles V. of Spain and defied him he knew that he was surrounded by God. But in this passage of Isaiah there is something missing, there is no note of rejoicing. Paul said he rejoiced in his sufferings. Some of you have passed and are passing through dark days, but God could never make anything of men that could be crushed. By darkness comes the light. Let us rejoice as Paul. Peace and Light comes through pain.

The Reality of God

"What is the great word in season we have been waiting for? The meaning and reality of God is the great word. God is every near and is very real. No one can hurt you—God protects you—God is all around you. This is a literal truth that has been proven hundreds of times in the years and by people here to-night. He is telling something written on his heart. Do you older people remember when the minister came and asked you what you wanted him to read to you? You probably said the 23rd Psalm or the 8th chapter of Romans. Paul quotes this eighth chapter of Romans almost entirely from the 50th chapter of Isaiah. Paul knew my text, knew the few verses, so set this down, but he went one better and added the life and the resurrection of Jesus. Stand up and face the world together. Paul came to write the eighth chapter of Romans by listening to God, with open Bible. Such great things could come to us if we opened our Bibles.

"What happens to the man who happens to hurt God's people? He is eaten by the moth—a real show of contempt. The forces that would destroy God's children do not realize their helplessness. They are defeated before they start. No one can hurt you or any other men who are God's people. The destructive forces shall be driven back and disappear.

"I was enhungered and you gave me meat or I was unhungered and you gave me no meat. You help God when you help men. You do not help God when you will not help men. A man confesses his faith or lack of faith by deeds of kindness to God's children or lack of kindness to them.

"The past is full of mystery and the future dark, but the road is clear for a day or an hour or a minute. Pray God that it may be yours."

The anthem was "See Ye the Lord," by Roberts, and the solo part was sung by E. Humphage. Mrs. Doig sang "O Saviour, Hear Me," at Mr. Gordon's request. J. Grame was at the organ, and Arnold Spencer accompanied her on the violin. At the end of the service all pressed to the front of the church where they said farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon.

Win Lebarr Shield.

By virtue of their 19-5 victory over Orillia girls, the Peterborough C.G.E. girls won the new Lebarr Shield. This game, starting fairly late in the afternoon ,attracted a large gallery, and in it, the Petes showed sufficient batting and fielding superiority to deserve the count they made. The Orillia girls, smaller, but clever little players, suffered from inconsistent fielding, of which their opposition took every advantage, yet there was no lack of interest on the part of the fans. Orillia rooters were out to back their team, and back it they did. D. Grant of Peterborough, officiated. The teams:

Orillia—I. Donley, c.; B. Gibson, p.; B. Tennent, 1b.; M. Johnson, 2b.; M. Allen, 3b.; R. Burgess, s.s.; J. Thompson, l.f.; C. Pethick, c.f.; P. Robeson, r.f.

C.G.E.—V. Langton, p.; C. Taylor, 1b.; K. Ashmore, c.f. D. Mortimer, c.; A. Logan ,s.s.; A. Clapham, 3b.; M. Mackness, 2b.; E. White, l.f.; M. Ferguson, r.f.; E. Jocelyn and I. Pattenden.

Petes Win 2-1.

While this game was in progress, the C.G.E. footballers were pulling out on top in a hard fought battle against Orillia, the final score being 2-1. The home towners made a particularly good showing, getting the first goal of the game i nthe first half. The visitors came back strong in the final session, however, and managed to get two past Boadway, the Orillia goalie. Refereeing this match was W. Rickard, while the linesmen were A. Musther and J. Clarke. The teams:

Orillia—Goal, Boadway; backs, McGarvin and Ellison; halves, Perryman, Goodson and McKinley; forwards, Robins, Graham, Reid, McKerroll; centre, Bywater.

Inter-Department Game.

In the earlier part of the afternoon, two C.G.E. teams put on an interesting softball entertainment down near the lake, the Office team taking the weighty end of a 5-3 score from Punch Press .This game, of peculiar interest to C.G.E. employees, was a close chase all the way, with both pitchers showing well. The teams:

Umpires—Bennett and Batley.

Petes Win Again.

In the final game of the day, the Peterborough C.G.E. team pulled out winners by a 7-2 score over the Orillia men's softball tetam. The game provided some of the best ball seen all day and though the crowd which remained to see it (the game was not started until after five o'clock) was not so large, there was plenty of enthusiasm. The teams lined up as follows:

Orillia—Jamieson, l.f.; Adams, 3b.; Paxton, c.f.; White, r.f.; Davidson, 1b.; Wilde, c.; Mauld, p.; Pethick, s.s.; Weatherall, 2b.

Homeward Bound.

At 7.30, true to schedule, the long special train drew away from the park with a tired but happy load of passengers. But the fun was not over and the little ones were given novelties in the form of pop guns, harness, etc. Indeed some of the older ones cast longing eyes at the toys, too.

Taken from any angle, the 1928 outing was a real success, entirely unmarred by accident of any kind, while the splendid 'esprit de corps promoted by the outing will be of untold value. Where to next year?

Wheat Prices Lower In Early Dealings

CHICAGO, June 25 (Canadian Press).—With favorable weather north-west and Liverpool quotations showing absence of strength, wheat prices here averaged lower to-day in the early dealings. The bearish factors proved to be more than a counter-balance for rains over the week-end in the south-west. Opening unchanged to ½ cent off, Chicago wheat later underwent a moderate general set-back. Corn, oats, and provisions tended upward, corn starting at 3-8 cent decline to 1½ cent advance, and subsequently holding near to the initial range.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 138; September 140¼. Corn, July, 101 7-8; September, 98¾. Oats, July 54½; September 45 7-8.

Toronto Market Inactive With Few Sales To-day

TORONTO, June 25 (Canadian Press).—The list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning continued inactive, sales being so irregular that it was impossible to establish a definite trend. Sales at the opening were almost negligible, with the possible exception of Walkers, which opened fairly strong out eased off 3-8 to 55 1-8 at the close. Goodyear Common, with but few sales, dropped four points to 140. International Nickel was moderately active, recording a gain of 1¼ at 91¼. Page Hersey was up ¾ to 95, and although trading was lethargic, Cosmos Preferred went up a point to 99. Massey Harris was down ¼ at 37¾. The oils were soft. British American was off ¼ at 36½, and International Petroleum was also down ¼ at 36¾.

Noranda's Rise Features Mine Market This Morning

TORONTO, June 25 (Canadian Press).—Noranda was the feature stock of this morning's trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. Under heavy trading it moved up 115 points to 38.15. With the exception of Pend Oreille, which advanced 15 to 13.20, almost every active issue on the list was down. Most of the higher-priced issues held firm. Hollinger was off 15 at 13.85, and Dome with very few sales was unchanged at 8.50. Arno was off 1¼ at 31½, with sales exceeding 100,000. Hudson Bay was down 10 at 16.60, and Central Manitoba was down a couple of points at 1.23.

The University of Wisconsin agricultural college has conferred honorary recognition on 70 agricultural leaders—four of them women.

THANKS ROTARY CLUB FOR FINE SUPPORT GIVEN

President Killaly Grateful For Co-operation Extended Him.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Rotarian Rev. Father Paul Costello Felicitated By Club.

President A. L. Killaly, of the Peterborough Rotary Club, took advantage of the fact that to-day was his last appearance in that role, to express his sincere thanks to the members of the club for the support and co-operation accorded him during his fifteen months' tenure of the office.

At to-day's luncheon, too, Rotarian Rev. Father Paul Coostello was congratulated uuon his appointment at the recent convention of the Canadian Legion at St. John to the post of chaplain of the Dominion Command of the Legion. The felicitations of the club were extended to him by Rotarian S. R. Armstrong, who referred to the appointment as an honor to Rev. Father Costello, to his home city and to the Rotary Club, and similar congratulations were voiced by President Killaly, Rev. Father Costello briefly thanking the club in reply.

The speaker to-day was L. Mendelson, of the Dr. Thuns establishment, who was introduced by Alpine MacNab and who gave an interesting address upon "Herbs and Their Uses." Mr. Mendelson called attention to the fact that the use of herbs for medicinal and healing purposes could be traced far back in human history, referring to their use by the Druids and later by the Saxon peoples. He remarked that tons of medicine was allowed to go to waste, the woods and fields being filled with plants, flowers and herbs that while despised as weeds, were of great medicinal value. The dandelion was mentioned as one of the commonest of weeds that possessed many curing properties. Mr. Mendelson claimed that nature's way was the best and that remedies were provided for most of the ailments known to man.

Rotarians Claud Rogers and J. H. Seels called the attention of club members to the fact that Camp Skookum opened next week and to the necessity of using every effort to secure a sufficient number of boys.

MILITIA UNITS ARE INSPECTED

ers. Part of this was held on the parade ground before the Armouries and was witnessed by a great many people. The inspecting officers were joined by Col. E. Snider, of Port Hope, commander of the 7th Infantry Brigade, which includes the local regiment.

Forming up in review order while the inspection of the Battery was proceeding, the Rangers were ready for the General Salute when Col. Anderson came on the field. The present arms, with fixed bayonets, was snappily carried out, the playing of the band enhancing the impressiveness of the ceremony. After Col. Anderson had passed along the lines inspecting the men, the march past in column of companies and close column of companies took place.

Marching into the Armouries, the battalion split up into companies, and squad and rifle drill under company commanders, platoon commanders, and senior N.C.O's followed for some time, while the inspecting officers and Lt.-Col. Hall went from group to group.

Among those who took charge of the companies were Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C. and Bar, D.C.M., Captain E. E. Nicholls, M.C., D.C.M., Lieutenants J. Dunkerley, W. R. Thompson, B. E. Park, H. H. Langford, R. A. Sheehy, C. E. Newman, J. E. Persons, and E. H. Hall, Company Sergeant-Majors, J. Kitchen, W. Hales, M. M., and S. Kitchen and C. Q.M.S.O. Varty.

After the muster parade Col. Anderson addressed the regiment, commending officers and men on their fine showing, which was marred, he said, only by their small numbers. He urged those present to try to get new recuits for next year, even though the government could afford to pay only a limited sum, as he felt that most of them were in it because they found the work interesting, rather than for the pay.

At the conclusion of the inspection the officers of the three units and the visiting officers met in the lecture room, where refreshments were served.

The staff of the Peterborough Rangers consists of Lieut.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., O.C., Major M. H. Park, second in command, Capt. R. J. Felton adjutant, Capt. J. E. R. Munro, paymaster, Capt. H. M. Yelland, medical officer, Capt. S. Whatley, quartermaster, Lieut. G. R. Melton, Assistant Adjutant, and Regimental Sergeant Major S. Calladine.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR.

Members please meet at Sunday School Hall to-night at 7.30. Final rehearsal.

ABOUT GAS PUMPS.

Dear Sir,—As a citizen and taxpayer of the City of Peterborough, I am naturally interested in the recent by-laws passed by our city council and would like to ask Mayor Denne and the members of the council who sponsored the recent campaign against curb gasoline pumps a few questions.

In the first place I would like to know if there was any demand from the citizens of Peterborough that these pumps be removed.

Permission was given by council for the erection of a curb pump less than a year ago. In what way have conditions changed in Peterborough to make necessary this drastic change.

If the increase in traffic has made this change necessary I would like to know why the pumps at the corner of McDonald and George (one of the most dangerous corners in the city) are not to be removed. If it is the fire hasard that is under consideration, those same pumps are near some of the most valuable property in the city.

I am well aware of the fact that my permit to maintain a curb pump is subject to the will of the city council and that I must remove it any time they say so, but I would like to know in what way my pump is a menace to life or property more so that those at the corner of Smith and Water or the corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie, or any of the pumps left standing.

It would also be interesting to know if our city treasury is so overflowing with wealth that our council can afford to disregard the revenue obtained from those pumps now that we are being taxed twenty-five dollars per year for each pump.

I would also like to say that I consider the curb pump a safer method of retailing gasoline than many of the so-called gas stations, where in order to obtain gas if you are on the opposite side of the street you must turn in the fact of oncoming traffic and in order to avoid a smash back across the sidewalk, which is supposed to be proper place for that modern curiosity, the pedestrian. If we have many more gas stations those of us who walk will be compelled to demand overhead crossings.

Hoping to get a little information through your valuable paper on the above subject, I am,

Yours sincerely,
J. W. GERAGHTY.

WEDDING BELLS

WILLIAMS—HILL.

The wedding took place quietly at half-past eight o'clock this morning at the parsonage of St. James' United Church, of Marion Robena, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill of Toronto, and Edward John Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon. Attendants were Miss Alma Hill of Toronto, sister of the bride, and Mr. Ellsworth Dawson of Batavia, N.Y.

The bride wore a pretty frock of pale green georgette, trimmed with cream lace, with small hat of pink and green straw and blonde shoes and hose. Her bouquet was of pink roses and white carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left by motor to spend a week in Muskoka and to visit friends later in Batavia, N.Y. The bride wore a coat of black tricotine with black satin scarf and moleskin cuffs. On their return, they will live in Peterborough.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a wrist watch, to the bridesmaid an onyx ring and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

Around the City

At about 11 o'clock on Sunday night residents in the neighborhood of Aylmer and Perry streets were startled to the point of sending in an alarm to the fire department.

In blowing out the flues of a boiler in connection with some oil heating equipment an employee of the oil company which is doing the work on roads in this district, necessarily allowed flames to shoot out at intervals, causing the alarm to be sent in.

Fire from a short circuited coil in an electric motor was responsible for the fire department receiving a call from the Canadian General power house at the Waterworks, Water street, at 1.45 p.m. this afternoon. However, the blaze had been extinguished previous to the firemen's arrival.

Earlier in the noon hour, 12.43 p. m., 577 Bolivar street called owing to a chimney fire.

MR. FREE WILL GIVE AWAY GOLD COINS FOR WHOLE WEEK

The Daily Examiner Offers Golden Opportunity To Get Vacation Nest Eggs.

MANY OTHER PRIZES.

Mr. Free, the philanthropist, with courteous manner and pleasing smile, will scatter gold coins in Peterborough, Ont, starting tomorrow and continuing for one week.

Now that vacation time is close at hand, Peterborough Examiner has decided to dispense a bit of cheer through the initiative of this gentleman, Mr. Free.

He will visit 20 homes daily for one week. He will knock at your door or ring the door bell and this is what you must do to get the gold. First—You must answer the door with the latest copy of The Daily Examiner in your hand.

THE MAGIC WORDS FOR WEDNESDAY

Second—You must repeat the following words of greeting correctly as soon as you open the door:

"Pardon me, you are Mr. Free representing The Daily Examiner a clean, newsy, Newspaper for a growing and prosperous community. I see you are driving a Hudson Super Six Sedan.

And that is all there is to it excepting that the slogan will be changed daily. If you greet Mr. Free with the recent copy of The Examiner in your hand and repeat the magic words of greeting correctly, Mr. Free will at once hand you an order for a Five Dollar Gold Piece to be changed at the Examiner office, receive your smile of thanks and go on his way, making his calls.

WATCH FOR HIS CAR

Mr. Free drives a fully-equipped and placarded Hudson Super Six Sedan, with signs that read:

"Here comes Free! There goes Free! Grab that Examiner when your door bell rings."

He will drive his car into your neighborhood and park it in the block in which he is making his calls. He never leaves his car more than one block away from where he is going to call. Just reach for The Examiner and take it to the door with you. As soon as you open the door, repeat the words of greeting, regardless of who you think is there. It may be the milk man, the ice man or someone else, but say the magic words regardless.

Maybe you are saying: "What if I should say it to the wrong man? He would think I was crazy.

Well, who wouldn't act a wee bit "off centre" for a few seconds to win a $5 gold piece,

Mr. Free selects his own car and chooses his own business places in carrying out his plans. He is gathering smiles and scattering smiles, along with the proper greeting he hands over the gold and no questions asked.

LOTS OF FUN: CONTAGIOUS

Mr. Free has been doing this work for years and has made many friends, in the meantime furnishing a lot of wholesome fun. His smile is very contagious. It spreads over the entire city quickly and the milk man, ice man and butcher's boy learn to smile when they knock on the door and are greeted with the magic words.

It's just this way, folks—this stunt is nothing more or less than fun, goodwill and smiles. Who will be the first to give Mr. Free the real smile? The names and addresses of all persons upon whom Mr. Free calls will be published in The Examiner each day. And Mr. Free will try and have something new for you each day.

There is no work connected with this contest. You do not have to solicit your friends and neighbours for subscriptions to enter. Just read the Examiner and be ready to greet Mr. Free properly with the real smile when he calls on you.

Mr. Free will make his first friendly calls tomorrow so watch today's Examiner for full particulars and rules of the contest.

Who will be the first to greet Mr. Free properly when he calls on you?

Cloud Like Typhoon Hovers Over City

William Curtis, a night employee of The Brinton Carpet Works, told The Examiner of a remarkable phenomenon that occurred in the eastern skies about 12.45 Saturday morning. A huge black mass like a cloud appeared in the sky with a swirling motion like a typhoon but there was no wind, the night being perfectly still. From behind the cloud there was a halo that grew and diminished in size with the swirling motion of the mass. The whole spectacle was accompanied by a moaning sound Mr. Curtis said it impressed him as if there was some imprisoned force seeking release. This continued until dawn. Mr. Curtis and his fellow employees who witnessed the spectacle said they seemed to be seized with the desire to reach up and pull the cloud apart to release whatever was trapped within.

Railroad Employee Found Wounded

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Clem Mysiack, aged about 36 years, section hand employed by the Canadian National Railways at Rock Lake, Ont., lies in the Civic Hospital here in an unconscious condition with a bullet lodged in his body just above the heart. Little hope is held for his recovery.

The man, who emigrated from Europe to this country some years ago, was rushed to the Capital Sunday, after being found late Saturday critically wounded in his little shack at Rock Lake. A .22 calibre rifle was lying on the floor of the shack besides Mysiack's body.

Fellow workers of Mysiack, and the surgeon who is attending him here, are of the opinion that it is a case of attempted suicide. No motive for the act is ventured, however.

ONE MAN KILLED IN ITALIA'S FALL

AMUNDSEN ON ICE.

KING'S BAY, June 26 (Canadian Press).—At least one of the seven men who were in the bag of the dirigible Italia and were carried off on May 25 without trace, is believed to have been killed in falling from the forward compartment.

This was Vincenzo Pomella, a motor attendant. Latest advices indicate that he was undoubtedly killed in the fall. The fate of his six companions in the bag is unknown.

To Search For Amundsen.

COPENHAGEN, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Private concerns in Norway are preparing to send a small Arctic ship to search for Raold Amundsen between the Norwegian coast and the eastern part of Spitzbergen.

Thinks Plane On Ice.

OSLO, Norway, June 26 (Canadian Press).—The captain of the whaling ship Hobby, which arrived at Tromsoe from Spitzbergen to-day, said he felt no alarm for the safety of Raold Amundsen and his companions. He though the plane had probably landed on ice.

Mechanic Will Drop.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 26. — (Canadian Press).—A Swedish mechanic has offered to drop by parachute from an airplane upon the ice floe on which four members of the Nobile party are marooned and help the aviator stranded there repair his plane.

Rescue Delayed

OSLO, Norway, June 26 (Canadian Press).—The rescue party at Virgo Bay now fears that it will be impossible to save the rest of Nobile's party and the Swedish flier, Lieut. Lundberg, marooned off Northeast Land, for three or four weeks.

It is hoped, however, that the ice will soon break up sufficiently to make possible the landing of a large seaplane to take off the whole party in one group. Hope of saving the three men who started on foot for land almost a month ago is considered very small.

May Drop Skiis.

KING'S BAY, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Efforts are to be made as soon as possible to drop spare parts to Lieut. Lundberg, the Swedish flier now stranded with five men of the Nobile party off North-East Land. If skiis are dropped to him, Lundberg hopes to be able to re-fit the plane for the return hop.

Meanwhile, there is hesitation about attempting any more landings near the party, and the task of saving them by plane seems increasingly difficult. Because of the fog there is little probability of any flights today.

RESCUE DENIED.

ROME, June 26 (Canadian Press). —Yesterday's report that Natale Cecconi, motor chief of the dirigible Italia, had been rescued from the Nobile camp off North East Land, now appears to be unfounded.

No confirmation of the report could be obtained, and it appeared that an error in transmission of the message was responsible for the erroneous information.

ENGLAND WINS TEST

LONDON, June 26 (Canadian Press).—England won the first cricket test match with the West Indians today, at Lords, by an innings and 58 runs.

BONARLAW, June 26. — Mr. George Garrett, evangelist, of Foxmead, Ont., has in his possession one of the oldest newspapers in the world. This particular paper measures 10 by 12 inches, and is dated Monday, April 29, 1643. A small margin is left on the side of the page for mistakes. The paper sold at 14 cents a copy, to be sold only by L Okes. at the Old Bailey. Mr. Garrett has several copies of old newspapers in his possession, including one containing the death notice of Napoleon Bonaparte, which is bound in black.

TWO DWELLINGS BEING ERECTED

TO COST $3,000 EACH.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons has granted two building permits for the erection of new dwellings in the city during the past few days. George Curtis is building a new house on Armour Road at an estimated cost of $3,000. It will have a concrete foundation, with brick veneer walls, and will be finished in pine. Samuel Abbott has commenced work on a two-storey six-room dwelling on Charlotte Street, west of Monaghan Road. The estimated cost is $3,000, and it will be completed about December 1.

ROBBERY AND SLAYING LINKED

Specialist in Mail Thefts Shot Day After Leviathan Sailed.

POLICE HAVE THEORY.

NEW YORK, June 26 (Canadian Press).—An attempt to link the $500,000 Leviathan mail robbery and the murder of Edwin J. Jerge, alias Edward Carter, an underworld character, was being made to-day by police and postal inspectors.

Jerge was shot to death June 17, as he sat with an unidentified woman in an automobile on Broadway. He was said to have specialized in mail thefts. His slaying occurred the day after the Leviathan sailed from New York. The authorities are working on the theory that Jerge was slain because he "knew too much" about the robbery, or, possibly, after a quarrel over the division of the loot.

LADY CASHIER LOSES LIFE IN GAS EXPLOSION

Six Others Seriously Injured When Gasoline Tank Explodes.

AT MONTREAL

Authorities Unable to Throw Any Light on Origin of Explosion.

MONTREAL, Que., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Olive Despre, 26-year-old cashier at the St. Henry Garage, Notre Dame street west, was instantly killed and six men were injured when a gasoline tank exploded at the garage late yesterday. Several other persons were injured in the blast, but were allowed to go to their homes after treatment at the scene of the accident.

The dead woman, whose parents are believed to live out of town, was in the office of the garage when the blast from the fifty gallon gasoline tank wrecked the lower front portion of the building. Her body was found horribly burned among the debris.

Fire authorities could throw no light on the origin of the explosion.

EATON STORES ARE ALTERED

BEING REMODBELLED.

Since the new management came to the Peterborough branch of Canadian Department Stores, Limited, several changes have been made, but none more radical than, and at the same time as pleasing as, the one now in course of completion. Beginning last night, all such goods as hosiery, gloves, linens, staples, wash goods, notions, ribbons, and laces, millinery and other lines, were moved to the Teco Store at the corner of George and Simcoe Streets, and today the entire main floor of the C.D.S.L. Store is being remodelled and prepared to house a large boot and shoe department, as well as men's and boys' clothing and furnishings.

It is also understood that some changes will be made in the entrances and show windows of the C.D.S.L. Store.

Oppose Sunday Swim By Young and Others

GUELPH, June 26.—Announcement of a Sunday swimming exhibition at Puslinch Lake on July 1 by George Young and other natators who are being trained for the C.N.E. Marathon has brought a strong protest from the Guelph Ministerial Association.

Meeting in special session yesterday, members of the Association passed a unanimous resolution denouncing the entertainment as a desecration of the Sabbath and calling on the City Council to take action to prevent the carrying out of the program. The ministers also raised objection to the holding of a post-midnight dance at the lake which is advertised to commence at 12.15 a.m. on Monday, July 2.

TORONTO, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — The Baptist attitude to church union received clear exposition at the Baptist World Alliance to-day in an address by Dr. George F. W. Patterson, president of Acadia University, Wolfeville, N.S.

"The common heritage of Protestantism must be preserved for the world," he declared, "even though the distinctive tenets of the Baptists be lost." Notwithstanding this, the speaker maintained that in the present state of the Protestant World the Baptists had no alternative but to continue as a separate denomination.

The fact that the Baptists were meeting to-day as a World Alliance, showed that they felt they were justified in continuing as a distinct church, he said.

Steals Money—Helps Look For It

GUELPH, June 26.— Clifford Rice and Frank Leitch were working together on a farm in Erin Township. Rice saw a roll of bills—$32—drop from Leitch's pocket, so he picked it up.

When Leitch missed the money, Rice naively helped him to look for it, going over the ground thoroughly and carefully. Then he went home. Leitch, however, was not satisfied, and, in his effort to find the money, pumped dry a well on whic hhe had been working, but still found no signs of his $32.

In Police Court yesterday Rice admitted stealing the money, and the remainder of the story was told by Crown Attorney Kearns.

On Rice's promise being given to make restitution, the case was amicably settled.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO PUT HOSPITAL BOARD'S REQUEST TO VOTE OF PEOPLE IN FALL

Deputation From Board Waits On Council To Outline Needs.

HOSPITAL CROWDED.

Greater Use Being Made of Hospital Facilities Now—65 Beds To Be Added.

After hearing a delegation from the Nicholls Hospital Board last night, the City Council, meeting in committee of the whole council, decided to put to a vote of the people the board's request for $300,000 for an extension to the hospital. The vote will be taken some time in September, the hospital board preferring to have it then in order to give them a good start on plans and preliminary work for next spring.

Vincent Eastwood acted as spokesman for the hospital board. He recounted the hospital's history briefly. The endowment is about $230,000, while the hospital and additions have been provided for entirely out of private funds. The south wing cost $60,000 and the nurses' home $30,000 without cost to the public.

About fifteen months ago the board saw that new accommodation was needed. The city and district have hospital facilities of about 225 beds for 40,000 people, whereas Kingston has 500 for the same population. Other cities of the same size were in the same position as Peterborough, but have made progress recently.

The hospital has a capacity of 85 and is full, although there are no epidemics. Accommodation is particularly needed for maternity cases. At present the board is considering renting two houses for the nurses so that the nurses' home can be used for hospital accommodation.

To Ask For Subscriptions.

The board has sketch plans for an addition of 65 beds, which will cost $350,000. The board will ask the city for $300,000 and the citizens for $100,000, half to be spent on equipment and half to be used as an endowment for the equipment. Other cities have followed this plan and the ratepayers have responded generously.

The matter would, of course, have to be voted on by the people, whether shortly or at the municipal elections to be decided on later.

R. J. Kidd pointed out that the board has given great thought to the matter. He repeated the statement that the hospital has been provided for the city at no direct cost, but now the burden will have to be borne.

Robert Fair supported the statements of his colleagues stressing the need for a maternity ward.

Many Repairs Needed.

E. F. Mason desired to clear up the seemingly excessive cost of $350,000 for 65 extra beds. He pointed out that much of the old building would have to be practically torn down and completely renovated, while a new heating plant and laundry will have to be provided.

John Crane called attention to the fact that people are turning to the hospitals more and more, especially in maternity cases. There were 300 births in the hospital last year.

He also remarked on Mr. Eastwood's estimate of 40,000 people served, quoting Dr. McCulloch as saying that 65,000 would be more correct.

Mr. Eastwood pointed out that the hospital accommodation in maternity cases is cheaper than having help in the home with nerve rocking distractions avoided.

Ald. Greene asked why the people of Peterborough should be asked to bear the whole burden.

Mr. Eastwood explained that there is a government grant for each patient, while the extension of territory provides more patients, whose payments help to provinde.

Average Cost $3,41 a Day

In answer to a question, Mr. Crane explained that indigent patients bring in an income of $2.35 a day each while the daily cost to the hospital is $3.41. The average cost for the provision is shrdh drlahrdc for the province is $3.57.

Mayor Denne ,in summing up, remarked that the city had enjoyed

Around the City

Several units of the fire department were called out at eleven o'clock las tnight, but on arrival at the Canadian Packing Company's plant on George street, found no cause for alarm. Communication with the Telephone Exchange revealed that the fire was at the Elliott mill and not at the packing plant at all. A hurried run to the Elliott mill was made and a fire was found in the small boiler house located at the rear of the main building. However, it was of little consequence and failed to warrant the attention of ladder trucks and pumpers.

OMEMEE COUPLE CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sandy, M.P.P., Honored By Friends at Social Gathering.

TOASTS MADE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, June 26.—In their beautiful home situated a short distance west of Omemee, F. C. Sandy, M.P.P., and his bride of twenty-five years, marked the occasion of their silver anniversary on Saturday evening, when they were "At Home" to a few of their many friends. The rooms were pretty with bridal wreath and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy were assisted in receiving their guests by their daughters, Miss Doris Sandy, B.A., of Port Perry, and Miss Genevieve, of Toronto, the bride wearing a pretty gown of rose geogette with corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and smilax.

Many of the guests were those who had been present at the wedding twenty-five years ago. Among them was Mrs. E. Fee of Peterborough, formerly Miss Effie Best, who was the bridesmaid. She was becomingly attired in bisque georgette. It was regretted that the groomsman, Charles Robinson, of Montreal, was unable to be present. During the evening, Messrs. Widdiss and Northrup, of Peterborough, delighted the guests with a generous program of violin and piano selections.

About 6 p.m. the wedding dinner was served. Two long tables arranged in the spacious sun porch and dining-room were very attractive, being decorated in pink and white with roses, and silver candlesticks bearing the same shade of candles. Centred on the bride's table was the large wedding cake. Misses Doris and Genevieve Sandy, Jessie Lamb, Mary Weir and Helen Johnston made charming assistants, and were very capable in catering to the desires of the guests.

After the dinner, Rev. E. W. Rowland, filling the role of toastmaster, proposed the toast to the King.

The toast to the bride and groom was proposed by J. J. Robertson of Dunsford, and was responded to by Mr. H. Lamb, both of whom paid glowing tributes to Mr. and Mrs. Sandy. Mr. Lamb had been a guest at the wedding, and his reminiscences of days gone by, recalled to light much humor. On behalf of Mrs. Sandy and himself, Mr. Sandy replied to the toast in his usual capable manner. He assured the guests that their acceptance of the invitation had given them the greatest possible pleasure.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by David Weir, and was responded to by W. C. Veals. Mr. Weir referred to heroic women of history and then struck a lighter vein and sought to give some sound advice to the younger married men as to the use of diplomacy. He concluded in the words of the old adage, "Bless their dear hearts! We cannot do much without them, neither can we do much with them." During the dinner the toastmaster read several telegrams of congratulations from friends distant. Rev. E. W. Rowland delighted the gathering with an appropriate solo.

The guests then repaired to the living-room, where old acquaintances were received. During this hour of social intercourse, the remainder of the guests were served. The latter part of the evening was spent in music.

The invited guests included the following: Mrs. E. Fee of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Robinson of Montreal, Rev. W. M. and Mrs. Kannawin of Toronto, Rev. E. W. and Mrs. Rowland, Rev. D. M. Stinson of Demorestville, Rev. W. J. H. Smyth of Wellington, Rev. P. Bruce Thornton of Winnipeg, Mr. and Mrs. W. Best of Omemee, Mr. and Mrs. J. Best of Mount Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. H. In spite of the threatening showers the attendance was good and the ladies disposed of all their wares and were delighted at the financial results. The ladies were all pleased at the results of their efforts. Among those in charge were Mrs. (Rev). J. Ross, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath (president of the W.M.S.), Mrs. J. M. Simpson (secretary), Mrs. C. Build Fire Tank.

At a recent meeting of the council a motion was passed to authorize the building of a large tank for fire protection purposes on the west side of the river in the district known as the Presbyterian hill section. The north-west section can be served from the river, but the south-west section was practically unprotected. This is another forward step in the matter of fire protection and one which the village may feel increases the efficiency of that excellent body of good citizens known as the Lakefield fire brigade.

Master Roland Kennedy had the misfortune to run a rusty nail through his hand on Thursday evening last when he was in company with some of his young friends at a shack where the boys have been enjoying camp life since school closed. The injured lad was brought home and medical aid summoned and while the wound was serious, no complications have set in and the doctor pronounces the danger over.

Mr. Alec. Macdonald was the victim of a painful accident at the Lakefield Canoe Co.'s plant on Thursday, when he lost two fingers. Mr. Macdonald is doing as well as possible.

REV. J. GRIER RECEIVES CALL

Congregation Will Try To Persuade Him To Stay in Campbellford.

MANY CHANGES.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25. — After the evening service last night, the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here were given their first opportunity to deal with the call which the Presbyterian Church in Lindsay has extended to Rev. James C. Grier. The rumour that the call had been sent has been common talk for some weeks, but Mr. Grier, when interviewed, said he had received no call. He did not know what was being done in the Lindsay Presbytery. Before the sermon last night Rev. A. R. Uren, Ph.D., read a letter from the secretary of the Peterborough Presbytery asking the people of St. Andrew's to deal with the matter at a congregational meeting. He pointed out that the Presbytery would meet at 9.30 on Tuesday morning in the Presbyterian Church, Cobourg, and that a deputation from the Campbellford Church was requested. If there were no one present, it would be assumed by the Presbytery that the church was in favor of the change being made.

At the meeting last night Mr. Grier was not present. Rev. Mr. Uren presided. Apparently it is not the wish of the people that Mr. Grier leave, since it was decided to send a deputation to the Presbytery to attempt to induce Mr. Grier to remain in Campbellford. The six men who were appointed to attend the meeting in Cobourg were J. A. Anderson, Robert Innes, John McGregor, William Cock, R. N. Morrison, and William Clarke. Upon their efforts will the issue largely depend.

Seldom has Campbellford experienced such a wholesale exchange of ministers as is taking place this summer. Of the seven churches, three ministers preached their farewell sermons yesterday. Should Mr. Grier be transferred to Lindsay, his farewell sermon will, in all probability, be preached next Sunday. Last night Rev. Ernest Harston, St. John's United Church, preached his last sermon as its minister. Rev. C. D. Daniel, Seymour United Circuit, also said farewell to his flock. Captain and Mrs. MacMillan, of the Salvation Army, will leave for Whitby on Thursday, and they, too, made their formal farewells last night. Next Sunday, Campbellford will welcome three new ministers to its churches, and probably bid farewell to a fourth.

Gather for Closing Event With Teachers on Closing Day.

GOOD SPORTS PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, June 26.—On Friday afternoon, to mark the closing of school, the public school students with their teachers held their annual picnic at Fee's Landing. Cars were provided by the parents of the children to convey the picnicers to and from their destination. During the long afternoon, the boys and girls entered whole-heartedly into the various sports, ball games and races, without which no picnic would be complete, and as the sun was slowly sinking in the West, seated in a circle on the spacious grounds, an abundance of cake and sandwiches, with a liberal quantity of lemonade provided by the teachers, soon made a disappearance. Several group photos were taken, which are always an entertainment for children, and some of the older pupils enjoyed a dip in the cool water before their return home.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan entertained the members of her Sunday School class at her home. During the evening, Morgan Rowland, who is about to sever his connection from the class, was presented with a pair of military brushes by his fellow-associates. On Sunday, Master Lloyd Rowland was presented by his teacher Miss Jessie Lamb, and boy members of the class with an engraved signet ring, accompanied by a brief address.

PASTOR PREACHES FAREWELL SERMON

Rev. W. W. Jones, of Warkworth, Will Take Over New Duties at Millbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, June 26. — Rev. W. W. Jones, who is leaving for his new charge at Millbrook on Thursday preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening. Before giving his address, Mr. Jones spoke of his successor, Rev. F. H. Howard and Mrs. Howard in highest terms of praise.

Spirit of Courage.

The subject of the address was "Spirit of Courage," which is needed to-day to meet problems of life as Christians. The text was taken from the first chapter of Daniel, the eighth verse: "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat no r with the wine which he drank."

Just as Daniel needed courage, physically, intellectually, and spiritually, so does anyone to-day. Anyone who stands alone for right will meet with obstacles, but if they are strong in their belief God will in some way remove the obstacles. To be strong enough and to think clearly and to be a Christian one must have courage.

District News.

IS A MISER AN ECONOMIST?

—Webster

No, a miser is not an economist. Misers, for example, would never use Wakefield CASTROL Motor Oil, because it costs a few cents a quart more than ordinary oils.

A miser wouldn't spend his money to learn that while CASTROL costs a little more, it gives the car double, treble, four times the mileage before an oil change is necessary.

Castrol Users are Thrifty Men

More and more thinking motorists are today using CASTROL, because CASTROL gives greater mileage and also provides perfect lubrication under every condition.

CASTROL was developed and perfected many years ago in England to meet the lubrication problem of the high speed, high compression motor—the same problem which is now interesting America.

Economize and play safe.
Fill your crankcase with CASTROL today.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

NOT A HUNDRED MILES from Peterborough there is being shown one of the most gorgeous patchwork quilts I have ever seen, to be entered at a Fall fair. It is in the once popular "Eight walls of Jerico" pattern, with improvements, and if it doesn't win a prize it will at least brighten and beautify the room fortunate enough to have it thrown over a bed. Quilting is one joy of the pioneer that does not seem to fade in these more modern times, and few homes in Peterborough district are without their patchwork quilts.

Cooking for two is a great problem of every woman at some period in her married life, and hints on how to do it are correspondingly valuable. As suggested a couple of weeks ago, I shall be glad to publish these hints, of which several have already come in. Mrs. C. B. says: "My husband and I like roast lamb, but we don't like second day roast. I buy four rib chops and french them. This makes a tiny crown roast that is both tasty and economical."

• • • • •

"I use a skewer to serve small portions of meat roasted," says Mrs. J. D. "I cut the beef, veal or mutton about an inch thick, and skewer two with a curl of bacon between. There's no waste and the meal is very tasty, especially if potatoes are roasted in the dish."

A neat, but uncommon, town frock was seen on Saturday, the wearer stepping from an Ohio car. It was of crepe in a small, close pattern, and the blouse had kerchief collar, flat tiers, and low-placed flare in front and back. The long, close sleeves had kerchief cuffs, and the flaring circular flounce was apparently cut in two pieces and sewed to a slip.

In the same party was a girl of about 12, with a dainty slip-over frock that had real charm gathered in with its bertha collar and scalloped flounces. It had a long body and ruffled two-tiered skirt. Collar and skirt were set off with dainty appliqued designs.

"Come here this minute, or I'll tell the policeman," I heard a mother say to her wandering child at George and Hunter. There happened to be a policeman within hearing, and as the child turned doubtful eyes in his direction he smiled—looking more benevolent than fearsome. Policemen generally are! Isn't it a pity that parents continue to wield their authority by proxy through the policeman and the bogey man? It's not just flattering to parents, is it?

• • • • •

No," said one woman of a couple sitting in front of me at the Capitol the other night. "When I make up my mind, it stays made up." One could almost see the self satisfaction in the tilt of her head. But where is the merit in steadfastness of the abstract type? (I have heard it called pig-headedness!) There is no virtue, either, in changeableness. It's the ability to change one's mind and viewpoint to keep abrast of altering conditions that counts. Don't be everlastingly changing—but don't be afraid to change when common sense dictates.

Out at a Chemong cottage I had something new (to me) in the way of popcorn served with soft chocolate custard. It's really good.

And by the way, do you know that one tablespoon of corn makes about a cup popped?

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

White pique suit with blouse and coat lining of navy blue and white printed handkerchief linen. The natural colored straw hat has a blue band.

One need not be a princess nor a millionaire's daughter to wear silks and satins nowadays nor is the girl in gingham or calico or coarse linen likely to be a Maud Muller raking the hay. The fact is that poor girls go to their work in chiffon and taffeta and rich girls go to their pleasures in the materials once considered of humbler sorts. Even though the cotton or linen material itself may be somewhat less expensive than the silk or satin, most women seem to feel that unless they can afford a good many frocks silks are more serviceable.

Where the best-dressed women resort this summer you are sure to see ever so many cotton and linen frocks, however, and there are occasions when no silk materials can possibly seem so smart. The sketch shows a new summer suit of white pique lined with printed linen, chosen for resort wear by a woman of fashion who has done much in her own set to popularize the new cottons and linens.

Turkish toweling is used a great deal in the making of beach wraps and other accessories this summer, and it is called Turkish toweling and not terry cloth or sponge as it was in other seasons. A beach coat that I saw the other day was made in knee length in box cut, of Turkish toweling showing a white ground with polka dots as large as baseballs.

Sometimes, you know, there are beach rugs of the Turkish toweling to match the beach coat, and as long as they are considered such a smart accessory this season I think that every one who is planning to spend part of the summer at the shore ought to possess one. They dry so much more easily than woolen rugs and, being thick and porous, keep out the dampness and sand quite as well.

They are made as large as a steamer rug and are sometimes edged or decorated with cut-outs of oil cloth. But this isn't necessary, of course, and I like them better without this decoration, which isn't comfortable to lie on.

CARE OF MOTHERS URGED IN BRITAIN

Minister of Health Wages War On "Cruelest Scourge of Race."

TORONTO, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Miss K. M. Lizars, the Canadian author who wrote "In the Days of the Canada Company" and "Humors of '37," is at present in England. She writes to the "Mail and Empire" anent maternal mortality in London:

"The Minister of Health, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, has declared war on what he called one of the cruellest scourges of the race—the permanent injury and often the death of women in child-birth. One of the papers, in describing Mr. Chamberlain's speech on the subject, before the House of Commons, spoke of him as 'taking as it were an oath of service, with the white face and restrained passion of a recruit in a noble cause.' His usually chill and flat tones, they say, throbbed with emotion, and the Minister who reins his feelings hard, for once slackened the bit. The House, signifying its approval, remembered that his own mother died in childbirth.

"In enumerating the lowering of the general death-rate from 14 to 12.3 a thousand, and the infant death-rate from 80 to 70 a thousand, and referring to the strenuous campaign against cancer, rheumatism, etc., Mr. Chamberlain went on to speak of the one thing that had been neglected. 'One figure,' he is quoted as saying, 'shows no improvement, though it concerns a vital subject—the figure of maternal mortality. It seems to me a terrible thing that this rate has remained unchanged for 20 years.'

"Following a general enquiry into the causes of maternal mortality, the Ministry of Health has decided that every case throughout the country is to be the subject of immediate investigation by the local officer of health. And to make sure of results, it has been decided, also, that a committee, similar to that now in charge of cancer research, shall be established, and will have to prepare reports which will come up for review every three months before another special committee."

MARION'S MAIL.

"San Toy" asks: "What is 'Tricoline'?"

Tricoline is the registered trade mark of a British-made fabric advertised as "The equal to silk." It is said to wash well and to be equally good for frocks or lingerie.

Mrs. V. B. says her eyes appear "heavy," and asks if there is anything to be done to brighten them.

The first rule for the woman who would have beautiful eyes is to have good general health. Beauty parlors and patent eye-baths and whatnot cannot repair the ravages caused by faulty hygiene. When the poets wrote about "Eyes like limpid pools," or "Eyes like summer seas," it is certain they hadn't looked into the eyes on the morning after a late night! Nothing injures the appearance of the eyes so much as late hours. Cultivate a cheerful mind—remembering that the mind looks out through the eyes, and people can also look in. Drink a glass of lemon water, or some orange juice on rising—they are wonderful eye-brighteners. Bathe your eyes in cold water to strengthen them, and at night use tepid water with boracic. If the eyes are swollen, apply a cold-tea compress over each closed eyelid. Our grandmothers placed much faith in it, and they knew a lot we have forgotten in this day of tinned and boxed aids to beauty! But for permanent results, attend to your general health and habits first.

"Bessie," Mrs. W. S., and "Phyllis" all have something to say about the $150 dress budget published a week ago Saturday. This was not intended to show what the well-dressed girl should wear, but how a girl could dress on the $150 which she could afford to spend. There's quite a difference! Many girls in Peterborough earn only $10 a week. If they pay $6 a week board and spend $150 a year on clothes, only $58 is left for dentist, doctor, amusement, vacation, and all the extras which are bound to make their needs known. On the other hand, last Saturday's girl would be well-dressed, and apparently is of the fortunate class that does not have to count dollars.

Mrs. J. J. says she would rather have the $52 a year to spend on clothes than let her husband spend it on insurance, referring to Saturday's article on budgeting. That, of course, is Mrs. J. J.'s privilege, but it is very foolish. Insurance is a form of investment and protection which no married woman can afford to ignore.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

For Tuesday, June 26, 1928.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

One benefic aspect appears to dominate this day, according to astrology. It is a sway under which to push all matters that require clear judgment.

Under this direction of the stars graduates from the colleges of the land should benefit, since it is believed that foresight is imparted under this planetary government.

This should be an auspicious day to discuss one's future, whether it be a career or a venture into marriage.

Neptune continues in an aspect supposed to be favorable to those antagonistic to the eighteenth amendment, astrologers declare.

This is a day favorable to artistic enterprises. Concerts and theatres are subject to fair guidance from the stars.

The seers foretell that many young musical and literary geniuses will be discovered in this year which promises supreme attainments a decade hence.

Women are now subject to aspects tending to make them serious in their aims and less concerned about personal attractiveness.

Beauty is to continue prevalent but the accepted standard is to change, astrologers forecast.

Ireland continues under a promising rule that should benefit trade and encourage all the people.

Continually, astrologers warn of violent storms that will cause great loss in various parts of the world.

Again, a novel method of providing power for engines is foretold. It will eliminate gasoline as fuel for automobiles, the seers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have an inclination to enjoy forbidden pleasures. They should be careful all through the year.

Children born on this day pobably will be mentally alert. Subjects of this sign usually are interested in literary pursuits.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1928.

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology. As the day advance benefic aspects dominate.

Under this planetary government the early morning is likely to be a time when dissatisfaction is voiced and quarrels started.

Men may be especially irritable at breakfast, but they will recover their poise after midday.

Initiative should be delayed until there is a more favorable rule of the stars. A week hence the stars will smile on new ventures.

This is read as a fairly lucky wedding day, although it may lead to family differences of opinion.

The bride of today is likely to rule her husband and to administer their joint affairs successfully.

Because of the strong occult influences dimly discerned by the average person the desire for amusement that prevents thinking or reaching out toward the unknown will be widely prevalent all through the summer.

Music will gain a popularity hitherto unknown in the United States, the seers prophesy, and great artists will arise in America.

All who desire new positions today may safely seek interviews with persons who have power to bestow them.

The rule of the stars is most favorable for all who wield authority. Governors and mayors should benefit.

This is an encouraging sign for those who must borrow money. Bankers may be less forbidding to-day than they are at other times.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid speculation in the coming year. They will be lucky in love and in business.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely ambitious but they should be taught the value of caution.

NO ONE SMILES ON LONELY ISLE

Women See Electric Light and Upholstered Furniture For First Time.

TORONTO, June 26 (Canadian Press).—One of the visitors to the Island of Tristan da Cunha has just returned to this city. In a colorful interview, D. Miles describes odd things he noticed when the "Empress" docked with long awaited supplies.

The visit to the ship was almost pathetic to the Canadian onlookers. Most of the women had never seen an electric light, nor upholstered furniture. Most of them had never been on a ship. Three or four of the men had tasted ice cream before on a ship, but the rest of the inhabitants tried it for the first time. The whole island was invited to dinner by the captain. "Not one of them would take a potato," Mr. Miles explained, "since that was one of the few things on their everyday fare. What they liked most of all were the rolls. They had not tasted white flour for over a year. They ate nine bushels of rolls at dinner, and vegetables.

"The children never laugh," he said. "Neither do the grown-ups. Tristan is called the lonely island. The loneliness must have had some effect on them. The dogs never even bark." As an example of how expressionless are the faces of these lonely people, Mr. Miles related his observations of the women when they were given nice things by the passengers of the "Empress of France." "Of course, they thanked the people who gave them profusely, but their faces never changed. These women were dressed in the fashion of fifty years ago, with skirts right down to their ankles and mutton leg sleeves. We saw one of them lookely closely at the flapper dress of one of the young ladies on board whose skirts came just about to the knee.

"I asked the Tristan woman what she thought of the fashion. She was very tactful. 'In your world,' she said, 'you have what you call fashions; in Tristen we have no fashions.' I also asked several of the women whether they would like to leave the island. They were horrified at the idea. They were born there, they said, and they wanted to stay there."

To a large extent they live a community life. One of the passengers on the "Empress" had brought a gift for one of the women. "Is it personal?" the latter asked. "Otherwise I'll have to divide it among the others."

TUESDAY, JUNE 26, 1928.

REV. JAMES GORDON.

Ministerial colleagues have testified to their deep sense of personal loss in the departure of Rev. James W. Gordon from St. Andrew's Church to take the pulpit of the Welland Avenue Church in St. Catharines, and to these expressions of regret The Examiner may be privileged to add the opinion that Mr. Gordon will be missed throughout the city generally.

Few ministers have in such a comparatively short time made so many warm friends as the pastor of St. Andrew's, whose qualities made a successful appeal to many citizens who knew him as the man rather than as the pastor.

He has taken a keen interest in this community ever since coming here; he liked Peterborough and showed it; he liked Peterborough people and was willing to acknowledge it; in many ways he has helped to make this a better city, and to make the lives of many of our citizens brighter and happier because of his interest.

Rev. James Gordon has been a good citizen, and The Examiner is always sorry to have to chronicle the loss of such men.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Congratulations extended by the Rotary Club yesterday to Rev. Father Paul Costello upon his appointment as one of the two Dominion chaplains of the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion will be echoed by the citizens generally and by Peterborough's ex-service men in particular.

Local war veterans have no more consistent or warm-hearted friend than Rev. Father Costello, whose interest in their welfare has been so frequently demonstrated and whose efforts on behalf of the Great War Veterans' Association and its successor, the Canadian Legion, have been outstanding.

Rev. Father Costello has represented Peterborough returned men at several Dominion conventions, and the fact that he was signally honored by last week's convention at St. John by his appointment as Dominion chaplain is evidence that the regard in which he is held by local members of the Canadian Legion is shared by their comrades in all parts of the Dominion, who have been impressed by his many good qualities and his intense zeal on behalf of returned men generally.

His appointment is alike an honor to himself, to the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and to the community at large.

PLAY SAFE—IT PAYS.

The bathing season is under way, and a suggestion to parents that they urge their children to swim only in safe areas where supervision and protection are provided would seem to be in order.

The percentage of swimmers in Peterborough, thanks to the providing of supervised swimming beaches, to the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., which institutions have been responsible for hundreds learning the useful art, and to the Rotary Club, which provided a swimming instructor at Inverlea Park last summer, is large in proportion to population, and that condition can be regarded as highly satisfactory.

At the same time it should be remembered, however, that some of the "old swimming holes" most favored by young swimmers are without protection, and are of such a nature that inexpert bathers are taking a chance.

The safest rule is to confine swimming as far as possible to points where facilities are available for rescue purposes, and where the bathers are under supervision.

The wise parent, therefore, will see to it that his family avoids the dangerous points and swims only where some measure of protection is provided.

It is a fact that drowning claims as many victims in Ontario as the motor car, and it is, therefore, the duty of every one to see that the element of risk is as far as possible eliminated.

A HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Realizing that accidents are most likely to occur under holiday conditions when traffic is at its heighth, the Industrial Accident Prevention Association has issued a timely holiday notice, which is brief and to the point.

It is as follows:

"Some remember holidays with joy, some with sorrow. Holidays, like Dominion Day and Labor Day, will draw tens of thousands of motorists into the highways; for this reason you will have to watch for various forms of recklessness to save your own life and limb. It is safe to stop before crossing any railway. Drive carefully and enjoy life."

The concluding sentence should in particular be remembered along with the Quebec warning, that there is no use speeding if you never get there.

There has been a multiplicity of safety slogans since campaigns to awaken the people of Canada to a sense of the necessity of care began, but among them all there are none more striking than the two referred to:

"Drive carefully and enjoy life.

"There is no use speeding if you never get there."

Motorists should have both of these in their minds whenever they take a trip on the highways.

WHAT PRICE IMMIGRANTS?

(From The Hamilton Herald.)

The immigration debate will have done much good if it has drawn attention to the main requisite—the lack of people who want to come to Canada on a self-supporting basis. Subsidized industries are rarely of any advantage to a community, and subsidized immigrants are much in the same category. To judge from the complaints of some immigrants, the agents in European countries are not so careful to make the conditions of life here understood as they might, and the result is that many people arrive under what they are apt to describe as false pretences. They become embittered against the country and all that concerns it, and they tell their friends in Europe what they have had to suffer. The story loses nothing in the telling, and immigration loses accordingly. Canada is no place for weaklings, and unfortunately there are too many of them sent from England and other places. Hence Miss McPhail's tears. The stock that supplied the immigrants of a century ago has still the same quality of men and women, and if they can be assured of such conditions as would tempt them to make a change we could have no better class of people. But England has changed in a century and the people who once would have left her shores to better themselves now find themselves very comfortable there and in no mood to venture into the unknown of Canada. Young men in England are no longer seized to the same extent with the desire for adventure and hardship that once appealed to them. They have the "black coat" and the "cigarette" point of view, and forests and mines and prairie farms present no fascinations to them. There is much that might be done to create what some people would call an immigration psychology. But it will have to be done in quite a different way from the methods now pursued. Once the flowing stream is started there will be no end to it, and we may find too many people willing to come. There cannot be too many people willing to undertake the right sort of life. The chief appeal should be to the young people and such appeals should be through agencies which the young people know and trust. One of these is the Boy Scouts; another, the Girl Guides; another, the universities and technical schools. It may be questioned whether these channels would be available for such propaganda, but where there is a will there is a way and sufficiently diplomatic means might be adopted to reach what would prove to be the most suitable class of immigrants that can be found. There is too much of an appeal made for the under-average class, and emigration in England is too frequently looked upon as a method of disposing of undesirables. Hence, again, Miss McPhail's tears. The undesirable is no more desirable in a new environment, as a rule, than in his old. The effort should therefore be made to gain the interest of the very best class of citizens in every country, and to convince them that whether a city or country Canada is a better land than the one they live in.

A SURPRISING DECISION.

Many householders who have felt secure in regard to loss by fire owing to the fact that they had their houses and household effects insured must have received a severe shock when they read of the judgment recently given by Mr. Justice Riddell and concurred in by Chief Justice Latchford. Mr. Justice Orde and Mr. Justice Middleton to the effect that a fire insurance policy when it provides protection for a house "only when occupied as a private dwelling" does not provide protection when it is not occupied.

The circumstances which led up to the trying of the case arose in Algoma where a building was burned down while vacant. It is understood that the insurance company raised the point of law that the owner of the property had no legal claim, owing to the building being vacant, which view was supported by the courts.

While there is considerable inclination in some legal circles to disagree with the decision of the learned judges, nevertheless the judgment has been given and given by outstanding authorities. The fact that the law is so interpreted will no doubt cause considerable uneasiness among property owners who have been accustomed to going away for weeks at a time under the impression that their insurance policy covered them against the danger of loss by fire. This protection in those cases where the buildings are left empty, now appears to be null and void.

It is a strange thing that such a condition should exist. It is claimed that the addition of a clause offering protection during vacancy would not invalidate the main condition and that the only remedy lies in legislation. The need of some amendment in the interest of property owners was pointed out by Mr. Justice Middleton.

It would appear that the matter is one which the Association of the Superintendents of Insurance of the Provinces of Canada could properly discuss at the next annual conference. No legislation can be passed now for a number of months which would give ample time for consideration of such amendments as may be deemed necessary.

But is an amendment necessary It is claimed that the statutory conditions contained in every fire insurance company licensed to operate in Ontario permit the premises to be vacant for a period of thirty days, the insurance remaining in force during that time. The fact that the Ontario court took a different view of the matter, however, is something that cannot be disregarded whether the decision is concurred in or not. An amendment may not be necessary, but a clearer wording of the law may be desirable. In any event if a similar case should come up in the future it is probable that it would be carried to the highest court possible.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Border Cities Star continues to keep the municipal and provincial police forces on their toes. The paper has been doing a great public service for the community it covers.

Epic deeds of bravery are being daily performed in Spitsbergen waters. The exploits of some of the rescue flyers have been equal to anything in fiction.

In view of its good showing at the local inspection, it is safe to predict the 24th Field Battery will make a most favorable impression at Petawawa.

SIGNS NEEDED

To the Editor of The Examiner

Sir—Notwithstanding efforts being made in Peterborough by means of tourist information centres to answer inquiries, the fact is not placarded along the highways leading to the city with the result that it is frequently happening that cars of American tourists go astray on the streets of the city looking for information. The other night no less than three cars were found asking of pedestrians the way to the West Lake Inn at Catchacoma and its "free camping ground." The same thing happened regarding South Beach in the case of others. The season is beginning. Many new people are coming in. Why is not a big sign put up saying exactly where information can be got?

INTERESTED

APPRECIATION.

Dear Editor:

Am not sure if I should address this letter to you or not, but as it concerns the paper it must be O.K.

I want to tell you that I have received much help from Dr. McCoy's health articles. I wrote him twice in care of The Examiner and received really valuable advice each time. So I wish to thank the paper that has been the means of giving me this help and advice which I appreciate very much, also the opportunity of writing personally to Dr. McCoy, and hope that this service will be long continued.

Would also say a word in favor of A Wise Cracker. I like his little say, and the way he says it. I often wonder if he is as bright as his writing would indicate. You know, one often finds a brilliant writer, a dull conversationalist. What does he look like? Well there is one person at least, who always reads his column, even when it's flat, oh yes! occasionally there's a flat one.

Yours for more health and wisecracks,

Wudbea Wyscrakerto

The Question Box

P. J. (Millbrook): Q.—If A has a horse and tells B he is willing to sell the horse for $60 and B tells C, can't C make A stick to the bargain?

A.—Unless the offer was made by A to C and accepted by C to A there is no "bargain"—in other words, "contract." It is essential to a contract that the parties shall have come to some agreement. If A makes a general offer, such as by handbill, the situation might be different, but A is under no obligation, in the case you state, to make the same offer or terms to C that he does to B.

A. H. Q.—(1) What is the name of a bird, 5½ inches long, yellow breast, slate-gray head and throat and back? (2) Is it common around here?

A.—(1) Probably the morning warbler—(Oporornis philadelphia). Found in swamp and thickets, as well as among the bushes and weeds along walks, fences and the edges of woods. Song is similar to the liquid song of the waterthrush; call, a sharp "peenk." Its nest is on or near the ground in thickets or tangled vines. Its eggs are white specked with reddish brown. (2) Fairly common throughout Northern United States and Southern Canada.

M. C. Q.—What is micanite?

A Thought

HAPPY LIFE.

Someone gives these directions for making life happy. "Take time. It is of no use to fume or fret, or do as the angry housekeeper who has got hold of the wrong key and pushes, shakes, and rattles it about the lock until both are broken, and the door is still unlocked.

"The chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex us, and in cultivating our undergrowth of small pleasures. Try to regard present vexations as you will regard them a month hence. Since we cannot get what we like, let us like what we can get. It is not riches, it is not poverty, it is human nature that is the trouble.

The world is like a looking-glass. Laugh at it and it laughs back; frown at it and it frowns back. Angry thoughts hanker the mind and dispose it to the worst temper in the world."

American men are said to spend $750,000,000 a year in barber shops.

GOD'S MINUTE

I pray that thy faith fall not.—Luke 22:23.

O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth! Who has set Thy glory above the heavens. How glorious art Thou in all Thy attributes; how gracious in all Thy acts! Thou openest Thine hand and satisfiest the desire of every living thing. Accept our worship and adoration and thanksgiving. We make confession of our unworthiness and unfaithfulness, and humbly beseech Thy fatherly forgiveness. We bear before Thee in supplication the needs of a lost world, lying in wickedness. Pour out upon all supplication the needs of a lost world, people Thy Holy Spirit, that his gracious influence may deepen the spiritual life and change the character of those who are without God and without hope in the world, transforming them into the likeness of the Son of God. Remember this family in Thy infinite mercy, that it may be a household of faith, and that this may be a home in which Thou wilt delight to dwell; and when Thou makest up Thy jewels, gather them all without a missing one, a whole family in heaven, saved by grace. Hear us in this our supplication, and do for us not according to our merit, but according to Thy mercy, exceeding abundantly, above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, to whom be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 27.—(CP)—With the movement of newly harvested wheat increasing southwest, and with a noticeable halt of export demand, wheat values last night underwent a material setback. Weather northwest was favorable, and selling came chiefly from that section and from houses with connections in Europe. Wheat closed weak, 1 3-8c to 1 7-8c net lower. Corn finished 1-2c to 1 1-4c off, oats varying from 1-8c to 1-4c decline to 1c advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Particular attention was given in various quarters to the fact that despite stormy weather new wheat is reaching Kansas terminals now rather surprising freedom. For example, Wichita, Kansas reported that yesterday's receipts there totalled 140 cars. This circumstance was coupled with knowledge that export business in wheat from North America yesterday amounted to only 300,000 bushels.

Meanwhile, talk too was current that a turn to unfavorable weather northwest would be requisite if advices were to be sustained.

Faced by such a situation, wheat traders gave but little heed to news of rains over the week-end in the southwest. Furthermore, Liverpool quotations showed absence of strength buying orders here were scarce, and selling was of a persistent sort, especially from the northwest. In this connection, it was pointed out that the present stock of wheat at the head of the lakes in Canada is 50,000,000 bushels, an aggregate more than double the total a year ago. Besides, Winnipeg wheat receipts yesterday were 590 cars, against 288 last year.

Disappointment that the corn visible supply decrease of 1,948,000 bushels yesterday was not larger and had a bearish effect on the corn market. Earlier, the market showed an upward trend, influenced by talk of better demand from feeders, and of too much rain, whereas higher temperatures and dry weather now are desired.

Oats followed corn, except that oats for July delivery were strongly in request.

Firmness of provisions was induced by strength of hog values.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Montreal, Que., June 26.—(CP)—The demand from the united Kingdom and the continent for grain here yesterday was of a very limited character and the volume of business accomplished was very small. A steady feeling prevailed in the local market for car lots of grain, but the demand for supplies was limited and trade was slow.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for spring wheat flour, prices being fully maintained, but the volume of business was small in all directions owing to the fact that English importers have not responded to the higher prices asked by millers over the week-end. The winter wheat flour trade was quiet.

There was practically no demand from the United States buyers for Millfeed, but a fair trade was done for local and country account and the market was moderately active with a steady undertone. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was slow and prices were unchanged.

There were no new developments in the local egg situation, but the undertone was firm and especially so for the higher grades on account of the smaller supplies of such coming forward. There was a steady demand from wholesale houses for extras to meet their daily requirements and sales of odd lots of Ontario extras were made at 35 1-2c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points. The trade in a jobbing way was only fair owing to the fact that buyers are only taking small lots on account of the warmer weather prevailing. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 795 cases.

Prices for Potatoes were fully maintained under a steady demand from local buyers for supplies of which the offerings were small and only a moderate amount of business was done. Sales of odd cars of new Brunswick green mountains were made at 90c to 95c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Quebec varities at 850 to 900 per bag of 90 lbs in bulk, ex-track. There was a good demand for American new crop potatoes and as supplies were ample to meet all requirements prices ruled steady with sales of No. 1 grade at $4 per barrel.

The market for imported beans was without any new feature to note, prices being firmly maintained owing to the small supplies available on spot and steady demand for the same. Sales of car lots of choice white hand picked were made at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $4.10 per bushel ex-store.

A feature of the butter trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices scored another decline of 1-4c to 1-2c per lb. The demand was again of a somewhat limited character and the volume of business was small. The receipts were 2,741 packages.

In sympathy with the general advances in prices established at the country roads for cheese at the close of last week the local market was stronger yesterday and values were marked up 1-4c to 1-2c per lb. The volume of business was small owing to the fact that English importers did not respond steadily to the higher prices asked. Receipts of cheese were 7,1840 boxes.

CHAPTER XLIII.

Stone amused them all with his description of the dolls that had belonged to Garrett Folsom.

"It's not so surprising," said Sears, with a twinkle in his eye. "A born collector will choose the strangest lines! I collect antique weapons, another collects dolls. I'm not sure the dolls aren't more admirable. At least, they're less dangerous."

"I'd like to see those dolls," Robin said. "Angel adores them."

"Well, the Folsom lot are among the finest. They must be imported I never saw any more beautiful ones if one is fond of dolls."

Breakfast over, and it being too early to expect to see Carmelita Valdon Stone went to the auction rooms.

A confab with the principals there brought about a more exhaustive inquiry into the sales made the night before the murder of Garrett Folsom.

And it was pretty well established that as the auction drew to a close that night, that the attendants some what hastily gathered odds and ends of their wares into bundles and sold them rapidly, taking, in most instances, the first bid made.

This, though done without the sanction of the proprietors, was not unprecedented, for thus the counters were cleared and the way made ready for next day's enterprises.

Few of the salespeople could remember definitely the customers who had bought these bundles, but at last one clerk came forward with a story of a man who had purchased the very last one.

"I remember," he said, "because the chap only bid five dollars, but I let him take it, partly to get rid of the last lot and partly because the buyers had thinned out so I didn't think there'd be another bid."

"What did he look like?" Stone asked.

"He had a white mustache. That's all I remember especially. He was just an ordinary-looking fellow, not rich but not poor either. Don't remember his clothes at all, but I couldn't help seeing that white mustache and I thought he was old. But his voice didn't sound very old—more middle-aged like. I didn't see his hair; he kept his hat on. He paid cash for his bundle and took it along with him. Didn't seem embarrassed or flustered, just sort of quiet-like and indifferent."

"A collector?"

"No, I don't think so. But you can't tell always. A real collector is foxy and pretends he isn't a collector at all. So you can't tell."

"No, I suppose not. And this bundle, this last sale, had a pichaq in it?"

"Yes, sir. An old one, with a worn out velvet scabbard, just like the one the police have."

"What else was in it?"

"Trash mostly. Nothing of the same era. A Chinese ink-holder and a Japanese incense-burner. But not valuable or in good condition. He paid all the lot was worth."

"And you can't think of any other distinguishing trait he had?"

"Not one. He was just like one of a hundred guys who come in here every day. It was only that white mustache that made him stick in my memory at all."

Yet he had not entirely put the idea of Carmelita out of his considerations. And, as he puzzled over it, it came to him that somebody had said the night before that she had human tools to work for her.

Was the man with the white mustache one of these? Had he bought the old weapon for Carmelita's use, either ignorant of her purpose or cognizant thereof?

Who could he have been? And where was any man with a white mustache? Such a facial adornment was enough of a rarity nowadays to be conspicuous, even among the hordes of people at Ocean Town.

And then it came to him. A false mustache, of course!

There is no easier, simpler and yet more effective disguise than a false mustache, particularly a noticeable one.

Granting this, then, the disguise was intentional, and the purchase was made with the expectation of using the weapon for a murderous purpose!

So the man was not necessarily old; probably not at all so, and the next step was to learn his identity.

Not an easy matter, as there seemed to be nothing to go upon but that assumption of a false mustache.

But aside from the dolls and the dagger, it was the only material clue in sight, and Fleming Stone set to work to make it yield up its secret.

As he neared the hotel he met Robin Sears.

"Hello," said the youth, "we've found the man in the green bathing suit."

"Who is he?" asked Stone.

"His name is Preston; he's a stuffy old coot, and he doesn't remember dad at all! Cheerful outlook!"

"Never mind," Stone told him, "we've got a nice white mustache to work on."

Fleming Stone walked along the boardwalk toward the Hotel Majusaca, thinking deeply. Yet his absorption in thought did not prevent his enjoyment of his surroundings. Though he cared little for surf-bathing, the sights and sounds of the crowds of merry-makers pleased his senses as a whole rather than in any detail. The rolling chairs with their human freight and their varied types of pushers interested and amused him, and, though he looked at nothing closely, he saw it all as a huge moving picture.

Yet all the time his reason was working on the case in hand.

He had not the slightest doubt that the man with the white mustache was an agent for some one else, and that the mustache was a disguise.

But why was the man not a principal? he asked himself. Why not the murderer himself?

If so, it must have been one of the men already mixed up with the affair.

Of course, it might have been an entire stranger, but Stone's experience led him to think that this was unlikely. For usually a murderer is sooner or later shown to be acquainted with his victim, if only by the casual testimony or evidence of bystanders or onlookers.

If—and there was always the possibility—if Garrett Folsom had been murdered by some one that his surviving friends and relatives knew nothing of, that fact must also be proved. But the immediate business in hand for Stone was to prove that Croydon Sears had nothing to do with the crime, and this necessitated the investigation of all toward whom the finger of suspicion pointed.

Robin's report that the man in the green bathing suit had been found must be looked into later. At present Stone's thoughts centered on one figure, that of Carmelita Valdon.

"Just the one for the part," the detective pondered. "The right type for a murderess, and proved already to have had motive and opportunity, and—if the white mustached chap was her emissary—she had a way to get the weapon."

How she could carry the knife into the ocean unobserved, Stone did not stop to think. For he knew whoever killed Folsom HAD carried the knife into the water, and, clearly, it would be easier for a woman to conceal such a thing in her bathing costume than for a man.

In fact, Stone thought, that point scored heavily in favor of a woman criminal. For, with the more or less elaborate suits they wore nowadays, ample opportunity was offered for the concealment of a knife, while a man, with his simple one or two-piece suit, had small chance to hide anything of the sort.

Reaching the Majusaca, he found Mrs. Valdon on the deck, exquisitely arrayed in a morning costume appropriate for the beach.

REV. F. H. HOWARD LEAVING CHARGE

Millbrook Pastor Preaches His Farewell Sermon—Induction On Thursday.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 25.—Rev. F. H. Howard preached his final sermons as pastor of the Millbrook Circuit on Sunday, his morning theme, "Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed," being an appropriate message to leave with the large congregation before the pastoral relationship was severed.

Recognizing the value of parents giving their children a good education; teaching them the dignity and necessity of labor, either with hands or head; bequeathing to them a good physique and training them in high moral standards, the speaker went on to state emphatically there would still be a serious lack unless an intimate acquaintance with Jesus Christ as Saviour, Guide, Counsellor and Friend, had become a fact in the personal life of each member of the family circle.

"Whoever loses himself in God finds everything; all true happiness and success lies in knowing, loving, trusting and enjoying Him; all honor lies in His fellowship, all safety in His favor. His enjoyment is full who can say from the heart, 'O God, Thou art my God.' Goodness is the best greatness and the best riches; it secures what no other wealth, or influence can buy; it is the superlative form of beauty."

A baptismal service was held at the close of the sermon, the parents bringing their children for this rite being: Mr. and Mrs. Melville Ball, Mr. and Mrs. A. Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Armstrong.

The induction of Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., D.D., into the pastoral charge of the Millbrook United Church will be held on Thursday, June 28, at 8 p.m., in the church. Rev. W. E. Honey, Rev. J. F. Mears, and Rev. Mr. Daley will be the clergymen taking part in the service.

Rev. Mr. Jones will occupy the pulpit on Sunday, July 1, and be away for his holidays for the remainder of the month. Rev. Joseph Wilks will have charge of the services during the pastor's absence, the worship at the afternoon appointments being withdrawn for the three Sundays.

SALT RHEUM
All Over Her Hands and Between Fingers

Mrs. Walter Minzer, Midville Branch, N.S., writes:—"I had salt rheum all over my hands, and especially between my fingers. It was impossible for me to put them in water, or do my house work.

"After trying medicines and salves, which did me no good, I heard of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS being so wonderful, and after taking two bottles I am entirely relieved of my trouble."

THE investment which will make a man independent in his old age is not a matter of Capital. It is an investment of Income, or rather of part of it, that will do the work. Few of us ever have Capital for this purpose, but all have an Income of some sort.

Investment from Income is purely a matter of Thrift. Not "tightwad" Thrift but a careful, methodical planning of one's Income to make it provide for future as well as present necessities.

1. Make a Budget.
2. Keep an intelligent record of expenditures.
3. Insure your life.
4. Have a bank account.
5. Make a will.
6. Own your own home, eventually.
7. Pay your bills promptly.
8. Take more life assurance as an investment.
9. Spend less than you earn.
10. Share with others—Thrift without Charity dries up the Spirit.

BAPTISTS BEGIN CONGRESS WORK

WORK REVIEWED.

TORONTO, June 25 (Canadian Press).—The Baptist World Alliance, which opened its fourth congress here on Saturday, got down to the real work of the congress to-day. The exercises on Saturday and Sunday were largely devoted to official welcomes and responses, and to devotional services. This morning the presidential address by Rev. E. Y. Mullins, of Louisville, Ky., will be read. He was scheduled to deliver it in person, but was unable to attend owing to illness.

The first discussion of the congress took place to-day on the topic, "Baptist world alliance in retrospect and prospect."

It followed the address of the Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, England, who holds the important position of secretary to the alliance for the eastern hemisphere. Dr. Rushbrooke reviewed the work of the allience since its formation in 1905, when the first congress was held in London.

Continental Europe, towards which the chief activities of the alliance are directed, was the theme of another discussion, opened by brief reviews of local conditions by delegates from Sweden, Soviet Russia, Poland, Latvia, Italy, Rumania and Hungary.

SIXTY INJURED IN DERAILMENT

Three Cars of Missouri Pacific Train Leave the Track.

SOME MAY DIE.

IOLA, Kansas June 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Upwards of sixty persons were injured, several probably fatally, when three cars of the Missouri Pacific passenger train "Southerner" Little Rock, Arkansas to Kansas City, were derailed near Durand, 16 miles west of here, early this morning.

Thirty injured were brought to hospital here, where the condition of 15 was announced as critical. Physicians held little hope for the recovery of three or four of the injured.

Two Pullmans and a chair car were overturned and badly smashed.

While the cause of the derailment had not been determined investigation was started on the theory that a broken rail may have been responsible.

Capt. F. G. Stinson, Adjutant, 3rd Prince of Wales' Canadian Dragoons, and secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, was in the city over the week-end, returning from Barriefield in order to attend to pressing business in connection with the visit to Peterborough next month of about one hundred and twenty-five Pittsburgh Retail Automobile Dealers, who will arrive by special train July 15th, and will spend three days in the Kawartha Lakes' area, itinerary having been previously prepared by the Chamber of Commerce, in collaboration with E. E. Smith, general tourist agent, Pittsburgh, and Lake Erie Railroad, who with Mr. Cook, also from Pittsburgh, spent some time in Peterborough, Bobcaygeon, and Toronto during the week of June 11th.

Capt. Stinson reports an eminently satisfactory camp at Barriefield, training conditions being ideal, and believes that next year another squadron will be added to the strength of the 3rd Dragoons, headquarters remaining in Peterborough.

CLEVER CLOWNS IN SPARK'S SHOW

Comicalities Are Planned Seriously, Proprietor Points Out.

In clowns are combined the heart and humor of a circus, and it is not surprising that they have played an important part in the advancement of this favorite amusement. For ages clowns have maintained the integrity of their art and make-up and their fun has been clean and wholesome.

"Stunts that clowns do comically must be planned seriously, and it takes a keen and inventive mind to create tomfoolery for a circus", says Charles Sparks, proprietor of the Sparks Show.

"The modern clown must be a producer, an originator and quick to take advantage of events occupying public attention suitable to burlesque in pantomine. His conceptions must be novel and his costumes and mechanical aids uproariously grotesque to excite effective and spontaneous mirth."

Paul Wenzel, internationally famous producing clown heads the army of funny men coming to Peterborough next Thursday with the big Sparks Circus. Charlie Fortuna, noted French pantominist, Sig. Bon Homme, European funster and scores of others comprise this season' clown contingent. All will be seen in the mammoth parade at 11 a.m. and in afternoon and evening performances.

For the convenience of the public, seats may be secured at Bond's Drug Store on circus day at the same price charged at the show grounds.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE.

Salvation Army Sunday School Workers Bring Gifts to Colleague.

A Salvation Army Sunday School worker, Mrs. Lister, was given a shower at the home of Mrs. R. Routley, Downie Street, on Friday. Mrs. Lister, formerly Mrs. Meeks of Euclid Avenue, has been a teacher in the Army Sunday School for over twenty years, and it was in the heart of the comrades and workers to give this shower as an appreciation of such faithful co-operation with them in the cause.

Many and varied were the useful gifts presented, which were brought to the living-room in an improvised "Love's Canoe" by Doris Routley, trailed by old boots and tins, which, of course, brought down the house.

After the gifts were opened and the messages of congratulations and good wishes read, the happy party all joined in singing of hymns and choruses, punctuated by impromptu speeches and recitations.

A dainty lunch was served by the ladies, and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing "Blest be the tie that binds," an Ensign, Mrs. Green, praying for the happiness and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Lister.

FIRE DESTROYS ODESSA STORE

Several Thousand Dollars' Loss Caused By Early Morning Blaze.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — Fire from some unknown cause totally destroyed the grocery store and butcher shop owned by Frank Hillier, at Odessa, twelve miles west of here yesterday morning.

The fire was not noticed until it had a good headway, and there was little chance to save anything. Kingston firemen were ready to go to Odessa if the fire spread. The loss will be several thousand dollars, while the insurance will only partly cover this.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Four deaths and damage exceeding $100,000 are attributed to fifteen hours of torrential rain that visited the mountain section of the Niagara district Saturday. Alvin Shieler, 30, of Stevens, was instanly killed when his motor cycle skidded on the water-covered Ridge road and crashed into a truck this morning.

Three lives were lost in Chippewa Creek, which had been transformed into a raging torrent. Steve Arvie, 9-year-old Hungarian boy; Vitto Innanuselli, 30, and Marco Ramicis, 16, were victims of the raging waters. The greatest urban damage was caused at Niagara Falls, Port Colborne, and Humberstone, where cellars were flooded and merchants' stock damaged.

FLOWER SERVICE AT GEORGE STREET

Children Bring Many Flowers To Be Distributed To Sick.

The Sunday services at George Street United Church will long be remembered in the annals of the church's history for the two wonderful services held there yesterday.

At 11 a.m. the flower service was held and the church was an Eden of loveliness, being indescribably beautiful with its profusion of flowers. On the pulpit platform a central arch of flowers with a cross of flowers on either side was erected. Just in front were two pedestals, on which were large baskets of white and pink pionies, snowballs and iris with large ferns between.

The Sunday school assembled in the hall and marched by classes into the church, where they presented their contribution of flowers at the altar. Here six girls of the congregation, Misses Margaret Walker, Dorothy Bamforth, Evelyn Miller, Alda Bartlett, Myrtle Stevens and Irene Heard received them and were assisted in placing them in position by Messrs. Homer Borland, Trevor Miller, Clifford Ash and Ivison Walker. There was such an abundance of flowers that they not only filled the arch and crosses but banked the pulpit platform. These were afterward distributed to the sick and shut-ins.

Rev. J. E. Todd conducted the services and administered the rite of baptism to several children. Before beginning his sermon he congratulated the committee on the beauty of the decorations and spoke of the honor he felt at being asked to take chadge of this special day service at his own church. Hi ssubject for the morning service was, "The proper use of our strength," and he chose for his text from the 15th chapter of Paul to the Romans, the 1st verse. "We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves."

In his introductory remarks he spoke of the many things in nature where we may hear the voice of God, and particularly at this season of the year, when He speaks very clearly to us through the flowers.

He said everything in life is endowed with two characteristics, either to be hard, slefish and unlovely or to be hard, slefish and unlovely Jesus came into the world to help us to service others.

The same hand that can injure, can serve, help, benefit. The same tongue which can lash cruelly, can sympathize with you and bring kind, loving messages. Jesus instructs us to use our abilities for good. The ancient Hebrews had a law: "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth." The law went so far that if a man killed another, the deceased's brother could hunt him down and kill him. Jesus said: "I am come into the world to tell you a better way; If he hungers feed him. If you are out to conquer, do it by kindness. After 2,000 years we have learned that Jesus' way is the best way; the way of love. I challenge you. Do you think this is the easy way, the soft way of conquering to try it.

David Harum said: Do unto others as they would do unto you; but do them first. Let us consider what we get if we follow this course. Riches and all good things of this world. Perhaps; but every night the consciousness of having played the coward, the brute. If you follow the Golden Rule, one goes to sleep with the consciousness of having played the game of life, as Jesus would have us; bringing a little bit of Heaven here on earth. We are all weak; that is the reason we have churches and Sunday schools, so that we may be strengthened and go out into the world and help others that they may have life and live more abundant. In conclusion he quoted a fine bit of poetry, entitled "Others."

During the service the Sunday school orchestra rendered some excellent music. The primary class sang a chorus and Misses Bernice Cain and Evelyn Scott rendered a delightful duet.

The evening service was of a choral nature. The choir under the direction of Mr. G. F. Liddle presented the Festival Te Deum, a cantata by Sir Arthur Sullivan composed on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' (later Edward VII.) recovery from a serious illness, and was dedicated to her late Majesty Queen Victoria.

Mr. Todd gave a short address on the many times services of praise and hosannas were mentioned in the Bible and the inspiration and help they were to the people.

REFORESTATION IS CONSIDERED

County May Buy Land in Burleigh—Will Pay Child's Maintenance.

HOW ROAD COST FALLS.

Reforestation may be undertaken in Burleigh township if suitable land can be obtained from the Ontario Government at a reasonable price, Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield proposed to the County Council on Saturday. He made a verbal report of the efforts of the committee on reforestation, composed of Reeves Scott, Curtis and himself. They had considered the selection of some land in Belmont township, but enquiry had disclosed the price to be higher than the committee had expected, so they passed up that section. They are now considering an area in Burleigh township, but action depends upon the Ontario Government's response.

Reeve Cavanagh thanked the Council for their interest in the welfare of Ennismore township and particularly for the Council's offer of a grant of $20.000 toward the cost of a new, permanent bridge across Chemong Lake.

Broadcasts Thanks.

Reeve Vernal Windsor of Burleigh and Anstruther townships has asked The Examiner to express his thanks publicly to the members of the County Council for their grant of $250 to the Red Cross hospital at Apsley and also for their grant for work on the Burleigh road at Perry creek bridge.

Consulted Mr. Edgar.

John Edgar, agent of the Children's Aid Society, explained the Child Protection Act to the Finance Committee, with special reference to the care of a child now at Nicholls Hospital. Liability for its maintenance has been in doubt. A bill had been sent to the Council of Lakefield. The county council in committee yesterday decided to provide for the maintenance of the child until it is two years old or otherwise provided for, and the treasurer was authorized to pay $5.25 a week on Mr. Edgar's order to the person who will be entrusted with care of the child. The parents of the child are separated, and the father denies its parentage.

Paying for Highway.

The two mill levy in this year's taxes for the provincial highway account devolves as follows: Asphodel, $2,116.68; Belmont and Metheun, $656.90; Burleigh and Anstruther, $139.22; Chandos, $143.54; Dummer, $1,418.20; Douro, $2,049.80; Ennismore, $959.32; Galway and Cavendish, $194.92; Harvey, $474.46; North Monaghan, $1,824.98; Otonabee, $4,909.46; Smith, $3,770.74; Lakefield, $622.20; Norwood, $490.56; Havelock, $417.68. The total bill is practically $50,000, and the amount covered by the two mill tax is $20,188.

Grant Increased.

Because this is the 60th anniversary of the Norwood Fair, the council on Saturday in approving the report of its Finance Committee increased the grant to the Fair from $250 to $500. Reeves Scott and Montgomery moved the resolution as an amendment.

F. H. WOOD.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25. — Frederick Howard Wood, of Front Street, Campbellford, at the age of 23 years, passed away in Toronto General Hospital on Thursday morning last, June 21, after only a brief illness. He was a life-long resident of Campbellford, having been born here, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Wood, who still reside in Campbellford.

Educated in Campbellford High School and at Toronto, where he had completed his first year in pharmacy, the young man was favorably known to a host of acquaintances. He was a member of St. John's United Church and a member of the various Young People's societies. Left to mourn besides the sorrowing parents, are two sisters, Mrs. O. Sparling of Wayne, Alta., and Mrs. William Witthun of St. Catharines, Ontario.

The funeral took place at 2.30 p.m. on June 23 from the home of his parents, Front Street, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, the Reverends Howard of Millbrook and Harston of Campbellford conducting the services. The pall-bearers were J. M. Perris, James Gay, Carl Haig, Clifford Weston, Jack Free, Harry Free, Jack Nesbitt and Arnold Parsons, of Peterborough.

The funeral cortege of more than eighty cars, was one of the most impressive ever seen here. For the two hours of its duration, stores and other business places were closed as a mark of respect, while all Campbellford mourned the passing of a worthy son of a worthy parentage.

ZION LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Presentation Made To Rev. C. Daniel By Members of Society.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 26.—Zion League met in regular session on Thursday evening with seventy-six present and the groups almost tied on the evening's score. Gladys Simpson, social convener, was in charge of the program with Bessie Meiklejohn as leader. After a hymn by the Ford group, Mrs. Harry Barnum read the Scripture lesson and the devotional talk was given by Rev. Mr. Daniel. An orchestra composed of Misses Gladys Simpson and Freda Petherick and Mr. Grant Kerr rendered two selections followed by a reading by Miss Gladys Petherick. A vocal duet, Mrs. Lorne Barnum and Rev. C. Daniel, preceded the topic on Sabbath Observance by Gladys Simpson. This called forth some interesting discussion.

Before the meeting closed the president called the departing pastor, Rev. C. D. Daniel to the chair and the following address was read by Lindsay Anderson:

Dear Mr. Daniel:

As members of Zion People's League we feel that we cannot let this occasion, the last upon which you will be with our League as pastor, pass without in some way, expressing our regret at your leaving, and also voicing our appreciation of your service here.

In your capacity as pastor of this charge in the social and sporting part of community life, and in the promotion of all those things that go to benefit the moral and spiritual side of every day affairs, you have ever been a cheerful and tireless worker, taking the lead for Christ in this and other communities when others feared to step in.

But it is your work among young people that we wish to draw attention this evening. In the four years that you have been with us, you have been the inspiration of our young people's activities, and your success in this work is proven by the high standing of Zion League in the Bay of Quinte Conference.

However, not alone in your own leagues has your presence been felt. Those of us who have been with you in Presbytery and Conference work have seen the same inspiriting touch leading other groups of young people into greater service for Christ's kingdom.

During the few years that you have been here, you have given the Bay Conference service which it can never repay, and we know that in a very short time Toronto Conference will be equally in debt.

And while upon this subject, we do not forget Mrs. Daniel, who in her few years here, has done a great deal to further our young people's program, and we are only sorry that we cannot keep you both with us. But, let us assure you that your work here has not been in vain, that the Zion League will continue to do good work in the years ahead.

To show our regard for you in some more tangible way than words, we would ask you to accept this gift, and we hope that it may sometimes recall to you the good times we have spent together at Zion.

Roy Fry and George Brunton then presented Mr. Daniel with a handsome piano bench and a pair of hearth rugs.

Mr. Daniel, replying, thanked the friends for their gift and appealed to them not to forget the ideals of Christ and the Jesus way of life, the things which he had tried to make plain during his years at Zion.

Messrs Alfred Barnum, Thomas Fry and Earl Fairman each spoke briefly expressing their regard for Mr. Daniel.

The meeting closed with one verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and the Mizpah Benediction.

Attend Conference.

Rev. C. Daniel and L. Anderson, members of the Bay of Quinte Conference executive, attended a meeting of that body in Cobourg on Wednesday evening. Among the business discussed was the reception for the Rochester young people when they visit Cobourg on July 28, also the annual Bay excursion which this year is to Port Dalhousie and Niagara on August 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Barnum spent part of last week in Cobourg, making the trip by motor.

The late Samuel Switzer of Trenton was laid to rest in Zion cemetery on Thursday afternoon. Service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Daniel.

OWNER OF STILL IS FINED $200

Belmont Township Man Must Also Pay Costs Amounting to $104.25.

SECOND CASE DROPPED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, June 26 — Pleading guilty to a charge laid by inspectors and Provincial Police under Section 176E of the Inland Revenue Act, John Sinclair, Campbellford, was fined $200.00, and costs, by Magistrate Langley, Peterborough, yesterday afternoon, in the Court held in the Town Hall, Norwood. In passing judgment on the case, His Worship warned Sinclair that he had better not continue to make whisky from his still since he would not be allowed to go with a fine next time. He would be sent to prison. His Worship could not understand why people would buy such liquor when the best of liquor was for sale at the Government stores.

When the money was paid into Court, the magistrate suggested that he might not feel safe carrying so much money. J. A. O'Brien put forward the suggestion that it be allowed to journey back to Peterborough in the car with him, since there were two returned soldiers, a justice of the peace, and a Provincial Constable riding in it. The suggestion brought smiles to everyone in the Court. The money was kept in the hands of the magistrate.

Of the three cases called in Court, only two men were present to answer to the charges against them. When the name of Edgar Sinclair was called, it was pointed out by Provincial Officer Thompson that the summons for Sinclair had been left with Chief A. V. Light, Campbellford, and had not been served. The man, therefore, could not be expected to appear. John Sinclair pleaded guilty, and was allowed to go with a fine of $200, and costs, $304.25 in all. He was charged with owning and operating a still or parts thereof, contrary to the Inland Revenue Act. The still was located in the Township of Belmont, County of Peterborough, on Sunday, June 17, 1928. As well as the mechanism and equipment, there was found a quantity of mash partially prepared.

Robert Davidson, Belmont Township farmer, appeared as accused in the second case. He was charged under the same act with having a still on his property. He pleaded not guilty. W. F. Huycke, Peterborough, as counsel for Davidson pointed out to the magistrate that the still in question was the same still to which Sinclair had admitted ownership, and also that it was on a very remote section of the property, and was three miles from the road. He was of the opinion that his client was not aware of its presence. That it was one and the same still would be shown by the evidence of both Davidson and Sinclair. He understood that the prosecuting attorney was not anxious for a conviction under these circumstances.

J. A. O'Brien, for the prosecution, agreed that Mr. Huycke had stated the case fairly and did not think it fair and just to proceed against Davidson under the present charge. He was willing to consent with the withdrawal of the charge, subject to the approval of the Department, and with the understanding that a new charge might be laid by the Department under Section 176F, if the Department so desired.

Edgar Sinclair was called, but Officer Thompson informed the bench that the summons had not been served, and the case was laid over. John Sinclair paid his money into Court and the session was at an end.

MILLBROOK MASONS PARADE TO CHURCH

Rev. P. C. Howard Preaches Appropriate Sermon at St. Thomas' Church.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 26.—J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 145, attended divine worship at Saint Thomas' Church on Sunday evening. Rev. P. C. Howard delivering an inspiring sermon from the text found in John 11: 52: "And not for that nation only, but that he should also gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad."

Pointing out that it is not the amalgamation of the nations, but the solidarity of humanity which is referred to in the text, the speaker went on to mention the work of the League of Nations, and to ask the visiting brethren to note that such a league might be possible through the Masonic Order, since members of this fraternity are to be found in practically every country in the world.

Mr. Howard reminded the Order of the situation in the States, where there is a Grand Lodge in each state, and a Supreme Grand Lodge for the whole of the country to the south of us. Furthermore, there is at present a movement on foot for the amalgamation of the Grand Lodges of England, Scotland, and Ireland, forming a Supreme Grand Lodge for Great Britain, and the suggestion was thrown out: Why not a Supreme Grand Lodge for the whole British Empire?

This initial step taken, the next thing to naturally look for would be such a union of the Order in the two Anglo-Saxon nations that there would be formed a Supreme Grand Lodge of the World, and the speaker suggested Edward, Prince of Wales, as its Grand Master, since His Royal Highness is already a Mason, and high up in the Order.

The scope of outlook was still further enlarged as the benefits accruing from such an amalgamation in connection with an Order having such high ideals as Masonry has always stood for in elevating the whole world's moral tone, and methods of action, were dealt with as fully as time would permit. That the Kingdom of God would come nearer there could be no manner of doubt.

Members of the choir of Christ Church, Bailieboro, assisted the local choir with the music, and a solo by Miss Elisabeth Russel was much appreciated. Mrs. (Canon) Allen presided at the organ.

Upon return to the lodge room, the usual votes of thanks were tendered the Rev. Mr. Howard for his most appropriate and inspiring address, and to others who had assisted in making the annual church parade a success.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Three members of the same family, of Elliotvale, P.E.I., were drowned and two others narrowly escaped a similar fate early to-day when their car took a wrong turn in a fog and plunged into the river at South Port, seven miles from here.

The dead are: Eileen Walsh, Arthur Walsh, Genevive Walsh. George and Blanche Walsh escaped.

The body of Eileen has been recovered.

As popular as a home run

"It doesn't need any close decisions to determine why Rowntree's MOTORING CHOCOLATE is as popular as a home run," said Plain Mr. York of York, Yorks. "Let's ask the players about it. Why is MOTORING CHOCOLATE so popular?"

"Because the almonds and raisins taste so good in the milk chocolate," called the one side. "Because the almonds and raisins taste so good in the plain chocolate," yelled the other side.

"You're both right," beamed the genial umpire, "there are two kinds of MOTORING CHOCOLATE—milk and plain, both with raisins and almonds and so good that it's hard to choose between them."

Bethany Wins 4-2 Decision From Crescents

RUSSELL HAS GOOD SUPPORT

Homesters Play Errorless Ball and Hit in Pinches to Win Game.

FROST IS GOOD

Bethany playing at home last night broke their jinx at the expense of the Crescents by winning a well-played contest by the score of 4 to 2. Both Frost and Russell turned in fine pitching performances but Russell had the advantage of air-tight support, the team playing errorless baseball, and hitting in the pinches. Crescents, with Kane among the missing used Bob Ross at second base where he turned in a good game, and Brioux did the backstopping. The new catcher had a couple of passed balls, one of which let in a run, but otherwise shaped up nicely.

Russell fanned six, walked one, and hit a batsman, while Frost fanned four and did not issue a pass. Staples had the only exart base hit, good for two bases, and Crescents the only double play, Frost to Ross to LeBarr. A single by L. LeBarr drove in Crescents' runs.

Score by innings:

Crescents	0 0 0 0 0 2 0—4
Bethany	0 0 1 1 1 1 x—2

Batteries—Frost and Brioux; Russell and Reynolds.

Umpires—McCarney and Sisson.

ROCHESTER TAKES LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Beats Leafs 9-2 in Opening Game of Home Series.

MONTREAL BEATEN.

Rochester, June 26.—Score one for the rampaging Red Wings. The locals, back from a successful road trip which took them from fourth to a tie for first place, turned back the Toronto Leafs in the opening game of the series yesterday, and now lead John Conway Toole's circuit unaccompanied. Previous to the 9 to 2 drubbing handed them so artistically Bill O'Hara's men were deadlocked with the Reds on the top rung. Now they are second by one full game, and the locals hope to increase their advantage in the final here today.

Buffalo Wins at Home

Buffalo, N.Y., June 26.—The Buffalo Bisons opened their home stay here yesterday with a fusillade of home runs that buried the Montreal Royals under a 10-to-3 score. Four of the homers sailed out of the park propelled by Bison bats, while two were accounted for by the Royals. Al. Moore was the hero with the stick, pelting Bob Shawkey for two homers and two singles, which drove four runners over the pan. Johnny Mokan and Billy Kelley, both recently secured from Rochester, blasted homers on their first appearance.

All Look Alike to Bears

Newark, N.J., June 26.—The Newark Bears defeated the Baltimore Orioles here yesterday, 4 to 2. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Bears and they moved to fifthp lace. McQuillan pitched a great ball game, and in the pinches was invincible. He was given sensational support especially by Carroll in right. The latter by a sensational running one-hand catch robbed Prower of a homer in the ninth.

Unhappy Day for Skeeters

Reading Pa., June 26.—"Slicker" Parks held Jersey City to five scattered hits yesterday to win by a shutout for Reading, 8 to 0. The Keys pounded Thormahlen for 14 safeties.

MILL BEATS CLERKS IN FAST BALL GAME

Climbs to Fourth Position in League as Result of Win.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

Campbellford, June 26.—By their victory over the Clerks last night, the Mill team is now in fourth place in the league and the Electrics have droppel back to fifth. Last night's game was the closest of the season with first one and then the other team leading. Cochrane's pitching was a feature of the game when he fanned five men and only walked one. Thomas did not strike out any batters but played the infield for put outs. He walked four men. Although the Mill got away to a good start the Electrics stopped them in the fifth innings when they tied the score. From then till the end of the game victory was open for the best team.

JUNIOR FIXTURE

The Teco Storemen won their first game of the season last night by defeating the Lock Works 11 to 10. Playing a see-saw game in the first part of the tilt, they obtained a lead in the fourth frame which they held throughout the remainder of the game.

* * * * * *

Numerous errors on the part of the fielders accounted for most of the runs, the play at times being rather dead. Edgar, for the Teco, scored the only home run, which brought in two runs.

* * * * * *

On account of the East City Beavers dropping out of the league, the bantam group game slated for last night was called off. With three teams in the group: Riley and Hickey, Grafton's and the Canuck's, the group will still be able to carry on.

* * * * * *

Bethany, with a 4 to 2 victory over Crescents, come here tomorrow evening for a battle with Cogs. Both teams need the win, and Cogs very much so, as they have to face Raybestos on Friday evening. The Wednesday and Friday contests complete the first half of the schedule.

* * * * * *

Lock Works step before the spotlight on Thursday evening at Exhibition Park, when they entertain the Hastings team, which is at the top of the county series with a clean sheet. Lock Works, with only one loss to date, have rounded out a strong outfit.

The executive of the East Peterborough League will hold a meeting on Wednesday night to draft the second half of the schedule.

Two Surprises In First Day's Play

MONTREAL, Que., June 26.—(Canadian Press).—Two surprises marked the first day's play in the annual senior championships of the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association here yesterday. In both upsets visitors were defeated by local players. M. R. Park, of the M.A.A.A. scored a straight-set victory over H. Coulombe, of Quebec, 6-4, 7-5, while K. F. Foster, of Westhill, eliminated D. D. Gunn, of Toronto, after three stirring, closely-fought sets, the Westhill player winning, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6.

Rain, which fell shortly after the start of the matches, caused a delay of four hours, but the downpour failed to interfere materially with the draw, practically all the matches carded for yesterday being played before the halt was called in the evening.

TECO WIN FIRST GAME

Win 11-10 Decision Over Lock Works in See-Saw Affair.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Teco won their first softball game of the season in Confederation Park when they defeated the Lock Works 11 to 10. A bad second innings for Teco gave the Lock Works the jump over Teco, while the Storemen were held scoreless. But in the third they again got the lead, only to lose it to recover it again in the fourth, to stay in front to the end of the game.

The game was not a heavy hitting fixture, most of the flies going in the infield, where numerous errors credited the scorers with runs. The game was a see-saw affair and rather listless at times. The more experience of the Teco standing them in to the good. Edgar scored the only home run, which brought in two runs.

Edgar also played nice ball and assisted many put-outs at first, where Board remained in the limelight throughout the game. Board is a nice player and one of the best in the league. He keeps a red hot line of chatter all through the game that puts pep into the rest of the men, and he knows how to hande the ball. Maher, in centre field, also turned in a nice game, making a few good catches.

Hunt went in to bat as a last resort for the Lock Works in the ninth but the Teco men handled him nicely. Green, the pitcher, was wild at times, but he settled down to make five strike-outs, to put him on a par with the rest of the leading pitchers. Haskell, the catcher, showed his gameness, when he stopped a hot foul tip with his nose after having his finger hurt a few seconds before. He stuck to the game and played till the end. Griffin made a nices howing, with three hits in four trips to the plate. The fielding of the Keymen was not as polished as the Storeboys.

The line-up was as follows:

Lock Works.—Westbrook, 3b; Delahaye, lf; Green, p; Jobbitt, 2b; Black, 1b; Griffin, cf; Chambers, rf; Nichols, ss. Hunt batted for Nicholls in the ninth.

Score by innings:

Teco	40230110x—11
Lock Works	14300013l—10

Struck out—By Green, 5; Scates, 1.
Home run—Edgar.
Umpires—"Sailor" Maudsley at the plate; C. Westbrooke and R. Dyer at the bases.

HOLDS BRAVES TO SEVEN HITS

McSweeney Sets Pace for Robins' 9-3 Victory Over Boston.

GIANTS TAKE DOUBLE

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Doug. McWeeny set the pace for the Brooklyn Robins in their 9 to 3 win over the Braves at Boston yesterday. He held the warriors to seven hits. Brooklyn backed him up by hard hitting, getting 15 hits for a total of 20 bases. Babe Herman had the honor of leading the attack with two singles that drove in four runs.

The Giants won both ends of a double header at Philadelphia yesterday by the scores of 12 to 4 and 8 to 2.

In the opener Larry Benton chalked up his twelfth victory of the season and his 15th complete game. Southpaw Bill Walker went the route in the second game and won his first victory, giving but six hits, three less than Benton yielded.

Fred Lindstrom got nine of the 32 hits the Giants collected in the two games off seven Philadelphia pitchers. Five of Lindstrom's hits came in the first game, in which the Giants did their best of the year, getting a total of 21.

Bob Farrell knocked Pruett from the box and brought in half of the Giants 5 runs in the second game with a home run with the bases full.

An eleventh inning rally started by Bottomley's double gave the St. Louis Cardinals another scalp for their National League belt, 5 to 2, and pushed the rapidly falling Cincinnati Reds down another notch.

The game at Cincinnati was a battle between Pitchers Jess Haines and Eppa Rixey and not a run crossed the plate until the Reds bunched three hits in the last of the eighth for one. The Cards tied it up in the ninth. Blades' triple in the eleventh with the bases full and an error by Picinich who let through a throw to the plate cleaned up the bases.

Pittsburgh at Chicago—Rain.

THE FAMOUS TOUR OF CONTRASTS "ACROSS CANADA AND BACK"

A striking feature of this year's "Across Canada and Back Tour", which leaves North Toronto station 1.00 p.m., on July 23 under the auspices of Dean Laird, is the fact that many tourists are coming over from Great Britain to take part in the journey. The special all steel million dollar train which will carry the party across the Dominion is the equal in all respects to the famous "Trans-Canada Ltd." There are no difficulties to confront the traveller as Sinclair Laird, the director, who has already piloted seven similar trips, has made the way smooth beforehand. Bookings for the tour are already exceptionally heavy and all previous records are expected to go by the board. The itinerary includes stops at all the important cities and towns en route and the beauty spots in the Rocky Mountains, Banff and Lake Louise, bungalow camps and industrial centres. A sail across Kootenay Lake, a steamship trip from Vancouver to Victoria and return and another cruise down the Great Lakes add variety to a holiday both delightful and educational. There is not a moment in the twenty-one days wasted and everywhere throughout the western lines a most hearty welcome awaits the visitors. Everything is included from Toronto and return in the sum of $330.00.

FRANCIS HUNTER IS DEFEATED

New Zealander Wins Over U. S. Star in Tennis Play.

BRITISH CHAMPIONSHIPS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Francis T. Hunter, member of the United States' Davis Cup team, was the only seeded player who failed to come through the first round of the British Lawn Tennis Championship yesterday. The defeat of Hunter by young Ed. Andrews of New Zealand, a student at Cambridge, by scores of 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, stood out as the dramatic high spot of the day.

William T. Tilden, John Hennessey, and the French "Three Musketeers" Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet, and Jean Borotra, all won their first round matches with ease, as did the United States' younger stars, but England's chances suffered in the defeat of her ranking player, Edward Higgs, by the youthful Australian Davis Cup player, Harry Hopman, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

Italy's ambidestrous star, G. De Stefane, who instead of playing backhand, shifted his racquet and played forehand strokes with his left hand, was beaten by the Japanese, Yoshire Ohta. His seeded compatriot, Baron H. L. De Morpurgo ,was among the winners, however, as was Gerald Patterson of Australia, also seeded.

The French trio won in straight sets, Lacoste downing H. W. Wolcott, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2, while Cochet, eliminated Mohammed Sleem, ranking player of India, 6-2, 8-6, 6-2, and Borotra defeated A. H. Lowe, of England, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4.

Hunter's Davis Cup team mates all came safely through their first matches, Tilden scored a smashing victory over M. V. Summerson, youthful English player, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0. Hennessey downed R. Mather, English entrant, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2, and George Lott was not extended in winning from the middle-aged London doctor, F. C. Rosbie, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Wilbur F. Coon, 16 year old member of the United States' team, had a hard assignment in encountering in Danish Davis Cup players Alex. Paterson, but won by scores of 7-5, 6-3, 6-3. Peterson was the only Scandinavian entry.

Provides Sensation.

Another United States' school boy, Sidney B. Wood, provided a late evening sensation by beating Nigel Sharpe, one of Britain's best players, 10-8, 6-1, 12-10.

The five-set fight between Andrews and Hunter provided as many thrills as any Wimbledon match in recent years as for nearly three hours the lanky New Zealander and the stocky, powerful American fought under a boiling sun as if their lives depended on each point.

Although but 22 and comparatively inexperienced in international play, "Buster Andrews" who holds the championship of New Zealand, played brilliantly, proving particularly devastating at the net. Hunter called into use every ounce of his great strength on every stroke and every trick of court strategy, flashing his red-strung racket with all the skill he could command, but the young New Zealander seemed to bear a charmed existence. Time after time Hunter had victory within his grasp during the final terrific set, only to see it slip from him. Before the set went to deuce he needed only one point to win, but could not put across the deciding stroke.

SENATORS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER

HOME RUN WINS.

New York, June 26.—The Senators captured a double-header at Washington yesterday from the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2 and 7 to 2. Braxton, the Senators' southpaw ace, held the Athletics to seven hits in the first game, while his teammates got twelve off Quinn's delivery. Washington registered its winning run in the ninth when Rice was scored by singles by Harris and Barnes.

While Brown, another left-hander, in the second game held the Athletics to three hits, the Senators concentrated their attack to score five runs in the fourth innings. Fox hit a home run in the fifth.

The Tigers again swapped places with the Chicago White Sox at the bottom of the American League Standing yesterday, going back into the cellar position by dropping the third game of the Chicago series, 8 to 6. Each of four Detroit errors counted in the scoring. Moe Berg, making his first appearance in the series, led the Chicago attack, driving in half the White Sox runs with two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly in four trips to the plate.

A timely home run by Morgan in the tenth, one of five circut clouts during the contest, broke a tie and enabled Cleveland to emerge victorious over the Browns, 7 to 4 at St. Louis yesterday. Manush of the Browns led the four-ply attack with a pair of homers, while Blue and L. Sewell connected with the other two. Coffman was unable to stop the Indian hitters, allowing 15 safeties.

CURVE LAKE WINS 4-3 TILT

Home Run by Johnston Gives Indians Victory Over Lakefield.

HITTING WEAK

A mammoth home run by A. Johnston in the first innings with a runner on base, gave Curve Lake a lead over Lakefield at Curve Lake last night, and the Indians nosed out a victory by 4 to 3. Lakefield had two fine chances to score enough runs to register a win, in the sixth and seventh; but with the bases loaded, their hitting against Merritt Taylor's pitching was weak, and a run each innings was the best they could get out of it. Madill pitched well for Lakefield.

"GEE, George, I bet my dad will get me a C.C.M., too, I studied hard all year, and I passed my exams. well. I think I deserve a bike, don't you?"

"I hope you get it, Eddie. Then you can join the rest of us fellows in our runs out into the country and our picnics.

"I'm taking mine away on my vacation, too. There are lots of country roads to ride along and dandy woods to explore, some streams to fish in and other things to see, all within easy riding distance.

"Mother says it will be so handy to have a bike around. There's always the mail to go for and other errands to run."

"Well, George, I'm going to get my dad to go with me to the C.C.M. dealer's and see the new models—especially that dandy Curved Bar Sport Model and the other one a boy won't outgrow."

"Don't forget to tell him, Eddie, that C.C.M. Bicycles are made of cold-drawn Seamless Steel Tubing and equipped with the C.C.M. Triplex Hanger, Gibson Pedals, Steel Rims, Dunlop Tires and the Hercules Coaster Brake without extra charge.

"If he says he's short of cash, Eddie, tell him he only needs to pay a few dollars down, and the rest in small weekly or monthly payments."

"And I'll offer to help pay the balance, George. There are lots of jobs for a boy with a bicycle during the summer holidays, delivering small parcels, running messages, and doing other things. It will be good experience and heaps of fun, too."

"Well, 'so long,' Eddie. Go to it and get that C.C.M. Bicycle."

BELANGER LOSES CLOSE DECISION

Loser Best, Newspapermen Think, But Judges Favor McCoy.

TORONTO, June 26. — There must be something in high altitudes. The city are seated on a raised platform. Judges at professional bouts in this while the referee of course, is in the ring. Last night the three divided on a two-to-one split in connection with the decision after the Johnny McCoy-Frenchy Belanger ten-round bout at the Arena Gardens, and as McCoy had the greater share of the official support he obtained the decision, but down along the newspaper row the opinion was that Belanger had had the best of a rather dull engagement. However, the newspaper opinion apparently counts for little with the promoters as they allow a lot of hangers-on to fill the chairs at the press table and unless one is there early he had to take a back seat. In cases like last night the apparently unfortunate one is to be congratulated.

The bout was far from being the exciting affair that was anticipated from two lads who recently held sectional world's championships, McCoy that of the Pacific Coast and Belanger that awarded by the National Boxing Association. There was too much of a sameness for the first seven rounds and it was not until after Referee Marsh spoke to the two lads at the start of the eighth round that there commenced to be some open action and from then on McCoy had an edge. Whether the official advised the boys to provide some action or not is unknown, but they acted as if that was what he had done, and there was a fair sort of finish down the stretch.

Wheat Prices Go Up As Rain Causes Delay

CHICAGO, June 26 (Canadian Press). — Influenced by persistent damp weather south-west, causing further delays to the harvest, wheat values took an early swing upward today. Official reports said that in the southern half of Kansas one-third of the wheat crop is waiting to be cut. Opening 3-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up, wheat soon scored material advances all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise stronger, with corn starting unchanged to ¾ cent higher and subsequently making a general advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July, 136⅝; September 138⅝. Corn, July, 101½; September, 97 3-8. Oats, July, 55 3-8; September, 46.

Noranda Is Favorite For Mining Exchange

TORONTO, June 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Noranda was again the market favorite in this morning's trading on the standard stock and mining exchange, with heavy trading. From the opening the big Quebec producer was the most carefully watched stock on the board, closing at 39.60, 1.00 more than last night's closing price. Trading in other issues was very irregular, with a general downward trend in the majority of the active stocks. Amulet was firm to-day at 3.65. Hudson Bay was the chief gainer amongst the western issues, being up 45 at 17.30. Sherritt Gordon and Missouri were both up five at 6.00 and 55 respectively. Kirkland Lake was amongst the issues to suffer this morning, dropping nine points at 1.60, as was Barry Hollinger, which was down to 58½, 1⅛ lower than yesterday. Pend Oreille was down again to-day 45 points at 12.50.

Seven Per Cent. Money Checks Upward Trend

NEW YORK, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Seven per cent call money made its appearance again in Wall street to-day and the stock market, which had been heading upward, backed up, but did not break as it did when the high rate first made its appearance three weeks ago. Large gains of one to three points in the standard industrials and five to nearly fourteen points in a few rails and specialties were cut down.

The banks called about $30,000,000 in loans by early afternoon, presumably to strengthen reserves in anticipation of the comptroller of currency's bank call on June 30, and the heavy mid-year settlements. Expectations that about $500,000,000 will be distributed during July in the form of dividend and interest payments and provide a backlog of investment buying, had a tendency to keep selling in check.

The raising of the Anaconda Copper Company's annual dividend from $3 to $4 started a fresh outburst of buying in the copper shares. Motors were mixed.

Toronto Market Dull; Slow Week Expected

TORONTO, June 26.—(CP) — No particular inscrease in activity was shown in this morning's trading on the Toronto stock exchange and according to local brokers all indications point to another slow week. sales for the majority of issues were small, with but few pronounced advances or declines. Amongst the unlisted stocks Noranda was a strong feature, recording a gain of 1.00 at ing tha shrdslrhd shrdlrdl emfwr mf 39.60. Brazilian with heavier trading than has been seen for days, bettered its position 1⅛ to 55. Bell Telephone was firmer at 161¼ by ¼. Massey Harris was also among the firmer stocks with a gain of ½ at 38½. Canada Dry dropped a point to 76½ and other beverage stocks were either f mirruo shrdhrd shradoliui either firm or up. Pure Gold, in spite of recent announcement of an increase in the dividend, did not arouse much interest, with transactions in scarcely 50 shares it was unchanged at 30.

SERVICE STATION OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Beauty and Convenience Combined in Red Indian Building.

The Red Indian Service Station at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets is now open for business.

This station is one of the most attractive in the city. Its appearance is distinctive and quaint. The canopy protecting the gas and water pumps is finished in white with eight globe lights to furnish an attractive illumination.

The pumps are of the double visible type having a capacity of ten gallons each or forty gallons total. Four cars can be serviced at once. The facilities for water are very handy with two line of hose equipped with automatic nozzles ready at an instant's notice.

The service station proper is of the bungalow type. The walls are of white stucco set off with tapestry brick. Wall lights in black and red brackets help to give this new addition to Peterborough's service stations a very becoming appearance.

In the rear are two modern covered grease pits which protect the cars from all rain and are very convenient to the motorists. These assure perfect service in all kinds of weather.

There are two automatic air pumps in the rear of the station grounds.

The front door finished in mahogany with the Red Indian head over it and the interior wood work finished also in mahogany add much to the appearance. Five oil pumps supplying all grades of oil are located within the station.

There are also two rest rooms, one for ladies and one for gentlemen, which are equipped up to the minute in all thoughtful conveniences.

The owners of the station had an eye for beauty and preserved a beautiful tree in the driveway, about which many passersby remark and which lends beauty to the station.

This station will be in charge of Roy Price, who will be on hand to be of such service as he can to the motoring public.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"WHY SAILORS GO WRONG"

All those who saw "What Price Glory?" will remember the little batman who aroused the ire of the tall Captain Flagg by giving him "the raspberry" at any and all moments. The small, mischievous soldier did a lot toward making that picture notable for a certain type of sly humor. Ted McNamara is again with us, this time as Angus McAxel, so Scotch that "he fed his horse from a bag with a hole in it." He is co-starred with Sammy Cohen, who also appeared in "What Price Glory?" in a minor part, and they have varied and funny adventures as the heroes of the feature picture, "Why Sailors Go Wrong." McAxel and Levinsky make a Scotch Hebrew comedy team that gets the most out of every situation.

Cohen is the taxicab driver and McNamara handsome cab driver of the piece, who, through a series of unforeseen misadventures, find themselves aboard the yacht Sultan, in charge of a bullying captain. The romantic hero of the piece, Jimmy Collier, is locked in a cabin by his rival, and Betty Green, the heroine, looks for him in vain. When the two seasick gobs, Sammy and Ted, fall overboard in turn and in turn are rescued, they discover Jimmy's place of imprisonment, much to their own cost in dignity and apparel, as the picture tells the story. They inform Betty of Jimmy's plight, but a fearful storm interferes with rescue plans and the next scene shows the luckless pair on a cannibal island. Here they are pursued by a pair of lions and numerous crocodiles and are finally offered in marriage to the chief's ugly daughters. They prefer death however, and nobly advance to the waiting block and basket. Fate kindly intervenes and the final scene shows the pair administering castor oil by the bowiful to a determined crocodile who has swallowed their $5,000 roll of bills, and refuses to disgorge his ill-gotten wealth.

The whole program at the Capitol for these three days is one of laughs. The small comedy that precedes the big picture is a jolly affair featuring the elderly comedian who resembles Uncle Sam.

AT THE REGENT.

"PUBLICITY MADNESS" IS A PICTURE TO RUN TROUBLE INTO LIMBO OF FORGOTTEN THINGS

If you are tired and worried and want something to take your mind off your troubles, "Publicity Madness," Fox Films comedy which opened at the Regent Theatre last night is the thing to see.

This clever five-reel comedy is without a doubt one of fastest moving and one of the funniest farces shown at the Regent for a long time. Everything about it is amusing—the characters, the plot, the title—the laughs start with the first scene and the audience is still laughing when they reach the sidewalk.

Lois Moran as the shy little Violet who is transformed into a regular and sophisticated stenographer proves she is a comedienne of no mean ability. And as for Edmund Lowe as the smart Aleck soap salesman—he's perfect.

The story is based on an original tale by Anita Loos. It deals with the adventures, both business and romantic, of a fresh soap salesman who promotes an tiquated business into a flourishing concern through his utterly ridiculous publicity schemes.

E. J. Ratcliffe as the pompous old owner of an almost defunct soap works, Norman Peck as the high brow office boy, Arthur Housman as the go-gettum clothing collector, and Bryon Munson as the villain of the piece also give splendid performances.

CANADIAN BAR ASSOCIATION ANNUAL CONVENTION REGINA, SASK., AUGUST 9 TO 31, 1928

"The Confederation", a through all-steel, de luxe (radio-equipped) train between Toronto, Regina and Vancouver, offers the very best train service, while for those who so desire, the tri-weekly sailings of the steamers of the Northern Navigation Company, through the Great Lakes between Sarnia and Port Arthur, connecting at both ends with special steamboat trains of the Canadian National Railways, offer a delightful variety of route, either going or returning.

The low round trip Summer Tourist fare in effect, Toronto to Regina: $87.80, also applies to Edmonton, Calgary and Jasper National Park, and many delegates to the convention will undoubtedly desire to take advantage of this and enjoy a few days' visit in the wonderful scenery of the Canadian Rockies, while those with time to spare, will undoubtedly wish to extend their trip right through to Vancouver and Victoria, taking advantage of the special Summer Tourist fare: $109.55, which is only $21.75 more than the rate to Regina.

Further information, tickets and reservations will be gladly furnished by Canadian National Ticket Agents.

EXCESSIVE RAINS IN NORTH COUNTRY

Rivers and Lakes Near Chapleau Very High—Mill Flooded.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., June 26 (Canadian Press). — The recent excessive rains throughout this area have swollen rivers and lakes to an alarming extent. At Dalton, the waters of the Windermere River and Dalton Lake have reached ten feet above normal high water, flooding a lumber mill and throwing more than two hundred men temporarily out of work.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE TRY TO BE INDEPENDENT OF FASHION.

A certain prominent politician used to pride himself on wearing the worst looking hat in the state. It was his mark of distinction. He gained considerable notoriety out of it. Every one talked about his disreputable hat.

Oddity in clothes, refusal to follow the fashion, is sized upon by some as an effective means of self-assertion, of proving to themselves and to others not so much their contempt for the social standards as to call attention to their own powers of independent action. As a rule, such folk have no other claim to distinction. Refusal to follow the prevailing fashion is one means of playing "off horse." The motive back of it is self-assertion and wounded pride in failure to get recognition in ordinary ways.

Aside from the human freaks who hold out against fashions there is a universal dissatisfaction with certain styles, even by those who are first to adopt the vogue. We are all prejudiced in favor of the old, of things we are used to. It takes some little while to get accustomed to the new and untried.

There are also those who object to the new fashions on the grounds of morality. It is strange how frequently the sacred name of morality is used to cover up some prejudice. Almost every new idea is suspected of being immoral. The bobbing of hair by women was at first strongly opposed in many quarters as an immoral act.

We also resent being standardized, dictated to, and virtually told what we must wear. Hence, there is a tendency to be independent of fashion, to assert freedom of action and independence of character. But all in all the opposition to fashion is at best a mild protest except on the part of those who make a religious and moral issue of it or else to call attention to themselves and in that way get some of the notoriety they must have to keep them going.

LYRICS OF LIFE

COMPETITION

I saw two pups who seemed to me
A pair of foolish pups to be;
Although a bone was lying near,
They had each other by the ear,
And yowled with grief and pain, although
'Twould quickly stop if they let go.
But there they sat with many a moan
And chewed each other, not the bone.

I saw those pups another day,
Those foolish pups had changed their way.
They now a better plan pursued,
The bone, and not each other, chewed.
They only found one bone, it's true,
But found the bone enough for two.
Each had a share, each had an end,
And, best of all, each had a friend.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO PUT

the facilities of this hospital since 1885 without any capital cost and very little for maintenance. The point seemed to be whether the by-law should be put now.

Mr. Eastwood explained that the hospital board would prefer to take the vote shortly in order to get started on definite plans, as it was bad enough to face the propospect of going another fifteen months while the building is being erected. He mentioned among its drawbacks that the present building is heated by five old furnaces.

Mr. Crane exhibited one architect's sketch of the hospital as it would appear, with the present building and the proposed additions.

I'm in sympathy with it and prepared to work for it and subscribe to it. It's been a necessity for some time," declared Ald. Stocker.

"We're going to have a bigger city and will have to provide more accommodation," was the Mayor's remark.

On motion of Ald. Greene and Stocker, a recommendation will be made to the council that a by-law be prepared and submitted to the qualified Protestant ratepayers at a date to be fixed later.

V. Eastwood, John Crane, R. J. Kidd, Thomas Brown, Robert Fair, E. F. Mason, and H. J. McCannan were the hospital board representatives present. There were present Mayor Denne and Alderman Phelan, Ackerman, Macdonald, Green, Huffman, Stocker, Lowe, McIntyre, and Cotton.

Offer for Gas Plant

Ald. Ackerman acted as spokesman for the group of aldermen which met the Hydro-Electric Power Commission last week in regard to the gas plant. He stated that the figures had all been laid before the aldermen and that the commission, after allowing interest and depreciation and a portion of the cost of the Toronto office, had been able to show a profit of about $8,000 on a valuation of $380,000. He felt, therefore, that the city could make it a profitable investment at a price of $300,000, this to include also the lot at Park and McDonnel and the car barn property.

Aldermen Green and Stocker moved that the commission be informed that the council is prepared to submit a by-law for the purchase of these properties at $300,000 to the ratepayers at the municipal elections in January. If the commission is willing to take this price, the next step will be for the ratepayers of the city.

PART OF OPERA WILL BE SUNG

Fair Scene From "Martha" To Be Given At St. Paul's Garden Party.

ONE ACT PLAY.

A most interesting program has been prepared for St. Paul's Ladies' Aid strawberry festival, to be held to-night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, Reid street. The Young People's Society will present the one act play, "A Letter of Introduction" and a group of singers will present the "Fair" scene from the opera "Martha," with the spinning wheel octette.

The story of "Martha, or The Fair at Richmond," deals with the adventures of a bored court lady, Harriet Durham, maid-of-honor to Queene Anne of England, who, accompanied by her attendant, Nancy, and her admirer, Sir Tristan Mickleford, disguise themselves as peasants and go to the market place where the farmers are receiving the incoming servants. In fun, the two women bind themselves to Plunket, a wealthy farmer, and Lionel, his adopted son, to work for a year. Later, when they find themselves obliged to fulfill the terms of the bargain and hesitate to reveal their true status, for fear of ridicule, they run away. Lady Harriet has taken the name of "Martha."

The disguise is finally discovered and Lionel, who has fallen in love with Martha, turns out to be the son of rich and noble parents. The opera ends happily.

The "Fair Scene," to be presented to-morrow evening, shows the madcap lady and her attendant at the Richmond Fair, where there is a motley crowd of men and maidens looking for work. Here Lionel tells in song the story of his adoption by Plunket. Later, when the girls arrive at the farm and are told to spin, they say they have never learned to do so, and are taught by the men. This makes a merry scene, closing with the pursuit by Lionel of Martha, with whom he has already fallen in love, and her singing of the famous song, "The Last Rose of Summer." This air, as is generally was not composed by Flotow, but is an old Irish tune, to which Moore fitted his poem. In fact, Martha undoubtedly owes much of its vogue to this ancient Irish air, which was called "The Groves of Blarney." Moore wrote the words in 1913, and they have become the most popular of all his verses.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the guests were entertained at a delicious banquet by the Keene Lodge.

Cable Merger Rumor Sends Shares Higher

LONDON, June 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Evening Standard said to-day that it understood an announcement was expected immediately to the effect that the Government would approve a merger of wireless and cable interests. Consequently Marconi stock rose a dollar a share on the stock exchange to-day and the shares of Eastern Telegraph were also active.

Pending the report of the Pacific cable conference, which has been meeting in London, rumors have been widespread of a huge merger of existing cable and wireless companies to take over from the various governments of the Empire the present system of Imperial communications. Canada is interested as a part owner of the Pacific cable system, the revenue from which has been in recent years unsatisfactory.

Wedding Bells

GREER—FINDLY.

Hart House chapel, Toronto, banked with palms and ferns, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 5.30 o'clock, Wednesday, June 20th, when Clara Elaine, daughter of Mrs. Sarah L. Findly, of this city became the bride of Dr. J. Bruce Greer, only son of Mrs. J. McCaw and the late James Greer, Bailieboro, Ont., the ceremony being conducted by Rev. C. H. Bowman, Maple, Ont., brother-in-law of the bride.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by L. D. McCaw, the bride entered the chapel with her brother, J. V. Findly, of Oshawa, who later gave her in marriage. She was becomingly gowned in her going away frock of rose biege crepe romain, the full circular skirt being edged with deep points of ecru lace. A close fitting hat of rose beige corded silk, and snakeskin shoes completed the costume. The bridal bouquet of Ophelia roses and valley lilies was later sent to Mrs. Janet Findly, grandmother of the bride, who was unable to attend.

Following the ceremony the wedding dinner was served in the York room of the Prince George hotel, after which the bride donned a French tweed coat, in tones of beige and brown ,and an Iceland blue fox fur. The happy couple left by motor for New York via Ottawa and Montreal, returning by way of Atlantic City, Washington and Virginia.

McCULLOUGH—GUERIN.

The wedding took place quietly at eight o'clock this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of Kathleen Ann, second daughter of Mrs. Mary Guerin, Clifton streeth, and the late Frederick Guerin, and Robert James McCullough, son of Mrs. Robert McCullough of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. Carroll, and the wedding music was played by Miss Leona Hummel. Miss Stella Brady sang during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Martin Kylie, wore a charming frock of yellow canton crepe, large picture hat, white kid shoes and white silk hose. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Meade, was becomingly attired in rose georgette, with large white hat and blonde shoes and hose. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

Mr. W. McCarthy acted as best man.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McCullough left by motor to spend a week at Stoney Lake. They will live on Water street on their return.

The presents to the bride and bridegroom were numerous and beautiful.

KILLORAN—ARCHAMBAULT.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. P. Costello, when Lorraine Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Archambault, Cedar street, became the bride of Dr. Vincent Ambrose Killoran, of Barberton, Ohio, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Killoran, Albert street. The wedding music was played by Miss Mary Reynolds and Miss Geraldine Collins sang during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father ,wore a lovely gown of rose beige georgette, with an overdrape to the skirt of rose beige Chantilly lace, caught at the waist with a rhinestone buckle. The blouse, amde in semi-bolero style, had a pointed vestee of the lace, which also formed deep cuffs on the long sleeves. At the left shoulder was a double rose of beige and pale pink silk, with cluster of silvered rose leaves.

The bride's hat was a large picture shape of braided silk straw in rose beige shade, faced with shell pink and trimmed with a bow of gold ribbon at the right side. She wore peach-colored silk hose and gold slippers and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mamie Archambault, was in faded rose georgette with matching hat of mohair in picture shape, and blonde slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of Columbia roses.

Mr. Joseph Killoran of Toronto, acted as best man for his brother.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast to the immediate relatives was served at the home of the bride's parents, where decorations were in white streamers and bells and bouquets of pink and white peonies.

Dr. and Mrs. Killoran left later by motor for a trip to Bigwin Inn, Bigwin Island, Muskoka, en route to their home in Barberton, Ohio.

The bride travelled in a kasha ensemble of natural shade, with flowered crepe frock and coat lining. Her small hat, shoes, hose and bag were in matching colors, and she wore the gift of the bridegroom, a beige fox fur neckpiece.

The gift to the bridesmaid was a beaded bag and to the best man gold studs and cuff links.

LAMONT—MENZIES.

The following report from The Montreal Star is of interest to local readers, as the bride is the niece of Mr. William Menzies of The Examiner's advertising staff, and of the Misses Jean and Catherine Menzies of this city:

"The marriage took place in Stanley Presbyterian Church at six o'clock last evening of Edith Norval May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies of Notre Dame de Grace, to Mr. Frederick Joseph Lamont, son of the late Mr. Joseph Lamont and of Mrs. Lamont of Montreal West. The Rev. W. D. Reid performed the ceremony. The church was decorated with peonies, palms and ferns. Mr. A. J. Binnie presided at the organ and during the signing of the register, Mr. William Cornick, baritone soloist, sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a French imported gown of white satin trimmed with silver and net. She wore a train of satin inlaid with silver lace falling from her shoulders, and her silk tulle veil reaching to the hem of her train was held in place by a cap of lace caught at the sides of her head, with clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Rheta Menzies, and bridesmaids Miss Gladys Menzies and Miss Dorothy Menzies, sisters of the bride, were gowned alike in orchid crepe romain with flowing capes and tiered pleated skirts, orchid shoes and stockings with large hats of silk mohair to match. They carried arm bouquets of Columbia roses and mauve sweet peas. Mr. Percy Lamont acted as best man for his brother. Mr. James Gordon Menzies of Pittsburgh, brother of the bride, Mr. Harold H. McFarland, Mr. John R. Donaldson and Mr. Frank Kelland acted as ushers.

Mrs. Menzies, mother of the bride, wore a French gown of grey crepe romain with hat to match and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Lamont, mother of the bridegroom, wore an imported gown of beige crepe, trimmed with poudre blue, and black mohair hat. A reception was held following the ceremony, at the residence of the bride's parents, where peonies, sweet peas and greenery formed the decorations. Later Mr. Lamont and his bride left for Atlantic City and New York, where they will be guests at the Waldorf Astoria during the week. On their return, they will occupy their new home in Montreal West.

Going away, the bride wore an ensemble of blue and grey printed flat crepe with hat, shoes and stockings to match.

The wedding presents were numerous, unusually beautiful and much admired.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon Menzies and daughter Beverley, of Pittsburgh; Miss Jean Menzies and Miss Catherine Menzies of Peterborough, Ontario, and Mr. Hamilton Becket of Toronto.

IN MEMORIAM

WHATLEY—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lillie Whatley, who departed this life, June 26th, 1925.
Oft we think of you, dear mother;
And our hearts are sad with pain;
Oh, this earth would seem like heaven
Could we hear your voice again.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still.
But death has left a vacant chair
That never can be filled.

VACATION

Peterborough, a Vacation Paradise

Peterborough is truly the gateway to the Kawatha Lakes and the centre of an ideal vacation country. Improved roads, improved resort accommodations and the beautiful scenery are attractions that equal any in the country and that attract an increasing number of tourists and holiday seekers every year.

In all the great expanse of the continent there is not to be found another region of fresh water so extensive, so picturesquely distributed into lakes from the size of a city park to thousands of acres in area, where numerous islands dot their silver expanse. The water shed from the glaciers of the Laurentian slope is clear as crystal, but not clearer than the crisp cool air, rich with the fragrance of the northern pine.

There is no region that offers so many facilities for sport with the rod and gun. The fishing is good and the adventurous hunter desirous of hardier amusement can find sufficient pastime with the excellent deer shooting to be found here in the fall in this district.

The scenic beauty of the Kawatha Lakes equals any other in the world. Some eleven years ago a number of Belgian engineers inspecting the Kirkfield locks, made a complete tour of the region and declared for beauty the lakes rival anything they had seen—even that of the far-famed lakes of Killarney.

These famous Kawatha Lakes include, Scugog, Sturgeon, Cameron, Balsam, Pigeon, Bald, Sandy, Buckhorn, Chemong, Deer, Lovesick, Stoney, Clear, and Katchewanooka, all situated six hundred feet above Lake Ontario. These fourteen sheets of water are blessed with a climate that is invigorating, healthy and conducive to a maximum of pleasure. Splendid camping sites are to be found everywhere and the opportunities for motorboating and sailing are infinite.

The old Indian Bards had a real reason when they called these lakes Kawartha, "Bright Waters and Happy Lands." Champlain left on record when he first passed this region a tribute that is still worthy of the district: "These lakes," he said, "as well as the rivers that flow from one into another abound in fish, and the whole country is beautiful and attractive. It seems as if the trees had been planted for pleasure."

The most languid tourist will find his lassitude disappear like magic in the clean air of the district. Dull care that kills so many victims will find its defeat in this perfect playground.

The tourist who embarks on a steamer or launch at Lakefield begins a fascinating sail among channels and islands of the chain of lakes that stretch miles in almost every direction, leaving one in doubt as to which is the most beautiful.

The shores, until one reaches Clear Lake, are cultivated and exceptionally fine farm houses show the taste and the influence of the original settlers. After Clear Lake is passed the aspect of the country changes. The woods come to the water's edge and the outcrop of the granite, the oldest geological formation of the continent, begins.

Young's Point on Clear Lake, famous in Indian lore and legend, is easily reached by improved motor roads or by water. Here the tourist has access to either Clear Lake or Katchewanooka Lake. In Clear Lake the sloping, sandy shores are very inviting to the less experienced bather.

The chief summer resorts here are Young's Point, Carleton House, and Lakeview House, while on the shores of Clear Lake is South Beach, which has one of the finest view of the lakes in the entire chain.

A few miles farther on is Stoney Lake, the banks of which are armor-clad with outcroppings of granite. The lake is a maze of channels with islands everywhere. These islands seem to be nothing but rock where a few cedars struggle for a foothold, but are beautiful, and now many cottages are found on these islands that are owned by many American lovers of the region, as well as our Canadian cottagers.

The lake harbors eight hundred of these islands which rise from the waters in every size and shape that one can imagine. Most of them are crowned with fragrant pine and balsam. Stoney Lake has a vast wealth of charm and beauty encompassed in its area of ten miles from north and south, and its varying width of one and two miles.

The shores are thickly wooded down to the water's edge, while on various points have been located cottages, colonies and many well-kept hotels.

Charm after charm meets the eye of the traveller until he reaches the dock at Burleigh Falls, which is a favorite resort for sportsmen from Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New York.

At a point 865 feet above sea level is the Park Hotel, romantically situated at the junction of Stoney and Lovesick lakes. The falls hurl themselves in white cascades over huge rocks directly in front of the resort. North of the Inn the shore slopes down in rocky terraces to Stoney Lake, where steamers may be boarded, which give access to all parts of the picturesque cordon of lakes that spread themselves in a gigantic crescent for many miles. Not far away is the Burleigh Falls Fishing Camp, a favorite organization for American sportsmen.

Farther north, Apsley is reached by bus. Here the tourist has access to the less frequently visited Kawartha Lakes. Jack, Eagle, Loon, Long, and many others are found in this district. Long Lake is a favorite haunt of the camera hunter. Jack and Loon lakes, the resort of the fisherman.

The old depot trail in this section takes one into the wildest section of the country and is sought by all those who wish to be close to Nature. North of Apsley is Eel's Creek, which is a favorite site for campers.

Where Clear Lake and Stoney Lake meet, old Juniper Island thrusts his nose through the waters. Here is the rendezvous for all the cottagers in the section. The general store, the dancing pavilion, and the post office are all situated here. Around the shores are many popular resorts, chief of which are McCracken's Landing where Mount Julian rears a proud head above the lake, and Burleigh Falls at the junction of Stoney and Lovesick Lakes. Upper Stoney Lake separated by the picturesque Boschink Narrows from lower Stoney is another lovely expanse of water. Crow's Landing on the southern shore is a popular resort.

The Viamede and Mount Julian resorts are reached after an hour's sail from Mount Julian, passing through one of the loveliest sections of the lakes and with a constant view of the picturesque islands and rugged shore lines.

Buckhorn Lake is the next to be visited. It is one of the eastern group of the Kawartha Lakes, a capital fishing ground as well as an excellent hunting ground. Here are found the Buckhorn and Windsor Hotels. A wonderfully balanced rock in front of the Buckhorn House causes much comment. Over rugged roads through Nature's country lies Sandy Lake. Here in a beautiful valley surrounded by leafy hills is the most beautiful expanse of bluish green water in this district. The fish in this lake are of a silver color, even the black bass. At an eastern bay, where the road passes close to the water, a perfect red heart can be seen formed out of red sand in the shallow waters of the bay. Here many superstitutions stories of the Indian man originated.

From Buckhorn, passing up the lakes, one passes Oak Orchard, beautifully situated in Gannon's Narrows, where a floating bridge causes many a comment from the American tourist. Near Oak Orchard, Champlain and his followers camped while en route to battle with the Iroquois.

Back of Buckhorn, nestling in Deer Bay, is the beautiful resort of Beachwood, where the fish run large and gamey. Passing Gannon's Narrows and Jacob's Island in Pigeon Lake, which is surrounded by high shores, one arrives after about ten miles at Bobcaygeon. This is the "Hub" of the district—Peterborough is the Gateway. Here is the farthest north golf course in Peterborough County.

Still going west are Sturgeon Point and Fenelon Falls, which are easily reached through beautiful country by excellent motor roads and by boat over lovely water. To the north and west lie Cameron and Balsam Lakes, from which Lake Simcoe can be reached by canal.

The manner in which the lakes and rivers of this section of Ontario are linked together can readily be appreciated by the number of yachts passing

Motoring Facts and Fancies

In the highways and the by-ways.
You may travel all day long
Travelling, spending Summer Free days
Moving on; moving on!

How many Peterborough citizens contemplate a motor trip this Summer—and how many will find realization beyond anticipation? That depends on many things—most important of which are:

1.—Proper consideration of routes, chosen to fit easily into the time at the travellers' disposal;

2.—Preparations in the form of equipment—not too light, yet not so heavy to to be cumbersome;

3—Proper observance of safety measures—remember that even a slight accident or fire may mar the entire trip.

In connection with that final consideration, it may be said that all campers use fire, but unfortunately all do not, at times, remember that it is a good servant, but a poor "boss."

The camp fire that fries your morning bacon, giving the air a tang that makes the mouth water, boils your coffee, or prepares your mid-day meal or evening meal, is capable also of destroying your camp and possibly many thousand dollars' worth of timber—it will do this unless controlled and guarded with meticulous care. Not only will it destroy your personal effects and tree and plant life, but the bird, the game and fish life, which provide the sportsman with the objective of his gun and tackle, is imperilled. Put out that fire with water before you leave camp for even a few minutes and watch it while you are there!

There! Surely the prospective motorist will exercise due caution. Now one may pass on to a consideration of what route he will take from Peterborough—the city which, itself, holds numerous attractions for the motor tourist; and in so doing, he will remember that a too-crowded schedule may result in a tour of regrets. And since our own Canada may well be called "The Playground of North America," it naturally follows that seeing Canada by motor should prove a genuine delight. Tens of thousands of American cars cross the line each year—it is two thousand miles of unfortified border, and since the old roads of pre-car days have been replaced by five hundred thousand miles of motor roads, including fifty thousand miles of permanent highways, there is certain to be found a restful relaxation from congested traffic and a rare opportunity to enjoy Nature's open spaces.

SUGGESTS SCENIC ROUTE

One Peterborough citizen suggests a route in such convincing tones that surely there can be no harm in tracing it. "We went Muskoka-ward last year," he said, "and it was certainly a wonderful trip. Going to Gravenhurst, we followed the Bracebridge-Gravenhurst road northward, passed about the Muskoka River which flows from the northeast into beautiful Lake Muskoka, and continued west and south, touching at Leonard Lake, Milford Bay, further west, and then due south between Brandy Lake and Arthurlie Bay; on down to Port Carling, finally reaching Port Sanfield. After travelling westward to Gregory we doubled back to Port Sanfield and passed further southward until, after a most enjoyable drive, we arrived at Bala. Thence homeward we drove along the Bala road and said farewell to Gravenhurst. To Toronto and along the lake front to Peterbrough our route lay and at its termination, every member of our party voted it the trip of trips.

THE TRENT WATERWAY

So much has been said of the Trent Waterways, and yet it has all been so true, that one feels little hesitation in suggesting a trip through the Trent system. Though considered chiefly as a water highway, the district from Kngston to Belleville and thence north westward through Campbellford, Hastings, Peterborough, Lakefield, Burleigh Falls, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Kirkfield, Beaverton and on to Orillia and Port Severn as well as over to Midland, Victoria Harbor and other places on the Georgian Bay is one of the finest from the point of scenic highways and travelling facilities en route. The Kawartha Lakes have a charm all their own, with attractions numerous for the fisherman and the hunter—whether with rod, gun or camera. Then, too, there is a pleasant, though gradual comparison as one enters the Severn district.

The above-mentioned trips have carried one northward and westward, but a glance eastward may reasonably be prolonged for there are many beautiful routes into old Quebec and the Maritimes if one has a sufficient length of time at his disposal. Holidays should not be spent in wearying trips made because of a time limit. A visit to the Dominion's Capital—Ottawa—or to the older cities of Montreal and Quebec, in the district of the Saguenay River or further through New Brunswick forest and into the peaceful land of Evangeline—there is a wealth of beauty which challenges description, and defeats any such effort.

TOURING OR DRIVING?

If you would make the best out of a motor trip, there are those who will advise from experience that driving from place to place and taking advantage of an abundance of commendable hotel accommodation is NOT getting the best out of that trip. They say: Get your own meals, sleep in the open on comfortable camp cots—Oh, yes, there are such things as "comfortable" cots—and you will enjoy it the more.

Be that as it may, there is always a happy medium to be struck, for there is not a hotel in the land which may not become irksome at times, while the best tent that money can buy will not provide that warmth so desirable when one awakes to find an overcast sky, falling rain and drenched firewood. Therefore, might it not be wise to obtain information from, say, the Chamber of Commerce, regarding hotel accommodation along the route selected and then to take a little tour of Peterborough business places where may be found furnishings to meet every need. Light but sturdy clothing, fresh fruits, vegetables, meats (though these are generally available along the route), auto tents, ground covers, portable gas stoves, electric or gasoline lamps, camp cots, blankets, may all be considered necessary and there is no better place to obtain them than in Peterborough stores and at the J. J. Turner and Sons' plant on George street.

The three main considerations—route, equipment and safety measures—have been talked over. Now, have a good time and come back with a realization that, after all, Peterborough is as good or better than any of them.

Off to VACATION LAND

OLD CHURCH AT LAKEFIELD IS LINK WITH PIONEER DAYS

Founders of Village Lie In Its Yard—Many Interesting Spots There.

SCENERY BEAUTIFUL.

Village Has Fine Motor Camp—Boating and Bathing Are Good.

LAKEFIELD, June 27.—Probably the most interesting spot in the village from an historic and picturesque point of view is the old stone building known as "the old church," and which with its ivy-covered walls and belfry and churchyard dotted with stones which mark the last earthly resting place of those who belonged to the early days of Lakefield's history is unique. The history of the "old church" is the history of Lakefield, and if those grey stones could talk, what a story they could tell; not one, but many a series of tales. The church was built more than seventy-five years ago and was the first church building in this part of the country, the money to build it came, in a great measure from England in response to an appeal made on behalf of the struggling little settlement. The congregation soon outgrew the little building, and in 1866 the work began on the splendid edifice, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, which is the present parish church.

A summer visitor with a great love of the beautiful and with poetic appreciation called the church "the little keepsake church," a name which seems to suit it so well, standing as it does, just outside the rush of modern traffic and so obviously reminiscent of the past. Among those who are buried there, is Mrs. Warren, wife of the first rector of the parish (in later years another Mr. Warren was rector, the present Archdeacon of York), four large flat slabs mark the resting place of four young men who came here from the Old Land and who met death in accidents—one or two by drowning, and one was accidently shot.

There, too, is the Strickland monument, the Lillecrap monument, and the Dench monument, and others, commemorating families who have been for generations identified with the church and village.

Visitors look into the little building which still plays its part in the community life as St. John's parish hall and while the interior is not as picturesque as the exterior, many improvements have been made of late years; the A.Y.P.A. have redecorated the interior and put in a hardwood floor, and are planning further work in the line of restoration.

The ideal interior would be to "restore" the church to what it was when, more than sixty years ago, the parishioners moved across the street, but this would be an expensive undertaking and more than the parish could undertake at present.

Lying between the busy village street and beautiful Otonabee river, it stands, a link with the past, in itself a monument to the brave pioneer spirit of the early settlers.

River Road

The river road from Peterborough to Lakefield is one of the most picturesque routes in the county. The road, which is in fair condition, follows the Otonabee river all the way and affords a delightful vista of green trees and rapidly flowing waters which are hurrying on to join the greater expanse of water in Rice Lake.

Lynch's Rock

How many of the hundreds of motorists know of Lynch's Rock, which is situated on the "back road" to Warsaw, and which is an ideal spot for a picnic, close to the road, yes, but delightfully secluded also. At the "Y" where Queen street and Strickland street meet, take the right hand road and go on for a couple of miles till you come to the rock which towers on its rocky height to the left of the road. A view which is decidedly worth while is to be obtained from the top—Buckley's lake to the south east and miles of beautiful country to be seen in every direction. Water can be obtained from an excellent farmhouse well about a quarter of a mile away, and there are the stone fireplaces built by other picnic parties on which one can cook a meal to satisfy the hearty appetite which the climb stimulates. A favorite resort with some beauty lovers, it has never attained the popularity its charms merit, as the road is not a main highway for tourists and the local people too often regard far-away fields as bonnie, and the charms of home beauty spots are ignored.

A Beautiful View

Motorists who love a beautiful view will do well to pause for a few minutes on the top of "Finlay's Hill," about half way between Lakefield and Peterborough on the Smith side of the river. The river winds about in the valley with its wooded shores and on the other side are beautiful farm homes, tree shaded and away beyond, when the air is clear, one can see the blue haze over Rice Lake and the Otonabee hills. At this season especially, it is well worth transferring to the artist's canvas.

Motor Camp

In order to keep pace with the demands of the present day, the property acquired by the village some years ago for a park and known locally as Hague's Point, has been converted into a motor camp and each year sees an increasing number taking advantage of it. There is a good well in the park and roads have been built to it and around it, but unfortunately there has never been a really adequate sum placed in the hands of the committee which would enable them to put the place in really first-class shape. There is ample camping space, beautiful trees and unsurpassed scenery, and being in close proximity to the village the camper is enabled to buy his supplies conveniently. Two hotels and two restaurants cater to the demands of the hungry public and a good meal can be obtained at a charge of fifty cents and upward.

Cement stoves would be a great addition to the park, but at present funds are insufficient but stone fireplaces have been built and delectable meals cooked thereon.

The opportunities for boating and bathing are excellent and a camper may spend a really delightful holiday at the park.

"Westove"

An old house with a strong interest for those who enjoy Canadian literature, is "Westove," the residence of the late Catherine Parr Trail, who was one of the pioneers among women writers of Canada. In the age old garden surrounding the unpretentious house, one can feel the presence of the beautiful spirit which loved tenderly all the works of the Lord and in her books, love of Nature, with its flowers and birds, especially figuring in her books.

The best yields of potatoes are generally obtained from sandy or gravelly clay loams.

A fore-and-aft rigged vessel, originally of two masts, but later with as many as seven, is called a schooner.

through the city over this most beautiful water route each year. There are 235 miles of navigable water in the Trent Waterway between Trenton on Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay on Lake Huron.

Fenelon Falls, situated on the Fenelon River between Sturgeon Lake and Cameron Lake is also reached by motor or rail. Here is an angler's paradise, and a wonderful view of the falls for sightseers. The Kawartha Hotel supplies fine accommodations.

The best known of the most westerly of the Kawartha Lakes is Sturgeon, the lake takes the shape of a huge "L," at the angle of which is situated Sturgeon Point, with its village and post office, store, boat livery and connections with Lindsay. Here regattas are held, and the rice beds in the mouth of the Scugog River make fishing ideal.

Coboconk is the gateway to Balsam Lake, and necessary supplies can be obtained from the village for any outing. Inviting stretches of water, and Grand Island with its thousand acre ranch, are attractions not to be overlooked, not to say anything about the fishing in the vicinity where the copper spoon lures the 'lunge, and worms and minnows catch the bass. To the west is Kirkfield with its lift-lock and tourist accommodations. Here one can also wile away the hours with tennis and golf.

To the north of the Kawartha Lakes lies a great stretch of beautifully-wood country with its rugged hills and hundreds of small lakes and streams constituting a veritable paradise for the angler, hunter and canoeist. This is known as the Highlands of Haliburton and is famed for its cool, inviting climate; great stretches of primeval forests, magnificent lakes which form a waterway called by the Indians the Kashagawigamog Lakes.

Competent authorities assure us that the fishing on the lakes is not up to the standard it was ten years ago; but there are still fine catches made every year, and with an awakened interest on the part of the public and a more adequate conception growing up of the splendid asset the community possesses in the adjoining playgrounds, there is every prospect of pressure being brought to bear successfully upon the government with the object of having the water restocked in such a way as to have this equal to any fishing grounds in the Dominion.

In this ultra-modern age, with its increasing demands on the nervous system, no better counsel can be given than that which bids us heed the call of the wilds. Who can gainsay the wisdom of leaving behind for a short time the cares of business and the hectic pleasures of the city for life on the shores of a forest girdled lake, where the roar of city traffic is exchanged for the music of trees swaying in the wind, and where one is close to Nature?

The country surrounding these lakes is very beautiful and varied. There are no monotonous level stretches; the roads are good and wind in a most picturesque way through fertile farm lands and stretches of woodland. As one presses further into the north, the farms become scarcer and the woods become more frequent and denser. Many streams and secluded nooks offer their locations to the camp seeker who may be touring the country by motor.

The hills and valleys, sometimes covered with green fields or farther north lift their massive forms into the sky covered with lefty forests that in the Fall glow with every color and hue known to mankind.

The roads are excellent in most parts of the country, nearly all now being county or government supervised. The farmer in the district who has supplanted the horse for the motor car finds it to his advantage to keep them in the best of condition, and so aids the tourist in his rambles through the playground of the Kawartha Lakes.

Peterborough is the Gateway of this region, and from here radiates in every direction, railroads, highways, and waterways to the numerous modern resorts in her district.

Rice Lake, to the south of the city, is a most beautiful lake surrounded by high shores broken with farm lands and wooded hills, with low-lying islands on its surface, and rice beds around the edges of the lake. These beds harbor the pickerel and the 'lunge that give the fisherman a thrill to catch on his line.

Numerous resorts dot the shores and Bewdley, on the highway, is a popular drive on Sundays.

There is no place in Ontario that has the resort advantages of Peterborough and the beautiful surrounding district of the county. It is truly The Gateway to a Summer Playground.

THE RIVER ROAD.

(By L. H. G.)

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

Turning south from the Norwood road at "Pallin's" Corner, which is nine or ten miles from the city, one traverses several miles of the loveliest piece of road imaginable. Following as it does the benda of the Indian river, it has beautiful curves every few rods. Every here and there one catches glimpses of the river through the intervening trees. For part of the way there is a wonderful hillside covered with woods. Almost every Ontario tree can be seen somewhere along the route. Tall, spreading elms, beautiful glistening birches, soft maples, sugar maples, beech balsam, spruce, cedar, tamarac, hemlock, poplar, pine, beside wild cherry, wild plum, wild apples, sumach, red willow, and hawthorn now beautiful with their white mantle of bloom, also balm-of-gilead with their splendid perfume. And ferns everywhere, with rushes, cat-tails, etc., to be seen here and there. Along the cultivated fields by the roadside is a row of cedars twenty feet or so in height forming a wonderful natural hedge. A few weeks ago the woods were dotted with red and white trilliums, also a large pink trillium which is apparently a cross between the red and the white, adder's tongues, blue and yellow violets, Jack-in-the-pulpit, hepaticas, cowslips, etc., making a wonderful scene of beauty. At one place a tiny rill winds down the hill, passes underneath a culvert, and joins the river. In another place one sees a small hillside covered with wild honeysuckle. The appearance every here and there of an apple tree (they were wonderful not long since with bloom) seems to indicate that at one time human habitations with their orchards were nearby. But scarce a glimpse does one get of a human habitation except an occasional glimpse of a farmhouse far off the road.

Two or three miles before one reaches Keene one passes through the picturesque village of Lang, with its saw-mill, grist mill, some pretty homes, and two or three old stone ruins showing where fire has raged and left only ruins.

The northern part of our country and Northern Ontario generally has scenes of more rugged grandeur but for sheer natural beauty we commend a drive over "the river road," but unless one "snails" along and stops occasionally one misses much of the beauty.

The demand for ostrich feathers has declined to the point where they are being used for duster s.

Overlooking the dam at Young's Point is situated the Lakeview Hotel, which has been entirely remodelled this year and is being operated under a new management. There are most commodious quarters for small week end and for evening parties coming out from the city to dance or play cards. In the hotel proper there is accommodation for forty guests. The hotel is equipped with an electric lighting system and the hot and cold water system is automatic which makes an abundance of water sure. A plumbing system has been installed and the hotel is entirely made over and redecorated. In the pavilion is a player piano and a large orthophonic victrola to supply the music for dancing.

On the shore front of the hotel have been built modern dressing rooms for those who want to take advantage of the fine swimming facilities, and there is also being built a tennis court.

VOL. LXI., No. 150 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1928 PRICE THREE CENTS

LAKEFIELD CITIZEN MEETS ACCIDENTAL DEATH

WILLIAM HENRY AWARDED $2654 FOR INJURIES FROM FALL ON ICE

Aged Man Awarded Damages in Suit Against City of Peterborough.

NEGLIGENCE FOUND.

No Steps Taken To Warn Pedestrians of Ice Or To Remedy Conditions, Judge Finds.

Damages of $2,654, with costs, were awarded William Henry in his suit against the city arising out of a fall on the street, by which he sustained injuries on February 20, 1927. He asked for $5,000. The case was heard at the June sessions of the County Court before His Honor Judge Huycke. The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, and F. J. Hughes, K.C., represented the city. The judgment follows:

"This is an action for damages against the City of Peterborough for negligence. The negligence charged is permitting ice to accumulate on the street and to become in a very dangerous condition. On February 20th, 1927, the plaintiff, an old man of nearly seventy years, was walking on Brock street, coming from his place of employment to his home to his dinner about, or a little after mid-day. He was walking on the south side of Brock street and reached a point some few yards west of George street, which is the main street of the City of Peterborough: he there fell and sustained very severe injuries. From some minor injuries he has fully recovered, but he sustained a fracture of the hip which is so serious he has not recovered, and the doctors say, never will. He is unable to work and will remain so, unable to perform his usual, or any, manual labor. He went on crutches for a long time, but now walks with a cane.

"He spent $154.00 in medical, hospital and nursing bills. He was earning $50.00 a month prior to the accident, and sues the city for $5,000.00 for damages sustained.

"In order to maintain his action, he must establish gross negligence on the part of the city. Just what gross negligence is, or must be, it is very difficult to say. Anglin C. J. has wisely said the terms is indefinable, and it is of course a matter of degree only. I assume the Statute by this term must mean something more than ordinary carelessness, or may be thoughtlessness; but it is very difficult to draw the line for negligence is negligence in any event.

"The circumstances in this case are that immediately opposite where the plaintiff fell stood a house and a shed some few feet back, the water from the north side of both of them falling down and running on the slope down to the street. In addition to that, just west of the shed is a large covered rink, running north and south, the water and snow coming from the east side of the roof falls on the ground, and from about half way down runs water coming from the shed and house mentioned when it too comes on the pavement on street. This, in time of flood, makes a considerable amount of water, which runs down on the pavement in question, and in winter naturally freezes there. In addition it was shown that the sidewalk, or pavement, there is usually cleared by a snow plough, and that in time the snow plough makes an enbankment on each side, leaving a furrow or depression on which pedestrians must go. Such was the condition of affairs when the plaintiff fell, and it is established that there was on the pavement a considerable lenght of glare ice, fifteen to eighteen feet in length slightly covered with snow, with nothing to warn, or protect, the pedestrian from the existing danger. There is little or no dispute about the existing facts as described.

"The evidence further indicates that there had been heavy storms and mild weather resulting in a thaw causing an overflow of water, followed the day before the accident by frost which solidified everything. It is customary in Peterborough that sand should be put upon these dangerous places protecting the pedestrian, but there is no evidence indicating the existence of sand at this particular place at this time. In fact the evidence clearly negatives it being there. The evidence for the defence as to sanding is very unsatisfactory. The engineer, Mr. Parsons, knew nothing about it, and one Barton, whose duty it is to look after the sanding, was so very indefinite and uncertain that little or no effect can be given to what he says. In addition to this the Engineer says that he put in a requisition for the year 1927 for what he considered a proper amount for sanding the streets in winter, and that this requisition was cut in two, the amount granted being wholly inadequate.

"The drain to relieve the situation had become filled with ice and blocked up, so in time of thaw there was no egress for the surplus water. The street inspector had been notified of this prior to the accident, and was asked to have it opened up to meet flood conditions. Nothing was done by the city, which thus had the knowledge brought home to it of the existing dangerous condition.

"The combination of all these circumstances to my mind clearly shows gross negligence on the part of the

Fires In Two Cars Give Firemen Runs

Two noon hour calls, both of which were due to fires in motor vehicles, occupied the attention of the firemen to-day, the first coming in at 12.12 p.m. from the corner of Simcoe and George streets where a short circuit from the battery of a Trenton Cooperage Company's car had caused a small fire. One pyrene extinguisher sufficed to eliminate the danger.

A large McGlashan transport truck was also endangered by fire, the call for assistance coming in to the department at 1.20 p.m. Some damage was done by the blaze which was extinguished by a pryrene and a Phomene extinguisher.

WALTER JOPLING RAISES COONS FOR SALE TO OTHER RANCHERS

Has More Than Fifty Fine Animals at Chemong Ranch.

BOUGHT FIRST AS PETS.

Coons Become Quite Tame in Pens—Are Very Clean, Especially in Eating.

Walter A. Jopling, butcher at 461 George street, has a large coon ranch at Chemong. He does not raise coons in order to pelt them but for sale to other breeders.

He started in the coon business quite a while ago, but only with the intention of raising the animals for pets. He purchased a pair and had them in the back of his store for about a month. They used to play around and did not cause any trouble but often were a great deal of pleasure.

One year ago last January he purchased eight more, some males and some females, and went into coon raising as a business. Now he has between fifty and sixty of the nicest animals in the country. All his stock, with the exception of one pair, is ranch raised. This pair by this time has acquired a domestic air and is quite content in the pens.

His ranch is located at Chemong. Here he has twenty-one enclosures, regulation coon pens 10 feet square and 7 feet in height.

These pens are wired on all sides as well as at the top and bottom. They are wired on the top so the coons cannot climb out and on the bottom so they cannot dig their way to freedom. In the pens are kennels 3 feet by 2 feet which are 10 inches above the ground. The coons enter their little homes from the bottom through a ten-inch hole which is cut in the bottom of the kennel. The kennels are divided into two compartments. In each pen are kept two pans of water all the time. A large tub of water is for the coons to play around in and to wash themselves in. These animals are very clean and wash everything before they eat it. Besides this larger water receptacle there is a drinking cup on the side of the pen.

Have Varied Diet.

Feeding time is twice a day, in the morning and at night, and the coons will eat about everything a dog will eat. Everything they are fed is cooked except fish. Their diet is quite varied and consists of meat, cereals, fish and bread and milk. They are very fond of apples and pickling pears. They will do anything for sweets as their weakness seems to be a sweet tooth. They are very fond of sugar and cake. Some of the less shy will coax quite knowingly for the sweets while others are not quite so bold and will wait until they are treated, after

BUILDING DAMAGED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, June 27.—On Friday evening what seemed but a slight electric storm passed over this vicinity but during its course a school house was struck. The teacher, Miss V. Bothwell, had remained after four to finish some work. Being busily employed, she did not notice particularly the approaching storm.

She was standing at her desk, which is just below the chimney and in front of the library cupboard, when the lightning hit the top of the school, entered the chimney and proceeded into the school, doing considerable damage.

Miss Bothwell was dazed for a few minutes, falling against the cupboard, but fortunately had presence of mind to make for the open air as quickly as possible, although she could not see plainly where she was going. She managed to get to her boarding house, which is only a very short distance from the school and as soon as she told what happened, Mr. Martin went to the school and found that considerable damage was done.

The chimney was blow off as well as several boards and as the bolt proceded into the school pipes were knocked down and window panes cracked while others were broken to pieces. Several desks were destroyed while others were damaged. Several things which fell out of the cupboard were destroyed, books and papers that were lying on Miss Bothwell's desk were blown off and her desk is cracked in several places. The cupboard is slivered at the side as well as the top and in fact all around but where Miss Bothwell was standing shows signs of the storm.

The bolt escaped at the back of the building, raising the floor and hurling large pieces of cement away from the school, then furrowing across the school yard until it came to the wire fence.

Fortunately there was no one in the school but Miss Bothwell who escaped with a slight shock, but had it been a half an hour sooner it would have caused several deaths.

BOY MISSING FROM FARM

George Charlesworth, 16, Runs Away From Roy Porter's Home.

BICYCLE TAKEN.

George Charlesworth, a 16-year-old English home boy, has been missing from the farm of Roy Porter in the Township of Otonabee, about seven miles from this city, since Sunday night. Some time during the night the boy disappeared, leaving a note saying he had gone back to the home in Toronto. The next morning a new C.C.M. bicycle, the property of Victor Fairburn, who lives on the next farm, was missing. The city police and Provincial Constable Thompson have been notified, but as yet neither the boy or the bicycle has been found.

It is thought that he did not start for the home, but has gone to his brother, who lives in Hastings County. The boy is described as having the appearance of a boy 17 years old with black hair, brush cut, with a rather pleasing expression and a notable English accent. When he left, he was dressed in either a light suit or working clothes and was carrying a club bag. The bicycle was pointed green with double crossbars and a large headlight.

The police department wishes to be notified if anyone has seen the boy.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL IS WELL ATTENDED

Mark Street Ladies' Aid Holds Most Successful Lawn Festival.

Mark Street United Church lawn presented a gala appearance last evening, with its many flags and bright colored pennants floating in the breeze and its numerous bright lights.

Despite the many other attractions of the evening a large crowd assembled there for the ice cream social held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the church. Boorman's orchestra enlivened the evening with many bright, catchy selections. Numerous small tables dotted the lawn, at which refreshments were served, looking exceedingly attractive with their snowy linen covers and vases of peonies and bridal roses.

Surrounding the lawn were the stands, where one could buy all kinds of sweets. A table of home-made cooking was very tempting with a fine assortment of delicacies displayed, which found ready buyers. Mrs. W. Payne and Mrs. Matchett were in charge. A candy table with many pretty baskets and boxes was in charge of Mrs. Record. Mrs. J. Speer, in charge of the ice cream booth, was kept busy, and close competitors were Miss Whattam and Mrs. Binks, who sold soft drinks near by.

During the evening, Rev. Mr. Thornley spoke a few words of appreciation to the members of the orchestra and the ladies who had worked so hard to make the social a success. Mrs. Hurl, president of the Ladies' Aid, acted as general convenor.

ONTARIO FIRE LOSS SMALLER

More Fires During 1927, But Loss is Lowest in Several Years.

CITY LOSS LOWER

Fire Chief George Gimblett has recently received a copy of the Fire Marshal's report for the year 1927 and in it is to be found a wealth of information including an analysis of causes of fire for the year; classification of properties destroyed or damaged by fires; fatalities and injuries from fire; investigations, arrests and convictions; and fire prevention inspections.

Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton says in part: "For the fourth successive year we show an increase in the number of fires which have occurred in the province but a reduction in the amount of the loss incurred thereby." The comparative figures for the past five years are then given, showing that while the number of fires in 1927 was 11,506 as compared with 10,941, the previous high mark established in 1923, the loss was only, $11,678,333.00 as compared with $18,344,587.00 in 1923, while the other years between 1923 and 1927 all showed a higher fire loss than the year just closed.

The Fire Marshal continues: "References to the statement on page 6 of the fire loss in our four largest cities will show that the aggregate loss was $230,460.00 less. It is also worthy of note that 41 per cent. of the total number of fires in the province took place in the four named cities; the proportion of the loss sustained thereby in proportion to the whole loss of the province was 28½ per cent. Considering the congested values in these cities, the record is a tribute to fire department efficiency."

VERDICT RETURNED BY JURY IN JOHN HAGGARTY INQUEST

Laborer Succumbs From Bullet Wound

OTTAWA, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Clem Mysiack, who was brought to Ottawa from Rock Lake, Ont., on Monday afternoon, with a .22 calibre bullet in his body, which was thought to have been self-inflicted, died at the Civic Hospital shortly after six o'clock last night. An inquest will be opened to-day.

Mysiack, who was a section man employed by the C.N.R., and who lived alone at Rock Lake was found late Saturday night by some of his fellow workmen on the floor of his house with a rifle beside him and a bullet wound in his breast. He was brought to the Ottawa hospital without delay.

Find Deceased Had Entered Bin Without Safety Harness Supplied By Company.

WITNESSES CALLED.

Recommend That in Future Safety Rules Be Adhered To By Employees.

(By Staff Reporter.)

LAKEFIELD, June 27.— That John Haggarty met his death accidentally on Saturday, June 23, while in the employ of the Canada Cement Company, was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury yesterday afternoon. According to evidence submitted at inquest, and contrary to the rules of the plant, the deceased, John Haggarty, descended into a bin in the early morning of Saturday last without attaching to himself the proper harness supplied by the company for such work as he was engaged in on that night.

The coroner's jury recommended that in the future the safety rules of the company be adhered to. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the inquest before Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith.

The evidence submitted at the inquest showed that the company had taken extraordinary precautions and posted regulations that all employees before descending into the bins would attach to themselves the proper harness provided and that a second man would be there to assist any workman who was engaged in the clearing of the bins after a rain.

Haggarty on the night he met his death was picking the material in the bin so that it would run more freely through the chute, as there had been considerable rainfall that day. As to how he became completely covered by the stone and clay in the bin no witness could say, but from E. W. Bailey, the superintendent of the plant several ways were suggested. Haggarty previous to the time of the accident, had been having his lunch at the top of the bin, and Mr. Bailey suggested that after his lunch he might have stepped on the crust in the bin to find that it gave way with his weight, as the machinery had been working while he was eating, and there was a hole around the hopper. Or he might have descended to the bottom of the hopper and the earth and stone caved in around him.

Only Eye-witness.

Frank Pringle, a fellow-employee, was the only eye-witness to the accident and the first called upon to give evidence. Usually, according to Pringle, there had been two workmen in each bin but on this night he and Haggarty had been working in different bins. At 12.25 they had their supper at the top of the bin, and at about 12.45 they returned to their work of picking the wet material so that it would run freely through the chute. Pringle got the hole in his chute filled up and his bin cleared, and in a few moments he heard Haggarty call for a rope. When Pringle got to the top of his bin he secured the safety rope and threw it to Haggarty, who was sinking in the clay and stone in the bin. After several unsuccessful attempts to rescue the man, who was being quickly enveloped by stone and clay from the sides of the bin Pringle sought further help.

George Charlton, night foreman, was called upon to give evidence. He claimed there was no way in which a man could fall if there was a cavity in the bin after it had become filled or partially filled with rock and clay, and the only safe procedure to follow was to attach the harness provided by the company, around the workman's body, so if there was a landslide the workman would not be carried into the hopper at the bottom.

Dr. Fraser viewed the body at 9 a.m. and identified it as John Haggarty. He believed the deceased came to his death by suffocation.

Superintendent Takes Stand.

E. W. Bailey, the superintendent of the plant, when called upon to give evidence, said that the accident occurred in the rock drier building, which was composed of four bins. On the night of the accident, the clay and stone was wet, and had to be

THE WORLD ON THE WING.

The first number of Canadian Aviation, a monthly issued by the Aviation League of Canada, is welcome not only because its advent in the field stresses the progress that is being made in the development of flying in this country, but also because of its well written articles, interesting illustrations and general air of brightness.

Included in its contributors to the first issue are General J. H. MacBrien, head of the Aviation League, E. W. Beatty, Sir Henry Thornton and other well-known Canadians, whose prophecies in regard to the future of flying in this country are of much interest.

There is a place for such a publication as this, devoted entirely to the promotion of aviation in Canada, and it can readily be accepted that as time passes and flying developes, as it is bound to in this land of immense distances, "Canadian Aviation" will continue to exert a continually greater influence in its efforts to arouse the people of the Dominion to a realization of the possibilities that exist in the air.

Truly, the world is on the wing, and Canada cannot afford to lag behind.

THE VACATION NUMBER.

To-day The Examiner publishes its annual vacation number, with the summer resorts of our particular district featured.

The articles describing the beauty spots in close proximity to this city should serve to convince citizens of Peterborough that they are particularly fortunate in having so many summer resorts at their very door.

We do not appreciate our good luck in this respect.

Our home city is in truth a summer playground in itself, and close at hand are some of the most beautiful lakes in the Province.

Are we getting all the benefit we might out of this condition?

Or are we shutting our eyes to the beauty all round us and travelling far from all this charming scenery to spend a holiday in some hot American city, from which all who can escape have fled in search of the things we have right here at home?

It seems to The Examiner that every ingredient for a real holiday can be found in our neighborhood, and that more of our people should take advantage of what their own district offers them.

MORE HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION.

The City Council has decided to accede to the request of the Nicholls' Hospital Board, and will submit a bylaw to the Protestant ratepayers asking them to authorize the expenditure of $300,000 for additional hospital accommodation.

That such accommodation is needed cannot be denied, and the provision of 65 more beds in accordance with the board's plans would seem to be an absolute necessity, in view of the fact that the present hospital facilities are taxed to their utmost.

Peterborough has, unlike most municipalities, escaped very lightly in the matter of expenditure upon hospitals, the facilities of Nicholls' Hospital having been available for over forty years without any capital cost to the people of this city and with very little expenditure for maintenance.

The situation, however, has developed that to keep pace with the increased demands upon it the hospital must be enlarged and modernized, and in view of that condition, there is no other course than to ask the Protestant ratepayers to provide the money needed for this all-important work.

A FEW TRAFFIC DON'TS.

DON'T turn right where electric signals are until foot passengers are clear of the crossing.

DON'T attempt to angle park on west side of streets, or on the north side of streets in the special area. It is a sure way to the police court.

DON'T attempt to pass another car going in the same direction at an intersection.

DON'T hog the road. Keep as close to the right as possible, especially those who want to drive slowly.

DON'T crowd the other fellow too closely, either side or rear. You may get a surprise.

DON'T stop in a public street and hold conversations with people in other cars. Time is precious these days.

DON'T neglect to examine your head and tail lights before leaving the garage as the one head light is very dangerous. It will not be tolerated.

DON'T stop, turn or alter your course without giving the other fellow a signal. It may cost you or some other person a life or limb.

DON'T travel fast where you have not a clear view. Too many accidents are happening.

DON'T try to keep pace with the fire or police vehicles. It is too risky. In other words, don't get in the police court.

"TECH." SUCCESS.

Those who have expressed doubts as to the value of training given at the Windsor-Walkerville Technical School should consider the remarks of Mr. Wallace R. Campbell, vice-president and treasurer of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, in his address to the twelve young men who have just finished their three-year apprenticeship in the tool-room of the local automobile factory. These youths form the personnel of the first graduating class of the school. On their shoulders they have carried the heavy responsibility of establishing the preliminary reputation of their alma mater. That they have acquitted themselves with credit is assured by the remarks of the Ford chief.

In all schools, technical or otherwise, the students are prepared for the future. A good class record gives a boy an excellent standing. But more than that is required. He must be able to apply what he has learned. The practical side of life is fully as important as the theoretical. The boy who succeeds best is he who can learn his lessons well at school and then go out and make the learning count in the performance of whatever work he chooses to follow.

In this respect the Technical scholars are showing proficiency. During the past three years, according to Mr. Campbell, thirty-five boys have been taken on at Ford's as student apprentices. Of these, thirty are still on the payroll. Only five of the boys lacked the application to make good at their jobs. The others are using what they learned in the class-rooms to help them do well what is required in the practical shop.

Nor should mention of the girls be overlooked. For this week's banquet, the food was prepared by the pupils in the household arts department. From all accounts their skill with the frying pan and oven equals that of their boy schoolmates with the tools of the machine shop. The Technical School takes pride in its first graduating class. And the people may be justly proud of their school.—Border Cities Star.

PUBLIC TASTE IS SOUND.

It was an irresponsible journal in the United States that audiences—using that word for convenience to include the spectators in a picture theatre—like the thrill of a bit of crime, but they also want to see the criminals beaten. They do not object to the heroine being tied to the railway track by villains, but their applause is for the rescuers, or the faithful dog who carries the S.O.S.

Critics make fun of the Wild Western novel or play where in the open air and under the wide sky, unpolluted by city life, "men are men." But these are almost invariably wholesome even if they offend the literary sense. They exalt the primitive virtues of courage and kindness, and the fact that the tender-hearted that said that 90 per cent. of audiences in that country wanted sex and crime featured in their theatrical entertainment. That is not true as to Canada, and we doubt if it is true as to the United States, human nature being much the same in the two countries. It is true hero is a prime favorite with the fans shows that their own hearts are in the right place. There is perhaps rather too much physical violence, but it is doubtful if the spectator is often tempted by this example to assault his neighbor. The worst feature is the too free use of deadly weapons.

One of the prime favorites of the picture theatre is shown as a worker in the stockroom of a big store, who is eventually married to the son of the proprietor. This is the old theme of King Cophetua and the Beggar Maid or Lord Ronald and Lady Clare, or that other poem where it is said that "kind hearts are more than coronets." It is romance, and probably does not happen very often, but it does no harm to see social distinctions ignored and innocent, uncalculating love triumphant, and the applause in this case is an evidence of soundness of heart.

These are the popular themes of novels, of spoken plays and of moving pictures, as any one may learn for himself by examining the well-worn books in our public libraries, or observing the spectators of a moving picture. The over-stressing of sex and the glorification of crime are the results of obsessions of men who do not understand human nature. It may be admitted that in regard to humor the public are too easily pleased with crude slapstick comedy. But they like good fun, too, and will enjoy the better instead of the worse if it is put before them.—London Advertiser.

BECOMING AIR-MINDED.

(From Collier's)

Every Saturday afternoon a business man in Springfield, Ohio, flies to Texas to spend the week-end with his wife, who is seeking health in the dry climate of the Southwest.

It is a routine now, as simple as a day's drive in a motor car.

The other day an airman visiting the airport at Tulsa, Okla., remarked the number of planes about at noon.

He was told that oil men were coming in for lunch. These men travel 50 to 70 miles to keep a luncheon appointment and think nothing of it.

A New York broker uses a plane to commute to his farm in Virginia.

As a nation we are becoming air-minded.

The great transcontinental routes of the mail flyers are lighted at night now.

Listen to Secretary Hoover:

"To-day we have 6,000 miles of airways — a further 3,000 under construction. By the end of this year we shall have 9,000 miles of definite airways spanning our country. . . . To-day we have 20,000 miles of commercial flying daily . . . by the end of this year we shall have 30,000. . . . We have to-day 4,000 commercial airplanes, and judging by the orders now in the factories, we shall have 9,000 by the end of this year. . . ."

To-day you can cross the continent in 30 hours at a cost of $400.

The air mail is a permanent utility, expanding steadily in extent, gaining in appreciation. Two days and ten cents take a letter 3,000 miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

We have 1,075 airports in regular commercial use. Germany, thought of as the most advanced flying country, possesses only 62 fields, few with night landing facilities.

Air travel in sound planes with licensed pilots is safe. Last year a record of 1,413,381 passenger miles in the Government mail service was made with but one fatality.

In general air transport service, in a count of 8,485,980 passenger miles, there were but six fatalities.

A total of 39,002,477 miles were covered in our entire aerial activity (not including ocean flights, testing, etc.) with 139 accidents and 108 deaths. Of our total fatalities 80 per cent. were in unlicensed planes.

Accidents occurred where inexperienced pilots took up poor planes. Don't risk a ride in an ancient airplane remodeled by some amateur.

Maurice Graham, champion air-mail flyer, has flown 213,931 miles in 2,220 hours, a distance more than eight times the circumference of the earth, without a single forced landing.

The deve lopment of air travel is merely beginning.

A—The inquiry comes to The Examiner and is forwarded at once to Dr. McCoy in Los Angeles. From there the reply is sent direct to the inquirer. It may take some time, as Dr. McCoy is a very busy man, answering hundreds of inquiries every day.

Where Is Feluja?

E. S. Q—Where is Feluja, mentioned in a news item in The Examiner on Saturday?

A—Feluja is a town in Mesopotamia, on the Lower Euphrates, about 40 miles west of Bagdad, with which it is connected by a railway built by the British during the Great War after the capture of that city. It was occupied by the British on March 19, 1917.

Order of the Eelephant

T. R. Q—Did you ever hear of the "Order of the Elephant?" What is it?

A—The Order of the Elephant is a Danish order of knighthood refounded in 1458 from an earlier institution, and remodelled in 1693. It is limited to 30 knights, exclusive of the sovereign and his sons, and is conferred only upon Protestants. The badge is a white elephant, and the ribbon is of light blue watered silk.

A Thought

DEPRESSED THOUGHTS.

"Have no depressed thoughts"—so said Confucius, the sage. That this is good and wise advice no one can for an instant doubt. For depressed thoughts lower the tone of life — physical, mental and moral. They unfit one of the best work and becloud all his relations with his fellows.

How to rid one's self of depressed thoughts—with all the wrong and sorrow that one sees about him and in himself. That is the question. And that question Confucius did not answer for us. We must listen for the voice of One who has gone deeper into the secret of life than Confucius.

That trumpet call that drives away depression comes to us in the word of Him Who said, "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." To know that truth and goodness and joy are winning the day, and to be on the winning side with the Conqueror—that will dispel depressed thoughts, and fill one's pathway with the sunlight of divine love.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord is worthy to be praised.—II Sam., 22:23.

O Thou Who art the same yesterday, to-day, and forever, as we think back over life, we think how many revelations we have had of Thee. Some days we were very sure that Thou are infinitely kind; some days we have groaned in bitterness. On some of the bright mornings of life our hearts have sung in spite of us; and on the black midnights our hearts have sunk to despair. Yet, Thou art the same Lord; God over all, blessed forever, "Whose property is always to have mercy," and Who hast never requited us according to our sins, but in wrath "hast remembered mercy." Father, we are daring to say to our hearts that what Jesus was, Thou art; that He unveiled Thee for us. As men, tempted and defeated could trust Him, we may trust Thee. As women scorned, trusted Him, nor were disappointed, women to-day may trust Thee. As little children held out their arms to Him, with the unerring response of childhood to goodness, so the children of our homes and hearts may hold out their hands to Thee, Who art the Father of our Lord, Jesus Christ, and of us all.

Accept our thanks for the days past, and our praises for this day, and our heart-full trust for the days to be. In the Name of Christ. Amen.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., June 27 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was again of a very disappointing character, there being only sales of a few loads of oats for nearby shipment.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also quiet, the demand being confined principally to car lots for country account. Prices were unchanged; there was some demand for new crop Argentine corn to arrive and sales of about 25,000 bushels were made at $1.10 per bushel, ex-store.

The flour trade was without any special feature of note; prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades being maintained under a moderate demand.

The tone of the market for all lines of millfeed was steady, but the demand was small. There was no improvement in the inquiry for standard grades of rolled oats and prices were unchanged.

A firm feeling prevailed in the local egg situation owing to the fact that the quality of the stock now coming forward is not so good on account of the warmer weather that has prevailed and the smalled percentage of the higher grades. The consumptive demand was fair and the market was moderately active. The receipts were 2,864 cases.

A feature of the potato trade was the easier feeling which prevailed, and prices ruled 5 cents per bag lower owing to the increased supplies that have come forward and the falling off in the consumptive demand. Sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 80c to 85c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track. The market for American new crop potatoes was steady under a good demand for supples and a fairly active trade was done in No. 1 grade at $4 per barrel,

The tone of the market for imported beans remains firm under a steady demand and rather small offerings and sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made to arrive at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track.

There were no new developments in the butter situation, prices being about steady at the late decline noted, but the value of business showed no improvement. The receipts were 1,420 packages. There was a little more activity in the cheese market, there being an improved demand from spot buyers. In addition, there was some demand from English importers, and as the prices bid were satisfactory to some exporters a moderate amount of business was done. The receipts were 9,85 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Rain delays to harvesting in Kansas and Oklahoma, with hail damage to crops in Nebraska, had a bullish effect yesterday on the wheat market here. Corn also developed strength, owing partly to prolonged wet weather south, accompanied by reports that in farm work there coston will be given preference over corn.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ½ cent to 1¼ cent net higher. Corn finished 1⅝ cent to 2⅜ cents up; oats unchanged to ⅝ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30 cents.

With one-third of the wheat crop in the Southern half of Kansas waiting to be cut, and with messages at hand telling of rainfalls again in progress at various places in the harvest region, the Chicago wheat market quickly developed an upward slant yesterday.

It was of but little avail that bears circulated Canadian despatches detailing the general condition of the Canadian crop as considerably above the average at this time last year. For the moment, the majority of traders appeared to be influenced much more by yesterday's forecast of further adverse conditions ahead for harvesters southwest.

An additional strengthening factor in the wheat market was announcement of some export purchases of No. 2 hard winter for last half of August shipment. The price named was four cents a bushel over Chicago September, f.o.b. Galveston. There was word also of 2,336,000 bushels decrease of the world's available stocks of wheat. Besides, a late binge in corn values tended also to a noticeable degree to exert a rallying effect on wheat.

Active cash demand for corn, together with scantiness of offerings was a feature in the corn market. Moreover, corn belt weather appeared to be too cold and wet for the welfare of corn growth, and receipts in Chicago yesterday amounted to only 32 cars. Oats were more or less responsive to upturns in corn and wheat.

Provisions reflected to government pig survey, showing 4,000,000 pigs decrease in the spring crop.

BIDS FAREWELL TO CONGREGATION

Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Omemee, To Take Over New Charge at Stirling.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, June 27.—Large congregations attended the services in Trinity United Church on Sunday, when the Rev. E. W. Rowland preached his farewell sermons, before leaving for his new charge at Stirling. In connection with the morning service, a pen and pencil were presented to eleven members of the Young Worshippers' League for proficiency in the work allotted to them by the pastor throughout the year. Those receiving the gifts were: Arthur Russell, and Jack Williamson, Fred, Will, Bert and Arthur Weir, Howard, Dick and Doris Vaughan, and Lloyd Rowland. At the evening service, Mr. Rowland gave an interesting synopsis of the early history of his life. The choir rendered two anthems: "Remember Thy Creator," and "Prince of Peace, Control My Will."

Three baskets of carnations adorned the church, placed there by the Nugent family in memory of the late Henry Nugent, and his daughter, Luella.

At the close of the service, Mr. Rowland bade farewell to all present but it was not the final to many. On Monday evening a social evening was held in the Sunday School room, F. C. Ivory acted as chairman and in a few opening remarks expressed his regret at Mr. Rowland's departure, and credited him with the honor which was his, to have served in several pastorates and then come back and spend five successful years as pastor of his home church. Messrs. H. Lamb, D. Weir, R. Poast, F. G. Sandy, Charles Ivory and A. Scott spoke briefly during the evening, while Misses Eva and Lillian Race, Winnifred Poast and Winnifred Bradburn contributed musical numbers. The following address was read by H. Lamb and a set of dishes presented by D. Weir to Mr. and Mrs. Rowland, after which light refreshments were served.

Address Read

"To the Rev. E. W. Rowland and Family:

"We, the members and adherents of Omemee United Church, feel that we could not allow you to depart from our midst without at least briefly expressing our appreciation of the splendid services you have rendered, during the term of your pastorate among us.

Five years ago, when we invited you to become the pastor of this church, we fully realized that it was a serious matter to select a leader in spiritual things, and the position was possibly made a little harder by reason of the fact that you were one of our own boys, born and brought up in our midst; but we had confidence in your ability and consecration, and looking back, we can say that we have been inspired and delighted with the manner in which you have fulfilled the duties of that position; and it is a source of great satisfaction to us that one of our own boys should return and minister to this people in

Rev. J. O. Totton To Take Over New Duties at Bridgenorth Next Sunday.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, June 27.—Sunday was the Rev. J. O. Totton's last Sunday as pastor on the Cavan pastorate. He preached from the fourteenth verse of the fourth chapter of James: "What is Life."

He said no one had ever defined life, but that if you asked a number of persons for their opinion on "What is life", many different answers would be received. Some would express their opinion that life was solely for pleasure, others that it was a time to get all you can, others that it is a bore. He took Judas and Saul as examples in the Bible.

Judas was always asking what he could get from it. He finally sold his Lord for thirty pieces of silver and was afterwards so filled with remorse that he hung himself. Saul had been prosecuting Christ's followers and while on the way to Damascus, Jesus appeared to him, and Saul was converted. Life for him was then a glorious thing. It was lived for the glory of God.

Mr. Totton pointed out the brevity and that it was all too short to do our work in.

Life's uncertainty was another factor, which should tend to make us use our present time. These phases of life and the fact that it is irremediable, cannot be lived over again, might be regarded as the gloomy side of life.

He read passages from the Bible to show us the other or the glorious side of life. "Everything is yours and ye are Christ's." He drew word pictures from these texts to show what a grand thing life really is, if we only take God's way.

The choir sang two numbers, "The Gardens of God" and "I Shall Be Like Him."

Mr. Totton will be on his new circuit, Bridgenorth, next Sunday, July 1.

A board meeting was called in Cavan church on Monday evening to consider supplying the pulpits on Cavan circuit until the new pastor arrives from British Columbia, which will not be for two or three Sundays.

GARDEN PARTY HELD AT CAMPBELLFORD

St. Andrew's Church Annual Gathering Broken Up By Wet Weather.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27.—Had the rain held off for another hour on Monday night St. Andrew's garden party would in all probability have been as great a success as in previous year. The manse lawn was gaily decorated and lighted for the occasion and the crowd was beginning to arrive in force when the rain came on and the people were forced to take shelter under the trees, in the manse and in the church. Even the band was put out of action by the wet weather, and took shelter under the maples till shortly after nine o'clock and then gave it up as a bad job. Those who had come too late for supper on the lawn were accommodated in the basement of the church where tables had been hastily set by the ladies in charge. The several booths did a fair business in spite of the rain.

There was some discussion among the managers as to the advisability of postponing the event till to-morrow night. Others suggested that a dinner be served in the church and a small admission fee be charged. A third suggestion was for a cooking sale. Much of the food that was to have been used at the supper table was disposed of by sale to individuals. The total receipts will be in the neighborhood of $200.00.

ROADS IN MILLBROOK DISTRICT MAKE TRAVELLING PLEASANT

Much To Attract Visitor in Village and Surrounding Country.

FISHING IS GOOD.

Beautiful Rural Scenery On All Sides—Several Places of Interest.

MILLBROOK ,June 27. — Judging by the factthat some cars bearing an American license plate have been passing through the village recently, it becomes apparent that the tourist season is again with us.

The prediction has several times been made that the detour, made necessary by the construction of the new and wider bridge over the King Street Creek, together with the replacing of the old, main drain with one of a more efficient and up-to-date nature, and the further tearing up of the street for the laying of the pavement, all of which will require a period of at least two months' time, will probably considerably lessen the number of cars passing through the village this summer.

In former years, particularly the past two or three summers, many motorists have used this route in travelling from the highway east of the village to the one northward by way of Pontypool, a surprisingly large number of such cars passing through here daily during the tourist season.

Roads Are Good.

Roads in the vicinity are in about as good shape as usual; the approximately five miles eastward to the Peterborough-Port Hope highway cover a hard gravel road, wide enough for cars to pass without difficulty, but owing to the putting in of the new bridge this road will not be used as much as usual by local motorists this summer, the preference being to go north through Cavanville, reaching the highway by way of one of the side lines.

Motorists going to Port Hope through the village will have to use either one of two detours; if they prefer the highway through Bewdley, usually the most popular route, the Bank Street detour, which is clearly marked, is the one to use: this is being put in much better shape at present, the improvements including a new floor on the first bridge, a widening of the roadbed, and the gravelling of the steep hill, eliminating the danger of being stuck in the clay should the weather be wet, and making the ruts less conspicuous.

There is a good gravel road south from the village, going to Port Hope by way of Perry Town, and the detour for this means a trip of two miles or more turning south on Queen Street at the extreme west of the village, and by a winding road coming out where the Fourth Line crosses the main gravel, a right hand turn taking the driver on the direct road to Port Hope again.

Going to Orono, Newcastle, or to Bowmanville, the road to Pontypool is at least not any worse than other seasons; there has been promise of this road being widened and improved, particularly through the swamp, but so far this has not yet been undertaken. Once the highway is reached the going is good, though there are many winding curves between Pontypool and Orono. Side roads are narrow and generally speaking pretty rough.

View Is Fine.

Coming into the village from the east there is a particularly fine view, covering a wide stretch of country, from the top of the rectory hill; indeed the rolling nature of the country for miles around offers opportunity, whichever way the traveller by car may be journeying, for most attractive visions of wooded hills and fertile farm lands, with the blue haze which distance always lends, veiling the horizon line.

The popular picnic grounds at Wallace's Point, and other places on the Otonabee River, Bewdley, Gore's Landing, Harwood, Barnard's Landing, on Rice Lake, Caesarea on Lake Scugog, are among the well-known summer resorts which may be reached readily by car from here.

Scriven Monument.

There are no places of historical interest in the village itself, but it is only a twelve-mile run to the little private cemetery on the Pengelly Farm, Rice Lake, where the handsome monument to the memory of Joseph Scriven stands. This monument, of solid Scottish granite, was erected at a cost of $1,000 raised by popular subscription, and that the amount was fully raised much credit is due the efforts of Rev. Dr. W. Lee, a former pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church here, and at that time chairman of the committee in charge of the Scriven Memorial Fund.

The initial move for giving public recognition to Mr. Scriven's last resting-place was made by a Millbrook "old boy," Judge L. F. Clarry, now of Calgary, who was told by his mother, Mrs. L. S. Clarry, of the neglected grave, and wrote an open letter to the daily papers suggesting action in this matter.

Some fifteen miles going by the gravel road south from here is a second monument to the memory of Joseph Scriven, this having been put up by the rather famous Dr. David Kidd-Byrne from his private purse out of gratitude for favors received in his boyhood days from the author of the well-loved hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

Like several other municipalities throughout Ontario, Millbrook possesses a fine Armouries, thanks to the late Sir Sam Hughes in his Minister of Militia term of office, and the Soldiers' Cenotaph in the Town Hall square aways attracts the interest of strangers. The Town Hall itself is a building that does credit to a place of this size; it is the joint property of Millbrook and Cavan Township, and compares favorably with similar buildings in other, and occasionally larger, towns.

Motor Camp Proposed.

Millbrook does not yet boost a motor camp, though this matter has several times received public attention, and the Women's Institute has discussed taking the responsibility of doing its share in providing this municipal improvement. The site usually mentioned is a natural grove at the foot of Medd's "mountain," which in earlier years was the popular picnic ground for the community. There is a supply of good spring water easily available, the main item of expense being the installation of a lighting system, as the Hydro does not extend that far. Whether any definite move will be made is as yet uncertain.

Accommodation for the travelling public is limited to two hotels, with rates at $3.00 a day, including room and meals, and there are restaurant facilities where meals alone are required. At the hotels meals, or room alone, are 75 cents, and restaurant prices are in proportion.

There are several fine trout streams in this vicinity which attract visitors from Toronto frequently. A well-stocked public library is another community feature, as is also the golf course, picturesquely situated in the Mansion grounds. The golf club has a limited membership since the local "fairway and hazard" has but nine holes. Should tourists be remaining in the neighborhood and desire a change of locomotion, walking is a fine exercise, and the view to be enjoyed after a climb up the "mountain" will well repay the labor involved.

ROADS IN CAVAN IN GOOD SHAPE

Some Fine Views May Be Obtained From Hills of Township.

GOOD TROUT CREEKS.

CAVAN CENTRE, June 27.—Just at present the roads in Cavan are in excellent shape. The county road running from Port Hope through Millbrook and north to Mt. Pleasant is in splendid condition. The county road running from Cavanville to Bethany is in good repair excepting a stretch of about three hundred yards which lies two and a quarter miles west of Cavan village.

When following the county road from Cavan to Bethany, it is well worth while to continue north and leading the Bethany turn climb slowly.

The little town of Bethany, noted as the seats for Manvers Council, is situated on the C.P.R. and exports potatoes and tories. Lying just on the southern suburbs of the town the athletic park enjoys the name of being equal to if not superior to any ball park from Havelock to Toronto.

Directly west of Cavan or one concession south and then two miles west of the gravel road from Ida to Millbrook are two famous trout creeks of Cavan. Either one will repay the modern Isaac Walton.

PRETTY IDA CHURCH.

St. John's Is Picturesque Old Building On Prominent Cavan Hill.

CAVAN, June 27.—Motorists passing through the village of Ida should not fail to see the picturesque old church of St. John's, and the beautiful cemetery on the hillside overlooking the village of Cavanville.

Some of the side lines leading to the highway are in bad condition. The tenth line is good, the eleventh is just fair and the twelfth is very bad, especially the east half which is under construction.

Gustavus Adolphus was the Swedish king who fought in the Thirty Years' War.

FINE FISHING DISTRICT.

Havelock Surrounded By Lakes and Streams Attractive To Tourists.

HAVELOCK, June 27.—Ten out of the twenty-eight years in which the Toronto Star has been donating a prize for the largest small mouthed black bass the prize winning fish has been caught in Belmont Lake, the prize on one occasion going to Horace King of "King's Lodge," Belmont Lake, for a bass weighing 6¾ pounds. Mr. King's brothers have also been winners of the prize.

With Oak Lake, Round Lake and Belmont Lake to the north and Trent river three miles to the south, Havelock is the centre of one of the best fishing districts in the province.

Roads Are Good.

The best roads in the vicinity are from here to Oak Lake and Marmora, the former being in first-class condition as far north as Morris Whitney's farm. The others are in fair condition, namely: Norwood, Cordova and Trent River.

The village has two hotels. The "Armstrong House" is the largest and has twenty-five guest rooms and three sample rooms, with rates at $3.00 per day, including meals. T. Lazaroff is the proprietor of "Queen's Hotel," which has fourteen guest rooms, with rates at $2.00 per day up, including meals.

CAMPBELLFORD HEADQUARTERS FOR FINE FISHING COUNTRY

Town Has Many Attractions To Others Than Visiting Sportsmen.

STORES WELL STOCKED.

Fish Of All Kinds May Be Caught in and Around Town..

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27. — For many years past, there have been three separate and distinct ways of entering and leaving Campbellford. With the coming of the airplane, a fourth method has sprung into existence, the air. Although there is no official flying field in connection with the town, Seymour agricultural grounds have been used to advantage on various occasions in the past when flying machines have visited the town. The Trent River has flowed through the town since the town began, and how many years previous to that is a matter for the scientists to deal with. Certain it is, however, that the renowned explorer, Champlain, passed along the Trent River during one of his voyags into the interior. It has also been stated authoritatively that his Indian guides attempted to appease the wrath of the gods by tossing tobacco into the swirling waters of Ranney Falls on the southern outskirts of the town.

The coming of the railroad is within the memory of some of the older citizens, but the first roads through the then otherwise trackless forests date back to the days when pioneers of the district caried their grain on their backs over the forest trails to the mills at Belleville.

Since that time the roads have increased in number and in quality, till now this district has some of the finest gravel roads which can be made.

The town streets in the business and certain residential sections have for several seasons been treated with oil. This year the paving of two miles of the town streets is well under way, and is contracted to be completed in the next few weeks. Although there is nothing elaborate planned for other streets this season, the usual maintenance program will be carried out and there is a possibility that the pavement will be increased to a certain extent each summer.

To the tourist who has business in the back of his mind, Campbellford has several inducements to offer. Not the least of these is the cheap power rates. Owning, as it does, its own power plant, the town is in a position to quote terms seldom found in the larger centres. Originally the plant was purchased for a sum in the neighborhood of three thousand dollars, but many times that amount would not induce the citizens to part with the "Goose that laid the golden egg." Each year for the past several years, the plant has turned over to the corporation several thousand dollars. This year the tax rate was reduced 14.2 mills by the grant from the Water and Light Commission.

Schools Are Good.

The school system is one of the finest to be found in towns of this size. In the report of the High School inspector, the Campbellford school was rated as "1" in practically every respect. It is a modern institution, built at a cost of approximately $100,000. In it is contained every department from gymnasium to auditorium via the chemistry laboratories and domestic science rooms. The teaching staff is composed of specialists in all the subjects. The public schools also received excellent reports from the inspector this year as in others.

At various points throughout the town are churches representing all recognized denominations of the Christian faith. The Carnegie Free Library is another institution of which the town is proud. With its shelves filled wit hall that is considered best in literature and with a committee appointed to see that the lists are kept up with the latest and best books, its reading rooms stocked with the leading magazines and periodicals, and its reference library for the use of students and seekers of information, the library is one of the largest and best in the district. On the ground floor of the buildnig are the Council Chambers. These rooms are used for various other purposes, such as Division Court and society meetings.

The business section of the town contains many stores where one may purchase mostly anything. The merchants are noted for their courteous service and the obliging way in which they transact their business.

Situated in the midst of a rich farming district and in the heart of a sportsman's paradise, Campbellford offers a variety of attractions. Some of the largest fish have been caught by men who simply fished from the canal walls within the town limits. Water fowl are plentiful in season. The river is open for navigation from Lake Ontario to Lake Simcoe, and passes through some of the most beautiful scenery that is to be found anywhere.

An American tourist who was sailing his yacht up the Trent waterway, remembered on arriving here that he had met a man from Campbellford while in France during the war. Out of curiosity, he made inquiries and found the wartime acquaintance. To him he unloaded such an amount of raving about the scenic beauty of the Trent that the local man thought him slightly "touched." But the American was serious, and so impressed the local man that he took a look at himself, with the result that his views were that of the American visitor. A few years ago one of the leading American weeklies commissioned a writer to write up the Trent water system, and also published large pictures of various points along the route. This paper was not one who wasted its space, and one of the photographs was a view of Ranney Falls, Campbellford.

Many Summer Resorts.

If Campbellford has a tourist camping ground, it is never used. But there is really no call for one, since the district abounds in summer resorts where terms mayl be secured to meet any purse. Percy Boom, Bradley Bay, Crow Bay, Healey Falls, and Trent River summer resorts are all within easy reach of this town. None are more distant than nine miles, and none less than three. All offer ideal sites for summer camps. A little more distant are Crow Lake and Belmont Lake. There are on the Crow River, which is a tributary of the Trent.

Generally, Campbellford is an attractive centre. In the summer, there is the call of the open roads to the great open spaces near at hand. In the other seasons there is always plenty of activities along the lines of sport and society to keep up an active interest. One of the highest recommendations which the town could possibly get is the fact that visitors during the summer months do not come for but one season. They return year after year and seldom fail to express their complete satisfaction.

BOATING AND FISHING ATTRACT MANY VISITORS TO TRENT RIVER

AT KEENE

The impressive war memorial at Keene

WON'T YIELD KUN

VIENNA, June 27 (Canadian Press).—The Austrian Government definitely refused to-day to comply with the demand of Hungary that Bela Kun, fiery Communist who inaugurated the "Red Terror" in Hungary in 1919, be extradited. The refusal was based on the political character of the charges.

Plenty of Accommodation in Hotels and Boarding Houses.

ROOM FOR CAMPERS.

Many Advantages Arise From Situation in Well Settled Part of Country.

TRENT RIVER, June 27.—The roads from Trent River to Havelock are in good condition. There is only one small hill. From Trent River to Campbellford they are in first class condition.

This resort has good boating facilities and fishing is good. We have a memorial erected at the government grounds at the wharf. There is a dance pavilion, a good place to bathe and a park for a motor camp.

There are two hotels, "Cedar Isle" and the "Sedgwick House, and one up-to-date boarding house, "Cook Cottage." The latter caters to the better class of tourists, the same ones returning each year. This resort's rate are $2.50 a day for week-ends but special rates by the wack. A chaige of $5 a day is made for guiding—the guide furnishes motor boat and lunch which is prepared for shore dinners and if a fish is caught near the dinner hour, it is cooked at once for the meal.

A short distance down the canal are grounds owned by T. J. Brown, who rents portions of land at the shore to campers. These places have plenty of shade trees.

Skiffs and canoes can be rented at "Cedar Isle," owned by Mrs. A. Wight. Tourists passing through Trent River by car are unable to see the beautiful scenery up and down the canal, as the route by canal between here and Healy Falls, (seven miles by boat) is dotted with so many small islands.

There is a resort, "Puff-Ball Inn" owned by F. Dobsnea, an American, on what is known as McKenzie's Island, about twenty minutes' run in boat from Trent River. This hotel was built last year, and is lit by an electric plant. This place can be reached by car as there is a large signboard placed on a large tree at Clark's Corners, on the road to Campbellford. The road leads to the island over a small bridge. Boats can be hired at this resort.

There are over fifty cottages here. A number are for rent and there are about six or seven which can be bought at a reasonable figure. These cottages have enough furnishings for light house-keeping.

Henry Pollock also rents boats at Trent River. He is an old timer at the fishing game and as a guide can furnish stories galore about the big ones. He also is a boat builder. The cottagers have many advantages here that places in the North country are without, for instance, a milk delivery twice a day selling bottled milk, two grocieries, one United Church, a blacksmith shop and a post office.

HAVEN OF REST IS WANTASA INN

Many Attractions Provided in Charming Resort at McCracken's Landing.

NEW FACILITIES

Six hundred feet above the level of Lake Ontario, where the climate is cool and invigorating, and where the fragrant odor of the pines makes life a real joy, is found Wantasa Inn, at McCracken's Landing, on Stoney Lake. Surrounded by most picturesque scenery Wantasa Inn offers a haven of rest to the tired business man, who wishes to escape the activities of city life and to avoid the conventionalities of the average summer resort hotel, who desires to get away from everything artificial, to get nearer to nature where he will find mental rest and physical recreation, and where he will enjoy maskinonge and black bass fishing combined with excellent meals and every comfort.

Many and varied ways are provided for the enjoyment of the guests. A cruiser is supplied which makes trips to many interesting points on the lake, including White Lake, Perry's Creek, Eel's Creek, Jack's Creek, and Lovesick Lake and Burleigh Falls.

Shore dinners, the one attraction that a person never wants to miss, are held often for the guests. Splendid bathing facilities are right at the door, those who enjoy dancing can do so in the spacious pavilion, and for those who want to play bridge, Wantasa Inn has added a special attraction this year in its Log Bungalow, which is fitted up for bridge and afternoon tea.

On Sundays and during the week the management puts on special dinners for parties motoring out from the city.

VIAMEDE IS PLACE OF BEAUTY WITH ROOMS FOR 100 GUESTS

Big Frontage On Lake Affords Pleasure and Comfort.

COMFORT PARAMOUNT.

Proprietor Is Indefatigable In Her Efforts to Serve Visitors.

On the mainland near Mount Julian—a pretty hill much like the Hamilton mountain — stands "Viamede," a beautiful summer home where guests are taken throughout the season. Viamede has a frontage on Stoney Lake of 180 feet. This space is utilized by the spacious balconies which afford unlimited pleasure during the day, but especially in the evening when outdoor enjoyment may be had without leaving the building. Beautiful groves of large trees lure the rest-seeker to the very heart of Nature to seek quiet outdoor repose.

Pleasant parlors on both floors supply accommodation for social possibilities and for indoor pastimes. The dining-room will seat 100 guests at once, and is kept well supplied with products of the garden and the dairy, and milk from the home cows.

The bedrooms are bright and airy, and good ventilation throughout the building is especially planned for. The beds are as comfortable as it is possible to procure. The house is lighted with gas and heated with wood stoves when the weather is cold.

Lovers of bathing have here every facility for enjoying the delights of the warm soft water. Bass and maskinonge fishing is excellent and here the best of guides can easily be procured.

Viamede is built on a rock overlooking the lake. Verandahs encircle the house above and below, and there the guests never tire of sitting to watch the ever-changing lake and breathe the fresh air. This air holds out a promise of immediate relief to those who are sufferers from hay fever, for it has been demonstrated without any question that the air of Stoney Lake is a veritable paradise to sufferers from this distressing disease.

Then Viamede is not without its religious services, for every Sunday at the Pavilion on Juniper Island, about half a mile distant, services are held There are also Church of England services at Haultain within easy walking distance, and occasionally in the recreation pavilion at Viamede. The Roman Catholic church is situated at Young's Point, six miles distant, and a gasoline launch is available for those who wish to attend the service. The Brown Boat Company has skiffs and canoes that may be rented. The Viamede store carries a large assortment of everything that a camper, tourist, fisherman, pleasure hunter, or holiday maker would need.

Viamede is Stoney Lake's largest summer hotel holding a standard license and is managed by Mrs. W. L. Ianson, a quiet, unassuming lady, who tries to make everything as homelike and as comfortable as possible for the hundreds of guests that go there every year.

Along with the hotel is the "Graham Gem," a comfortable furnished cottage with five bedrooms and a sitting room, the latter containing a small stove for use in cool weather. The cottage has capacity for eleven occupants, to whom meals are served in the main building.

MAKING CANOES FOR 40 YEARS

Lakefield Canoe Company Ships Product to Many Countries.

USEFUL CRAFT

The Lakefield Canoe Company has been building canoes for forty years, and to-day is known as the premier canoe industry in Canada. The Lakefield canoes have developed to a very high standard with the result that they are now being exported to Europe, Chili, France, Cape Town, and South Africa. The company does not profess to compete with the builders of the cheap class of canoes, but it does claim to give the very best value for money obtainable, and guarantees that in every boat sent out there is good sound material and faithful workmanship.

Lakefield canoes have been awarded gold medals and diplomas at expositions in Philadelphia, Chicago, Antwerp, Paris, and numerous other places. They have been used for exploration work in not only Canada, but in Africa and other parts of the world. The canoe is more easily managed than a rowboat, and with careful handling it is just as safe. It can navigate streams so shallow that progress by any other vessel would be impossible, and a sixteen-foot canoe, when equipped with air chambers, will carry a heavy weight when filled with water.

PRETTY VILLAGE OF MARMORA OFFERS TOURISTS A GOOD TIME

Accommodation in Village and at Crow Lake Are First Class.

SCENERY IS BEAUTIFUL.

Visitors to District Can Satisfy Desire For Fish, Rest Or Fresh Air.

MARMORA, June 27.—Approaches to Marmora and Crowe Lake this summer are in fairly good condition. The most traversed road, that from Marmora to Belleville, having been taken over by the Provincial authorities, will as a result have even better maintenance than formerly. The road leading west, bearing considerable traffic to Peterborough and intermediate towns, may also be described as fairly good. It is generally conceded that the prettiest view of Marmora villege is obtained from its western approach. North to Eldorado and east to Madoc, roads are ragged in some places, but on the whole easily negotiable. A pretty view of the surrounding country is also obtained from the crest of the hill on which the present Free Methodist Church (originally the Presbyterian) stands. On one occasion while viewing this picturesque scene, a modern poet remarked that it recalled to his mind lines of a familiar hymn:

"Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood,
Stand dressed in living green."

Visitors to Marmora are impressed with the elegance of its town hall and the beauty of its churches. It is to the regret of many, that its two oldest buildings now stand in ruins, the one through ravages of time and the other through fire. A century ago, the old Roman Catholic Church graced the western bank of Crowe river. Until the advent of the automobile adjacent grounds proved an ideal spot for many a picnic. It is thought that perhaps in the near future, with the increasing number of cars arriving Summer after Summer, occasion may be taken to utilize these grounds as a motor camp. On the opposite bank of the river stands the ruins of the other century-old building which has served as Marmora's first school.

Good Hotel

The present enlargement of the Royal Hotel will enable Thomas E. Potts, its proprietor, to cope with tourist traffic to a better extent this Summer than during the past few busy seasons, for eighteen new bedrooms bring the total up to thirty-five. The rates at this hostelry are three dollars a day including meals. Four local guides make the Royal Hotel their headquarters, namely Messrs. W. Linn, R. Nayler, T. McQuigge, and W. Bedore. Visitors, therefore, who favor a good day's angling are well catered for in that respect. Five other guides operating from the village and Crowe Lake are Sanford Lawrence, Alphonse Shannon, Julian Bedore, Walter Revoy, and Norman Cooper.

Crowe Lake Resorts

Crowe Lake's two resorts, Tipperary House and Marble Cliff Pavilion are both being managed by A. T. Neil this Summer. At the former establishment there are twenty-three beds while until the arrival of August, four cottages may be rente dat Marble Cliff. The rates are three dollars a day and fifteen dollars and upwards weekly, including meals.

Twelve boats of varied type may be had for hire. Tipperary is also fitted with a fine tennis court. At Marble Cliff, free camping grounds are Beach will prove inviting to hundreds as in past seasons. After July 1st, it is proposed to hold dances nightly in the Pavilion with a first-class orchestra in attendance. Both Tipperary and Marble Cliff are electrically lighted.

On the other inhabited shore of the lake is situated Booster Park. Here facilities have been provided for the camper in the nature of a nice hut equipped with cooking stove. Best of water may be had from the well on the property and with a refreshment stall being run nearby. The tourist patronizing the Marmora Booster Club's provision, has indeed something to write home about if any of his family have been left behind.

CAMP AND HOTEL AT YOUNG'S POINT

Two Popular Sites Available Are Good.

YOUNG'S POINT, June 27.—This village has some splendid camping grounds. The school grounds have accommodations and good spring water and another camping ground is located on the edge of the river. The school grounds have become quite popular as a camping ground.

Anyone wishing to put up at a hotel can do so as the Lakeview Hotel has been fitted out ready for the tourist trade. The rate is $3.00 a day.

ROADS IN FAIR SHAPE TO MOUNT PLEASANT

District Offers Good Travelling With Some Beauty Spots.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 27. — The roads in general around Mount Pleasant are in as good shape as usual. The middle road from Mount Pleasant going north is good; the road from Mount Pleasant east to Peterborough is fair; while the road from Mount Pleasant south to Millbrook is good with the exception of the first mile south which is in bad need of repairs, the surface being worn off, leaving it very rough. The road on the boundary between Emily and Cavan, going west from Mount Pleasant, is bad.

Cemeteries.

The cemeteries in this district are looking their best this year. In the Presbyterian cemetery the grass is all mown and clipped, flowers are placed on the graves regularly and the fountain in the centre of the cemetery presents a very beautiful appearance.

Shield's cemetery is also looking very well, indeed. Both of these cemeteries are a credit to our community in the way they are kept, and much of the credit goes to S. Paragreen, the caretaker, who is ever faithful in his duties.

Not so many years ago these cemeteries were a wilderness, but in recent years great care has been taken in making them beautiful. A new fence has been placed around each of them.

Mr. Paragreen deserves great credit for his diligence in this undertaking. He has made a marked difference on the Emily cemetery also in the past years of his position as caretaker.

VIAMEDE

On the mainland, near Mount Julian—a pretty hill, which, like the Hamilton height, is by courtesy called a mountain—stands "Viamede," a big beautiful summer home, where boarders are taken throughout the season.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

For scenic beauty the Kawartha Lakes stand on a par with any chain of lakes in the world. Some eleven years ago, Belgian Government engineers, who were sent by their Government to inspect the Kirkfield Lift Locks, made a complete tour of the lakes, and said that for beauty they outrivalled any chain of lakes they had ever seen, not excepting the Lakes of Killarney.

The district is among the most popular of Ontario's summer playgrounds.

It is studded with eight hundred islands, which rise from the bosom of the waters and present every shape and size which the mind could conceive.

FISHING

The best fishing in Stoney Lake is within easy reach of "Viamede," many very fine bass being caught off the wharf, and large maskinonge have frequently taken the hook within a line's length of the shore.

Guides—skilled and experienced—can be secured by the day or week in advance, when desired. Bait is procured for guests when desired.

WOODSIDE IS LIKE A HOME WITH VACATION PLEASURES

ROOM FOR 25.

Many Cottages For Rent With Grocery Store Conveniently Near.

To those who wish to escape the activities of city life and to avoid the conventionalities of the average summer hotel, and who desire to get away from everything artificial and to get nearer to nature so that they will find mental rest and physical recreation, "Woodside," situated at Kawartha Park, at the entrance to Stoney Lake, provides a haven of rest.

The steamers make regular calls three times a day, and a good motor road leads directly to it. Splendid bathing facilities are right at the door, with a fine shady beach, and those who enjoy dancing can do so at the pavilion in the park.

Boats, skiffs, and canoes are kept for the convenience of the guests, and may be rented by the hour, week, or month. Black bass and maskinonge abound, and the best fishing in Stoney Lake is within easy reach.

D. H. Charlton, the proprietor, in a small general store, carries a full line of groceries and provisions for the convenience of those who are camping and occupying the numerous cottages.

Woodside itself accommodates 25 boarders. It has electric lighting, which has just been installed this spring. Excellent meals are provided and it offers every home comfort, coupled with the enjoyments of outdoor life. Numerous cottages are always for rent for one or more weeks during the summer season.

MUCH TO ATTRACT PEOPLE TO STIRLING

Village and District Offer Beautiful Scenery and Water Pleasures.

STIRLING, June 27. — The village of Stirling, situated at the foot of the Oak hills, nestled in the Trent valley, about 2½ miles from river and famous Trent canal, has many natural beauty spots, which it would be hard for an artist's brush to even copy. From the height of land near Oak Lake, a wonderful range of vision can be enjoyed, taking in the shores of Prince Edward county, the Bay of Quinte, and the smoke of the factories of the city of Belleville 12 or 14 miles away towards the south-east.

Oak Lake, formerly known and called the "Oak Hill pond," is apparently a large spring of pure water, having no visible inlet, but many small creeks have their source from it. It has of late years become the summer home for quite a colony of people, and the shores are lined with cottages, occupied by those who have come considerable distances, as well as our own villagers who enjoy the natural beauties of this summer resort on the highway leading from Belleville to Stirling.

After passing the lake tourists will be amazed at what may be observed in the distance as they begin to descend into the valley towards Stirling. In the north the rising range of hill and dale, is the township of Rawdon. Towards the west, and left, a white silver stream curling its way from the northwest, may be noticed. This is the Trent river, a splendid place to spend a day's fishing. Trout fishing may be enjoyed at a point near Springbrook, on the Marmora road, about nine miles north of Stirling; also in Huntingdon township, about seven miles east of here.

Upon reaching the village the tourist will find two neat and cleanly kept hotels, as well as restaurants and groceries aplenty, but no real tourist camp ground. A rest room, with all conveniences, is nearly ready for occupation, and is a part of the large community building and opera house, recently opened for public use, and is a valuable asset to the village.

If the tourists have time to stroll or drive our principal streets they will notice the beautiful flower beds and well kept lawns, in which the residents take great pride. This condition is fostered and encouraged by a very much alive Horticultural Society, and the summer water system, another valuable village asset.

The roads in our immediate vicinity are in good shape now. The county road men under Mr. Dafoe, have improved the Campbellford and Ridge roads, where they enter the village, and will soon begin preparing the streets which the county authorities intend to permanently improve by concrete paving.

EYE TRANSFER SUCCESS

BUFFALO, June 27.—That medical science of the future will be capable of transferring human eyes, is the prediction of Dr. Lucine Howe. After 20 years of research on the subject, Dr. Howe has succeeded in transplanting eyes from the lower classes of animals to those of the same species.

LONG POINT IS GROWING IN POPULARITY WITH MANY

Cottagers Becoming More Numerous—Chemong is Attractive Spot.

GOOD BEACH.

Floating Bridge is Near at Hand With Its Universal Attraction.

LONG POINT, June 23.—Long Point, situated on the shores of beautiful Lake Chemong, about three miles north of Chemong Park, is becoming quite a popular summer resort.

The first cottages were built two years ago by Messrs. Harry and Sheldon Huffman and now there are six lovely cottages, two of which are being erected this summer for Ira Moore and Mr. Fry of Peterborough.

Five minutes walk from "Long Point" takes one to Mr. Fowler's cottage. This as well as a beautiful picnic and camping grounds is available for rent for picnic and camping parties. The shore along this part of the Lake is also a beautiful bathing beach.

Chemong Park and Bridge.

Many of the summer tourists who visit Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes would do well to pay a visit to Chemong Park, situated 6 miles north of Peterborough. This park presents a very pretty appearance with its red, blue and yellow lights dotted through the pines, while at Chemong Park it is well worth anyone's while to drive half a mile north and view the longest floating bridge in the world. This bridge crosses Chemong Lake and connects the township of Smith and Ennismore.

MAJOR HOOPLE ARRIVES HERE ON HIS VACATION

To the strains of "Dixie", "Sweet Rosie O'Grady", and "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-night", played by the Bands of the Peterborough Rangers, the Salvation Army, the Caledonian Pipe Band, and Dugan's Jazz Band, all in unison, Major Amos Hoople was welcomed to Peterborough on vacation today. Even Mayor Denne paused in his business of managing the Exhibition, the War Memorial, and the ordinary run of city business to extend the keys of the city's ice-chests Hoople came to Peterborough from certain other resorts which he says are unwisely boosted. After Secretary Frank Stinson of the Chamber of Commerce (etc.) had told him something of Peterborough's modest claims to tourist preference, the Major told a reporter, "Egad, once again my unfailing wisdom is vindicated"—with which sentiment The Examiner hastens to ally itself.

After his tremendous ovation from the air field to the hotel, scores of newspaper writers interviewed the Major and asked him for his candid views of the city of Peterborough. The Major cagily refused to commit himself to the assembled throng, but The Examiner scored a scoop by catching him at an opportune moment and applying the proper stimulant. After regaling the reporter with a thrilling account of his experiences when his ship struck the Great Wall of China and was wrecked, followed up by a heart-to-heart denunciation of certain claims made by lake-shore towns to prettiness and hospitality, the Major declared Peterborough to be the most hospitable, beautiful, charming, lovely, exciting, elegant, symmetrical, comely, brilliant, and architecturally perfect city he had ever seen, with a wealth of amusement, entertainment, diversion, solace, passetemps, fun, joviality and divertissement not encountered in any of his previous wandering to and fro on the face of the globe.

When The Examiner reporter had jogged his memory two or three times, Amos recollected his well-known gallantry, and declared with that impressiveness that has made him an internationally-known character, "And your women-folk; egad, man, I have seen the women in the harem of the great Sultan, the houris of India (excuse his mixed metaphors please—Ed.) and I have gazed in rhapsody on the original statue of the Venus de Milo, but never have I seen, anywhere at any time, women more beautiful and gracious and charming than on the streets of your fair city."

Before he had been here an hour, the Major had obtained the lowdown on all summer resorts in this vicinity, and was ready to speak with authority on the advantages and handicaps of any of them. His long air-trip from Houston, Texas, after his turn-down at the gate there (see the regular cartoon today—Ed.) had not exhausted him at all. "Egad, my lad, never have I seen so home-like a hostelry as your's", said the Major when the bell-boy at the Empress gazed in open-eyed wonder at the labels on the suitcase, "Cairo, China, Paris, Rome, London, Hong Kong, Yokohoma, Millbrook Petherick's Corners and Borneo". "South Beach" the impressible Major continued to The Examiner, "recalls to my mind the silvery strands of Hawaii, where I spent many happy hours clothed only in the native leis, the while I strummed dreamily on the ukelele.

Hmmm—and Stoney Lake brings to mind my thrilling experiences on Lake Tanganyika in darkest Africa, when I was exploring with my friend Stanley; only here the huge fishes takes the place of crocodiles there. As an expert in vacationing, A-R-Rumpf!—I know of no better place to spend a holiday than Lakefield Inn, South Beach Hotel, Kawartha Park, Mt. Julian, Viamede, Young's Point, Juniper Island, Buckhorn, Burleigh Falls, Wantasa Inn, West Lake Inn, Lakefield, or, in fact, Egad! anywhere in this splendid district. Just a little, please: the air IS dry hereabouts."

The reporter murmured something about "hot air", and endeavoured to switch the conversation to political topics. When asked what he thought of the present administration in Canada, however, the wily Major excused himself on the grounds that he was being paged—though the usually veracious reporter declares he heard no name called.

OMEMEE GIVES FINE FISHING

Resorts Along Pigeon River Cater to Wants of Many Tourists.

RESTFUL SPOTS.

OMEMEE, June 27. — Situated on the Peterborough to Lindsay Highway is the pretty little village of Omemee, set down among the hills. A free tourist camp is open and a hotel and restaurant are only a block away, and Pigeon River flows through Omemee, and a boat ride down this small body of water will leave a lasting impression on the memory. The shores are lined with poplars, evergreens, the weeping willow and other trees whose branches stretch out over the water and etch their beauty in reflection. This little river has been termed by tourists, "the fisherman's paradise," and for this reason tourists from all parts of America have made an annual trip to angle for the maskinonge and bass, and each year brings more visitors, who desire to spend a quiet holiday.

Situated about two miles down the river is Fee's Landing, which is easily accessible by ar as well as motor boat or canoe. Here an inn has been erected by Wilbert Fee, who, with Mrs. Fee, caters most efficiently to the travelling public during the summer months. The inn is situated on a bank up from the water's edge with sleeping quarters and sun porch overlooking the water. The rates are $2.50 and $3.00 a day, including board. Canoes, row boats, and yachts are available, also a guide, who is familiar with every weed bed and bend in the river. Several furnished cottages are for rent at a moderate sum, and campers are well treated.

A short distance further down is Kenneden Park, a pretty little spot, where Mr. and Mrs. G. Griffin are the proprietors of a summer home. Here rooms may be secured without board, or campers will be well received. Boats are also available.

At either of these places there is no rush or bustle, no traffic noise, but just an ideal spot to rest or play and enjoy the beauties of nature, and the good sport of fishing.

ST. THOMAS MAN GETS MORE MONEY

Garfield Paige, Sought For Ten Years, Is Rated 35 Per Cent. Disabled.

ST. THOMAS, June 27.—Garfield Paige, the 35-year-old war veteran who was sought for ten years by the Pensions Department at Ottawa and located a few months ago with the assistance of M. F. Hepburn, M.P. for Elgin West, has received about $2,300 in back pension money and is likely to receive nearly as much more, according to announcement made by Mr. Helpburn. Mr. Hepburn has returned fro Ottawa and stated that he had succeeded in having Mr. Paige rated as a 35 per cent. disability case instead of a 22 per cent. ing will be made retroactive to the date of his discharge.

A native of Tyrconnel, Mr. Paige enlisted with the Ninety-first Battalion in this city and served with infantry, field gun and machine gun units in France. He also made one flight across the German lines as an observer, but declared he got little more thrill than he cared from flying under such conditions. He was twice wounded, an exploding shrapnel shell blowing him into the air and inflicting terrible wounds in his left side. Following his discharge Mr. Paige returned to work on the farm of William Munro, Southwold Township, and has been there ever since, only about eight miles from this city, yet letters sent here from Ottawa failed to reach him. When interviewed yesterday afternoon, Mr. Paige seemed more interested in the berry business he was cultivatin gthan in his back pension.

Declines Peerage On Retirement

LONDON, June 27. — Right Hon. J. H. Whitley, who retired last week from the Speakership of the House of Commons, has intimated to the Government that he does not desire to accept the Peerage which is customary to confer upon Speakers on their retirement.

His refusal breaks a precedent which has been maintained for more than 120 years. Out of ten Speakers of the House of Commons who relinquished office since 1802, seven have been created Viscounts.

It is believed in Parliamentary circles, however, that the Order of Merit will be conferred upon Mr. Whitley. Meanwhile it is announced that the King has conferred a Knighthood upon Lieut.-Col. Ralph Verney, secretary to the Speaker.

JUST NEXT DOOR.

An ocean voyage seems a long way off sometimes but here just next door the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes Steamship service presents a two days inland ocean voyage across Huron's blue waters through the lovely St. Mary's River and away over the broad expanse of Lake Superior. A steamboat express train from Toronto is but a short trip to the proud white ship; the moorings are let go and away we start on a delightful cruise that eases fagged brains and weary bodies.

There are two sailings a week during the summer months from Port McNichol and one from Owen Sound and the same number of eastward sailings from Fort William and Port Arthur. Few ocean vessels have more luxurious accommodation than those provided on the S.S. Keewatin and S.S. Assiniboia which ply the great lakes nor the S.S. Manitoba which sails between Owen Sound and the Twin Cities.

CONGREGATION BIDS FAREWELL TO MINSTER

PRESENTATIONS MADE.

Regret at Departure of Rev. F. H. Howard and Family Expressed By Speakers.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 27.—A congregational picnic, attended by over four hundred people, representative of the four appointments of the Millbrook circuit—Fallis Line, Zion, Carmel, Millbrook—was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Smith, Fifth Line, Cavan, on Monday, beginning at 3 p.m., the event being arranged as a farewell gathering in honor of Rev. F. E. and Mrs. Howard, and their family, who leave for their new home at Warkworth on Thursday of this week.

Throughout his ministry here, Rev. Mr. Howard has constantly emphasized the happy results likely to accrue to the church life from just such social outings as Monday afforded, and it was peculiarly fitting that his last personal touch with his people, as a whole, should take this form.

Mr. Smith's grounds are easily reached and ample to accommodate such a large gathering, and it was an unmistakeable tribute to the harmonious relationship existing between Mr. Howard and his family, and the people to whom he has ministered for four years, that not only was practically every home represented, in most cases by all of its members, old and young, at the picnic, but some of those connected with other congregations in the community were in attendance as well.

Softball for those who preferred athletic diversion, and social converse for others of the company, filled in the hours acceptably until tea was served, and afterward Mr. Smith, acting as chairman, called the big gathering to order on the front lawn, and on behalf of his wife and himself, welcomed them cordially to their home.

Presentation Made

Having invited the guests of honor, Rev. Mr. Howard, Mrs. Howard, Miss Margaret, and Master Arthur, to take seats facing the company, the chairman asked Jack Stinson and Stanford Brown to come forward, when the former read an address, and on behalf of the three junior boys' classes of the Sunday school, Stanford presented Arthur with an Eversharp pencil and a well-bound book.

The recipient of the gifts expressed his thanks in true, boy-like fashion; the address was signed by the teachers of the three classes—Mrs. I. M. Nattress, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. J. McKnight, and also by Miss Elsie Spence who has been teaching the class of which Arthur is a member, supplying for Mrs. McKnight who has not been in robust health for some time past.

Miss Margaret Howard was presented with a French Ivory clock by the members of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group, of which she has been a faithful and most helpful member, the address being read by the secretary, Miss Wilma Fallis, the vice-president, Miss Flossie McMahon offering the gift. Others signing the address were the president, Miss Elsie Spence, the treasurer, Miss Elinor Fallis, and the mentor, Miss Pearl Burnham.

Margaret was deeply touched, and in her reply voiced her gratitude for the influence in her life for good she had found in the C.G.I.T. meetings and activities to have constantly been.

The "Boneka" Bible Class was next on the list, presenting its teacher, Mrs. F. H. Howard, with a handsome sewing basket, fully equipped, as a token of their loving esteem; the address was read by Mrs. Hilliard Lang, and the gift brought in by Mrs. L. W. Smith and Mrs. F. H. Smith. The points especially emphasized in the address from the "Boneka" class were the appreciation felt by the members of Mrs. Howard's unfailing efforts to win every members into personal touch with the Saviour, and her manifest desire, made plain in each Sunday's teaching, that whatever was done should be to the honor of God's Name and the bringing in of His Kingdom.

Signing the address were the class president, Mrs. L. W. Smith; the vice-president, Mrs. H. Lang; the secretary, Mrs. John Rowland; the treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Henderson; also Mrs. F. H. Smith, and Mrs George Fallis. Suitable reply was made by Mrs. Howard.

The tribute to Rev. Mr. Howard from the entire circuit took the form of a purse containing $100.00 in gold. Mr. Joshua Whitefield, the veteran member of the session, presenting the gift, and W. Fred Fallis reading the following address:

"Dear Mr. Howard,—We have gathered here this afternoon to spend a few hours with you before you leave us for your new field of labor, and to show you that your four years' work among us has not been in vain, and that you have made many friends.

"It is just possible that you may not have accomplished all you wished. Your standard was high. But we admire your zeal for the little things of life, and your untiring efforts to put across any project which you believed was in the best interests of the Kingdom of God.

"You have had something for all of us; for the boys and girls, as well as the grown-ups. In times of sickness you have done your duty, and anyone who has come to you in trouble has received sympathy and help.

"In consideration for all you have done for church and community, we ask you to accept this purse of gold, which will remind you of the many pleasant times we have had together, and of the many friends you have in Millbrook.

"Our sincere wish is that you and Mrs. Howard and your family may be spared many years, and that you may always have enough of this world's goods to make you comfortable; and that you may enjoy the blessings which God is so ready to bestow on His faithful followers.

"Signed on behalf of the congregation: W. A. O'Brian, T. J. Douglas, H. C. Argue, Wesley Brown, Jas. H. Might, Dr. A. Jemison, W. F. Fallis, F. P. Stinson.

An emotion, readily understood under the circumstances, made it difficult for Mr. Howard to reply, though his gratitude and appreciation were warmly expressed. The value of the social outing, and the church's obligation to provide the means for diversion and entertainment for its young people, especially, were among the points particularly emphasized in this, his final talk, with those who had been under his spiritual charge for four years. That friendships would remain unbroken, though the place of residence was changed, was a note running through all the replies made when the gifts were acknowleged.

Rev. P. C. Howard, of the Anglican church, who was present by special invitation, was then called upon by the chairman and made a brief address, mentioning especially the 'happy spirit of continual friendliness and co-operation which has prevailed between a brother minister and myself since I came to this community to reside.'

After regretting Mrs. Howard's unavoidable absence, the speaker, on behalf of his wife and himself, extended best wishes to the departing minister and his family for success in their new field, adding the certainty that the prayers from friends here which would follow them would most surely work out in blessings in their public and private life.

Rev. Joseph Wilks made the concluding address, speaking of his personal acquaintances with Rev. F. H. Howard's father, "with whom I was a co-laborer in the former Methodist Episcopal church, and my appreciation of the friendship I had with him has been deepened by the many fine courtesies I have received from a good son of a good father."

The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the benediction, pronounced by Rev. Mr. Wilks, brought a memorable gathering to a fitting close.

A tug-of-war was one of the after supper attractions at the picnic, and the program of races for the children had prize winners as follows:

Girls 5 and under—1 Maud Raper, 2 Ruth Richards, 3 Wilma Armstrong.

Boys 8 and under— 1 Lawrence Hawken, 2 Lloyd McMahon.

Boys 10 and under—1 Reg. Edmunds, 2 Elwood Fallis.

Boys 12 and under—1 Jack Stinson, 2 Charlie Guthrie.

The boys of the C.S.E.T. group had a booth on the grounds and had no trouble in disposing of their stock of ice cream cones and candles.

NORHAM CIRCUIT HOLDS SERVICES

Rev. D. R. Clare Makes Strong Appeal at Annual Missionary Anniversary.

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORHAM, June 27. — The annual missionary anniversary was held on the Norham circuit on Sunday. The Rev. D. R. Clare, the pastor, made a strong missionary appeal, basing his remarks on the conversion of the Ethiopian.

He spoke of the first missionary church at Antioch and its far-reaching influence because it came in touch with so many different nationalities.

Then he touched on conditions in England before the arrival of St. Augustine and Christianity and the contrast later. Next, he spoke of the vast world-wide task of the United Church of Canada in the foreign fields. And also the different avenues of work in this fair Canada of ours in church extension in the cities and the great need of workers in the vast West.

A strong appeal was made for the support of the congregation for this work.

At the close of the evening service, the officials met and organized for an every member canvass of the congregation.

Oil~or trouble...which?

When you watch the bright stream of motor oil being poured into your crankcase, ask yourself: "What am I buying, oil or trouble?" Only too often a cheap quart of unspecified oil is in reality a barrel of trouble. The story of 75% of all motor repairs goes back to the failure of some oil. That's why it pays to watch your lubrication.

Motor oil has a big job to do. It works by forming a thin film between all the whirling, flying surfaces of your motor. And it has to stand terrific punishment—the lash of scorching heat—the threat of grinding friction. Here is where ordinary oil breaks and burns. Through the shattered film vital motor parts are exposed. Friction gets in its destructive work and your car is headed for the repair shop.

Because the whole problem of correct lubrication lies in a film of oil, Tide Water technologists spent years studying not oils alone but oil films. Finally they perfected in Veedol the oil that gives the "film of protection". Thin as tissue, smooth as silk, tough as steel, the Veedol film defeats deadly heat and friction.

To solve the problem of correct lubrication for high-speed, high-compression motors, Tide Water has reformulated the entire line of Veedol motor oils. These new oils are heavier, tougher, longer-lived than ever. They not only lubricate the new type of motors safely and correctly, but they are better oils for any motor. Have your crankcase filled with the new Veedol and give your motor the extra protection it requires.

WALTER JOPLING RAISES COONS

which they will become less timid for a time. It is very interesting to watch them feed as they use their forepaws like hands and wash their food in the water with them.

Toward the fall they are fed largely on grain to prepare them for their hibernation. Corn and buckwheat make up their diet. Last year from the first of December until the first of March the raccoons were in their winter sleep and nothing was seen of them. During this period usually from three to four months, they curl up like bears and become as if in a trance. They are not fed or given any water during this time and are practically forgotten.

Some of the older ones are very tame and one, known as Manley Girl, is let out of the pens and takes her kittens for a stroll about the place and finally returns to be fed and locked up again. The coon is easily tamed. A pair that was captured last year is now quite content in with the others.

Three escaped a year ago and now come back every night to feed. Mr. Jopling said he did not capture them again because he did not want to trap them and spoil the animals and it seemed impossible to lure them into any type of box without injuring them.

The raccoon bears from one to six in a family. When they are first born they look like small house rats but have not a trace of fur upon them. After two weeks a down appears and after six weeks a furry coat takes the place of the down, but it is not until they are two months old that they have a real honest-to-goodness fur.

This spring Mr. Jopling and some friends went to Lang to fish for suckers which were to be fed to the coons. Within an hour and a half they had 1,500 pounds of the fish, with which they treated the animals.

Fine Coon Dogs.

With his coon ranch Mr. Jopling has some of the finest coon dogs in the country and his reputation for these has spread well over the country. Like his coons there are the very best. One which he got from Missouri, where they make a specialty of raising soon hounds, caught twenty-eight coons last fall. Last December with one of his dogs he captured a pair of raccoons after the dog trailed them for six hours, over the roughest kind of country. This was down near Beaver Meadow. The dog started on the track which was quite old and went through ice water, flooded swamps, and over rocks and was in the marshes for an hour and a half at times before he could chase them out into drier country. Mr. Jopling estimated the dog travelled fifteen miles before it finally freed the coons for good. This demonstrates the remarkable ability of Mr. Jopling's dogs.

Mr. Jopling stressed especially the fact that he was not raising them for their furs but stocked his farm with the very best coons money could buy from the east, south, and west and his intention was to sell selected stock to other ranchers who wanted real good raccoons, all ranch raised.

He has one coon nearly all black which he purchased from Mr. Barnes of Norwood, of which he is quite proud.

spiritual things with so much grace and ability.

"We extend this expression of appreciation to the other members of the family and particularly to that gracious lady of the parsonage, Mrs. Rowland, who hand in hand with you, has entered whole-heartedly into all the various activities of the church, not forgetting the two departments added during your pastorate among us; namely, The Mission Band and the Young Worshippers' League.

"It is with general regret that we have learned of your intention to depart for another field of labor. We will miss you. As you have gone in and out of our homes, your presence cheered us in times of sorrow, and was always added pleasure in times of joy; but we do not wish to unduly emphasize our sorrow at your departure. In that day when death and hell shall give up their dead and every man shall give an account of the deeds done in the body, the important thing will not be, 'Was our contribution to the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God through Omemee United Church.' We rejoice that we have had the privilege of being so closely associated with you during the last five years and that we are sending to another field of labor those, whose contribution to the cause of God will be a worth-while one.

"As a slight token of our esteem and respect, we ask you to accept this dinner set of dishes and to express the hope that they may serve as a reminder from time to time of the friends you have left behind in Omemee, and that you will return as often as the duties of a busy pastor's life will permit, to renew associations with us.

"In conclusion, we assure you, that we will watch over the future career of each one of you with interest, and we pray that God's richest blessing may be on each one of you and that you may be spared to labor many years in the Master's service.

"Signed on behalf of the members and adherents of Trinity United Church, Omemee, this 25th day of June, 1928."

ALL AT SEA

By CAROLYN WELLS

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

CHAPTER XLIV.

"Not going in this morning?" Stone said, after Felton, who was with her, had made introductions.

"Not until later," Carmelita Valdon told him. "About noon, I think, today."

"Then you've time for a chair ride with me. Do take pity on my loneliness and come for a ride. The chairs fascinate me and I hate to go alone."

It was not the habit of Carmelita Valdon to turn down anything in the shape of attention from any presentable man. And Fleming Stone was decidedly presentable.

So Carmelita smiled on him and declared she'd love to go.

"See you when I come back, Dan," she said gaily to Pelton, who watched the pair depart, uncertain whether he wanted Stone to interview her or not.

"Be good to her," he called out, as a warning to the detective, who answered with a smile and a nod and then glanced at Carmelita.

"I fancy everybody is good to you," he said in his gentle voice, so full of subtle flattery and yet impersonal, too.

"Yes," she said slowly, "everybody but Fate."

"And Fate is cruel?"

They were slowly rolling along the boardwalk, the sun not yet high enough to be unpleasantly warm, the sea breeze coming in crisp and cool and the stolid, half-asleep negro pushing them utterly oblivious, if indeed he could hear their conversation.

"Yes, Mr. Stone," and Carmelita turned a grave countenance to his own. "Fate is nearly always cruel to a woman."

"Oh, what a sweeping assertion! And what an untrue one! Surely you don't mean that—you, with the world at your feet—with all the gifts nature can bestow—"

"Never mind that sort of talk. And it is we who have—as you say—nature's gifts, looks, charm, power, all the feminine arts, who oftenest get cruel blows from Fate, that are none the less terrible because unknown to the world at large."

Without appearing to do so, Stone scrutinized her keenly. Either this woman was all Miss Folsom had painted her, and she was deliberately setting out to fascinate him, or Pelton was right and she was troubled, but not by reason of a guilty conscience regarding Folsom's murder.

"I think, Mrs. Valdon," he said gently, "it would be better if we talked plainly. You know, I dare say, that I am down here to investigate the death of Garrett Folsom. There are reasons why I should ask you some questions and I have chosen this way to do it, thinking it would be the least annoying to you."

Carmelita thanked him with one of her best smiles.

"You are good," she said, with a ring of sincerity in her tone. "Let us talk plainly then. In the first place, I did not kill Mr. Folsom."

"But you are glad he is dead," Stone said quietly.

She gave him a startled glance.

"I hate to put it so baldly," she said, as if thinking this over, "but, well, I am not really sorry. Or, to come nearer the truth, I'm glad only for one reason. Otherwise I wish the man were still alive."

"You're glad he's dead because that gave you opportunity to retrieve your letters which he held."

"You must have been told that," she said, looking straight at him, "and nobody could have told you but Dan Pelton. Yes, I did get my letters back, and I never could have done that so long as Garrett Folsom was alive."

"And so you are suspected, in some quarters, of having killed him in order to accomplish that end."

"Some quarters, meaning his sister, I suppose. Does any one else suspect me, Mr. Stone?"

"That I don't know. But it would not be out of the question for Miss Folsom to spread such a suspicion."

"I know it wouldn't. She hates me. I wonder why?"

"Partly because you two are so diametrically opposed in character and type and partly because she really thinks you killed her brother."

"My dear Mr. Stone, I couldn't kill anybody. I really couldn't. Miss Folsom might; she's the killer sort. But I'm not—"

"That's no argument, Mrs. Valdon. To kill a man one doesn't have to perform the actual deed oneself."

Fleming Stone had dropped his charming manner, and now he spoke with the steely, low, hard voice that had so often struck terror to the heart of a wrongdoer.

"Oh!" Carmelita gave a little gasp. "You mean—"

"That some one else could have done it—at your bidding. Who was the man with the white mustache?"

At once Stone saw he had drawn blank.

Purposely he had sprung this question suddenly, feeling sure he could tell by her reaction whether she knew of the man or not.

Clearly she did not. For her uncomprehending look and her surprised voice were so indubitably sincere that the detective was forced to believe her.

"The man with the white mustache? I've not the slightest idea. But he most certainly was no agent of mine! And I tell you, Mr. Stone, I had no hand in Garrett Folsom's death. Either directly or indirectly."

"But as soon as he was dead you hastened to get your letters?"

"I did indeed! And a hard time I had of it! I subsidized servants; I begged keys from friends; I tried every way I could think of—and I finally got them. Now they are burned up, and if the police accuse me of murder because of it they will have to prove it. But they can't get the letters!"

Her smile of triumph went further toward convincing Stone of her innocence regarding the murder than any asseverations could have done. To his mind it was clear that she was so anxious to get her letters and so relieved at having got them that the thought of a more serious accusation had not yet sunk very deeply into her mind. And this, of course, for the reason that she had no guilty knowledge of the crime itself.

"The letters were so very important then?" he asked, casually.

"The letters were so very important then?" he asked, casually.

"Important to me because of their disclosure of some fact in my past life which I wish kept secret. Facts which would be of small interest to the general public but which were of enough importance to give Garrett Folsom a hold over me that he never let me forget. Now they are destroyed, and my soul is at peace."

She was silent a moment and then turned to him, with a really lovely smile, and said, "My soul couldn't be at peace if I had killed him, could it?"

"No, Mrs. Valdon," Stone said, giving her a keen look, "I think it could not. I'm not prepared to say I can tell a criminal by looking at one, but I will say that I think I can tell by talking to one. And my judgment, my experience and my instinct all shout to me your innocence in the matter of Folsom's death. Now the question of those letters need never be brought up, never be even mentioned, if we can find out who did kill Folsom. That's all his sister wants; that's all the police want; that's all I want—to learn the identity of the murderer. No one has any justifiable concern with your letters or their import if you are not connected with the crime."

"What are you leading up to?" she asked gravely.

"Just this. You know—probably from some evidence you ran across while getting your own letters—you know something you have not yet told. I want you to tell it to me."

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

A toque of primroses is shown above worn with a large brim of crin, while below it is shown as worn without the brim.

Before it became customary always for women to remove their hats at the theater, writers of etiquette books used to explain that it really was permissible to ask the woman with the wide-brimmed hat to diminish her silhouette—providing the request was couched in very polite language.

"Pardon me, madam, but would you be so kind as to remove your hat," was the way you went about it, I believe. You didn't call the usher or make audible hints to your companion about inconsiderate women who were too ignorant to take off their hats. That would never do—

But now, with a lady in front of you wearing one of the little trick hats I recently saw among some recent French imports you would just lean forward and say, "Pardon me, madam, but would be so good as to remove your brim." You wouldn't think of letting her take off the rest, because the little toque that remained would be so close-fitting that it couldn't possibly make any difference whether it was taken off or not.

I suppose the real idea in making these detachable brims was for the benefit of the woman who wanted to make the most of the space in her traveling-bags. Now that motor travel has become so general the dressmakers and milliners are constantly asked to produce hats and gowns that can play several roles, because most women like to carry all that they will need on a holiday within the rather limited confines of their motor-trunks and boxes.

An evening gown that may be made to play the role of three merely by the use of any one of three different sets of jewelry or a dinner gown that may be transformed into an afternoon gown merely by the addition of a lace or silk jacket is the sort of thing that these motor travelers like to take with them.

And so, why not a hat that, with a simple gesture, may be turned from a wide-brimmed garden-party hat into a smart little toque suitable for restaurant wear?

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

OVER A MONTH ago I was a guest at a certain Peterborough home where huge olives, more than 4 inches around the waist, were served—but the memory lingers. Large, meaty and juicy, these mammoth green olives from Sunny Spain are a real addition to almost any table.

A local jeweller told the other day about atomizers and sprays for perfume. One which he described (I think he must have read it somewhere) as "A tiny chalice on a slender stem" is designed for rare odeurs; more generous containers are for toilet waters. Apparently there's as much science required in the selection of a perfumizer as in the choice of a watch.

A new bridge set in a north-end home is of Chinese red, with a boy and dragon design in rich oriental colors. The folding chairs are of bentwood, and two ash trays clamp to corners of the table.

Speaking of bridge, another refinement which has made its appearance here with at least one United States vacation party this year is the "pack" of tile "cards." With these tiles, which bear the regular playing card designs, parties may play card games on the sand without danger of the "cards" blowing away, and when the tiles become soiled they may be thrown into the water and washed.

There came to The Examiner, a few days ago, a piece of publicity which was rescued from the waste paper basket only that it might form the basis of this paragraph. "These amusing little hats cost almost nothing at all," says the free-publicity seeker, "but they have that precious quality of chic in such a high degree that literally every young woman of fashion is wearing them this summer." Along with the write-up came a free picture, showing a very ordinary-looking straw hat with drooping brim and narrow band. The price is, incidentally, mentioned as being $8.50!

Out at the golf links I noticed a becoming golf costume of light-weight knitted fabric in rose-pink, with sweater and short scarf striped in blue and white. The hat was of rough pink straw with blue grosgrain band. The whole made a youthful and serviceable-looking costume.

For tennis, the best model I have seen this year was a classic white sleeveless frock of what appeared to be a washable silk fabric, with large inverted box pleats for fulness.

There passed through the city on Saturday a convertible automobile of the better class, with top down and protecting windows raised. The passengers were enabled to absorb the sunshine and have at the same time protection from the wind.

One often hears it said that men's holiday clothes are much less expensive than women's. In a fit of curiosity I asked a George street men's clothier. He brought out a suggested list, headed "Week-end Kit for the Well-Dressed Man," and together we totalled the cost. Only $226! Included for the week-end, by the way Mr. Man (if any man reads this column, were a tweed suit, a flannel suit, 3 pairs of flannel slacks, 4 white shirts, 3 colored shirts, 1 dozen ties, 6 pairs socks, and all the etcetras.

In the same store was a pamphlet purporting to give instructions to valets in the laying out and caring for of men's clothes. In the midst of a more or less interesting treatise on the exact position beside a chair for a man's slippers, appears this sentence, which indicates that perhaps the article was written by a valet: "ANY SERVANT can be trained to lay out clothes in a professional manner if THEY are correctly instructed." Instructed clothes are new on the market!

WESTERN GIRLS TO GO OVERSEAS

Grads' Basketball Team Will Carry Its Feats Into Europe.

Edmonton, Alta., June 27 (CP).—Steps have been taken to raise a fund of $2,000 to enable the 'Grads' basketball team to go overseas and defend their world's title. A committee of ten business men is in charge of the campaign. "There is no question about the intense pride of Edmontonians in the remarkable record established by our girl athletes," says the 'Journal.' "Though the personnel of the team has completely changed since it first brought such distinction to the city, its skill was never greater than at present. The players have earned the trip to Europe and it would not be at all to our credit if they had to abandon it through failure to receive the necessary financial support."

LARGE FAMILY IS DEFENDED

Rev. Father Lebel Tells Its Education Proposed Canada.

Montreal, Que., June 27 (CP).—Under the title of "Family Allowances," the Rev. Father Leon Lebel, S.J., has just published a little book of 64 pages. He has in the present work—a successor to his "Les Allocations Familiales"—taken up the case of the large family as a factor in the development of the economic life of the nation, and as such a real asset demanding careful consideration at the hands of society, and those who make the laws of the country. So far as family allowances may be applied to Canada, Father Lebel offers no revolutionary method by which the large family should be served at the expense of society: but he does show that Canada's economic future is very much wrapped up in her family life, and that her success depends largely on how far she is prepared to encourage that family life, the greater part of which is supplied by the workers.

WHAT RELATION WAS HE TO HER?

Nice Question Arises in Court Case in Toronto—Not Brother-in-law.

Toronto, Ont., June 27 (CP).—In a recent court case a nice question in relationships was propounded. The plantiff, a woman, was testifying against a chauffeur.

"Isn't he your brother-in-law?" she was asked by counsel. "Didn't you say he was?"

"No. I said he was my husband's sister's husband's brother!" The counsel gave up any more questioning on this point.

FRANCE FAVORS COLORED SHOES

Frocks Must Be Matched By Shoes—Gloves Also Gay.

Paris.—Colored shoes and gloves are the latest addition to an already colorful season here.

In some of the shoe shops it is indeed difficult to get black shoes. "Everybody wishes shoes to match the frock," says the salesman. "And as so many dark blue frocks are worn for the street, so we sell a tremendous number of dark blue shoes."

With the black frock—and that is now, as always, much in evidence in this city where black street frocks have perpetual smartness—shoes of beige or gray, with matching stockings and gloves, are usually chosen, though black patent leather is also worn.

As for colored gloves, again blue is the color most often chosen. But there are also gloves of poppy red, and as one of the big dressmakers remarked when she was offering red gloves to go with a navy blue ensemble, "If one wore red gloves, perhaps they would not be so often lost. They would be easier to find, harder to lose, than gloves of black, beige or gray."

There is a strong vogue for yellow, especially in sports clothes. And for wear with these yellow clothes there are gloves of yellow washable kid, in various matching shades. Not just chamois yellow, but a real range of yellow tones to choose from.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Thursday, June 28, 1928.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is a day read by astrologers as unimportant in planetary direction, a time to pursue beaten paths.

There is a sign favorable for all who till the soil and farmers should benefit to-day.

Astrologers persistently prophesy that in this new era agriculture is to become more and more scientific and they foresee vast estates cultivated by globe-circling organizations.

Industry should benefit from this planetary government which seems to presage expansion on the part of many manufacturers.

This should be a favorable day for beginning a vacation, but it will not be lucky for those who start flirtations at summer-resorts.

Summer love affairs are to be serious this year and many autumn weddings may be expected.

It is wise for both young men and young women to beware of playing at romance, for the stars frown on disrespect to the little god of love.

This is not a favorable direction of the stars for theatres or places of amusement. In many places unusual weather conditions will develop.

Saturn will continue to encourage immense combinations of capital and world-circling syndicates.

Changes in certain foreign governments are prognosticated and these will be of special interest to the United States, it is forecast.

Next month is to be a period for many new movements in the eastern cities, where reform organizations will be active.

Women everywhere in the country will be imbued with the spirit of organization. They will work enthusiastically in politics.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of satisfactory work.

Children born on this day may have a special bent for agriculture. The subjects of this sign usually care little for personal appearance.

A Tip or Two

CONCEALING BEAUTY

All unsightly porches, the clothes line poles and other disfiguring things should be covered with vines. Plant early and their summer beauty will repay you.

PARASOL FROCK

Parasol frocks are so called because the ensemble or frock is topped by a parasol of self-material. Usually the hat is plain and the parasol figured.

BACK HOME.

By Dorothy Douglas.

Lysette de Smythe gazed about her magnificent apartment at Hollywood and yawned prodigiously. A second later she yawned again, neither discreetly nor quietly but openly and defiantly.

Lysette was bored almost to extinction with her life as a star of the movie world. She was fed up with being someone she was not and a longing to find her way out of the public eye for a change and be just her simple regular little self—Eliza Smith—as the birth registry in her native village would show.

Eliza had been snatched into the whirl of the movie world from her position in a small department store in a Long Island town. A well-wishing friend had been thoughtless enough to send her photograph to a beauty contest and before Eliza quite realized what was happening she was out among the greater and lesser stars of Hollywood. Her name was swiftly changed to Lysette De Smythe and a wonderful past, with Russian crowned heads and escapes from terrorized countries, was made up for her.

Her salary naturally was munificent, and Eliza quite appreciated that side of the life, as it would insure a comfortable future.

But that she must sever the cords that bound her to the public eye and for a short time live completely and utterly alone with her thoughts and perhaps a bungalow apron and some dusters was a self-evident fact.

The shack that she had insisted on retaining when stardom washed her away from the shores of Long Island was a tiny dwelling that lay half on and seemingly half off the cliff that surrounded the bay near her home town. She would sneak out there all by herself as quietly as any mouse, under cover of darkness, and not a soul in the world should know she was there.

So Eliza, having shaken Lysette, crept in, under the shadow of a moonless evening, to her shack.

The shack was quite isolated from any main roadway and its sheltered veranda hung right over the edge of the cliff and afforded her nothing but a glorious view of the Sound. She felt that with precaution she need not be discovered by even a strolling tramp.

But the eyes of the law are eagle-like, and on the third glorious evening of Eliza's exquisite freedom from public notice she heard stealthy footsteps approaching.

Someone knocked at the door and she held her breath and budged not an inch. Perhaps the caller would go away and mind his own business.

But that didn't happen, and while she stirred a most heavenly Irish stew Eliza knew that the door was being smashed by a heavy lunge of someone's shoulder.

Being feminine and sensible she did the most likely thing under such circumstances. She fluttered down like a crumpled rose crushed by a cruel wind and lay unconscious on the shack floor.

Special Constable Winwood stood aghast at the sight of the crumpled rose petals and strode forward to do what any sensible male would do under the circumstances. He picked the contents of the bungalow apron tenderly up in his arms and to say that he was agitated but feebly expresses his emotions.

Eliza's tawny head responded happily to the comfort of the blue breadth of uniform that covered Constable Winwood's chest and, very cautiously widening the slit beneath her heavy lashes, she permitted her glance to embrace a bit more of the man in whose arms she so comfortably rested. Crinkly auburn hair, well cut chin, and splendid eyes of deepest blue. Eliza almost decided to faint again.

But realizing that she must, sooner or later, leave this comfortable abode of arms she stirred slightly and gave Winwood the full glory of wide-open eyes. She was much pleased at the great heave his chest gave upon beholding her eyes.

He was completely at a loss for words but curiously enough he unconsciously tightened his hold on the lovely burden. If this was a burglar he must hold her fast. If she wasn't—well that didn't seem to alter his intentions.

Eliza smiled.

"You think I'm a burglar—but I'm not. I'm one of those big-salaried movie stars, and—" she raised a wicked left eyebrow that quite startled Winwood, so curiously did it alter her face—"I carry rather heavy insurance against broken bones——"

Winwood grinned, showing a row of fine white teeth and lessened the clutch he had maintained during the conversation.

"I'm sorry if I hurt you—I wasn't thinking—I——"

"I don't think there are any bones fractured," laughed Eliza sweetly and gazed anxiously up into Winwood's eyes. "And I'll forgive you if you will promise faithfully not to let a soul know that I am here. Will you do that—for me?"

Winwood would have promised anything with those eyes gazing into his own but, being a minion of the law, he, too, had tactics up his sleeve.

"Secrecy—under one condition," he said looking into those lovely eyes, "I am to be allowed to come for a few minutes every evening—just to see that you are O.K."

Eliza flushed and even as she did so she had a vision of the languid Lysette De Smythe merging swiftly into the reality of Eliza Smith, and she smiled wonderfully at the vision.

"We might even stretch those few moments—if it it seemed expedient," she told him softly.

PICNICKERS LIKE EAST EMILY SHORE

Many People Come To Chemong Lake For Summer Outings.

EAST EMILY, June 27.—The roads in this district are all good except that the road from Omemee to Peterborough is practically closed to traffic, as the Dufferin Construction Company are at work from Fowler's Corner to Omemee with two steam shovels, etc., forcing the traffic to detour either to the third line or else around by the head of the lake.

Fee's Inn is again open to welcome the summer tourists and travellers and Kenden Park is also open again and both places are very suitable for those wishing a quiet rest and excellent fishing.

There are also two cottages down at Lancaster bridge on Mud Lake and there is always good fishing and beautiful scenery around the head of the lake and many people from Peterborough and surrounding district gather there for family picnics.

VARIED SCENERY FOUND AT WARSAW

Banks of Indian River Offer Many Strange and Beautiful Sights.

WARSAW, June 27.—Warsaw is a little village of about two hundred people, which lies in a valley about fourteen miles northeast of Peterborough, fourteen miles northwest of Norwood, six miles (as the crow flies) east from Lakefield, and eight miles from McCracken's Landing. The roads to Warsaw from Peterborough, Norwood and McCracken's Landing are all good. The long road via Bethel, eleven miles to Lakefield is good. The near road is fair, nine miles. The road from Peterborough, known as the "Dummer" road is a forced road and seems at times to have gone out of its way to keep on the tops of the hills. However, there may be a reason for that, for by keeping the high roads the early settlers avoided the swamps.

As one nears Warsaw, on the top of Cuffe's Hill, the view is well worth more than a passing glimpse. Ahead one sees the white-walled, red-roofed Presbyterian church nestled among trees, to the northeast one sees the cemetery, owned by the Anglican church, the spire of which can be plainly seen. The village itself is not visible. A few houses at the entrance are seen, and in the distance on all sides are good-looking farm houses, with their barns, and fields, which latter change their appearance according to the season.

From this side one really is almost in the village, before seeing it. The view from any side is beautiful. From the north one gets a glimpse of the river.

The Indian name for "Indian River" is "Squaknegosippi," meaning "sweet water." The Indians used to come up the river to the maple woods for sap. It was the Indians who taught us to make maple syrup and sugar. Above Warsaw the river bed is rocky, below it runs through swamps. The river runs from White Lake to Keene on Rice Lake.

Fall Disappears

In the Spring or early Summer, about three miles above the village there is a high falls, the roar of which can be heard over two miles away. When the river is low one wonders where or how the fall of water came. There are a few big rocks and one can easily cross the river.

Much good stone has been quarried from the limestone to the west of the river; the widening of the river here is known as "Quarry Lake."

It is generally supposed that this rocky part is a great fissure caused by some upheaval. At any rate the strata on either side of the lake are of the same formation. The banks of the river are very high. At what is known as "The Scar," they are nearly two hundred feet. Some distance farther up on the east side is a proof of a prehistoric upheaval. What is commonly called "The Potash Kettle," a large double pothole, the upper part about six feet in diameter, and four feet deep, the lower part four feet in diameter, and four feet deep in a jutting point of a rocky promontory, about fifty feet above the river level. Unfortunately frost and wanton destruction have broken a hole in the bottom. If one walks around through the tangle of growth, several small holes are seen, some about two feet in diameter. Near this "kettle" great boulders are piled and one can hear the water gurgling beneath. In times of high water it may be seen.

Beautiful River

To any lover of Nature that whole river is beautiful, wonderfully so. There are wild flowers, trees, all second growth. Sometimes the river is very calm, and the reflections are grand. Large owls, even eagles, have been seen; herons and cranes appear, and many small birds. There are trees along the banks; tall, but they do not reach the top. Mosses and lichens are plentiful. Sometimes a sublime stillness seems to pervade the place. A paddle up the river holds one spellbound.

There are some nice places to pitch a tent, but there are no accommodations, except an abundance of river water and old wood.

One the west side above the Falls is a cave, which has never been explored.

About half a mile above Warsaw, the river divides and the divisions unite just at the southern edge of the village.

In the village is the cenotaph about opposite the post office. This monument is of red granite surmounted by a statue of a soldier in grey granite, and is considered one of the most beautiful erected by any village of Warsaw's size.

Comfortable Homes

The homes in the village are all comfortable looking, and though there are no what would be listed as beautiful lawns, there are lots of flowers. Nearly every house has its quota of really beautiful flowers and the lawns are nicely kept.

The village boasts four churches: Presbyterian, Baptist, Anglican and United (formerly Methodist). Much has been done recently to improve the appearance of church and parsonage.

There are a bake shop, harness shop, butcher shop, carpenter shop, two blacksmith shops, two garages, two barber shops, an implement shop, post office, three general stores, a cheese factory, a stone grist mill, and a bank open twice weekly. Warsaw is on the main highway from Peterborough to McCracken's Landing and Crowe's Landing, and the Summer automobile traffic is very heavy.

The name Warsaw was suggested by Thomas Choate, after the place where he came in Vermont.

There is not hotel in the village, but accommodation for a limited number may be had at George Consberry's.

Hill and dale, rough land, and cultivated land, the winding river, the great variety of trees, make the scenery around Warsaw well worth seeing at any point.

MANY VISITORS TO CROW RIVER

Camping Grounds Owned By W. J. Dagleish in Use All Summer.

NEW RESORT.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 27.—When the tourists from other corners of the earth visit Seymour East there is one place which they never fail to see and that is Crow River camping grounds. Why should this be? some may ask when these grounds offer nothing in the way of professional entertainment or hotel accommodations. Nevertheless, each year sees an increasing flow of visitors to Crow River and the only explanation can be the attraction of primtive rural scenery coupled with excellent fishing and natural bathing facilities.

When the Crow River resort was started by W. J. Dalgleish, of Campbellford, some fewyears ago, the spot was known only to a few who went there for family picnics or perhaps a day's fishing. Mr. Dalgleish put all his energy into making the place attractive, and has succeeded wonderfulluy.

After building a ottage for his own use and the necessary refreshment quarters for visitors, he turned to the work of preparing suitable grounds for picnic parties and motor tourists. Tables and benches of the rustic character were set up and stoves provided forthe use of the campers, and through all the process of repairing and levelling the grounds, none of the primitive beauty of the place was lost, so that Crow River still retains its original appeal to the wandering tourist.

A shady walk through the pines leads to a most attractive sports field, and here many a game of ball takes place. Dozens of churches and schools and various societies use the grounds each year for their annual get-together picnics, so that in addition to beingattractive to tourists, Crow River is proving a decided boon t the surrounding communities. During the last few weeks the ownership ofthis resort has changed hands, and it is expected that J. L. Hay will operate the Crow River resort for the 1928 season.

BOAT LIVERY AT LAKEFIELD

Brown Boat Company Makes Fine Canoes and Skiffs.

ESTABLISHED IN 1887

In Lakefield, right on the main street, is found the Brown Boat Livery, the largest boat livery on the Kawartha Lakes. Here can be had skiffs, canoes, and everything that goes with the equipment of a real boating and fishing trip. For 25 years this company has been renting boats ,and it is known that nothing but the finest class of workmanship has satisfied the Browns for their two generations of boat building.

They have taken a pride in master craftsmanship, and many of the fine canoes built in the early years of the company are still in existence. OPERA SCENE WELL PUT ON

Most Interesting Program Given at St. Paul's Garden Party.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

One of the most interesting small productions seen here in some time was the charming presentation last night of the "Fair" scene from the opera "Martha" and the famous spinning-wheel octette, by choir members of St. Paul's Presbyterian church on the occasion of the annual strawberry festival of the church, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society on the grounds of R. R. Hall's home on Reid street. The spacious and beautiful lawns, with their lovely flowers and trees, made an ideal setting for the garden party, which had a large attendance. Every convenience for their guests was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Hall.

A unique feature of the opera scene was its outdoor setting. Following out the fashion of the Ben Greet players, who some years ago presented Shakespearian drama in this al fresco style, the choir members had a carpeted platform, an overhanging cedar tree and the light of Japanese lanterns, as a setting for their delightful production, with a musical background in the playing of a group of clever musicians. All was under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall A.R.C.O. to whose ingenuity and expert tuition much of the credit of the unique little performance is due. Those who witnessed the attractive small scene were not probably acquainted with the difficulties experienced in its production which went off smoothly and entertainingly. The buoyant, gay music of this opera and the rhythmic flow of the attractive, brilliant choruses which enlivened the libretto, seemed to gain an added freer charm from the outdoor setting.

The "Fair" scene, in which all the characters wore appropriate, old-time costumes, depicts the arrival at the Fair of Richmond of the bored Lady Harriet and her attendant, enacted by Mrs. Walter Byers and (Miss Daisy Davidson. They are accompanied by Harriett's cousin, Sir Tristan Mickleford (Harold Coulson). Here they bind themselves in a joke to work for a year on the farms, and find later, when the Sheriff of Richmond (John Anderson) a dignified personage in wig, gown and staff, interferes, that they must carry out their bargain. Lionel, a supposed farmer, afterwards proving to be Earl of Derby, falls in love with Harriet and the opera ends satisfactorily for all concerned. A gay crowd of calico-gowned and bonneted girls, with their rustic swains, attend the Fair and add to the merriment and charm of the choruses.

In the famous spinning-wheel scene, when real spinning-wheels were used, there is a tuneful and lovely rendition of robust, brilliant music.

The principals taking part in the production were Mrs. Walter Byers, Miss Daisy Davidson, Miss Bertha Hill, Miss Jessie Pattison, Messrs H. Snelgrove, Wm. Grieves, H. Coulson, R. Fleming, John Anderson (sheriff) Horace Hope (Jester) and Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, the latter singing an introductory solo in "Come to the Fair," with chorus, composed of ladies, servants and hunters.

The program of the evening, for which E. F. Mason made a very efficient chairman, also included a presentation by the Young People's Society of the church of a one-act play entitled "A letter of Introduction." This was staged very effectively on the side verandah, lighted brightly for the occasion, and also partook of the informal, attractive atmosphere which permeated the whole outdoor production of the evening. A quintette of talented amateur players presented the bright little playlet, which deals with the mistaking of a chance visitor, an insurance agent, with another more wealthy young man, who, it is hoped by the father and mother of the house, will be attracted by the daughter. The youthful insurance agent, with his bright line of business talk, is greeted effusively, much to his amazement. Later, the daughter decides that she likes him, anyway, and the affair ends pleasingly for all concerned. Those taking part in the presentation were Thomas Foulkes (Mr. Burdick) who is president of the Young People's Society, and also directed the playlet; Miss Sybil Jackson as Mrs. Burdick; Miss Marion Armstrong as Eleanor Burdick; Jack Clayton as Mr. Jefferson, the insurance agent, and Jack Bennett as Melchisedech, an unwanted visitor.

Taking part in the chorus for the "Martha" scenes were Mrs. A. E. Barrie, Mrs. H. Strong, the Misses Lily Kay, Margaret Reid, Marion Armstrong, Mary Sedgwick, Agnes Bell, Elva Jackson, Alberta Hunter, Emma Lou Chenhall, Messrs. Dion Snelgrove, Adam Sands, H. Flowers and Ernest Watson.

Several brightly decorated booths were busy during the evening, with sales of various types, and the supper tables, set on the back lawns, also had a throng for a delicious meal. The tables were arranged with white cloths and big baskets made of gaily colored paper, filled with peonies. Rose and green candles were in silver and bronze holders.

Mrs. C. Blewett, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, was in charge of general arrangements, and was assisted by a corps of energetic ladies, who looked after the comfort of their guests in splendid fashion. A reception committee was composed of Mrs. W. Allan, Mrs. E. F. Mason and Mrs. Robert Hall. Mrs. W. Burrell and Miss E. Montgomery looked after the decorations of the tables. Mrs. Blewett was assisted by Mrs. J. Garbutt, and the ladies at the entrance were Mesdames M. McNabb, D. Jordan and H. Morgan.

Mrs. Susan Taylor had charge of service of refreshments, assisted by Mesdames R. H. Hunter, J. McCaw, S. Jordan, A. Gilgour, J. Vincent, W. Stinson, Ada Craig, W. Henry, F. White, Robinson, M. Lyons. Convenors for the tables were Mrs. J. Marsh, Mrs. J. W. Hall, Mrs. A. Jack, Mrs. J. Wiley, Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. H. Jackson, Mrs. A. Deyell, Mrs. J. Sands, Mrs .W. Metheral, Mrs. J. Skinner, Mrs. J. Anderson and Mrs. J. Harrison. Assistants included Mesdames M. B. Chenhall, Currie, H. E. Stenson, C. A. White, W. J. Stacey, B. D. McLean, A. Jones, W. Hancock, W. W. Hill, C. Williamson, D. Wright, H. Taylor, McKenzie, F. Bennett, J. Pulkinghorn, W. McKee.

Miss Daisy Davidson had charge of the sale of miscellaneous articles sold at the Mission Band table, assisted by Helen Beach. For the sale of candy, Mrs. D. W. Clark had charge, with Mrs. H. C. Sherwood and the sale of soft drinks by the Young People's Society was in charge of the Misses Mary Sedgewick, Margaret Deyell and Lily Kay.

Those who kindly loaned spinning wheels for the "Martha" scene were Mrs. M. Comstock, Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, Mrs. W. H. Lyle, Mrs. E. F. Mason and Mr. B. H. Mitchell.

In charge of costumes were Mrs. J. Fowler and Miss E. O. Simpson.

Orchestra members of the tuneful small group who played so well during the supper hour and for the performances later, were M. B. Chenhall, leader at the piano, Messrs. Rusaw, Clark, Breckenridge, Wylie, Morrison, Naish and Mackness (violins), Alex Johns (cornet), W. P. Skitch (double bass) and G. W. Coleman (drums).

At the conclusion of the program the audience was thanked by E. F. Mason, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Moon Marketing, Powell-Weaver; Seaward, Meta Schumann. Mrs. H. F. Doig.

Morning Hymn, Henschel; A Song of Thanksgiving, Allitsen. Mrs. Fred Free.

Though every selection was well chosen, to best bring out the finer qualities of the singers, there was a natural and wholly commendable tendency on the part of everyone to make the best of her second, and final number. Miss Eleanor Brown's well modulated voice seemed particularly suited to her second contribution, "My Gentle Child." Miss Freda Allison was heard to best advantage singing "The Little Damozel." Miss Helen Lamb seemed most happy contributing "Good Morning, Brother Sunshine." There was little to choose from between first and second selections of the others, though Miss Logan played splendid accompaniments to very pleasing sections by Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Free.

It was an ambitious yet wholly enjoyable program, reflecting most favorably upon teacher, accompanist and singers.

Trading Still Light On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange is still light but an early return to normalcy is anticipated by the generally firmer tone which prevails in most of the active issues. A noticeable gain in activity was evident in the industrial group. With over 1,000 shares changing hands, Brazilian was up again to-day ½ at 56½. Cockshutt Plow, a new-comer on the board, sagged ¼ point to 26, with but few transactions recorded.

The oils were firm, British American and International Petroleum remaining unchanged at 36½ and 39 respectively. Imperial was up 1-8 to 64 7-8.

Mine Market Active With Trend Uncertain

TORONTO, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning was active with sharply contrasting price movements among the leaders. Noranda slipped back after yesterday's spurt with a loss of 50 to 38.85. The general trend of prices, however, seemed to be a rising one. Barry Hollinger was up to-day 1½ to 60, and Howey Gold, another loser of yesterday, was up 3½ points to-day with heavy sales. Bidgood was up ½ to 69½. Pend Oreille's rise of 40 to 13.00 was an interesting feature of the morning. International Nickel was up to 93.00, a gain of 1.00 over yesterday's close. Teck Hughes was another gainer, being up 5 at 11.05. Arno, off 2⅜ at 25⅝, and Newbec, off 1½ at 41, were numbered among the recessions.

Rains In Southwest Hamper Wheat Harvest

CHICAGO, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Further rains hampering the harvest south-west led to a fresh early advance in wheat values to-day. Kansas despatches said that because of the untimely wet weather, losses both in quantity and quality are inevitable. Starting unchanged to ½ cent higher, wheat subsequently showed an upturn all around. Corn, oats and provisions were also stronger, with corn opening unchanged to ½ cent rise, and afterward scoring a general advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 137⅜; September 140. Corn, July 102 7-8; September 99 7-8. Oats, July 55 3-8; September 45 7-8.

New Rise In Call Money Checks New York Upturn

NEW YORK, June 27 (Canadian Press). — Marking up of the call money rate to 7½ per cent. the highest since June 7, 1921, checked a brisk upturn in to-day's stock market. Early gains of one to four points in standard rails and industrials and 5 to 12 points in a few specialties were cut down, but prices generally held above the closing quotations of yesterday. Trading was on a slightly broader scale than yesterday up until the time the high money rate went into effect.

Prices started forward at the opening under the leadership of copper shares. The fixing of the renewal rate for call money at seven per cent failed to stem the advance, but when banks called $20,000,000 in loans and the rate was advanced to 7½, bullish enthusiasm began to wane.

Radio, which had advanced 2⅜ points to 177⅛, fell back to around 174⅝, Wright Aeronautical dropped from 140½ to 137½, Greene Cananea Copper from 105¼ to 103, and Curtiss from 99⅜ to 96¼. American Linseed sagged two points below yesterday's final quotations, and Delaware and Hudson nearly five points. United States Rubber Common sold at 27, the lowest price in years.

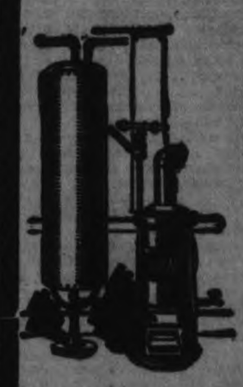
Pease

"Ideal" Tank Heater



Mr. John Wear, 21 Sproat Ave., Toronto, has found a way of insuring an abundant supply of hot water at practically no expense. Mr. Wear writes:

"I may say that the Pease Tank Heater is a dandy. My wife is so pleased with it. You can get the tank boiling in half an hour with a little kindling and a small amount of buckwheat coal. It will burn anything. She does not throw anything away. We have lots of hot water now and the expense is practically nothing. We cannot speak too highly of it."

While the primary purpose of Pease Tank Heaters is to heat water in large quantities, they give splendid satisfaction in heating small residences and similar heating jobs. And they are remarkably economical to install. Our heating engineers will advise you on any heating problems without cost or obligation. Write or phone.

VOCAL RECITAL OF GREAT MERIT

Pupils of Dorothy Allan Park Please Large Audience at Conservatory.

SPLENDID PROGRAM.

A program of merit, presented by pupils from the studio of Dorothy Allan Park was well received by an encouragingly large audience which gathered in the Conservatory of Music hall last evening. Sixteen student singers, some of them well known through their work in other recitals and also work during the past season, contributed a total of thirty-two numbers, yet the program was so arranged as to present each in most pleasing comparison. The accompaniments, played by Dorothy Allan Park and Mary Agnes Logan, greatly enhanced each vocal number.

Appreciation of the evening's entertainment as well as of individual ability was, to some extent betokened by a number of beautiful bouquets presented to pupils, teacher and accompanist by admiring friends. The large number of soloists and a doubly large number of vocal selections alone forbids extended individual reference. Much could be written of each. The program:

Lockworks Wins 9-7 Victory From Kiwanis

JUNIORS PLAY RAGGED GAME

Errors and Walks Most Potent Factors in the Scoring.

WESTBROOK GOOD.

Jack Deannard's Kiwanis Juniors slipped back another notch in the race for the city league honors last night when they were beaten 9-7 by the Lockworks team in a ragged game at Exhibition Park. Errors and walks were the most potent factors in the run getting of both teams, each pitcher varying strike-outs and charities in bewildering fashion.

The Kiwanis team started off in great style. Only six batsmen faced Howden in the first two innings, a smart double play cutting off the only batter to get on the sacks. On the other hand Deannard's club got five hits off Westbrook, three in the first and two in the second, and mixed them with five juicy errors on their opponents' part for four runs.

That was about the last time the losers had a look-in. The Lockmakers settled down and gave Westbrook perfect support, while the heaver tightened up with men on the sacks and turned the opposing batters away by the strike-out route. At the same time the winners unlimbered their heavy artillery and commenced to wallop the ball all over the lot. In between times the Kiwanis team made errors and Bill Howden threw the ball almost everywhere but over the plate.

The result—one run in the third and five in the fourth and the lead had changed hands for good.

Then came a scoreless inning. Three Lockworks batsmen went out in succession and then Westbrook fanned three Kiwanians in a row after W. Starr had opened the inning with a double.

In the sixth the scoring re-opened. Three errors in a row, two fumbles and a bad throw, sent a Lockmaker across with one counter. Howden struck out a man but walked his successor to put two on the bases, but another double killing ended the trouble.

Both sides scored in the seventh. Three singles after an infield out, with a couple of bad throws, put two runners across for the winners. There followed a strike-out, a single, and another strike-out to hold them at that point, and the Kiwanis team came in for a final rally.

The start wasn't promising, McCulloch striking out. A single and two walks crowded the cushions, but Goodson struck out. LeBarr doubled to score two and things looked up. Carroll singled to send another runner across, leaving the tying counters on the paths, but Mike O'Brien grabbed M. Starr's high foul after a long run and the game was over.

W. Starr was the heavy hitter of the affray. The stocky catcher helped himself to four safeties, one a double, in as many trips to the plate. His brother had a single and a double in four official appearances, being hit on his second trip. LeBarr also had a single and a double and Carroll singled twice.

On the winning side there were not so many hits but they were put to better use. Green's speed enabled him to stretch both of his safeties into doubles, while O'Brien was content with a pair of singles, being the only other player to get two.

AUSTRALIAN FALLS BEFORE COCHET

Plays Brilliant Game Before Eliminated By Frenchman at Wimbledon.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27.—(AP)—Rain wrecked the second day's program in the classic Wimbledon tennis championships yesterday.

Nevertheless the famous centre court of the Wimbledon field, hallowed ground to tennis youngsters and trod only by champions and the like, saw three sterling matches yesterday.

The defending champion, Henri Cochet, of France, found in Hopman, the Australian, an opponent whose variety of strokes, speed in court covering, and strategy provided the perfect foil for his own booming game. Hopman won the first four games of the third set before Cochet, volleying brilliantly, took the next five from the blonde youngster and then ran out the set after twice going to deuce. The scores were 61-, 6-4, 8-6.

Another favorite, Baron H. L. de Morpurgo, Italian star, swept D. H. Williams, of England, out of the tournament on the same battleground with a brilliant assortment of strokes, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, and Rene La Coste, mate of Cochet on the championship Davis Cup team, downed John Hawkes, left-handed Australian, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Hawkes provided the closest thing to an upset that appeared all day by giving the Frenchman's brilliant backhand plenty of exercise. The big fellow from the Antipodes took the second set with his fierce driving game, but little La Coste steadied and finally tired his opponent out.

Big Bill Tilden, ace of the American Davis Cup team, and George Lott his youthful teammate, managed to ease their second round victories in between the raindrops. Tilden, who has yet to lose a set in the unofficial world title play, trounced H. C. Fisher, young Oxford student from Burma, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, and Lott, similarly fortunate, kept his straight set record clean with a 6-1, 7-5, 7-5 victory over H. F. Lester, captain of the Cambridge University net team last year.

A sudden shower broke up Tilden's match after the first set and set attendants scurrying about the grounds on rolling rain-proof curtains for the playing surfaces. Then the skies cleared, play was resumed, only to run into intermittent showers again that blasted all hope of completing the day's card. Only a dozen other matches were played to a finish.

Only six matches were played in the women's singles events and like the men's contests there were no upsets. Ka Bouman, of Holland, defeated Miss C. Breckingha, 6-2, 7-5, and Senorita Elia de Alvares, of Spain, easily eliminated Mrs Randolph Lycett.

As the afternoon matches turned into contests between the players and rain, Mrs. Molla Mallory, many times singles champion of the American women, dodged through five showers to lose the opening set of her match with Miss L. Bickerson. The fifth time the players left the court they stayed away, leaving completion of the match until today. The score of the single set was 6-3.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Lockworks and All Saints' Royals play in James Stevenson Park to-night in a Junior League fixture.

Bethany will battle it out to-night with the Cogs in an E.P.L. tilt. Defeating the Crescents on Monday on their own grounds, the Durhamites are confident that they will take the city team into camp.

* * * * * * *

Their last scheduled game postponed on account of the weather, the Moose and the Kiwanis Juveniles will mix it again to-morrow night. The Moore men have shown a great improvement in their style of playing since the opening of the season, and a tidy contest can be expected by the group fans.

* * * * * * *

Confident with their 9-7 victory over the Kiwanis Juniors last night, the Lockworks will play their second game for this week when they clash with the Royals to-night. The athletic club team have been playing superb ball in their last few games, and have every expectation of adding another victory to-night.

* * * * * * *

Harrison's North-Enders and the C.G.E., the two strongest teams in the city softball league, are slated for a clash to-morrow night in Confederation Park. Both these teams are playing good ball, and given half a chance they will battle it out to a tight finish.

* * * * * * *

The Kiwanis suffered another defeat in the junior group of the City League last night when they were defeated 9-7 at the hands of the Lockworks. The game was very ragged, errors and walks were the most potent factors in the scoring for both teams.

* * * * * * *

Deannard's crew headed the scoring in the first of the play, the factory crew coming up in the third to hold the honors till the final strike was called. Westbrook was given good support by his teammates, while at the same time the Lockworks unlimbered their heavy artillery to smash the ball all over the lot.

BARNES DRIVES IN ALL SENATORS' RUNS

White Sox Defeat Detroit Again—Recruit Pitcher Stars.

NEW YORK, June 27—Barnes, who hit two home runs, drove in and scored all of Washington's four tallies at the Capitol yesterday, while Philadelphia got but three hits and one run off Gaston, who turned in one of his best games of the year. The victory gave the Senators four games of a six-game series.

Scoring three runs in the ninth inning the Chicago White Sox took the final game of the Detroit series, 5 to 2 and drove the Tigers deeper into the American League cellar.

Grady Adkins, a recruit from Shrevport of the Texas League, held the Tigers to three hits. Harry Heilmann, last year's American League batting champion, was benched in a shakeup of the Detroit line-up.

Larry Bettencourt, college youth from St. Mary's, California, hit for the circuit in the sixth inning with the bases loaded, and the St. Louis Browns ended their home stay by evening the series with the Cleveland Indians in a 6-to-3 victory.

The triumph marked the sixth straight win for Alvin Crowder, and the eighteenth of twenty-seven starts by Dan Howley's youngsters during their home stand. Of the seven series played, St. Louis won four and broke even on the other three.

Three Favorites Survive First Round In Annual Golf Tournament At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 27 (Canadian Press). — Three favorites survived the first round of match play in the fifth annual invitation women's golf tournament at the Buffalo Country Club yesterday although one of the trio barely succeeded in edging out a victory.

Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R.I., former national champion, who needed 43 for the first nine holes of her match with Miss Alice Beadlestone, of New York, and had trouble on the inward journey, went to the final green before she triumphed, two up.

Here Miss Collett's third shot was dead to the pin, but she missed an easy putt. The five, however, was good enough to win.

Displaying the finest golf of the day's play, Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., another favorite, turned in a card of 38 for the outward nine and eliminated Miss Maude Ross, of Ottawa, Ontario, on the eleventh green, 9 to 7.

The third of the trio, Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago star, who won the tournament last year, easily disposed of Miss Ann Jeannette Hunter, of Pittsburgh.

LEAFS CLIMB TO FIRST PLACE

Defeat Rochester 3-0 in Good Game—Royals Win Again.

NEWARK STREAK BROKEN.

ROCHESTER, June 27.—The Leafs of Toronto returned to a tie for first place wtih the Rochester Red Wings yesterday by defeating Billy Southworth's athletes in the second game of their series by 3 to 0 before a fairly large-sized crowd of week-day fans. The round of gooseberries hung on the noble necks of the Reds was the result of some sparkling pitching by Johnny Prudhomme, who was complete master of the situation, and never once was in danger.

Herman Bell, Rochester's best pitcher, also hurled a good game, but was up against a better brand by his rival. He was nicked for ten blows by the Leafs, and three times the visitors bunched enough to score the runs that gave them their victory. Leslie Burke led the visiting batsmen with three safe hits.

Royals Beat Bisons.

BUFFALO, June 27.—Driving Foster Edwards from the mound in the fourth inning, the Montreal Royals vanquished the Bisons by 8 to 4 in the second game of the series here yesterday. Holt and Radwan hit homers for the Royals, and Al Moore smashed his third circuit clout in two days for the Bisons.

Umpire Parker was taken ill in the third inning and Gaston worked the remainder of the game alone.

Orioles Open.

NEARK, June 27. — The Baltimore Orioles snapped the five-game winning streak of the Bears here yesterday afternoon by getting away with a 4 to 2 victory. "Lefty" Coumbe proved invincible with men on bases in most cases, while the Birds hit Moore and Reese hard at opportune times.

Skeeters Drub Keystones.

READING, Pa., June 27.— After being held to two hits in eight innings, Jersey City rallied for nine runs in the ninth to blank Reading, 9 to 0, in the second game of the series. Horne held Reading to four hits, two of which were obtained by George Quellich.

fed through the hopper. Ordinarily it ran through without any assistance. When called to the scene of the accident all he could see of the deceased was one hand sticking up, and when his body was excavated it was found to be standing up.

"My instructions are to never have less than two men in one bin. I have never seen the workmen use the safety harness provided by the company, and I have heard them claim that it interfered with their work," declared Mr. Bailey. The superintendent was also of the opinion that a man should not get caught in the hopper if he paid strict attention to his work.

John Hill, the safety engineer, was the last witness called. Mr. Hill produced the orders that he had placarded at the entrance to the bins. In these orders a man was forbidden to descend into the bin without the proper harness on, and when there was not at least one man on the life line.

The jury was composed of: G. G. Connal, foreman; W. W. Leonard, A. B. Burrows, Robert Duff, Allan Clark, William Baker, Percy Spence, T. Crawford, J. F. Lillicrap, and Thompson Braden.

WIZARDS FROM THE WEST

Western Canada is steadily becoming a greater and greater factor in Canada's sports. The western athletes who will step on the track at the end of the week at Hamilton have stellar performances to their credit. One of the best known is Buster Brown of Edmonton, Alberta, the speedy 18-year-old High School lad, who won the championship of this province. Buster had a margin of five yards at the finishing line, and covered the century in the remarkable time of 9 8-10 seconds.

At the last national Canadian meet held at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, Brown arrived on the train on the morning of the race and entered his event in the afternoon without any workout. He finished fourth in the race, regardless of his handicap. This created a great deal of interest among the critics as to the merits of this boy, and he is looked upon in the east as a comer.

Brant Little is another western boy who should still be good, and in the running to collect a little more silverware. He was Manitoba's champion in 1926 and 1927. At the Canadian meet last fall he ran third to Moe Mitchell of Toronto. In 1926 he was the Canadian champion, and if he is in good condition should be in the running at this year's trials this week at Hamilton.

WET WEATHER SPOILS SPORTS

Somewhat Disorganizes Training of Dragoons at Barriefield Camp.

MEN WORKING HARD.

BARRIEFIELD, June 26 (Special to The Examiner)—Wet weather over the week-end seriously disorganized work and sports. Heavy rain has fallen for the last three days and the ground, rock hard at the beginning of camp, is now muddy, treacherous to horses and disastrous to the welfare of the men. Wooden floors have been put in all tents, and the camp is completely organized and equipped.

Satisfaction is expressed in the mess catering both for officers, N.C.O.'s and men, and the canteen which has been opened for the regiment is supplying such extras as are permitted and called for.

With the prospect of better weather the training as planned is both heavy and varied. The camp will close with two days of extended manoeuvres, in which the whole brigade will work under one command.

Inter-regimental sports are under way, and this week will produce some interesting contests.

The Prince of Wales Dragoons have a full complement of officers, men and horses, and are complimented on their strength and work and general appearance.

Tunney In Training For Champion Bout

SPECULATOR, N.Y. June 27.—(AP) — Gene Tunney yesterday went through the best workout of his training campaign for his titular heavyweight championship match against the New Zealand blacksmith, Tom Heeney, at New York, July 26. The largest crowd that has visited the camp thus far saw the champion go through his paces.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, watching Gene box for the first time since his successful title defense against Jack Dempsey at Chicago, expressed delight with the champion's condition.

ROBINS WIN FULL SERIES

Defeat Boston in Double Header 5-1 and 6-5 To Make Clean Sweep.

CUBS BREAK EVEN.

NEW YORK, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Brooklyn cleaned up its five-game series at Boston by taking both ends of yesterday's double-header, 5 to 1 and 6 to 5. Bill Clark's fine left-handed pitching enabled the Robins to romp home, eased up in the opener, and a three-run rally in the ninth gave them the second victory. Clark has won four games from the Braves this season.

Delaney's wildness in the second and the seventh, capitalised by Brooklyn bats, decided the first game.

The Robins tossed five first string pitchers against the Braves in the nightcap—Doak, Petty, Ehrhardt, Vance and Moss. The home team used Barnes, Brandt and R. Smith.

The Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates broke even in yesterday's double-header at Chicago, the Pirates winning the first 1 to 0 and the Cubs the last 7 to 3. The victory gave the Cubs the series of three games.

The nightcap saw each team using three pitchers, with the Pirates knocking Percy Lee Jones out of the box in the first inning and the Cubs driving Johnny Miljust from the mound in the second, each with a three-run attack.

Burleigh Grimes and his spitball were the masters of the Cubs in the first game, the Bruins being held to four hits, while the Pirates collected 11 off Blake, but could score only one run.

The Giants made it four out of five from Philadelphia by winning the get-away tilt at Philadelphia, 7 to 6, on eighteen hits.

In the three games this week, the New Yorkers pounded various Phillie pitchers for a total of 50 safeties. Ring and Walsh were hit hard in the early and middle innings yesterday, but McGraw and Ferguson stopped the visitors without a single in the last three frames.

The Phillies collected 10 hits off Fitzsimmons and Genewich, six of them for extra bases.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

NAGEL-LOY SCORE IN BIG MELODRAMA

"The Girl From Chicago."

Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy are co-stars in "The Girl From Chicago," the great Warner Bros. melodrama, which comes to the Regent Theatre next Thursday for a run of 3 days. Ray Enright directed this underworld masterpiece, which was taken from "Business is Best," the Arthur Somers Roche detective story. Graham Baker did the scenario and the subject is the spectacular career of a Southern girl, who comes to the great city to free her brother from the clutch of an underworld gang who have caused his sentence to death. Thrilling and absorbing, but with the admixture of humor and human kindness without which any play is untrue, "The Girl from Chicago" is meeting with tremendous success. It is not a picture of evil for evil's sake but of love battling against the forces of evil to win all that makes life worth while. 'The Girl from Chicago' won not only her brother's freedom but the love of the man she believed to be a leader among the crooks.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Bebe Daniels in "Feel My Pulse"—A Delightful Comedy, Will Be the Attraction at The Capitol the Last Half of This Week, Commencing To-morrow.

If one likes good, clean, fast-moving comedy, in cool surroundings, the place to get it is the Capitol Theatre, the last three days of this week, afternoon or evening.

Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, makes the offer. The beautiful player really outdoes herself in her latest screen offering, "Feel My Pulse," which opens to-morrow.

Fun? Plenty! And some idea may be derived from the situations given the dashing comedienne by Howard Emmett Rogers who is credited with the original story. Can't you picture Miss Daniels as a girl who is perfectly healthy, but who believes that she is an invalid? And her experiences in a sanitarium filled with patients who are members of a bootlegging gang? And the action involved around the battles between the "patients" and the hi-jackers—with Bebe in the midst of it all?

These are just a few of the situations which suit Miss Daniels' talents perfectly. And she makes the best of her opportunities.

Miss Daniels plays the role of a beautiful American girl who has been brought up with the idea that she is a frail thing when in reality there is nothing the matter with her. She visits the sanitarium, left her by an uncle, a health crank, and finds it in possession of a bootlegging gang. Her exploits from that moment on never fail to get a string of laughs and the rousing climax has the audience in convulsions.

Richard Arlen, remembered for his excellent work in "Wings" and "She's a Sheik," is her leading man, in this case a young novelist who is also mixed up in the activities of the bootleggers. The leader of the gang is William Powell. The latter gives his usual finished performance. Other members of the cast are Charles Sellon, Melbourne MacDowell, Heinie Conklin, and George Irving.

"Feel My Pulse' is somewhat different from the type of picture usually identified with Miss Daniels, but it is even funnier and faster moving than those she has done in the past and this is saying a great deal.

BIG SWIM NEWS

By The Walrus

This is George's latest. If he doesn't win this time he will have no alibis, for he is in the best condition he ever knew.

THOSE who should know say that George Young is fully determined to stage a come-back in the Third Wrigley Marathon which will be held on September 5th, at the Canadian National Exhibition.

If that is so, it is probable that he will duplicate his Catalina victory which made him for a year the world's champion long distance swimmer, for there is no gainsaying the fact that he is performing better than ever. I saw him disturbing the placidity of the Credit over the week end, and was struck with the improvement regular training had effected in him during the short time since he took to it seriously. He has developed into a man in the fast year—and a very powerful man, with tremendous shoulders, which he uses. He has more glide, I think, than formerly and appears to be as tireless as before he went to Catalina. He has added a lot of avoirdupois, but it does not seem to bother him in the water, and it is much easier to take this off than put it on.

Despite his failure of last year he still has a great following of swim-wise fans, who will be more than disappointed if he is not away out in front at the finish of the Marathon.

ROUTE OF CIRCUS PARADE

—From the Exhibition Grounds the procession will proceed along George street to King street, to Water street, to McDonnel street, to George street, returning to the show grounds.

Sparks Circus will be here tomorrow and the small boy is happy.

Everyone who was once a real live youngster knows just when the circus is coming to town, where it will unload and just how the elephants, camels, ponies, wild animals and circus paraphernalia will be transported to the circus grounds where the tented city is erected with such surprising rapidity.

It is safe to say that Sparks Circus will be mentioned at nine out of ten breakfast tables tomorrow, and that the indefinable, intangible thrill of circus day will make itself felt in nearly every household in town.

The first big event will be the street parade—the only one to be seen here this season—scheduled at 11 in the morning, and thousands will witness it from points of vantage. Then on the Exhibition Grounds there will follow the afternoon performance at 2 and the night exhibition at 8, with doors opening one hour earlier.

A down-town ticket office will be established tomorrow at Bond's Drug Store, corner George and Hunter streets, where both general admission and reserved seat tickets may be had at the same price as at the ticket wagons on the grounds.

The following schedule of events will be of interest to the thousands of circus lovers:

Sparks Circus day program follows:

6.30 a.m.—Unloading and removal of tents, paraphernalia, wagons, animals, horse-tents and side-shows.

CHAUTAUQUA OFFERS MANY ATTRACTIONS

Varied Program To Be Given Here, Starting July 15.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

The great Broadway comedy success, "Tommy," the beautiful musical production "An Alpine Romance" and an amazing, spectacular performance of magic and mystery by The Great Laurant are among the many big attractions scheduled to appear here during this season's annual Dominion Redpath Chautauqua which opens in Peterborough on Friday, July 13, and continues for five crowded, interesting days, scoring an overnight hit on Broadway, where it ran for over a year at the Eltinge Theatre. Here is a comedy that is like a breath of clean, buoyant air, according to the critics. It has the merit of telling a human, understandable story with shouts of laughter and gripping pathos, through real, living human beings.

Like a glimpse into the heart of the Alps is the notable musical production "An Alpine Romance," to be presented by the famous Fiechtl Yodlers. The picturesque Tyrol with its colorful costumes, fascinating melodies and quaint folk dances is unforgetably portrayed. The Fiechtls come from Innsbruck, Tyrol, the very cradle of the music-loving, music-living Tyroleans. With them here will be Jack Yost and Constantine Wunderle, whose Victor phonograph records are known and loved by thousands.

That peerless magician, The Great Laurant, has been secured to appear here in a magic show of wonders, which will be a truly gala event and a red letter joy night. Laurant is one of the suavest, most picturesque magicians ever seen on the platform. Hindu magic, the craft of the ancient Chinese and modern illusions and mysteries follow each other with startling rapidity. A Laurant entertainment is a veritable revel in the Land of Mystery.

Edward Tomlinson, who will lecture on "Under Ten Flags," will give a popular and entertaining discussion of Latin-American questions in the light of his attendance at the recent Pan-American Conference at Havana, and of his detailed personal investigations in South America.

The Herrick Male Quartette, which fires the opening gun of the Chautauqua, is known everywhere as a top-notch success. This jolly, rollicking quartette, all college men, sing their songs and present their sketches and impersonations with infectious high spirit and true college "pep."

Major John H. Hill, the first white man to traverse South Africa from Cape Town to Cairo, will lecture on "Savages I Met in Africa." For two and one-half years during his African explorations, Major Hill never saw another white man. He tells a vivid, amazing tale of bushmen, cannibals, fakirs, jungles and forests. Major Hill is a native of Canada.

The famous humorist-philosopher 'Kill-he-Blues' Cope, will give one of his noted lectures filled with fun, facts and fancy. Mr. Cope earned his sobriquet of "Kill-the-Blues" during the war when, as a lecturer-entertainer, he was making an army laugh, and the nickname has stuck in peace-time because of his extraordinary ability to inspire jollity and good feeling.

Captain J. H. Hedley, noted war ace, will tell the thrilling story of his personal experiences in the World War in his interesting lecture, "Rambling Through the Air." As a member of the Royal Flying Corps, Capt. Hedley took part in some of the most spectacular air fights of the war. Because of his hairbreadth escapes, he was called "The Luckiest Man Alive."

Among other popular attractions are the Mozart Concert Company, presenting unique entertainment specialties that please and delight; and the Grosjean Novelty Company, featuring the melodious marimba-xylophone, which never fails to score a tremendous hit.

Something new in children's entertainments will be featured this season. "Junior Town" will be in full swing every day under the big brown Redpath tent. The boys and girls will have the fun of running their own town with all the officials of a model city. A capable Junior Supervisor will be in charge. She has many delightful surprises planned, which make it important for every youngster to be on hand every day for "Junior Town."

The total road mileage in Canada maintained by patrol or gang system during 1926 was 46,824 miles, involving an expenditure of $15,978,000.

WARKWORTH, June 26. — The road from Warkworth to Hastings is the best in the vicinity. Warkworth to Campbellford. Warkworth to Brighton and Warkworth to Colborne are very rough.

Those who visit the village of Warkworth never fail to admire the splendid memorial Community Hall, with the marble entrance, containing a tablet in honor of the fallen heroes of Percy Township. Then, too, the Town Hall and the new Masonic Temple are points of interest. Many admire the big hill lying directly at the north of the village. The view from the top is well worth the climb.

"UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FLAPPING DOOR."

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily hopped into his hollow stump bungalow carrying a bundle of clover leaves and blossoms which he had gathered to help cure Jingle's cold.

"And I have brought you something else, too, very good for colds, my dear," said the jolly old rabbit gentleman as he gave Nurse Jane the clover to make into hot tea.

"What else did you bring, Daddicums?" asked Jingle who didn't feel very happy with her cold.

"Honey!" answered Mr. Longears, and he told of meeting the old pedler dog with the three mysterious jars. "I guessed which jar had honey in, even though it had no name on and was only marked with the number 1."

"How did you know there was honey in number 1 jar, Daddicums?" asked Jingle as she took some of the sweet stuff which made her sore throat feel better.

"Because I saw ants crawling up the sides of the jar," answered the rabbit. "Ants can smell honey a long way off. So when I saw the ants I guessed that number 1 jar had honey in it, and the pedler dog gave me some for you, Jingle."

"What were in the other jars?" asked the little rabbit girl as Uncle Wiggily told her the story.

"In number 2 were some roses," answered Daddicums. "I knew roses were in that jar because some bees were buzzing around it. Bees get honey from roses and other flowers. And in number 3 jar was a bone."

"How could you tell?" asked Jingle.

"Because the pedler dog's little puppy was sniffing at that jar, and I knew he would rather sniff a bone than honey or roses," was the answer.

Jingle thought her Daddi ums was very clever to guess which jar held the honey. But I suppose you children were just as smart and also guessed the puzzle.

So the next day Jingle's cold was much better, because of the honey and clover tea, and, though she couldn't go to school, she could hop around in the sunshine with Uncle Wiggily.

"Do you think we'll have an adventure, Daddicums?" asked Jingle as she hopped with Uncle Wiggily across a field.

"Perhaps," was the answer. And then Jingle, looking down in the grass, saw a little round door flap shut over a hole that led down into the earth.

"Oh, Daddicums! See the funny flapping door!" cried the little rabbit girl. As she spoke, the door opened again and out of the hole crawled a large spider lady.

"How do you do, Uncle Wiggily," said the spider lady. "I'm glad it's you and not a hungry bird anxious to gobble me up. We spiders must be very careful, even if some of us do live in houses with trap doors that open and shut."

"Oh, did you open and shut the flapping door?" asked Jingle.

"Yes," answered the spider lady. Then she showed the little rabbit the nest, like a long tube, built into the ground, and closed with a hinged door, made of layers of dirt and web. When the spider lady wanted to hide, she crawled into her nest and pulled the flapping door shut after her.

While Uncle Wiggily and Jingle were talking with the trap door spider lady, all of a sudden along came Baby Bunty who had been let out of school early. Baby Bunty was crying.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I was rolling my hoop and I rolled it so far I cut it," said Bunty. Then the spider lady laughed and said:

HASTINGS PLAYS HERE TOMORROW

Will Meet Lockworks at Exhibition Park in League Game.

FOR FIRST PLACE.

Hastings, with Ibey and Cowell who formed the battery for Campbellford last season, when the team won the championship of the Northumberland League, and met Crescents in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals, will play at Exhibition Park tomorrow evening, meeting Lock Works in an important contest. Hastings have yet to lose a contest in the county series of the E.P.L., and the Lockmakers have dropped only one game.

CLINIC REPORT IS ENCOURAGING

Review of Past Six Months' Work Given By Dr. Birnie.

CAMERA DONATED.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Management of the Well Babies' Clinic, held recently in the rooms at the Canadian Legion Hall, and presided over in a very able manner by Mrs. J. Mills, in the absence of Mrs. A. Mowat, excellent reports of the six months' activities were given by Miss A. Wood, secretary, Mrs. F. C. Neal, treasurer Miss Mamie Foote, Clinic nurse, and Dr. Jessie Birnie, supervisor.

Dr. Birnie's report was a concise review, speaking of the attention given to the babies, especially in the preparation of their food, and referring to the improvement made in a large number of cases when a proper diet was adopted.

Dr. Birnie also asked for a kodak with which to take photographs of the infants, on their first visit to the Clinic, and on later visits, in order to show improvement made. A member of the Board offered to donate a kodak for this purpose.

As it is difficult to obtain help for the weekly meetings during the summer months, it was decided to close the Clinic during the last two weeks in July and the first two weeks in August.

The financial report, as presented by Mrs. Neal, showed a balance from the previous period of $226.15 and total receipts during the past six months, of $561.17. Disbursements amounted to $536.50, leaving a present balance on hand of $260.82.

The receipts included a donation (per Dr. Birnie) of $20, donation from the Red Cross Society of $50, from the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. of $100, from the 57th Regimental Chapter of $25, from the Queen Alexandra School, $1; and a City grant of $349.98.

Madam President and Ladies:

I hereby submit the report of the Well Babies' Clinic for the past six months. Our attendance was 696, showing an increase of 259. The largest monthly attendance was in May, a total of 174, and the largest weekly attendance was May 22, being 42. A marked increase is shown in the number of the very young babes brought in for early supervision, the youngest on the roll being two weeks old. This shows a keen interest on the part of this mother for early supervision.

One mother walks three miles to our clinic, usually weekly, where she spends one of her best hours of the week in child welfare education.

Calls made were 275. These were propaganda some pre-natal, baby welfare, hygenic principles and in some cases giving relief in distressed circumstances where they were found.

Telephone calls were 42 for information regarding the clinic and for minor advice.

The follow up and food preparation work has shown great results and we regret having no kodak with which we might have demonstrated the improvements from time to time in the undernourished children.

At present we are supervising a motherless T.B. infant and giving teaching regarding the diet and hygenic principles to those in the home. I have found some cases of distressing circumstances when making my calls, and in many cases have what through the kindness of friends interested in our work.

FISH ATTRACT TO BUCKHORN

Two Hotels Cater To Those Who Visit This Fine Resort.

BOATING IS GOOD.

Just twenty miles north of this city and twelve miles from the village of Lakefield, amidst rocks which add a touch of beauty of the surroundings is found Buckhorn. At this resort there are two hotels, the Buckhorn House under the management of Jack Eastwood, and the Windsor House, managed by Robert J. Fulton. Both hotels have all the modern conveniences, and along with the Buckhorn House Mr. Eastwood has a number of cottages to rent situated in Buckhorn Park.

For those who like the sound of the rushing waters, no finer spot can be found on the lakes. As a centre for boating, Buckhorn excels, for there is a string of lakes each way with the hotels acting as the hub. For fishing, this district ranks with the best of the Kawarthas.

TOURISTS CAN BUY CAMPING SUPPLIES

Springbrook Stores Offer All Conveniences To Travelling Public.

BONARLAW, June 27. — Have you been to Springbrook lately? The new garage and service station owned and operated by Robert Scarlett is a vast improvement to the old one. Mr. Scarlett has painted the garage white and green. There is a ladies' rest room and refreshment counter, which the many tourists enjoy.

Springbrook also has an up-to-date grist mill, which affords a great convenience, as most farmers in that district had to go to Allen's Mill, Marmora, or Stirling. The mill is owned by Mr. Flemming, and best of service is guaranteed.

Murray and Fitzgerald own the large, up-to-date grocery and dry goods store, where real meals are served. There is also an up-to-date butcher shop, hardware store, and other places of business, and a hearty welcome to all.

Two little churches help to make up this little village, which is situated on the Marmora-Foxboro Highway. Just over the hill from this quaint little town runs a trout creek where the numerous little speckled beauties can be had with a little patience.

WILLIAM HENRY AWARDED $2,654

city with reference to the place in question, the scene of the accident. This entitles the plaintiff to recover, and the only question is, how much. He is disabled for life, unable to perform his ordinary duties, and probably too old to learn new ones very thoroughly. He has endured great pain and suffering and all through no fault of his own. He has actually disbursed $154.00 and has lost all his wages from that time now, with permanent physical impairmen.

"I fix his damages at $2,500.00, in addition to the $154.00 disbursements, which make a total of $2,654.00. I direct judgment to be entered for this amount with costs to be taxed on the Supreme Court scale.

O'Brien, 631 George street, was united in marriage to Mr. Jack Doleman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Doleman, Lafayette avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Costello.

The bride looked charming in a dress of white georgette with white lace picture hat and white kid shoes and stockings. She wore a corsage bouquet of American beauty roses.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald looked dainty as bridesmaid, wearing a peach georgette frock, with hat and shoes to match, and a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Mr. Jack Burke of this city, cousin of the bride, assisted the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents; breakfast being served to a number of guests.

HARRISON FAMILY MEETS AT CHEMONG

Second Annual Re-union is Most Enjoyable Event.

The second annual re-union of the Harrison family was held in Chemong Park on Tuesday afternoon, the twenty-sixth. There were seventy-nine members of the family present, while there were about thirty unable to be there. This is a very large family.

The time was spent in sports, the family group having a committee which arranges all these in advance. There was a ball game in which nearly everyone with a desire to play the game took part, the men and women joining in the fun. The game, being somewhat more strenuous than many were used to, many substitutions were necessary.

There were also athletic contests for the men and boys, and the balloon contest for the older women and the young married women provided a barrel full of fun. The day was windy but a whole lot more so when this contest was in full swing. Mrs. McCarroll was the victor in this competition for the older women, while Mrs. Gilbert Harrison won the prize given for the younger married ladies.

Miss Edna Harrison won the prize for the 'teen age girls, and little Pat Wannamaker won the little folks' prize. The boys' prize went to Irvin Harrison.

After the games all sat down to a sumptuous supper that was served on cloths spread out on the grass. At the close of the feast, J. Harrison presented the prizes, accompanied with a very humorous speech, which he started out by saying, "I am the guy that dove deepest, stayed down longest, and came up the driest." It was decided to hold the next re-union on the second of July next year and to make it an annual event to be held on the first Tuesday in July each year. When Mrs. Leslie Harrison was put down the kiddies' slide in the park she was declared winner of the sliding contest.

The first of these re-unions was held last year when they gathered together to wish bon voyage to one of their number, the Rev. Richard Bruce Harrison, who now is in Africa. So successful was this first attempt that one was held again this year and will now continue to be held annually after the fun and success of the last outing.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Harrison and their son, Keith, Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison; also there were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Harrison and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrison and their son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harrison and their daughter Audrey, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harrison and children, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Harrison and children, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harrison and their son Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Harrison, also Mrs. Mary Harrison and children, Mrs. J. A. Trennum, Mrs. McCarroll, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stockdale and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stockdale and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hunt and children, Mr. and Mrs. Falconer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Telford and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. Finney and their son Jack, the Misses Velma, Mildred, Fern, Ida and Edna Harrison, Miss Luella Harris, Miss Greta Gillis, Miss Pat Wannamaker, Messrs. Melville, Howard and Wallace Harrison, Marwood McCarroll, John Carewe and Irvin Harrison.

The families gathered by motor from far and near. From south of Otonabee to Lakehurst, Omemee, and the other side of Lakefield. Not one travelled by horse and carriage of any description.

THINK ROBBERY ON BRITISH SOIL

Scotland Yard Officials Still Working On Mail Thefts.

NOTED ROBBER AT LARGE.

LONDON, June 26.—Chief Inspector Cooper of Scotland Yard's "Flying Squad," and British post office detective are now working on the theory that the Leviathan registered mail robbery took place between the time the bags were unloaded at Southampton and the time they reached London and other British destinations.

Contrary to previous statements, the seals on the bags were broken, and in some cases counterfeit seals substituted. But the robbers did not replace seals on some of the bags.

It is considered certain that the absence of these seals would have been noticed had the theft taken place before the sacks were loaded on the Leviathan in New York.

Another fact which strengthens the belief that the robbery took place on British soil is that the man who is wanted for the Charles Street mail robbery here in 1926 has never been caught. It is believed he may be responsible for the Leviathan robbery.

The strings of the outer bag of each pouch robbed were intact, but the strings on the inner bags were cut, revealing a fine touch on the part of the thieves. Only three of the bags were destined for London. The rest went to Bristol, Plymouth, Birmingham, Belfast, Glasgow, Manchester, Nottingham, Leeds and Liverpool. The British postal authorities have a list of the senders of the looted letters and are communicating with them to learn the contents.

The correspondent understands the mail aboard the Leviathan is covered by the United States Line's insurance, so senders able to prove losses will probably be able to recover.

Belfast Bag Looted.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, June 26.—(A.P.)— Officials of the local post office reported that in one of the forty-six mail bags received from the S. S. Leviathan they discovered that the small green bag containing registered letters had been tampered with, the seal and label having been removed.

Of the 238 registered packets 214 were slit open and the contents removed. These were delivered yesterday with an explaantion of their receipt.

KEENE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WAS FOUNDED 95 YEARS AGO

Early Settlers, Mostly From Scotland, Called Minister in 1833.

FIRST STIPEND $625.

Rev. Francis Andrews Was In Charge of Congregation For 51 Years.

(Examiner Staff Corresopndence)

KEENE, June 28.—In 1833, just 95 years ago, the Presbyterian Church was first organized in Keene and ever since, then until the time of union the Keene Presbyterian Church has been a bulwark of strength to Presbyterianism in the Presbytery of Peterborough. In that year the Rev. Archibald Colquhoun took charge as the first minister. The settlement was made up principally of Scotch folk who had been brought up in the Presbyterian faith, which they held sacred and on the very first opportunity in their new homes they organized their church.

For nine years Mr. Colquhoun ministered to the spiritual needs of the people, conducting public worship in the village school house, and resided about two miles west of Keene. The first managers of the congregation were: Duncan Drummond, George Gillespie, Peter McFarlane, John McGregor, Duncan McIntyre, and George Esson. These gentlemen entered into a bond guaranteeing to the minister a stipend of £125 per annum, £50 of which sum was obtained from the Colonial Fund of the Church of Scotland.

The members and adherents during Mr. Colquhoun's time numbered a little over fifty. Great difficulty was experienced in raising the stipend promised. This, together with other reasons, led to Mr. Colquhoun's resignation in the year 1842. From this date up to the year 1845 religious services were conducted by ministers of other congregations, such as the Rev. Mr. Rogers of the Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Gilmour of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, and the Rev. Mr. Hayden of the Independent Church, Cobourg.

In the year 1845 movement was set on foot to provide suitable accommodation for the growing needs of the church. The result was the decision to erect a church immediately and two acres of land were purchased from the late Dr. Gilchrist for £50 on the site the manse now occupies.

Church Built in 1846.

The church was built in the year 1846 at a cost of £300, £50 of which sum was contributed by the late Hon. Isaac Buchanan, who gave a donation of £500 for the first ten churches to be erected after the disruption of connection with the Free Church of Canada. The building was first seated with boards or planks resting on supports. These were gradually superceded by comfortable seats or pews, each member furnishing at his own expense his sitting accommodation. The church was formerly opened for divine service by the Rev. Mr. Roger in the fall of 1846. Among the early records is to be found the subscription list in aid of the building fund. The names found on the list shows there must have been a real feeling of brotherly love prevalent in the community, as all denominations, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, and all nationalities in the place contributed according to their means in aid of the new church.

In the same year in which the church was opened for service a call was extended to the Rev. Mr. Wallace, a young man and a graduate of Queen's College, Kingston.

Mr. Wallace accepted the call and was duly inducted as pastor by the Rev. John M. Roger of Peterborough, Rev. Thomas Alexander of Cobourg and Rev. Dr. Reid of Grafton. Mr. Wallace ministered very acceptably to the congregation for a short time but on account of ill health he was obliged to resign his charge in the month of August of the succeeding year. His stipend was £106.

At the time of the opening of the church the elders were: Duncan Drummond, Duncan McIntyre, Thomas Short, and James Fife; and the deacons were Richard Short, John McFarlane, Alexander Wood, John Stark, James Sinclair, James Becket, and Malcolm Campbell. Mr. Wood and Mr. Beckett were afterwards elected elders. The membership of the whole church at that time was about 150.

Collection of Wood.

It may be interesting to note how the temporal affairs of the church were managed during its early history. At a meeting of the Deacons' Court held on the 10th day of November, 1846, the following resolution was passed: "Resolved that fire wood be provided by voluntary contribution, namely, from Mr. Thomas Short, 1 cord; Mr. Duncan Drummond, ¾ cord; Mr. John McFarlane, ¾ cord; Mr. Alex Wood, ½ cord; Mr. Peter McFarlane, ½ cord; Mr. Malcolm Campbell, ½ cord; and that Mr. James Sinclair be authorized to confer with those in the village for the purpose of making the fires, cleaning the stoves, and attending to the church for the season."

The duties of sexton were performed in this way up to the year 1848, when Mr. Sinclair was employed at a salary of £1 10s. per annum. From that time up to the present caretakers have been employed and paid

Lady Sees Parade . . . but Sausages Burn.

"A place for everything—and everything in its place," is a good motto, but this morning was proved the fact circus parades have no place in the morning schedule of at least one Peterborough housewife. She left the sausages on the stove and went to watch the parade, but Lo, Alas and Bedarned—on returning, she found that the impatient sausages had wearied of waiting and the house was filled with smoke to such an alarming extent that the fire brigade was called to investigate. Oh, well——

Mohammed Mahmoud Has Formed Cabinet

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—Mohammed Mahmoud has completed his task of forming a new cabinet in succession to that of Nahas Pasha which was summarily dismissed a few days ago by a rescript issued by King Faud, on the ground that the ministry was formed on the basis of a coalition which no longer existed. He has retained in office Ahmed Kashaba, Minister of Justice; Gafar Wali, Minister of War and Marine; and Ibrasim Fahmy, Minister of Public Works, all of whom are Wafdists. The newcomers include Adly Mahar, Minister of Finance.

Mahmoud is vice-president of the Liberal party and was educated at Oxford University. He was formerly a strong Wafdist and was interned by the British Government in Malta in 1919. He joined the Liberals in 1922 as the result of a quarrel with former premier Zaghlul Pasha over the latter's attitude towards Great Britain.

DEMOCRATS INCLUDE PLANK FOR ENFORCING PROHIBITION

Platform Committee Declares For Strict Enforcement of 18th Amendment.

NOMINATION CONTINUES.

Delegates Hope To Get Down To Balloting To-night or To-morrow.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 28 (Canadian Press).—A prohibition plank, declaring for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment was approved to-day by the Democratic convention's resolutions sub-committee in winding up the drafting of the platform upon which the party will seek a grant of power in November.

While its platform builders labored in seclusion over prohibition and farm relief, the hot, tired, and irritable Democratic national convention turned back to Sam Houston Hall today to complete the gesture of placing formally in nomination a long list of already defeated presidential favorite sons.

After nearly four hours of speechmaking and demonstrating, the roll call of nomination speeches was not half finished when the convention quit shortly before midnight. The morning session to-day was given over to the completion of this formality, with the hope of going on to the balloting for a nominee either to-night or to-morrow.

Girl Is Locked In Burglar-Proof Safe

NEW YORK, June 28 (United Press).—For almost an hour Miss Hattie Dingle, a stenographer in the Good Housekeeping Institute, was a prisoner in a large steel vault, while fellow workers outside vainly tried to decipher the combination of the lock. Miss Dingle entered the vault to file correspondence and some one accidentally closed the door. Other stenographers could not decipher Miss Dingle's shorthand, in which the combination was written. Police finally cut a small hole through the terra cotta vault of the wall and passed the notebook in. Miss Dingle then read off the combination and was liberated.

Democrat Convention Interrapted By Fight

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28 (A.P.) — The resolutions committee of the Democratic National Convention was thrown into confusion late yesterday when debate on prohibition reached such heat that a fist fight nearly was started by Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, who took vigorous exception to statements made by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, regarding prohibition enforcement in his State.

BRINTON CARPET PLANT GROWS; EMPLOYEES INVEST IN COMPANY

Extensions Now Under Way Will Be Completed About August 1.

WORKERS BUY STOCK.

Many Take Advantage of Opportunity to Share in Firm's Prosperity.

Extensive building operations which will mean increased production and an even larger employment roll, are now being carried on at the Brinton-Peterboro Carpet Company, Limited Lock Street, and ere the first of August has come and gone there will have been completed three additions to the present plant—a remarkable testimonial to the growth of this well-known local industry. With the growth of the plant, another modern arrangement has been quite recently effected—a stock sharing system whereby employees may invest their savings to real advantage.

Largest of the three units being added will be a one-story building on the space immediately to the south of the original factory building, and west of a new weaving building. It will be practically fireproof, having concrete foundation, 60 feet by 123 feet, concrete walls to the window sills, steel girders and solid brick above the sills and windows, having steel sashes and opaque glass filling. In it will be housed bright and spacious offices (located above the main floor in especially finished quarters) as well as a complete new weaving department, the machinery for which is expected to arrive and be installed about September 1.

The present offices will be devoted to storage of bobbins. T. C. Epngrave is the contractor.

Another addition, 60 feet by 100 feet, one story in height and constructed of concrete and brick, with wood beams and a special nastic flooring, is also nearing completion at the extreme easterly end of the above described building, while an extension to the dye house, 30 feet by 38 feet, is to be put to practical use within the next week.

Third New Branch.

Begun some time ago, a new two-story building in which finishing and shipping departments will be located, is nearing completion at the north-west corner of the original plant. Like the rest of the new divisions, it will be well finished, with a modern steam heating system installed. The contractors for this work are Regan and Shaughnessy, plumbers, of Peterborough.

May Purchase Stock.

As stated above, the new buildings, quartering as they do, enlargements to the present facilities of the Brinton-Peterboro factory, will mean increased production, and increased production in this case means the increasing of a staff which already boasts some two hundred and twenty-five members. To every person of that number, the very recently announced plan whereby stock in the company may be purchased, will prove a decided advantage. Until this time, the stock has not been available to anyone, being all privately held, but by a new plan, each employee may make purchase of a minimum of two shares, totalling one hundred dollars, having a year to pay for the amount of his subscription. The decision to make the stock available was arrived at on Tuesday, and already approximately ten thousand dollars has been subscribed with indications of a still larger sum. The employees find it a good investment, the present dividend being $3.00 a share, declared quarterly. Officials of the firm believe that with a continuance of present business conditions, this dividend may be appreciably increased.

Whether or not there will be an While the stock may not be sold to outside parties, The Brinton Company will buy it back from an employee at any time.

official opening similar to that of the main building in April, 1927, when a most enjoyable dance was held, is, as yet, problematical. Many hold out the hope that there will be.

Closed For Holidays.

The Brinton-Peterboro Company has adopted an unusual but quite practical and commendable policy with regard to annual summer holidays of its employees. On the night of July 13, the entire plant will be closed and will continue so until the morning of July 23, thereby disposing of the holiday problem. The only exception to this closing arrangement will be in the case of a few looms working on special orders. The sewing and finishing departments will run for a couple of days beyond the 13th to facilitate shipping. The shipping department will carry on as usual.

REV. JAMES GRIER ACCEPTS CALL TO LINDSAY CHURCH

Pastor of St. Andrew's Church at Campbellford To Take Over New Field.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Captain and Mrs. MacMillan, of Salvation Army to Leave For Whitby.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28.—Several members of the session, board of managers and men of the congregation of St. Andrew's church here motored to Cobourg Tuesday morning to attend a meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery being held in the Presbyterian church in Cobourg. The deputation was formed with the intention to officially express regret on behalf of the church here should the Reverend Jaems Grier accept the call which had been placed in the hands of the Presbytery by the Lindsay Presbytery. Mr. Greer accepted the call and the deputation expressed the regret which is generally felt by members of the church here. It was not made known definitely when Mr. Grier would be taking charge of the Lindsay church, but the deputation from there requested that he be in Lindsay by July 17th. Among the advantages of the Lindsay charge will be an increase in salary in proportion to the difference in size of the two congregations.

The Campbellford church dates back to the early days when the Presbyterians worshipped in a little log cabin, before there were any real roads and fewer sidewalks in the town and district. From this humble origin it has grown to a fine stately property commanding one of the most beautiful sites in the town, on the crest of a hill overlooking the entire business section. Among the names of former ministers of the church may be found men who have risen to high degree within its bounds. The entire property seldom fails to draw favorable comment from visitors to town.

One item of interest to members and adherents of the Campbellford church is the fact that there are already five applications for this pulpit. At the present time there have been no definite arrangements made.

S. A. Officer Leaving.

This morning, Captain and Mrs. MacMillan of the Salvation Army here left by motor for Whitby, where they will continue in the service of their church. Captain Byron Purdy of Whitby, will take charge of the work here. During their term in Campbellford, Captain and Mrs. MacMillan have made many friendships not only among the people of their church but among the townspeople generally. Their departure will be a matter of regret to many, and every wish is extended to them for their success in their new field.

On Sunday last, the services in the Army Citadel, Bridge street, took form of a farewell. Captain MacMillan expressed genuine regret at being ordered to another district, but believed, like a good soldier, in obeying orders without question. Large congregations were present at all three services. In the morning there six new members accepted into the church militant. In the afternoon there was a new Sunday school superintendent appointed and also three bandsmen. At the evening service, five members of the young people's group signed the pledge.

Although every Sunday does not bring forth such abundant results, the events of the last services may be taken as a fair indication of the splendid work which Captain and Mrs. MacMillan have been doing during their term of office here. They will be missed by a large number of friends in the town and district.

Sand On Pavement Amuses Little Ones

A number of children on George street found a novel idea how to while away the tedious hours while anxiously waiting for the street parade of Sparks' circus this morning. Seated on the curb in front of W H. Meredith's store they built sand castles in the street using the said meant to fill in the break in the pavement made a few weeks ago by workmen on the street. They appeared to be quite happy and content while waiting for the parade but as the show appeared all was forgotten and all eyes were on the gorgeous wagons.

22 LOSE LIVES IN TRAIN WRECK

Excursion and Freight Trains Crash at Darlington, England.

FEARED MORE DEAD.

DARLINGTON, Durham, Eng., 28. Canadian Press.—A least twenty-two persons were killed and fifty injured in a collision of an excursion train from Scarborough and a freight train entering Darlington station last night.

Only the fact that the both trains were moving at comparaitvely slow speed prevented the accident from being on a more catastrophic scale.

The destruction was so great and the cars had telescoped in such a manner that the extrication of the bodies proved difficult, and the full death list, it was feared, was still not known to-day.

Of the injured 28 are in a serious condition. A large percentage of the victims were women and children.

Thea Rasche Unable To Take Off For Test Flight To-day.

WILL TRY AT MONTREAL.

CAP DE LA MADELEINE, Que., June 28 (Canadian Press).—The monoplane North Star made an attempt to take of fto-day in what Miss Thea Rasche described as a test flight, but owing to the softness of the flying field the plane's wheels would not leave the ground. The plane taxied to the end of the field and crashed through some bushes. It was not seriously damaged and its crew was uninjured.

The plane bore the full load of 400 gallons of gasoline which was dumped by Ulric Koenhmann, pilot, when the plane approached the end of the field. Miss Rasche was at the controls when the attempt was made.

The German aviatrix declared she would start this afternoon with only forty gallons of gas and fly to the St. Hubert Aerodrome, near Montreal, to see if its condition would permit the plane rising fully loaded.

He also found that his "funeral" had cost nearly $300, and that the responsibility of paying it devolved on him, as insurance and lodge benefits which his "widow" had mounted upon now will not be paid.

Sittner, who is fifty-four, had been hunting for a job and was stricken on the street three weeks ago.

REV. A. J. LANGFORD IS SPEAKER AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICES OF SPRINGVILLE UNITED CHURCH

Occasion Marks Completion of Improvements to Property.

GARDEN PARTY HELD.

Double Quartette From Millbrook Supplies Music For Evening Services.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SPRINGVILLE, June 28.—Anniversary services were held in Springville United Church on Sunday, June 24th with Rev. A. J. Langford of Toronto as preacher at both services. This was a thanksgiving occasion in the history of Springville church as it marked the completion of the new basement and vestry —improvements to the church property that have been built during the ministry of the present pastor Rev. A. H. McConnachie.

Springville is no longer a "One roomed House" in which to worship God but has been enlarged upon until it now has several rooms, the basement and vestry being the largest. The basement itself however is made up of two kitchens and the main room as well as numerous closets for dishes, wraps, etc, which make it a great convenience on festive occasions.

Many Other Improvements

These improvements are only some of many. The cement walks on both sides of the church, the two sets of stairs leading to the basement, the new lighting system, the improved choir loft, the piano, chairs for the basement, beautified walls and woodwork, vestry furniture, communion table, ferns, pedestals, hymn boards and newly covered front doors (the last six being gifts) are only making the word, "some" a little more definite but not by any means completing the list of changes that have been brought about. A real attempt has been made to beautify the House of God and to make it fit for Divine Worship.

Credit is due Mr. McConnachie for his ideas of what a church should be and his never ceasing efforts to put his ideas into reality and then to continue his work to raise the amount of money required to completely erase the small debt incurred; the Board of Management and the Building Committee; also H. J. Weir of Peterborough decorator, T. A. Young, carpenter, Mr. Tucker, brick layer, Mr. Sickler who did the cement work and all members of the church who so willingly gave of their time, energy and money.

During the anniversary services and the garden party following, between three hundred and fifty and four hundred dollars was raised part of which goes to the building fund.

Church Decorated

The church was artistically decorated for the anniversary occasion with masses of cut flowers.

At the morning service special music was rendered by the choir in the anthem, "Awakening Chorus".

Miss Daisy Murray sang beautifully, "Beside Still Waters" and "I Will Sing the Wondrous Story."

Mr. Langford chose his text from Mark 13:1—

"And as he went out of the temple, one of his disciples saith unto him 'Master see what manner of stones and what buildings are here! (Look teacher what size these stones and buildings are.)

And Jesus answering said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? There shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

"Jumboism" is a national disease. We are apt to magnify physical, instead of moral bigness. The United Church is a tremendously big thing when looked at from the outside but were are liable to boast of its bigness

CROPS FLOURISH AFTER RAINFALL

Good Growth in Burnbrae District Follows Timely Showers.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BURNBRAE, June 28. — Drenched under almost a week's rainfall, the Burnbrae district crops are beginning to take on more the form of the African jungle and less of the Sahara desert-like appearance of a week ago. Local farmers were agreebaly surprised when the long-continued drought suddenly terminated, and while rather more than the necessary amount of rain has fallen, the only knockers are those who happen to have hay cut and there are only a few who are in this predicament. The alfalfa and sweet clover are later this year than usual and are just blooming now so that with fair weather haying will be well under way before July 1. The rain has done untold good to the Spring grains which were feeling the ill-effects of the dry, cold, late Spring, while the weeds grew just as fast as ever. That the weed menace this year is a real one, nobody cares to deny, but more rapid growth of grain will serve to check it somewhat. Fall grain just headed and filling rapidly benefits more from the rainfall than any other species. Hay crops will be better than looked for, especially alsike and timothy. Corn and roots are away to a flying start, though some early sown mangels are not coming up as well as they should. A number of farmers have already cultivated their corn once. Among these is Percy Oddie, last year's champion corn grower for Campbellford district.

Pastures are looking decidedly better, but no change is noted as yet in the milk flow, which had begun to fall off rapidly during the latter part of the dry spell. With the extremely high priced grain, it is unlikely that dairy cows will get much extra feed, although the higher prices for cheese would warrant some judicious grain feeding to secure increased production.

REV. C. D. DANIELS LEAVES CHARGE

Preaches Farewell Sermon On Seymour Circuit On Sunday.

CHURCHES FILLED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PETERICK'S CORNERS, June 28. —"The finest farewell sermon I ever heard," was the universal comment after the evening service at Zion, when Rev. C. D. Daniel, who for four years has been minister on the Seymour charge, delivered his final address to the people who have loved him so well. Zion church was filled to overflowing by members of the congregation and friends from other churches who had gathered to listen to one more message from one who has been undoubtedly the most popular minster of the Gospel ever in the Seymour or Campbellford districts, not only among his own flock, but with all classes and walks of life.

Mr. Daniel chose as the text of his farewell sermon, II. Corinthians, 13:11 "Finally, brethren, farewell, be perfected, be of good cheer, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

It was very hard on an occasion of this kind, said the speaker to choose a text which would be suitable, but he had chosen this as describing most fully the relations existing between himself and the people of his congregations. While Paul, in speaking these words to the people of Corinth had memories of their ill-feeling toward him and their persecution of him. Mr. Daniel rejoiced in the fact that only memories of pleasant relations would go with him from the Seymour congregations. His two sorrows were the temporary severing of friendship with those he must leave, and the memory of those dear, departed ones laid to rest during his sojourn here. "And, again," said Mr. Daniel, "unlike Paul, he could leave this charge, knowing that the people were of one mind and would carry on the affairs of the congregation in peace and harmony. If the God of love and peace were with the Corinthian church, He would with His church to-day when His wishes were fulfilled."

Rev. C. D. and Mrs. Daniel and family left early this week for their new home in Sunderland, where Mr. Daniel takes charge of the United congregation, with promise of a most successful ministry. His appointment to several important offices in the Toronto Conference prior to his removal to Sunderland, points to the popularity and success of this fine young minister.

That Rev. Mr. Daniel will be missed in this community, goes without saying; and the same applies to all of Seymour and also Campbellford, where he made his home. Always a keen athlete and a lover of good, clean sport, he did much to promote sports of various kinds throughout the district, and was always in demand to act either as president or secretary of the various sporting organizations. But, while devoting so much time to sport, his ministerial work did not suffer, and besides giving the very best attention to the needs of his own charge, he found much time to engage in the promotion of Young People's activities throughout the Bay of Quine Conference. Two of his notable achievements are the Standard Training School and the Cobourg Winter School of which he was principal last year, putting it on its feet financially as well as providing the finest kind of religious instruction. Those who enjoyed the Bay Conference excursion to Rochester last year, are indebted to Mr. Daniel, through whose efforts all arrangements were made. It will be some time before the positions, which his removal has left vacant, will be successfully filled. However, his many friends are glad to see him step into bigger service, and they know that his earnest Christian personality will eventually lead him to the top of his chosen profession.

FUR FARMING PROFITABLE

MUSKRATS THRIVE

The Peterborough district has one of the finest situations in the Dominion of Canada for muskrat farming, which is now being entered into with great advantage by many persons.

It is not an experiment but a proven success and applications made to the Ontario Department of Agriculture will bring to anyone literature on it. Fur farming is the natural trend to which the users of fur will turn. Trappers have been growing in number and the depletion of the natural supply are causes which make men look otherwise for the source of skins. The same old story of progress is retold.

Fur farming, according to Thomas Barrie, Peterborough fur merchant has a wonderful prospect in this district. It can be carried on in districts that are absolutely useless for any other purpose, the marshlands. In lower Ontario there are thousands of acres of these. In any district where there is a growth of water plants upon which the rats feed, and where the water is deep enough so it will not freeze to the bottom and cut off the rat's feed in winter, it is possible. Such lands are available in this vicinity.

L. M. Brown, of Port Rowan, advises farmers having this sort of land to fence it off, which is about all that is necessary and it will produce 50 to 250 pelts per acre. Even those farmers who have not marsh lands may eventually get into this industry as some progress is resported in raising rats in artificial houses with no water except what may be in a shallow pan. This pen raising has made such progress that the muskrat breeders' association is soon to get out a bulletin of the subject.

Much of the stock used in this pen breeding comes from the Rice Lake district where a very fine type of rat with particularly dark fur lives.

Abolishing the use of the steel trap is often advocated because of its cruelty. This has been a debated subject for some time, according to Cyril Lech, local furrier, but has no real meaning. Mr. Barrie, while not an advocate of the steel trap, says that it is no crueler than Nature itself. A trapper wishes to have the furs in as good a condition as possible so he will take all precautions in seeing that an animal will not tear himself to pieces and ruin the fur.

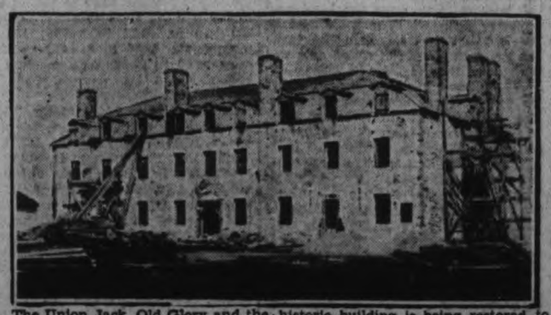
On the muskrat fur farms the animals are captured alive as the pelt is in much better condition when shipped for market and the rats are often shipped alive.

The muskrat breeders are holding their annual meeting this year at Gore's Landing, Rice Lake and part of their letter reads: "We will have an opportunity of seeing that section from which the famous Rice Lake muskrat derives his name, also the privilege of visiting a ranch there and seeing under what conditions these animals are produced. Those interested in pen ranching will be allowed to inspect the most productive pen ranches in Ontario. Bring as many friends as are interested, and hear the progress made this year."

This letter signifies the importance of Peterborough's district in the production of muskrat furs by the farm method. Nor are these the only fur bearing animals that are productive to the raiser. Mink, beaver, otter, skunk, and nearly every type that has a market is being raised. The present prices are very encouraging to this industry, and the cutting down of the natural haunts as well as the increased number of trappers all make fur farming inevitable according to all the local dealers. Mr. Barrie is very much interested in this and would recommend that as many people as possible attend the annual meeting, at Gore's Landing, of the Muskrat Breeders' Association.

A few of the farms in the vicinity are, The Raw Fur Co., situated at Old Jubilee Park, Rice Lake; Harris and Frasher, who are in the pen raising end of the game and get $20 for them alive. The Hudson Seal farm near Norwood, managed by Mr. Edwards. Dr. Nesbitt, of Lindsay has a farm near Haliburton and has been regularly shipping to Russia. Mr. Wagner, who runs the Burleigh Falls Fishing Club, has a farm near Haliburton. The steady constant market all over the country is a great factor in this which assures a constant progress, said Mr. Barrie, and Peterborough has all the necessary factors in the district to be one of the biggest fur farming regions on the continent. The district on the Mississippi raises many rats, but the skin is too thick and the fur not of the same class as the climate is not as suitable as here.

OLD FORT BEING RESTORED



The Union Jack, Old Glory and the tricolor of France all flew over historic Fort Niagara on Monday upon the occasion of the annual meeting of the Old Fort Niagara Association. The historic building is being restored to the state in which it was in 1726 and this work probably will be completed by early fall. The illustration shows reconstruction work proceeding on this landmark in Canadian history.

FOG HOLDS UP RESCUE WORK

Search For Italia's Crew and Amundsen Party Impossible To-day.

THINK DIRIGIBLE BURNED.

VIRGO BAY, Spitzbergen, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Fog and snow continued to-day and prevented any attempt to search for the missing crew of the Italia or to save the six men marooned on the ice. It also held up the search for Raold Amundsen and his five companions.

Thinks Dirigible Burned.

ROME, June 27 (Canadian Press).—In the opinion of General Nobile, the dirigible Italia caught fire shortly after it was blown away after one of the gondolas was torn off the airship, says an official communique issued by the Italian Government to-day.

Nobile said that after the dirigible in crashing against an ice cap, had ripped off the gondola, it drifted away and a little later he saw about 10 kilometers away a small column of smoke. Nobile thought that this probably was due to a gasoline or oil tank catching fire.

Cincenzo Romalia, a motor attendant, who was in the stern gondola, was crushed to death against the ice. His body was buried in the ice.

Message From Wife.

ROME, June 27 (Canadian Press).—Signora Carlotta Nobile, wife of the commander of the Italia, sent this wireless message to her husband: "May the Holy Virgin grant to you and me the supreme joy of saving the whole crew and smile with her serenity upon the anguished hearts of their families. A thousand kisses."

BUYING THE GAS PLANT.

The city fathers have decided that if the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission will accept $300,000 for the local gas plant, including the old car barn and the property at the corner of Park and McDonnel streets, a bylaw will be submitted to the people.

The matter is therefore first up to the Hydro-Electric Commission and then to the ratepayers.

In the meanwhile, the desirability or otherwise of the purchase of this utility should afford the citizens an interesting hot weather topic over which to argue.

Incidentally, the price reductions announced a short time ago may not have so much effect upon the situation as the Council feared.

The converting of the minimum charge into a service charge has not made a hit with the small consumer, who finds his monthly bill about the same as it always was.

THE CIRCUS.

In a world that accepts non-stop flights over thousands of miles, the transmission of sounds over half the world into one's own home, the magic of the moving picture machine, and all the wonders of modern science as quite commonplace, the circus still carries its old-time appeal.

There is something about the huge tents, the sawdust arena, the hundreds of horses, the strange animals, the freaks in the sideshow, the pink lemonade, and all the other circus features that stirs the blood.

And the reaction is not peculiar to the new generation.

Many a venerable adult visiting the circus lot today will endeavor to create the impression that he is there merely for the sake of the children.

But that is mere pretence that deceives no one.

Everybody knows that he goes because he is still thrilled by the spectacle, and because it carries him back to the days when he stayed out all night to see the circus come in, and cheerfully took a licking at home in exchange for all the kick he got out of the animated scene "on the lot" at daybreak.

THE LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

At the request of the Little Lake Cemetery Board, F. H. Dobbin, authority on Peterborough history in general, has just completed a historical sketch of the Little Lake Cemetery from its inception in the year 1851 to the present year.

This work is most complete, and contains a mass of interesting detail that not only throws light upon the whole history of the cemetery but, incidentally, upon the growth and progress of Peterborough.

Mr. Dobbin has done his work well.

His sketch, which is illustrated by portraits of all the presidents of the board and contains the names of the original promoters and of the officials and directors of the company, is full of important information brought together in one volume for the first time.

Older residents of Peterborough would find a particular pleasure in reading this history, and new citizens would derive much valuable knowledge in the same way.

As the Advisory Committee points out in a foreword:

> "Not only the achievements but even the names of many of the earliest residents who contributed to the growth and improvement of Peterborough have been forgotten for the want of available and authentic information."

Mr. Dobbin's effort will prevent such a fate overtaking the memory of those to whose vision and foresight we owe the selection and beautification of the present cemetery.

In it the part taken by George Barker Hall, afterwards Judge Hall; Thomas Benson, the first Mayor of Peterborough; William Seymour Conger, first sheriff of the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and afterward a member of the Legislative Assembly; James Hall, also a member of the Legislative Assembly; William Cluxton, who afterward represented West Peterborough in the Dominion Parliament; Robert (latter Judge) Dennistoun, James Stevenson, Robert Nicholls, Rev. John M. Roger, Rev. John Gilmour, Wm. Hall, Charles Rubidge, Thomas Fortye, Charles Perry, Walter Sheridan, S. J. Carver, James Edwards and Robert D. Rogers is carefully set out, and the public learns how much is owing to these men.

Space forbids in a review such as this to give more than a hint of the contents of Mr. Dobbin's volume.

Suffice it to say that the complete history of the Little Lake Cemetery has been included, with considerable space given to the controversy which developed when the scheme was first launched and which threatened for some time to destroy the whole movement.

It is interesting, however, to find that the population of Peterborough at the time the Cemetery Board was organised was only 1,800, including the following: Roman Catholics, 456; Methodists, 441; Church of England, 416; Free Church, 403; Baptists, 49, and United Presbyterians, 12

There were only 294 taxpayers and 327 householders, while merchants' shops numbered 25

The closing page of Mr. Dobbin's history we quote in full because it calls attention to something that few people know:

> "It is worthy of note that from the inception of the cemetery no director has received any remuneration for his services, and that the proceeds from the sale of lots, as well as any income derived from other sources, over and above that required for maintenance of the cemetery, has been invested in first-class bonds or debentures, the amount of investments at present being $70,530.06.
> "Thus is formed a fund for the maintenance of the cemetery, and will be added to as lots are sold, the income from which the directors hope will keep the cemetery in its present attractive appearance after all the lots are disposed of. Many of these securities have materially increased in value in recent years.
> "The selling price of lots as yet unsold, based on present book value, amounts to $158,510.00."

RACIAL QUARRELS.

Before the war Austria-Hungary was regarded as in an unstable condition because its population included so many races which would not amalgamate, and some of whom were restive under the Imperial rule. In the remaking of the map, Austria-Hungary suffered most severely, not because it was blamed as the chief offender, but in order to give liberty and "self-determination" to the dissatisfied races. From being one of the great powers of Europe it became one of the smallest in territory and population.

On the same principle of self-determination the Kingdom of Jugo-Slavia was formed out of smaller countries in the Balkan peninsula with an area of 248,050 square miles, the largest in Europe except Russia, excluding the colonies held by European powers. But self-determination has not cured its troubles, largely because, like its old neighbor, Austria-Hungary, it is still a country of varied races, who do not seem able to agree. The murder in the Jugo-Slavian Parliament was due to this quarrel, and Madame Paul Raditch, standing beside the body of her husband, said, "Let Paul's life be the last sacrifice in the pacification of the Croats and Serbs."

Humane people all over the world will say amen to this prayer. It is not in any self-righteous or smugly superior spirit that we reflect upon the happy solution of racial questions in Canada, but only to show that they are not insoluble. In Canada the people are divided according to racial descent as follows: British, 55.40; French, 27.91; all others, 16.69. It would be tedious to enumerate the twenty-five or more races included in "all others," but the highest percentage—German—is only 3.35 per cent., and most of them are less than 1 per cent. The notion that they would form any kind of racial combination against the majority is too fantastic to be considered seriously.

The French element is very large, and at one time it was supposed that there was serious danger of conflict between French-Canadians and those who traced their descent to the British Islands. Lord Durham found "two nations warring in the bosom of a single State," a condition somewhat resembling that of Jugo-Slavia to-day. The remedy was found largely in self-determination, which we in Canada know under the more familiar name of provincial autonomy, and which is the basis of the system established at Confederation. French-Canadians have liberty to carry out their own ideas in a Province having the vast area of 706,834 square miles, rich in natural resources, especially in forests and water power. Difficulties have arisen as to the status of French-Canadians in other Provinces, but the controversy has not seriously disturbed the peace.

But even provincial self-determination would not have been a complete solution if it had not been helped by statesmanship and by common sense and good-will. On the whole, Canadian statesmen have worked for good relations between the races. The leading principle of the life of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was national unity, and it would be unfair to deny that Sir John Macdonald was actuated by similar motives. There have been firebrands in both races, but on the whole there has been steady improvement in their relations.

Hardly any one now speaks of the French-Canadian minority as a menace to Canadian unity. Alarmists now speak rather of the prairie West and the danger of the British element being swamped by new arrivals from European countries other than France. Even these alarmists do not point to any one race as a source of danger. Looking at the situation soberly, one finds inconvenience rather than danger in the tendency of people of certain races to form little colonies and thus delay that blending process which promotes good citizenship. The cure for this is education, which in the main is a provincial matter. It has been suggested that the Dominion Government might help by the circulation among immigrants of literature explaining in a simple way the political institutions, laws, and principles underlying the administration of justice in Canada, and that such matter might be broadcasted. All this ought to be done in a spirit of friendship toward the newcomers.

Education also is the best cure for the Bolshevist propaganda which it is feared may infect the newcomers. Bolshevism is founded on discontent as well as on propaganda, and discontent is largely a matter of the empty stomach. The foreigners come largely from European countries where the poor are oppressed and where poverty exists in a form hardly known in this country. When the foreigner finds that he has opportunities of achieving comfort and independence here, and that the laws will protect him when he does right, as well as punish him when he does wrong, he will be likely to give up wild notions of upsetting government by violence.—London Advertiser.

GOD'S MINUTE

I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.—Acts 27 : 25.

The night has brought us rest and refreshment and renewal of strength, and hope, Father. The day opens to us its opportunities and brings us its manifold tasks, and, it may be, its trial and burdens and cares.

We thank Thee, our Father, for the restoration of power and courage while we have slept. We trustingly pray for guidance and enabling for the undertakings and employments of the day.

We seek the direction which shall set us forward along the right ways, the wisdom which shall cause us rightly to choose in every issue, the integrity which shall keep us wholly loyal to the truth.

May no burden be laid upon us beyond our strength, and if the trials of the day are to be many, grant unto us great patience, constant self-control and the power to keep our tempers and our judgment.

Grant that we may suffer no loss of faith in our fellowmen, no lessening in our belief of purity and goodness, no dimming of our vision of the ideal. And bring us to the end of the day of useful labor and helpful living to the joy of an unbroken home. Amen.

A Thought

OBEDIENCE

The fear of people's tongues is the great hindrance now to obeying the voice of God. Some think that the passing crowd know more than they do themselves. To obey is better than sacrifice. That sentence is full of meaning, and in order that we should understand its value, we must practice the great law of obedience.

How important it is that one should obey even what may seem to him a small or unimportant command of God! God does not say one thing and mean another. We must obey His commandments if we love the Lord. God gives His laws so plainly that no one need mistake.

Rebellion is a sin and stubborness is idolatry. They both weaken the character and form a substance which veils the eye from God.

Adam and Eve disobeyed God's orders and through their disobedience the world found hardships and sorrow. Lot's wife disobeyed God. She could not resist the great temptation of looking back. She could not bear to think of the peaceful life in the mountains. God turned her into a pillar of salt as to remind us who have the weakness of the obeying power.

If Noah had disobeyed God's order, we would not have had the chance to be one of God's people.

Last, but greatest of all is the obedience of Jesus to His Father. When Christ stood before Pilate or even when He was being nailed to the cross, He could have shown His power that He was the Son of God and thus could have saved Himself. But instead He hearkened unto the voice of His Father and was crucified in order that we should live to have eternal life. Was there ever such a sacrifice? Yet, the obedience overpowered the sacrifice.

The hope of eternal salvation hangs upon Christ. Faith in His blood can alone free us from our trangressions. A life of obedience to the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus will be a sufficient passport through the golden gates of the city of God.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., June 28 (Canadian Press). — There was some demand from English importers for Canadian Western oats here yesterday, and as the prices bid were in line with local exporters' views, sales of several loads were made for nearby shipment.

A feature of the domestic grain trade was the demand from New York exporters for Canadian Western oats(, and sales of odd loads of No. 2 were made at 8⅝c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and tough No. 3 grade was sold to domestic buyers at 67½c per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal. There was also some demand from the country for r car lots, and the tone of the market was steady.

A moderate amount of business was done in spring and winter wheat grades of flour, and prices for all grades were well maintained.

There was no improvement in the demand from the United States for millfeed, and only a moderate amount of business was done for local and country account. The undertone to the market was steady. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was slow, and the market was quiet.

There were no new developments in the local egg situation, prices being fully maintained under a good, steady demand from dealers for all offerings of extras which were none too plentiful, and it was also reported that seconds were rather scarce on spot with buyers finding it difficult to fill their wants. A fair volume of business was done in a jobbing way, with no change in prices to note. The receipts were 1,348 cases.

An active business was done in potatoes, and prices were steady.

There was a steady demand for imported beans, but owing to the small arrivals of late the volume of business has been checked to some extent. The tone of the market remains firm, with sales of odd cars of choice white hand-picked at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities changed hands at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the local butter market, and an advance in prices of ¼c to ½c per pound was established. There was a better demand for supplies and a moderate amount of business was done. The offerings of butter on the curb market were settled for on the basis of 35¼c to 35½c per pound for No. 1 pasteurized delivered here. It was also reported that some further business was done in New Zealand creamery butter, including sales of 2,000 packages of fine quality at 36¾c per pound, c.i.f. Halifax, for December deliver which, according to some in the trade, makes a total of 10,000 to 12,000 packages to date. The receipts were 77 packages.

The trade in cheese was of a very disappointing character owing to the fact that English importers have not responded to any extent to the advanced prices paid in the country at the close of last week. In the absence of any important sales, prices were unchanged. The receipts were 5,454 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Wheat values gave way yesterday under selling that came largely from the north-west, and was accompanied by reports of ideal weather in spring crop territory. There were also advices that Duluth was loading wheat for shipment to Chicago.

Closing quotations on wheat were easy, ½c to 1c net lower. Corn finished at ¾c decline to an equal advance; oats, ¼c to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

At first the wheat market showed an upward trend, and was influenced by further welcome rains south-west, making harvest operations a matter of unusual difficulty and causing losses both in quantity and quality of hemlock was despised as a lumber tree and it is only since a scarcity of better timber began to be felt that a market has been developed for its lumber. At present hemlock occupies fourth place as a lumber in Canada, with an average annual cut of about 250,000,000 feet board measure. The Eastern hemlock forms approximately 25 per cent of this lumber, and the remainder is cut for the most part from Western hemlock.

Hemlock in Canada

The hemlock of Eastern Canada is found from Nova Scotia westward throughout the St. Lawrence River valley and Ontario to the west end of lake Superior. For years the "CANADA DRY" is served at the embassies in Washington. It is served at the Savoy in London . . . at St. Moritz . . . in tens of thousands of homes in the Dominion. There must be some reason for this universal appeal.

"Canada Dry" is made from pure Jamaica ginger and other absolutely pure ingredients! It is blended with a care and skill which come from generations of makers.

This is really the reason for the distinction of "Canada Dry." The result? A really fine ginger ale which you can distinguish from all others as you distinguish a rare old wine. No wonder it is drunk wherever distinguished people gather! No wonder you will want to serve it to lend that final note of elegance to your dinners! No wonder it mixes well with other beverages.

COMING HOME.

When I have to go away,
When goodbye I have to say
To the little house I boast,
To the one I love the most,
Then I sort of look around,
See if something can't be found,
Something that will give me grit,
Cheer me up a little bit.

When I have to go away
To myself I sort of say,
"Though the sky is rather black,
Someday I'll be coming back.
There'll be someone in the door,
Someone that I hunger for.
Though awhile I have to roam,
Sometime I'll be coming home."

Though I have to go away,
I'll be coming home some day.
That's a joy I wouldn't know
If I didn't have to go,
That's a thing I wouldn't see
Someone waiting just for me.
If I didn't have to roam,
Then there'd be no coming home!

FAMILY PRESENT.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N.J., June 27 (Canadian Press). — Robert B. Montell, noted Shakespearean actor and producer, died at his home here to-day after an illness of two months. He was 74 years old.

The renowned tragedian, who suffered a nervous breakdown, died at his estate, Brucewood. At his bedside when the end came were his wife, Genevieve Hamper, and his son and the family physician, who had been in constant attendance for the signs of sinking.

MOTORING PROGRESS

Motorists of to-day in Peterborough do not realize how fortunate they are to drive one of the modern autos over improved highways. Think of driving a car twenty-one years ago in 1907.

In 1907, Frank McPherson toured the streets in a car that resembled very much an Irish jaunting car. The seats were on the side and the passengers faced outward. D. J. Lundy roared through the streets scaring horses and wide-eyed pedestrians in a one cylinder Cadillac. Bob Dobie, of the C.G.E., also threw terror into the peaceful residents of this city, according to one of the old motorists of 1907.

Vincent Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, told The Examiner that he drove the first new Ford in Peterborough. Ed. Conroy had the second. Dr. Frederick and Dr. Halliday were two more of the daring motorists who piloted cars in the vicinity.

D. F. Drummond and J. J. Duffus, who were agents for the Massey-Harris Company, took a plunge into the new automobile game and brought the first new cars into the city, those owned by Mr. Eastwood and Mr. Conroy. Their garage was located near where the gas office is now. This partnership lasted for a couple of years and then Mr. Duffus took over the automobile end of the business, while Mr. Drummond took charge of the agriculture implements.

There was no surplus of gasoline stations in those days as gasoline was a by-product of the coal oil industry and the 1907 motorist could buy gas for thirteen cents a gallon.

The cars were very strongly built in those days, according to Mr. Eastwood, the tops and upholstering were of real leather. There was plenty of brass trimming used. Brass radiator, brass headlamps, and brass rods here and there all gave the cars a glittering appearance.

The ignition was the great trouble in those days, the life of the car depended upon four round dry cells, and when one went dead, the car stayed there until you went into the nearest farmer's, hired a horse and drove to the nearest place you could purchase a battery, then return and fix your car. There were no roadside service stations in those days.

Then those tires! Clincher rims! Many a good motorist lost his temper on the roadside while battling to get a tire off those rims. The present day driver, with his car with demountable rims and changeable wheels does not realize what a comfort they are to him unless he has experienced a flat tire with one of the fighting rims.

Mr. Eastwood said that the horse was a tribulation to the motorist and the motorist an abomination to the horse. The farmer would drive the horse off to the side of the road and his wife would hold the horses head over the fence to keep him under control. A motorist passing a horse did not have to go to a circus to see a dancing horse.

In the gold old days of motoring the farmers used to used the highways or rather roads for pasture fields and a motorist did not know what minute he would come upon a flock of sheep or herd of cattle ambling along the road, to stop and stare at the funny horseless carriage.

The law of the land in those days was whenever a driver met a funeral the motorist had to drive into the nearest lane or roadway and remain there until it passed. That was no fun as there was only a crank, no self starters, and that meant a half an hour's exercise to get the machine started again.

The roads were not in as bad a condition as one would think, continued Mr. Eastwood. The Chemong road was better then than it has been many times since. There were no heavy trucks and no traffic on them to spoil the surface.

Not so many years ago when the automobile was becoming more numerous, it was amusing to note the road construction of the times. Loads of huge rocks would be dumped in the middle of the road with no pretense to level it out and everyone would take to the fields or ditch to avoid them People who talk of the present detours should have driven over these roads in construction, said one old auto driver.

The speed of the car was furious at twenty-five miles per hour and a trip to Port Hope was a feat to be talked of in 1907. Night driving, with coal oil lamps was anything but amusing. In wet weather the roads were muddy, but not so bad as there were not many cars to break the surface of the roadway.

Twenty-one years has seen a wonderful change, in cars, roads and motorists.

RETIRING SPEAKER.

Hon. J. H. Whitely, retiring Speaker of the British House of Commons, an office he has held since 1921. He was the first trade in 650 years to occupy the chair and the first Free Churchman to ever hold the position. He was the originator of the joint councils for settlement of industrial disputes, and in his patient dealing with the unruliness that characterized sessions of the past few years he exercised a wise discretion. He will probably be raised to the peerage, with a pension of $20,000. Capt. A. E. Fitzroy, Conservative, is the probable successor.

YOUR HEALTH

EGGS AND EGGS.

When the average person speaks of eating eggs he usually refers to hens' eggs, but the omnivorous human appetite also delights in the eggs of many other creatures. For example, the eggs of ducks, geese, turkeys, and many wild birds such as gulls, guineas, and plovers are considered great delicacies. Some hotels specialize in ostrich eggs, but they are rather expensive since they are so valuable for hatching purposes. Terrapin eggs are considered a very attractive addition to the meat. Caviar is a very expensive dish prepared from the eggs of the sturgeon, and the eggs of other fish are usually known as roe, and many varieties are appetizing.

It is apparent that primitive people have always used eggs for food. These were obtained from robbing the nests of birds and even reptiles. Many centuries before the domestication of the hen, which occurred in India about the 15th century before Christ, the natives of the jungles learned to catch the wild fowl and keep them in confinement so that their eggs could be gathered more conveniently, without exposing the gatherer to the possibility of being a banquet himself for some wild animal.

Eggs form a very valuable addition to our diet since they contain one of the finest proteins that is obtainable. The whole egg contains about 12½% protein and 12% fat, and is entirely free from starch. It contains much mineral matter in the form of phosphorus, sodium, potash, lime and chlorine.

American people understand the value of eggs in their diet, for they consume about $5,000,000,000 worth of eggs per year, each individual consuming on the average of sixteen dozen per year.

Preserving eggs by drying is a very satisfactory method, since thirty-two eggs may be concentrated into a pound of this water-free material. This is usually the type of egg which you eat in bakery cakes. They may also be preserved to some extent by closing the pores of the shell with an airtight material. The most common covering used is water glass or silicate of soda.

Cold storage of eggs is an industry which has developed greatly within the last few years, and eggs preserved by this method are in almost as good condition as when fresh.

The Chinese have a method of preserving their eggs by a pickling process which keeps them edible without cold storage for an indefinite period, actually improving in flavor according to the Chinese idea, with the passage of years. The eggs are immerged for two or three months in a thick infusion of tea leaves to which lime, salt and lye are added. At the end of this time they are drained and coated with a mixture of clay and rice husks. When these eggs are only moderately old, perhaps a year, the yolk is brownish green and of a soft, almost pasty, consistency, and the white is a stiff jelly of translucent amber. Eggs of ten years or more are considered very delightfully flavored. At this time the yolk has increased to such a size by the absorption of water that the entire shell content is a deep brown. The eggs are eaten raw sometimes, accompanied by vinegar-cured ginger.

While we often joke about Chinese eggs, there is no more reason they should be objectionable because of the changes that have taken place in the egg meat than there is to the transformation of milk into cheese. In fact, the Chinese preserved egg is a very mild product compared to some of the popular strong cheeses.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mrs. J. H. Writes: 'Will you please advise me what to do and what causes my stomach to have a rough raw feeling that seems to extend up to my throat and even to the nasal passages? My throat looks rough and red, with a burning sensation, and I have ulcers in my mouth. Am very nervous and cannot sleep after eating even light food such as toast and milk. Have gas on my stomach and my heart beats hard and fast after eating."

Answer: Your trouble is at least gastritis and you possibly have the start of stomach or duodenal ulcers. The cause is over-acidity of the stomach which is created through dietetic indiscretions. Milk and toast are not particularly a light diet, but an exclusive milk diet should prove helpful in your case. Try taking four ounces of certified milk every hour for a few days, and then double the quantity used each time, so that you take eight ounces every hour from early in the morning until you go to bed. If this does not relieve you, consult a good diagnostician and have a careful examination made in which the X-ray is used to determine exactly your condition.

Question—A. P. M. asks: 'What are the non-mucus-forming foods which will cure ringing in the head?"

Answer: Head noises are usually caused by catarrh of the inner ear, and will disappear as soon as the excess catarrhal mucus is thoroughly drained out. The diet for such a condition should consist principally of small amounts of meat, fish, fowl, eggs, and non-starchy vegetables cooked and raw, and fruits. It is best to avoid all starches and sugars, as well as milk products. These may be said to be mucus-forming if used in excess quantities, and the one who is trying to cure himself of catarrh should avoid the carbohydrates and hydrocarbons as much as possible until the cure is effected.

Since the establishment of the third class tourist traffic across the Atlantic a new era of low travel rates has dawned. You can go from the United States to Italy or Greece for but two cents a mile, with meals and berth included.

Purpose of National Forests

Although wide publicity has been given the policy which the Department of the Interior, Canada, has formulated with regard to the reserving of forest areas on Dominion lands for permanent timber within a national forest is preserved against use. Nothing could be more removed from the actual facts; all timber within these areas is available for disposal but its sale, whether for commercial purposes or for settlers' use, is necessarily subject to cutting restrictions and requirements designated to ensure the reproduction of the more valuable species, to improve growing conditions for the young timber left uncut, and to reduce waste and fire hazard to a minimum.

The drug-store was locked, but a night light burned in the rear. And there she was, fiddling among the shelves, with her face tear-lashed, inspecting the bottle labels marked "POISON".

THE Adelphi drug-store was a splash of white, bright light in the sombre and rather sordid section of town that bordered a district known as "Hell's Kitchen." There is something narrow and sinister and poverty-stricken about the streets thereabouts and the immediate vicinity of the Adelphi drug-store was no exception.

Beginning at dusk, the policeman's nightstick resounds with frequency in these parts and pedestrians somehow have a habit of hurrying along close to the buildings as if seeking their shadows for anonymity.

The Adelphi drug-store enjoyed a large local trade. Its proprietor, Emil Brophy, had conducted business on that corner for seventeen years. Not even the chain drug-store, which had inundated his field meanwhile, had succeeded in driving him out. He sold neither lamp-shades, umbrellas nor fireless cookers. Brophy's Adelphi remained a drug-store in the literal sense of the word. He pounded his own pills in his own mortar; filled his own prescriptions. The only clerk he employed was the white-jacketed one behind the soda-fountain.

The Brophy family lived over the store in the lean-looking, old-fashioned building that had been built probably thirty years before. An elevated train crashed by the sleeping-rooms of the Brophy apartment and there were few modern improvements. Gas light still burned in the dismal hall. The Brophys had a tin tub in their bathroom and Mrs. Brophy was obliged to lug pails of hot water down the interminable length of a long, narrow hall, in order to give the junior Brophys their baths.

The Brophys remained on in this apartment long after the children had become old enough to find the neighborhood socially embarrassing to them and uncomfortably remote from their schools. The family remained on for two reasons. It enabled Emil Brophy to be always within night call of the drug-store. It enabled Mrs. Brophy to be always within day and night call of the drug-store.

Thereby hangs the tale. The tale of Miss Wynn.

THE tale of Miss Wynn was the answer to the circumstance that nobody connected with that drug-store was permitted to sell a poisonous drug; whether it was a carbolic acid solution or a rat-poison, except Mrs. Brophy. It did not matter if the applicant presented a doctor's prescription. There was absolutely no exception to the iron-clad rule of the Adelphi drug-store that all sales of poisonous drugs must be made through Mrs. Brophy.

The case of Miss Wynn was, it is true, only one of hundreds of similar cases that drift along the sinister-looking streets of the region known as Hell's Kitchen. She had applied once at the Adelphi for a rat-poison that had been handed to her by Emil over the counter. It was only after Miss Wynn had been gone for perhaps thirty minutes, and the haunting face of this applicant kept passing and passing across the vision of Emil, that finally, with no more of a clue of his memory than that she had turned to the left, he followed her up.

Just in time, too. Because he stumbled across her . . . accidentally, crouched in a dark doorway, in the very act of tilting the contents of the rat-poison box into her mouth. Ever since then, the Adelphi had kept a strict check-up on its poison-sales.

It was the reason, even when prosperity began to smile upon them to such an extent that they could well have afforded a home of far better environment than the one over the drug-store, that the Brophys continued to dwell in the cramped little flat near Ninth Avenue. By the time Wilma, the eldest Brophy girl was seventeen and at an age when social stratifications meant a great deal to her, it was not without pricks and pangs of consciousness that Mrs. Brophy was able to withstand the importunings of her daughter for better social opportunities.

At seventeen, there was something defiant, angry and frustrated about Wilma. She came home from school each day, as if to enter the sordid portals of this dingy flat she called home was anathema to her. And so it was.

Wilma hated her home. She hated the long, smelling corridors. The bleery landings with the gas light burning on them. The smell of cooking that wafted through these hallways and the narrow, unaesthetic confines of the Brophy flat itself, once you entered it.

Even the boys, at the harum-scarum age when such things did not matter greatly, were loud in their complaints.

But it was Wilma most of all that worried Mrs. Brophy. They had the same dark beauty, Wilma and Mrs. Brophy, except that the mother had broadened and perhaps coarsened with the years until the resemblance was only a fleeting one between the middle-aged complacency of the dark-eyed older woman and the fierce, rather angry beauty of the younger.

There was something tempestuous about Wilma. It made her father sometimes regard her with eyes that were clouded with memories; memories of her mother at that same age.

It was difficult to instill in these growing children of theirs, any of the sense of duty and obligation to the humble service connected with the drug-store. Wilma knew to what extent the little business had expanded; she knew how capable her parents were of providing a wider environment for the family. She knew also, in a vague way, the countless times that the personal interception of her mother had averted the grim story of the tragedy.

She had heard long seances take place in the little living-room, between her mother and the would-be purchasers of the poison wherewith to take human life. Time and time again, Mrs. Brophy had stepped in and saved a customer from the fate of suicide. Wilma knew that; appreciated that; was proud in a vague way of this fine capacity for service which made her mother able to forego so many of the obvious rewards of their prosperity. And yet, in her young heart, Wilma was bitterly ashamed of the role her parent played at assisting her father in clerking in the drug-store.

THE Brophys had been able to provide education for their children in schools far removed from the sordid home-environment. The result was the tragedy of young hearts turning bitter. The Brophy children were ashamed of their home. They were ashamed of their mother, who dispensed drugs across the counter. They were ashamed of their father who could so well have afforded clerks, permitting his wife to act in this humble capacity.

There was canker in the Brophy home. There was canker in the Brophy children. There was canker in the hearts of the two older Brophys as they saw discontent and rebellion creeping in.

A love affair of Wilma's with a son of an eminent Park Avenue surgeon, whom she met while he was home from college on a Christmas holiday vacation, had a great deal to do with the growing unhappiness that was so apparent to Mrs. Brophy when she regarded her girl. Time and time again, in the stormy discussions that took place on the subject, Mrs. Brophy tried to assure Wilma of the grim fact that hers must be a case of unrequited love. If this boy really returned any of the passions that burned in Wilma, he would not let a matter of environment stand in the way of their ultimate happiness. Mrs. Brophy took pains to express to her daughter over and over again. But to Wilma, the sole reason of this youth's failure to capitulate to her, lay in the social chasm that divided them. She had been ashamed to bring him to her home. She had seen the wonder and disgust on his face at her surroundings. Openly and bitterly, Wilma blamed her mother.

And that almost killed Mrs. Brophy; terrified and wounded her to such an extent that deep down in her heart, there stirred the beginnings of her capitulation.

After all, Wilma must come first. When she confided that to her husband, he looked at her with pity in his eyes, but said nothing. It was a matter for Mrs. Brophy to fight out for herself. Whether she would desert the tragic procession that filed through that drug-store, wanting poisonous drugs, or whether she would fail the insistent demands of her children.

ONE early dawn, after one of those monotonous discussions in the stormy little household over the drug-store, that Mrs. Brophy, tormented, stole into her daughter's bedroom to talk with her.

Wilma was not there. The bed-clothes had been hastily flung aside and she had apparently slid into her slippers, which were gone from the bedside. When a search of the apartment failed to reveal her, Mrs. Brophy tiptoed downstairs into the drug-store. It was locked, but a night light burned in the rear. There, fiddling among the shelves was Wilma with her face tear-lashed, inspecting the bottles that had labels marked "POISON."

There ensued between mother and daughter one of those tragic, hysterical scenes of unrestrained emotion that can seem to tear the heart out by the roots. Straining her frightened, repentant, terrified daughter to her, Mrs. Brophy reiterated again and again and again the story of Miss Wynn. Only this time, Mrs. Brophy, in the agony and the ecstacy of holding her repentant daughter to her, sobbed out one aspect of the story that had never been told before.

Mrs. Brophy had been Miss Wynn.

DOUBLE STAR IS REPORTED

Astronomers Think Big Star Has Broken in Two.

STILL BELATED.

Are astronomers watching through their telescopes a star that has cracked in two and is flying apart? African and South American dispatches have just confirmed the fact that Nova Pictoris, an apparently single star when it mysteriously blew up in a flash of light in 1925, is for the first time discernible as a very close double star. Now the world's leading astronomers are arguing whether the twin was always there, or has just been born before their eyes—an event of such tremendous importance to astronomy, if true, that they are reluctant to believe it without infallible proof. Ordinarily the evolution of a double star requires millions of years.

Did the twin really split off in the 1925 explosion that jolted but did not destroy Pictoris? Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., says in the July issue of Popular Science Monthly that he considers this unlikely. He suspects some possible past encounter of the star with another member of the universe.

"The explosion itself," he explains, "may have been caused by collision with a comet or another star, or by tidal action from a passing star." The possible celestial collision, he suggests, is unprecedented in astronomical observations.

STONE FLOATS.

Other Strange Things Reported By Explorer of Africa.

In Africa stone floats, paper flowers grow wild, trees wear feathers, and fish wriggle out of the ocean to sun themselves.

Evidence that stone does float when conditions are right is the principal attraction of the great Congo Caves, a few miles from Outdshoorn, South Africa, writes Thomas W. Phelps in Popular Science Monthly for July. A Boer farmer broke three ribs while exploring the caves when the stone floor suddenly gave way beneath him. Hours later he came to, at the bottom of what had once been a subterranean lake. Overhead, like ice left across the top of a suddenly drained water tank, was a sheet of limestone half an inch thick, which must have been deposited on the surface of the water that had stood there thousands of years.

In most of South Africa it rains in seasons of roughly six months followed by six months with hardly a cloud. On Table Mountain, just behind Cape Town, Nature has met the problem by evolving a white paper blossom called the everlasting flower. It looks and feels like paper, and will keep indefinitely without water. On the same mountain, and only on the Cape peninsula, are trees covered with what look like silver feathers instead of leaves.

In Durban, on the east coast of South Africa is the white mangroev tree whose roots stick up out of the sand. There the mud skippers—minnows—daily flop out onto the shore, climb the mangrove roots, and when disturbed take refuge down the burrows of a kind of swimming crab.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

PAINT INSIDE AND OUT TO "SAVE THE SURFACE"

Paint is Only Skin-deep But it Makes or Mars the Beauty of Your Home

Although you may have nothing to do with the painting of your home when it is erected it is wise to pay some attention to its use, for paint is something that you will be constantly using if you intend to keep your house in good repair. The real test of paint, according to the experts, is the surface it leaves for re-painting. In other words, you should learn to choose paints that will not peel, crack, blister or produce an uneven surface. This is important in the first painting of the house, for a stripped or peeled surface will require much preparation when you come to redecorate, making it a long and costly job, involving more paint and more labor than is the case when the surface is in good shape.

Damp, cold weather is not suitable for painting. Wood surfaces should be thoroughly dry and clean. Unless your interior plaster has thoroughly dried before exterior painting is started there is some danger of dampness working through the wall into outside woodwork. Do not put off, however, for this reason, your exterior painting for too long a time, as in that case the outside woodwork is liable to be affected by the elements, absorbing rain and moisture, and being liable to warp as well as becoming infected with the germs of decay. A priming coat should be given to all woodwork first, and a first coat on top of that, at least, should be applied as soon as possible after erection of the home.

If the painting does not come into the contract, and you are not prepared to do it yourself, be sure to employ a skilled and reputable man and provide him with standard quality paints made by responsible manufacturers. In the end you will find the cost will be less. Especially is this true of interior wood finishing, which is so often loaded with stain or varnish that the natural beauty of the wood is lost. Finish of this kind should never be assertive, and you may choose between having it stained, filled, varnished, waxed or enameled. The same wide choice exists with regard to your wall surfaces which may be painted or calcimined or papered as you wish, with a great variety of paints, treatments, colors, etc.

There are two essential requirements of many a family of limited means, plenty of accommodation and moderate cost, and in designing this delightful home the architect has had them constantly before him.

The living-room and dining-room are larger than usual, the kitchen and pantry of ample size, and number to commend them. Summing it up, there are seven good rooms: pantry and bathroom, spacious halls and numerous commodious closets. The estimated cost is approximately $10,000.

The design is by one of Toronto's best known architects. The square plan has been adhered to sufficiently to meet the needs of economy and yet slightly deviated from for architectural appearance, resulting in not the slightest trace of monotony in either roof or walls.

The dimensions are approximately 35 ft. x 34 ft. and the materials suggested are hollow-tile and stucco walls brown shingle roofing, a stone doorway and flagstone verandah.

The living-room is 13 ft. x 21 ft. and exceptionally bright. Just for this room alone we would suggest an unobstructed western exposure for this side of the house. The windows at either side of the fireplace would then be in position to reap the full benefit of the afternoon sun, and the gorgeous autumn sunsets combined with a glorious fire would be nothing short of thrilling.

The dining-room is just across the hall and is 12 ft. x 16 ft. It has windows on two sides and you will notice particularly that it is wide enough to permit a maid to serve meals without embarrassment to herself or those at the table.

The service pantry and kitchen are efficiently planned. The kitchen has direct access to the rear grade entrance and at the same time it is just a few steps to the front door where another omen of comfort and convenience will grip your attention—the vestibule.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with Home Building Information Service, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing, please mention design number 130. Copyright, 1928.

CHEMONG ROAD CLOSED TO-DAY

Detours Will Have To Be Used For Most of Summer.

PAVING BEING DONE.

The Chemong Road is closed to traffic for the rest of the summer, commencing to-day. The official detour is the first road to the west. This has been put into condition and turnouts placed at the narrow spots. The Chemong Road will likely be closed until some time in September. Many cottagers find it better to take the Lakefield Road to the centre line (the fork just past the Waterworks), and turn left following that road for about five miles until the road running from Lakefield to Chemong is reached. Turn left here and follow this road straight through until Bridgenorth and Chemong Park is reached.

Mr. Theobald through his lawyer, S. T. Medd, K.C., pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., prosecuted. Mr. Theobald failed to submit any evidence but promised to obey the order. His Worship remanded him until July 19th, by which time the minor changes in the apartment house must be made and August 30th was spoken of as the date when the shed had to be removed.

USE FLY-TOX

End Mosquito Torment.

In a few minutes' time the entire home can be freed of mosquitoes. With an improved FLY-TOX Flit sprayer, spray FLY-Tox directly toward the ceiling, also on the draperies, in the closets and on the screens. It will not leave a stain on the most delicate of wallpapers, hangings or fabrics. Spray upward until all parts of the room are filled with the finely atomized spray. Within a few minutes all the mosquitoes in the room will be dead, regardless of whether the windows and doors are open or closed. In addition to being stainless, FLY-TOX is fragrant, is absolutely harmless to people but sure death to all household insects. Every bottle guaranteed.—Adv.

94% REDUCTION in TIRE COST per mile

These piles of pennies are the cost of 1,000 tire-miles in 1910.

These piles of pennies are the cost of 1,000 Goodyear tire-miles in 1928.

THE Goodyear factory at New Toronto . . . a group of men "talking shop" . . . reminiscing a little. Someone raises the question of tire cost per mile—today and years ago. Tire prices and mileage records are resurrected.

What a change in the past 18 years! In 1910, a price of $42.00 for a 30 x 3½ fabric tire which gave an average of about 3,500 miles. 1.2c per mile! Today a Goodyear 30 x 3½ Cord—built of Supertwist—at a cost per mile of about .07c.

Other sizes show like reductions.

94% reduction in tire cost per mile. This is Goodyear's contribution to Canadian motoring in that brief 18-year period.

Clear-cut testimony, this, to the ingenuity of Goodyear engineers, to the skill of Goodyear workmen, and to that high purpose which is Goodyear . . . always to give the Canadian motoring public the greatest value at the lowest possible cost.

And back of each Goodyear Tire which you buy today is the experience gained in the building of more than 110,000,000 pneumatic tires . . . an experience which has given Canadian car owners a 94% reduction in their tire costs. Sold by Goodyear Selected Dealers. In every town in Canada big enough to support a good tire dealer, there is at least one Goodyear Selected Dealer.

All Goodyear Tires are built of SUPER-TWIST Cords—61% more stretch and life than old-style cords

No Wonder More People Ride on Goodyear Tires Than on Any Other Kind.

Noted Authority on South America Coming at Chautauqua.

"Under Ten Flags" Will Be the Subject of Vitally Interesting Discussion.

Startling facts regarding South America will be brought out by Edward Tomlinson, brilliant publicist and world-traveler, who is to give his enthrallingly interesting lecture "Under Ten Flags" at the coming Dominion Redpath Chautauqua.

Few people have any conception of this great continent, its tremendous economic significance, its subtle political aspects, its definite and highly developed civilisations. It is a land of exciting beauty, of vast and mystic distances, of rich and brilliant tropical colorings.

EDWARD TOMLINSON

Edward Tomlinson has been an unofficial observer in this great continent and has made an extensive survey of the South American republics.

Mr. Tomlinson received his education both in American universities and at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

He attended the recent Pan-American Conference at Havana and discusses South American affairs interestingly in the light of the Conference. Will appear in the Chautauqua Course of Entertainment which is in Peterborough July 13, 14, 16.

Rains Delay Harvest And Grain Prices Rise

CHICAGO, June 28. — Canadian Press.)—Further rains in the harvest region south-west caused wheat values here to average higher early today. Liffower quotations at Liverpool, however, and favorable crop reports from Canada were of considerable bearish effect at times. Opening at ½c. decline to 10⅝c. advance, Chicago wheat held near to the initial range. Corn and oats were relatively firm, with corn starting at ¼c. off to 3⅛c. up and later scoring some gain all around.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, July 136⅝, September, 139⅜. Corn, July 103, September 99⅝. Oats, July 54⅛, September 45⅝.

Trend Continues Upward Despite High Money Rate

NEW YORK, N.Y. June 28.—Canadian Press.)—Price movements lacked uniformity in to-day's stock market but the general trend continued upward. The maintenance of relatively stiff call money rates tended to restrict trading and stimulated profit taking in a few of the recent strong spots. The call money reneweal rate of 7⅛ per cent. was the highest since June 1923. Banks called $20,000,000 in loans during the morning with funds reported to be scarcer than they had been at any time since the "money panics" years ago.

The declaration of a $2 dividend on Jersey Central was one of the few interesting financial developments of the day. The day's business news was rather colorless in character. Case Threshing scored 12 points to 320 and then fell back to 315. Warren Bros. climbed 11½ points and American Encaustic Tiling, Brooklyn Edison, Dupont, American Express and Radio sold four to nearly six points higher. A brisk accumulation also was noted in Kelvinator, Montgomery Ward, and Cudahy Packing Co.

Mine Trading Steady With Upward Trend

TORONTO, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was for the most part steady this morning, with a general rising trend. Noranda was again the star performer of the market ,with a further advance of almost a dollar to 40.20. Pend Oreille was next with a 50 point jump to 13.00, and Amulet followed suit with a gain of 17 to 3.92. Robb Montbray showed unusual activity with greater sales than it has shown for months. It advanced 2¼ to 20.14. Western issues were for most part firm again to sudbury Basin being up nine at 9.80, while Sherritt-Gordon sagged five points again to-day to 5.80.

General Advance Begins On Toronto Stock Market

TORONTO, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Added strength was shown in this morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Higher money rates in New York, which necessarily had some effect on the local market, could not in the face of strong buying stop the general upward swing. Brazilian was the feature stock of the morning, with sales in excess of 1,300. It moved up ¼ point to 58. Transactions in Massey-Harris were less than yesterday, but a gain of ¼ to 39¼ was recorded. International Utilities B. was firm again to-day at 17. British American was the most distinctly strong feature amongst the oils, registering a gain of 1¼ at 37½. International Petroleum was firm at 39½, as was Imperial at 65. Liquids were firm again to-day, with Walkers up ¾ to 57. Canada Malting was also among the gainers at 33, being up ¼.

BIG CROWD SEES SPARKS' CIRCUS

Sparks' Circus surely lived up to its advance billing as the "World's largest circus giving a street parade" as was evidenced from the thousands who lined the streets to witness the splendid street display. Open cages of animals and tableaux wagons respendent in gold and silver were numerous and those who think that the auto age has replaced "old Dobbin" had their views shattered completely for a finer collection of dapple grays and thoroughbreds was never seen on our streets. exhibition tent located at the Fair

The afternoon performance was given before a crowded house in the Grounds. The opening number of the "big Show" program is "L'Ora," a lyrical fantasy of the Far East with a cast of 500 human and animal participants and features Alice Sohn, prima donna and George Sohn, concert baritone. It was sumptuously costumed and harmonious to the last degree.

Feature acts were plentiful in the program and they include Miacahua "Brazilian Wonder Girl" on the high wire; the Alexander troupe of acrobats, eight in number; the Hollis-McCree riding group featuring Reno McCree, world's funniest riding comedian; the Mankichi troupe of oriental acro bats and balancers; the Spaulding Trio and Roy Alexander and Co., comedy acrobats; Franz Woake's eleven performing tigers; Capt John Guilfoyle's fighting lions; Madam Harriet's Indian leopards and Sparks' Russian polar bears. There were rope walking seals, shoot the chutes pigs and bareback riding baboons.

Elephant displays occupied all the rings and Ione Carl, Billie Burton and Jammie Graves put them through their paces with grace and rapidity. Horse displays were plentiful including three liberty groups with Prof. Mayo's sixteen "rotation" thoroughbreds in the centre of the ring. Fancy gaited displays featured Lorain Casteel, famous "rearback" equestrienne; Ione Carl riding "Kentucky Man"; Della Bonhomme on "Silky Boy" and Lady Fashion,' black bottom dancing horse was ridden by Bert Mayo.

Other featured riders include Billie Burton, Gladys Harrington, Ethel Lewis, Marian Shuford, Ruby Hoyt, Juanita Grey and Alice Foster. Roxy, a sensational high jumper, also made a remarkable high jump, being ridden by Ione Carl. Besides these there are twenty other displays, not overlooking a hugh contingent of really funny clowns headed by Paul Wenzel. Joe Lewis, clown cop; Charley Fortune, Pewee, Harvey Spaulding, Ray Glaum, Reno McCree, Stanley White and a hosty of clown displays

Before the big show starts an hour's program is given by the Jack Hoy; Concert Band, now one of the largest connected with any traveling organization. The performance concludes with J. H. Del Vecho's massive historical spectacle "Historical Canada" written especially for the Canadian tour of the Sparks Circus and which embraces the services of the entire circus personnel. To-night's performance starts at 8 o'clock with doors opening at 7. Downtown ticket office at Bond's Drug Store.

SISTER OF AVIATRIX

Muriel Curtis Earhart, sister of Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, once attended St. Margaret's College in Toronto. She is now a teacher at the Medford Junior High School in Boston.

Science Monthly, a Navy flyer robbed the parachute club of five new members in one fine piece of piloting. Chief Aviation Pilot Peter N. Anschutz was flying in connection with battle-fleet maneuvers off San Diego, Calif. At 6,400 feet he let out a "sleeve" target for anti-aircraft guns. It fouled a propeller and a blade was carried away. A whirling fragment wrecked the starboard engine which tore half loose from its mountings and hung dangerously. The four observers the plane carried got ready to jump, but Anschutz said he would stick, and they stuck with him. The pilot couldn't get the ship to head downward, so the four observers crawled forward to weight down the nose.

Anschutz cut off his good motor lest it ignite the gas that the wrecked one was spitting, and brought down his ship in a long graceful glide on a stretch of water alongside a battleship. Boats from the dreadnaughts rescued all.

Somewhat similar was the more recent experience of Vance Breese, commercial aviator, over San Francisco with seven passengers, including a woman and a child. Twelve hundred feet up the propeller flew off; the vibration ripped the engine out of the frame, and the ship went into a sideslip Breese, burned by scalding oil, brought the lurching plane out of a spin, ordered his passengers forward in the cabin to balance it, and brought it down in a series of glides. His safe landing was little short of miraculous.

By far the most spectacular fight against fire in the air was that waged by Lieut. C. C. Champion in his try for a world's altitude record last summer. Facing almost certain death, he refused to take to the parachute because that would have disqualified his height record. Almost seven miles up the cylinder heads blew out. Flames leaped from the engine. He threw the plane into a side-slip, and blew the fire out for a moment. A nose dive extinguished it again. A third time the fire started, licking back toward him and the precious instruments that recorded his height. Another sideslip and again the rushing wind fanned out the flames.

On the Navy air field at Anacostia, D.C., observers saw the plane falling like a comet, a tail of fire and smoke streaking behind it, and summoned ambulances. They saw the ship right itself, straighten out, and land in a cornfield. Champion stepped out, clutching his altitude instruments.

Lindbergh, Chamberlin, the late Floyd Bennett, and Byrd, all have made emergency landings of great skill and daring.

HOW DELICATE GIRLS ARE MADE STRONG

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Keep Up Their Vitality.

It should be borne in mind that pale, bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep and regular out-of-doors exercise. But a lack of appetite and tired, aching limbs tend to hinder progress. To save the weak, thin-blooded sufferer, she must have new, rich blood, and nothing meets a case of this kind so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only enrich and increase the blood supply, they help the appetite and aid digestion, relieve the weary back and limbs, thus bringing new health and strength and transforming anemic girls and women into cheerful, happy people.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of anaemic girls is proved by the case of Miss Lucy Stoddart, Margaretville, N.S., who says:—"From the age of 12 to 15, I was in an anaemic condition. I was very thin and nervous, had no appetite and had no desire to take part in the doings of those of my age. My mother got tonic after tonic for me, but they did me very little good. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and almost from the first they seemed to be just what was needed to restore my strength. After taking the pills for a time I felt an altogether different girl. I got up in the morning feeling bright and active, and ready for work or play. Since then I have always taken a couple of boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring as a tonic and have thus kept in the best of condition."

Every weak girl should promptly follow the example of Miss Stoddart, feeling sure that the pills will renew her health. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE BUMPS

You get some bumps, of course you do,
For life's a thing we just bump through.
It's rough in spots, and only chumps
Expect to ride and miss the bumps.
I've even heard some folks assert
They couldn't see why they got hurt;
When I got bumped the selfsame spot
I couldn't see why they should not.

The bumps don't count, no half as much
As how we take the bumps and such.
I wouldn't think much of a car
That couldn't stand a bit of jar,
Nor much of women, much of men,
Who couldn't stand one now and then.
A fool can win with all the trumps—
It takes a man to take the bumps.

I've noticed this: that when I drive
Perhaps the reason I'm alive
Is just because some bump I passed
That slowed me when I drove too fast.
I didn't learn a lot from luck,
But getting stopped, and getting t ick,
From hitting holes, and dodging stumps,
For now and then we need the bumps.

FLIERS' SKILL ROBS CATERPILLAR CLUB

Many Stick To Ships Instead of Dropping in Parachutes.

Cheating the Caterpillar Club —the mythical organization of air pilots and passengers who have saved their necks by emergency parachute jumps—has become a famous sport of hardy airmen, as their skill has increased and their planes have become increasingly dependable. The annals of aviation are full of thrilling accounts of airmen who have "stuck to the ship," without seeking safety in the silken umbrella of the caterpillars' spinning.

KEENE CHURCH FOUNDED IN 1833

for performing the duties of sexton. As late as 1852 the records still show that the wood was furnished for the heating of the church by voluntary contribution. The sexton usually had to cut the wood in addition to his other duties.

The first Sunday school was established during the period of Mr. Wallace's ministrations and has been in existence continuously from that time up until the present. The first teachers were: Duncan Drummond, Thomas Short, Duncan McIntyre, Walter Renwick, Miss Gilchrist, and Miss Annie Gilchrist. Mr. Drummond afterwards withdrew from the Keene school and organized a Sunday school at Mather's Corners where in addition to superintending the school he furnished the fuel, made the fires, and attended to the other duties required.

From the month of August, 1847, when Mr. Wallace resigned, until the year 1850 the services were conducted by students. In the year 1848 a library was established in connection with the church and each Deacon was instructed to get as many as he could in his locality to join the congregation library.

Rev. Francis Andrews Called.

In 1850 the congregation extended a call to the Rev. Francis Andrews who accepted the call and was inducted in the year 1851. Members of the Presbytery who assisted at his induction were the Rev. Donald McLeod of Dobourg, the Rev. J. M. Roger of Peterborough, the Rev. W. McKenzie of Baltimore, the Rev. John Smith of Grafton, and the Rev. Mr. Douglas of Centreville. At the commencement of his ministrations the stipend was $500 but it was afterwards raised to $700 and finally in the year 1879 $800. Mr. Andrews was a graduate of Belfast and Edinburgh Colleges and was sent to Canada as a missionary by the Colonial Missionary Committee of the Presbyterian Church of Ireland. He preached for a short time at Grand River, Ontario, and then was sent to Keene where he accepted an unanimous call and where he labored faithfully, diligently, and acceptably in the service of the Lord until 1902, when he was removed by death.

When Mr. Andrews commenced his labors he preached at Keene, Cameron's School house on the boundary between the township of Otonabee and Asphodel, and Fife's school house on the sixth concession of Otonabee. The last named appointment was shortly afterwards cancelled but he continued to preach at Cameron's, School House until the church at Westwood was completed. At that time there were 142 on the communion roll, whereas at the first Communion service held at Keene there were only thirty-eight members who partook of the Lord's Supper.

In the early history of the congregation before the building of the church Communion services were sometimes held in Mr. Short's back store.

The Frist Precentor.

In 1845 Watler Renwick appears to have been the first precentor to receive a regular salary, his salary being £3 15s. per annum. Previous to that time a collection was taken up to recompense the precentor for his services. The service of praise was conducted from that time up until the introduction of the organ in May 1890 by the following in order named: Peter Anderson, Robert Graham, Thomas Lockhart, James Buchanan, William Renwick and John Gillespie. Salaries ranged from $15 up to $30.00. Previous to the appointment of a regular precentor the service of song was conducted by a choir of six or seven male voices.

A Female Association was organized in 1852 which rendered valuable service in helping to raise money in aid of the manse fund.

In 1854 a resolution was passed by the Session that in the absence of the minister the elders were to conduct the service at the regular hours by prayer and reading a sermon or a portion of Scripture and it was also agreed that the session would meet regularly in the manse every Sunday morning before divine service for prayer. In the same year a resolution was passed to establish a Total Abstinence Association in connection with the church but it would appear there was very little action taken to obtain signatures.

In 1858 and 1859 difficulties arose in the church which affected the harmony of the congregation but in time they were finally settled and peace was restored.

Pew Rent Begins.

From the organization of the church up until 1864 the financial obligations of the congregation were met by voluntary contributions but at this time it was resolved to raise the ministers' stipend and incidental expenses by pew rent which plan was followed for many years. Occasionally it happened that the deacons were unable to collect the full amount of stipend and on one occasion Mr. Andrews commended them for their efforts in the matter, stating, "You have done well, and we will call it settled."

In 1873 David Moore, John Lang, Peter Comrie, D. D. Henderson, John McNeil and Peter Drummond were elected to fill vacancies in the Deacons' Court and in 1877 session vacancies were filled by the election of Peter McNeil, James M. Drummond, W. J. Miller, William Plunkett and John Miller. John Miller occupied the position of treasurer for 21 years from 1857 to 1878 and when he resigned James McNeil, who was appointed secretary in 1868, was elected in his stead. James Stewart filled the office of elder for some years and Thomas Davidson was ruling elder for many years.

In 1894 the following elders were elected to fill vacancies in the session: Joseph H. Taylor, Thomas Thompson and Hugh McFarlane. The first Ladies' Missionary Society was organized in 1879 with Mrs. George Read as president.

New Church Built.

In 1881 it was decided to build a new church but it was 1883 before plans were definitely made. The site of the present church was purchased for $400 and the contract was let to John Harper of Norwood for $9,000. The cost of brick was $1,450.50 and the total cost of the church outside of voluntary labor was about $11,000. The corner stone was laid on May 24th, 1884, under Masonic auspices by Danley Spry, then Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, A.F. and A.M. of Canada. In the cavity of the stone were placed a scroll, a copy of borough Times, The Norwood The Presbyterian Record, The Presbyterian, The Daily Mail, The Daily Globe, The Peterborough Review, The Peterborough Examiner, The Peterborough Times, The Norwood Register, The Canadian Craftsman, The Queen's College Journal, and Canadian Coins of the denominations of 50c, 25c, 10c, 5c, and 1c.

On the 24th of June, 1885, the church was dedicated for divine service by the Rev. Principal Cavin of Knox College.

In 1883 a Woman's Auxiliary in connection with the Zenana Mission was organized and some time later a Mission Band was started. In 1892 a Young People's Christian Endeavor was organized.

On Friday, January 11, 1901, Rev. Francis Andrews celebrated his jubilee as pastor of the congregation. He came to the congregation a young man, 27 years old, and at the age of 77 he was still vigorous in mind and body. Members from other Protestant denominations and from the Roman Catholic Church all gathered to honor the man who had gone in and out of their homes for half a century. Rev. P. Duncan of Colborne and Dr. Torrance of Peterborough brought greetings from the Presbytery and Principal Grant was there from Queen's College.

The elders then were Alex Wood, James M. Drummond, Joseph H. Taylor, W. J. Miller, Thomas Thompson, and Hugh McFadden.

Rev. Dr. Andrew Dies.

On February 4, 1902, while actively engaged in the ministry Dr. Andrews passed away. On Sunday he had preached at Keene and Westwood and on Tuesday morning in his home he quietly passed to the life beyond. All creeds and classes united in paying their last respects to the life and work of Dr. Andrews in a most impressive funeral service held in the church where he had preached for so many years. The service was conducted by the Peterborough Presbytery with the Rev. Dr. Thomson of Hastings preaching the sermon.

With the passing of Dr. Andrews the Rev. D. D. McDonald was inducted and continued for a period of ten years to be minister of Keene and Westwood. It was during Mr. McDonald's pastorate that the manse property was beautified. Mr. McDonald is still a minister of the gospel. In 1912 Rev. W. T. Goodwill became the minister and remained for two and one half years. For some five and a half years or from 1916 to 1921 Rev. R. McEarchern was pastor, and on November 8th, 1921, Rev. John Archibald became the minister.

During Mr. Archibald's pastorate the church union vote was taken when Keene and Westwood both voted in favor of organic union. In 1926 the minorities in both congregations withdrew and are now flourishing in churches of their own which they built last year. After Union Mr. Archibald was successful in uniting the former Methodist congregations at Keene and Westwood with the Presbyterian churches and they now worship together at the United churches of Keene and Westwood.

Mr. Archibald resigned recently and left this week for his new charge at Grand Forks, British Columbia.

and its might. Jesus may reply to us in the same manner as to his disciple of the text. Great works of ancient civilization have been overthrown and are now being unearthed.

We can build and improve but our souls must be in our work or it will wear out with time.

The law of size is simplified by adding machine which typifies life but is destructive to the life of the spirit. Spiritual things or moral character cannot be added. The ruination of the church is the substitution of quantity for quality. Jesus knew that the 12,000 that were fed on the "five loaves and two fishes" were smaller spiritually than the twelve disciples who sat at his feet and studied his life and soul's desires.

The widow who gave her mite (her bread money) must have loved the church. Let us not say we gave the "widow's mite" until we count not what we gave but what we have left.

The Israelites felt as grass-hoppers beside the men of The Promised Land therefore God ordained that they remain another twenty years in the wilderness. God does not want us to feel small but to grow Big in love and fulness of God. Eternity is none too long for the development and progress of the human soul in the likeness of its Maker.

Isaac Newton said that all he knew of the spirit of God was like a pebble thrown in a large body of water.

People who are satisfied with what they know and seek no farther are on a lane with a dead end. Jesus says they are on the wrong road and it is not big enough to bring satisfaction.

Some men "live to eat" while others "eat to live." We need to do both. A diagnosis is needed when the apetite is lost for spiritual things.

"God make me Big" is added to a thinking boys' prayer. He looks up to his father and desires to attain to his size strength, authority, freedom, etc. The mother hearing her boy's whispered prayer seconds his petition, "God make me Big" but glimpses her great responsibility and asks for spiritual Bigness.

Let us pray the mother's prayer to our Heavenly Father—(God make me Big as only Jesus was big who went about doing good for the love of God.)

May we be saved from the petty aim of physical size and be given bigness of spiritual vision and moral character.

Let us love one another and develop in the interest of God's Kingdom.

Evening Service

At the evening service a double quartette and organist from Millbrook composed the choir and supplied music which was greatly appreciated and enjoyed. The following numbers were rendered:

"In the Secret of His Presence" by the double quartette, "King of Love My Shepherd Is" duet by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, "Rivers of Life," by the male quartette.

Mr. Langford found his evening's text in Matthew 7:7.

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.

This text is simple, familiar and profound. It is a challenge to us. It seems to be absolute and without condition but we must read what goes before and after for its full meaning.

Jesus demands personal trust and surrender to him. Faith in God is different from faith in prayer. It is easy to multiply words but we must not mistake the means for the end. We cannot deceive God no he cannot be compelled. He loved men enough to send Jesus to live on earth for our example. He knows our needs and will answer our prayers when we ourselves come to know our needs and open our hearts to Him.

We cannot sit and wait for God to answer our prayers. A boy at school must work his problems for himself, guided by the teacher. So we must share our problems with God.

The purpose of life is—not to get our own way until our way is conformed to the likeness of the Son of God.

Our aim of greatest importance is not, to get to heaven, but to be fit to get there.

Jesus came to us to make bad men good—to make us pure in heart.

In the Old Testament, God seems to be a judge when he says to Moses, "I am a God of Mercy, forgiving iniquity, transpression and sin.

In the New Testament the relationship is of Father and child. Jesus said, "Come in weakness and sin etc." He tells us when we pray to say, "Our Father which are in Heaven etc.

Jesus says to the sinner, "Let the man without fault throw the first stone" and "Neither do I condemn you, go sin no more."

A child learning to walk must not be saved from his many little falls by his mother, but must be lifted to his feet and encouraged to try again. The mother all the while keeping a watchful eye over him so he will not unnecessarily harm himself.

God, in like manner watches over us.

Let us ask God to help us be good men and women and do our share to make it come to pass.

Jesus says "If you seek you shall find, if you knock it shall be opened unto you.

Garden Party

A very successful garden party was held by Springfield United Church on Monday evening, June 25.

A bounteous supper was served in the basement of the church which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Sports were held before and after supper on the law. Quoits being the main attraction. The Kiwanians of Peterboro were well represented in this game as well as the local boys.

A real treat was enjoyed in the concert held later in the church.

Following the chairman's remarks (Rev. A. H. McConnachie) a relightful program was rendered by Peterborough artists as followa:—

Solos by Misses Rome, Murray, and Blanchard and Mr. Carlisle:

The following are the Millbrook friends who so kindly assisted in the Sunday night's music—

CHAPTER XLV.

Carmelite Valdon stared at Fleming Stone.

Her great dark eyes seemed to grow luminous with fear, and then they became sphinx-like and inscrutable.

"You startled me," she said with a light laugh. "I thought you meant it."

"I did mean it—I do mean it. You learned something that you have kept to yourself. You discovered something that leads you to a definite suspicion. This thing you must tell, or you will find yourself in serious trouble."

"Oh, no, not so bad as that."

Carmelite Valdon was again mistress of herself. Her instant of fear had passed; she had come through the inquisition about her letters, and it had caused her no alarm.

"Yes, Mrs. Valdon." All at once Stone found himself on the losing side of the argument. "Yes, serious trouble," he ended up, a little lamely.

She looked at him and smiled.

"Shot all your arrows, have you, Mr. Stone?" she bantered. "Well what next?"

Stone wanted to shake her. Never before had he felt so baffled by a woman's wit. He was certain that she had no connection of any sort with the death of Garrett Folsom. But he knew, too, that she had a clue of some kind, however slight, that he would give worlds to learn.

But it was so vague, so purely imaginary on his part, that he couldn't think, at the moment, of any way to force her hand.

And she was so impossible. She was a different person from the sad-faced woman who had confessed to stealing her own letters and had admitted her relief at the death of Folsom.

Now her eyes shining, her red lips smiling, her whole being full of vivacity and charm, she leaned closer to him and whispered:

"Don't shoot any more arrows at me. I haven't done anything wrong."

"But you know who has!" he said sternly, angry at himself for being swayed by her beauty and lure.

And then, with another of her sudden changes, she became wistful, even pathetic, and tears actually appeared in her eyes.

"No. Merely a faint, slight possibility. Nothing that I can tell you."

"Very well, Mrs. Valdon," and Stone gave himself a mental shake. "I take that statement as a true one, and I shall say nothing more to you about it, until—until I, too, discover that same slight possibility."

And at that he had the satisfaction of seeing her look very perplexed indeed.

They returned to the hotel, and as it was the bathing hour, Carmelita hurried away to keep an appointment, and Stone sat on the deck by himself to think things over.

As a result of his cogitations he went up to Dan Pelton's suite.

Ross, the valet Pelton had inherited from Folsom, was just leaving the rooms, having finished his work there.

"Going in the surf?" Stone said pleasantly.

"No, sir," Ross returned. "I can't seem to bear the sight of the ocean since—Mr. Folsom—"

"Yes, I know," Stone said understandingly. "I wish we could get at the truth, Ross."

"I wish so, too, sir, but it is all so mysterious. If it had been on land, now—"

"That's just it. A murder on land gives at least some chance of clues left on the scene, but in the ocean—not a showing."

"Not a showing, sir. You have no—no suspicions, sir?"

"No. I say, Ross, have you?" He looked at the man closely.

But he saw nothing save the immobile face of the servant, with a sad look in the eyes that told him only of a natural grief at the death of a respected master.

"I wish I could suspect him," Stone thought whimsically. "It would help along a lot."

"Wait a minute, Ross," he said, aloud, and the man paused.

"You know a heap about your late master's private affairs, and you needn't hesitate to speak out before me. Is there anybody you know of who could have had reason to do this job? I mean do you know of any one over whom Mr. Folsom had a strong enough hold to make a motive for murder?"

"That's a big question, sir," Ross said, speaking very seriously. "Too big for me to answer. By which I mean that, though I saw a few things now and then, or heard a few words now and then, I haven't enough real knowledge or real reason for what you might call suspicion. If I had I should have told of it at first, sir."

"Yes, that's right. I say, Ross, you don't think it was one of his lady friends did it?"

"Killed him?" Ross looked amazed. "Good Lord, no, sir! Why there wasn't any of 'em down here."

"Oh, you mean his chorus girl friends. I suppose he had lots of those."

"Not so many, but now and then one. He was no saint, Mr. Folsom wasn't."

"No, though his sister thinks he was."

"She does that, Mr. Stone. Miss Folsom thinks Mr. Garrett was almost a Puritan, and—he wasn't, sir."

"No," agreed Stone. "Well, go along, Ross, I see you can't help me out. Call down for some ice water, will you, and tell them to send that fat child with it."

"Tubby? Yes, sir."

Ross did Stone's bidding and departed, and shortly the rotund bellboy appeared with the water.

"You wanted me special, Mr. Stone?" he asked, with the air of importance that he loved to assume.

"What I'm getting at is this, Tubby," the detective said, straightforwardly. "I want to get all the sidelights I can on Mr. Garrett Folsom. I've learned a lot from his friends and from the police and all that. But there may be some bit of information you can give me that nobody else could. Think so?"

"I wish I could, sir, but I'm darned if I can think of anything. Got anything particular in mind?"

"No, I'm just floundering. Did you see Mr. Folsom when he arrived here? When he first came in?"

"Yes, sir, I did. I was near the desk and I seen him arrive. Oh, yes, he came in very important like—"

"Swaggering?"

"Not fool swaggering, sir. Just like a man who's big and knows it. No shoddy work. And his man, Ross, you know, looking after everything quiet and proper."

"I suppose you mean he made an entrance such as one of the best people might be expected to do."

"Just that, Mr. Stone. I know all about entrances; I've seen thousands."

Tubby stood waiting, hoping he could tell something of importance, but utterly at a loss to do so, and well knowing that nothing fictitious would go with this man.

"Well, that's that," Stone informed him. "Did he look about at the people before he went up to his rooms?"

"He did just that," and Tubby saw a chance. "He stood quite a few minutes looking at the crowds in the lounge. He hadn't been here in some time and he was awful interested."

"Did he notice anybody in particular?"

"Well, he did. You see, his own crowd, Mr. Neville and those ladies, weren't around just then, but just as Mr. Folsom was about to go up in the elevator the Searses and Barrons came down in the next elevator and Mr. Folsom looked at them like he was surprised all to pieces."

"Why," said Stone, "he didn't know any of them, except Mr. Sears, slightly."

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones Honored By Church Societies at Warkworth.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, June 27.—A pleasing event took place on Sunday morning in the Sunday School room of St. Paul's Church, when Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones was presented with a beautiful three-piece pearl and amber toilet set from the Sunday School, Ladies' Association and the W.M.S. Mrs. W. J. Harper read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Jones,—A few of your friends have gathered at the closing session of our Sunday School to show to you in a very small way our friendship for you and our hearty appreciation of the great help you have been so freely giving to all our many gatherings in the different societies of the church. We will miss you very much, and your place will be hard to fill, but such is life. Our Heavenly Father moves the workers around, but still carries on His work, and as you are to go and we to remain, we ask you to accept this slight token as a gift to ever remind you of the many warm friends you are leaving behind in St. Paul's.

Signed on behalf of the W.M.S., Mrs. W. J. Moore; Ladies' Association, Mrs. G. L. Walker; Sunday School, P. S. Ewing.

Mrs. Jones, who was entirely taken by surprise, made a very fitting reply and expressed her many thanks.

Mrs. Jones was the teacher of the young men's class, in which she took much interest, sparing neither time nor work if in any way it would be a benefit to the class. The young men who regretted losing their teacher presented her with a clock which matched the gift, which was presented by the other societies.

Mrs. Jones expressed her regret in leaving the fine class of boys. Many kind words of encouragement and advice were given them.

Catchacoma News

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CATCHACOMA, June 28. — Sergt. Major Harold Smith, late of the Princess Pats, employed at The Westlake Inn, caught some delicious mountain trout in Cathacoma lake recently by trolling. This fish is very gamey and makes a wild fight for life. All trout are called "salmon" trout in the regulations but there are many varieties such as Rainbow, Mountain, Speckled trout, etc. The Mountain is first cousin of the Brook or Speckled trout.

The leafage is very fine this year and the heavy rain waked up the wild strawberries and wild honeysuckle.

The Mississauga Lodge truck is out all night gathering rock for the stone fire-places of the main building and its cottages.

The porcupine apparently does not gnaw wood as the beaver does but scratches it with its hind feet. It has attacked the verandah posts in its midnight forage for rotting wood and worms.

Next season a tourist bungalow (hotel) is to be built on the camping grounds east of the Inn, with meals for tourists and visitors. The Catchacoma Hotel will be going strong in a few days.

Government men are at work on the roads and Government surveyors are completing the laying out of the public strip along the lake's shores and the few remaining vacant lots.

The character of the forest is changing slowly, or rather rapidly. Hard woods are driving out the poplar and with the increasing number of pines and hemlock will bring back the "mighty forest of old" in a few more years.

Mr. Caspel and Mr. Bennett are still at The Inn, where they will remain for another week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagar came up to their cottage on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curtis and party are at their lodge.

Dr. MacKay's party are at his lodge for a few days.

AVIATOR KILLED.

Major Walter B. Lawson, D.F.C., noted army flier and mining engineer, who was killed when his plane crashed in Winnipeg, Man., on Saturday. He served with Townsend in Mesopotamia. He was one of the officers selected to organize the Canadian Air Force.

NOBILE INSISTS ON AIDING RESCUE

No Investigation To Be Made Into His Being Rescued Before Crew.

LONDON, June 27 (Canadian Press). — In an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome, the Italian Naval Ministry states that General Nobile is insisting on taking part in the relief expedition to rescue the remaining members of the Italia's crew. It is said that he is not in a mental or physical condition to leave the Citta di Milano, where he is recuperating.

Officials of the Naval Ministry deny categorically that there will be an investigation into the fact that Gen. Nobile was the first member of the crew to be rescued. It is regarded here as certain that his companions obliged him to leave first.

NOBILE NERVOUS WRECK.

BERLIN, June 27 (Canadian Press) —Despatches from Rome to the Mittag Zeitung to-day said that the Italian public was surprised that General Nobile, the leader of the Italia expedition, should have been saved first.

The rumour is said to have circulated through Italy that Nobile suffered a nervous collapse due partly to injuries received when the Italia crashed. These reports say that he became greatly excited, spoke incoherently, and in other ways made himself such a great burden to his stranded companions that they insisted on his being transported to the Citta di Milano first.

AMUNDSEN SIGHTED.

BERLIN, June 27 (Canadian Press) —Additional details of the report received in Norway that the plane of Raold Amundsen was sighted by a Norwegian sealer on June 20, is contained in a special despatch from Tromsoe to the Lokal Anzeigler. This states that a telegram had been received from Archangel, Russia, stating that a Norwegian sealer had sighted the long missing plane on an ice floe south-east of Northeastland. Dense ice prevented the approach of the sealer.

General Jose Alvarez, until recently chief of staff to President Calles, has been formally charged with conspiracy to smuggle silks into Mexico City from the United States. The general, who has been regarded as the second most powerful man in Mexico, is not alone in his trouble, for the authorities also detained Senora Maria Conesa—popularly known as "The Little White Cat"—despite Jose's declaration that Maria was "innocent as a dove." Senora Conesa is one of the most beautiful women in Mexico. Both are shown here.

CHANGING TIRES ON AUTOMOBILE AIRED IN COURT

Seymour Man Accused of Theft Because of Substitution Made.

CHARGE AMENDED.

Magistrate Orders it Changed To Fraud After Hearing Much Evidence.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28. — Magistrate Payne heard evidence yesterday afternoon for three hours in the case of Rex vs. Mernie Samson. In spite of several attempts to get in irrelevant evidence, the magistrate insisted on sticking strictly to the direct line of the case. It was a case, not of the tail going with the hide, but the tires going with the car, and arose out of a deal which was made on June 5th between W. J. Rogers, General Motors salesman here, and Mernie Samson of Seymour. It appears that Samson came to the Rogers sales room in search for a part for the Dodge touring which he was driving and Rogers immediately started to talk of dealing cars. Samson did not wish to deal and said so, but intimated that he might come back. Next evening he returned with a friend and in the friend's car and signed the contract. On the following night he brought in his old car and drove away the used Oldsmobile which he had dealt for. After he had gone, Rogers noticed that there were different tires on the car he had taken in and set out to find Samson. He did so and asked him to return the tires. By the end of the week the tires were not returned and it was found that Samson had disposed of them. The court action is the direct result. W. F. Kerr, K.C., Cobourg, appeared for the Crown, assisted by N. Alex MacColl, Campbellford. Alex D. Elliott, Peterborough, appeared in defence of Samson. Samson pleaded not guilty to the charge of theft.

W. J. Rogers, the first witness called, identified himself as the Buick dealer for Campbellford, and said he had known the defendant since June 4th. Charles Calvert had also been present that evening. Samson had come for part of hood for a car, but Rogers had not been able to supply it. After talking for a few minutes he asked Samson to deal cars, but Samson had not been ready to talk business that night. He came the following night and signed a contract (entered as Exhibit 1), but the Oldsmobile which he had dealt for was not ready to go out since it needed grease and oil. It was to be ready for June 6th.

On that evening Samson arrived, driving his car, and parked it in a dark place in the yard. Rogers examined it and found that three of the tires had been changed. The deal was made on June 5th for the car as shown on June 4th. There had been three good tires on the car then, but when it was brought in these were replaced by three old ones and one of them was flat. Samson first denied having removed the tires, but later said he had taken them off and did not think it would make much difference to a big concern like the General Motors. He promised to bring them to the garage the following night. On Saturday he came back and said he could not get the tires since he had disposed of them. Rogers had said he would have to get either the tires or the money.

To Mr. Elliott, Rogers said that Samson did not get the bow he originally came for. There had been no deal made the first night, although Samson had seemed anxious enough to deal. Harry Hoard had been with him the second night and Samson had come in Hoard's car. There was no cash transferred but Rogers had accepted a note and assumed the lien which was against the Dodge touring car. Charles Calvert and Carl Rogers had been present when the deal was signed. He was ready to take his oath that Calvert had been present when the deal was made on the night of the fifth. Whether or not there were other people on the property at the time, he could not say since the deal was transacted in the office. The tires had been removed from the Dodge some time between the fourth and sixth, he could not say when. He did not always deal cars when the cars were in plain view, but inspected the cars and dealt for them as they were when he saw them.

His Worship pointed out that it was specified on the order that the car was to be "As shown on the fourth."

Mr. Elliott suggested that this might have been written in after the contract was signed. Rogers denied that it was. After some rapid questioning on the orders, Mr. Elliott asked Rogers if he had sworn at Samson. This Rogers also denied. He did recall challenging Samson to get out of the car and fight. Elliott persisted, "Do you remember swearing at him?"

Rogers—"No, I never swore at him. I'll take my oath on that."

The Crown examined the witness briefly regarding some of the points about the tires and the orders.

Charles Calvert.

Charles Calvert, salesman, was the next witness called. He said he had known Samson for four or five years and was present when the deal was made. He had also noticed the tires and his story paralleled that of the first witness. He further stated that he believed there was no tube at all in one of the tires. It had been flat when it came in.

To Elliott, Calvert said he had heard no swearing and he was standing about one hundred feet away. He was present all the time that Hoard and Samson were there and had not been out talking to anyone. He did not know when the tires were changed except that they were changed between the fourth and sixth.

Carl Rogers.

Carl Rogers, salesman, also knew Samson and had been present on the night of June 4th. He was not talking but listening. He saw Samson bring in the car and park it on the dark side of the yard. Samson then got the Oldsmobile and drove away. Witness said he had noticed the tires when he was about to drive the Dodge into the barn for storage. Asked what kind of tires they were, witness said, "Well, they were tires, that is about all you could call them."

To Elliott he said that he was about the garage all the time and had witnessed the closing of the deal. They had discussed the matter more or less since the tires had been noticed, but had not "framed up" any evidence. He would tell the same story tomorrow or the next day, he said. That he was in the office all the time, he would swear.

This completed the case for the Crown, and Mr. Elliott rose to submit that there had been no proof of ownership put forward and that there was, therefore, no case. This precipitated an argument on the point between the counsel with considerable good-humored remarks interjected throughout.

Mernie Samson, defendant, was the first witness called. Testifying in his own defence, he told of going to Rogers' sales rooms on the night of June 4, 5 and 6. He denied that he wanted to deal on the first night or that he said he would come back. He had said that if he ever wanted to deal, he would "give them a chance." He had neither said he would nor would not return. Rogers had inspected the Dodge touring on June 4th and asked about the bent radiator and frame. On the following night, he had come down in Harry Hoard's car and just chanced to go round to Rogers. He and Hoard had gone out in the Oldsmobile and after much dickering the deal had been completed. There had been nothing said in the contract or during their discussion about tires. On the night of June 6th, he had come for his car and Rogers had asked about the right to remove the tires. Later he had asked Samson to bring in the tires the following day and said he would either get the tires or the money. Rogers had also used abusive and filthy language, Samson charged, and had dared both he and Hoard to come into the yard and fight.

Returning to the tires, Samson admitted that the tires were not his. One he had bought last fall, another last spring and the third had been lent to him by his uncle, Thomas Samson, on the occasion of his grandmother's funeral. He was to have paid his uncle if he kept the tire. Hoard now had two of the tires, having bought them June 4th, and taken them off the car the following afternoon. The third tire had been removed at the same time and set in the barn. Later it had been turned over to Harry Meiklejohn, as payment on a garage bill. The tires he had used to replace them were old ones that he kept hanging around to be used in case he needed them. He did not consider his act to be stealing. He had said nothing about the removal of the tires because he had not been asked about it.

Crown—"How much do you think you could strip off a car and still call it a car?"

Samson, "Well, you could take quite a lot off it."

Later Sampson admitted that the tires were sold before he had ever seen Rogers and that he had not mentioned them because he was not asked. He did not consider his action false pretences. He also claimed in a dark spot but had gone where ed in a dar kspot but had gone where there was room. He claimed that his name that appeared on one of the orders was not his signature and the Crown asked him to take pen and write it five times. The result was entered as an exhibit.

Harry Hoard, the last witness called, said he had bought the tires from Samson, June 5th for $25. Calvert was not present all the time when the deal was signed, he said. He had heard everything was said because Rogers had "talked right out." Although he had seen the contract signed, he had not read it and did not believe that Samson had read it.

W. F. Kerr began his examination by establishing the fact that Hoard's hearing was impaired, and claiming that he might not have heard a great deal that was said. Asked about the tires, Hoard said that he had had seen Samson driving on worse ones.

Following a half-hour adjournment from 4.10 to 4.40, Mr. Elliott advised his worship that a witness was not present whom he required before proceeding with the case. The Crown suggested that a warrant be issued, but on hearing the nature of the evidence which would be given by the witness, his worship ruled that it was irrelevant and that the witness, need not be called. This, then, completed the case for the defense.

In his argument, the Crown briefly pointed out how it had been established in evidence that the case was a clear theft.

In his argument Mr. Elliott pointed to several variations in the evidence and submitted that there was no theft since the tires had been removed before the contract was signed. He also submitted that Rogers would not be able to recover damages in a civil action under the circumstances.

In reply to this, the Crown contended that the tires were parts of the car and that their removal was theft.

After hearing the evidence and addresses of both sides Magistrate Payne stated his views on the matter and concluded by saying that theft and fraud were closelly allied. He would allow the charge to be amended to that of fraud.

Mr. Elliott pointed out that in such an event he would require an adjournment in order to read over the evidence with a view to either submitting more evidence or a written argument.

At five-twenty the court was adjourned till July 7th at ten o'clock in the morning.

John Torpey, who lives about six miles east of Peterborough, lost three fine milch cows during the same storm, when lightning struck the tree under which they had taken shelter. Insurance carried will cover about half the loss.

Thirty-four members of Chapter 54, West Toronto branch of the Women of Mooseheart Legion, came by motor bus to the city on Tuesday evening, to visit the members of the local Chapter, No. 486. They arrived here at half past six o'clock, and, through the kindness of brother members of the Moose Lodge, were taken for a motor drive around the city, being very enthusiastic over its beauties on their return to the Downyflake, where supper was served at eight o'clock The colors of the Legion, purple and white, were used in the decorations of the table. Later, dancing was enjoyed, the visitors leaving for home at eleven o'clock. Hostesses for the local Lodge were the senior regent, Mrs. J. C. Poolman, Mrs. W. Slade, Mrs. G. Fullbrooke, Mrs. F. Roberts, Mrs. R. Allin and Mrs. E. M. Austin.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

ONE of the cheering things about the running of a "Column," and especially the "Whatnot," is the splendid help one receives from readers. On Saturday I printed an "SOS" asking for a recipe for Boston Brown Bread—and on Monday morning the recipe was waiting at the office, sent by Miss Johnston. Another reader kindly brought in a book of poems containing one requested by Mrs. J. W. If there is any way in which a reader can help you, or any way in which you can help a reader, please write to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

On a visit over the week-end I admired the lovely silk-covered pillows which a thoughtful hostess had scattered around in profusion. I learned that they were all home-made, and really commend the box-shaped, quilted pillow, worked in conventional floral design, as being simple to make and a remarkably pleasant addition to the furnishing of a room.

When the bus pulled up at George and Charlotte on Saturday night, a mother glimpsed her child playing in a nearby store entrance. She called several times, without response. Then, the bus rapidly filling, she shouted in exasperation, "Come here, you little monkey"—and the child came. That mother probably did not know the fact which is noted in one of the magazines, where the author points out monkeys are real disciplinarians. In fact, parental indulgence toward children is a sign of progress upward in the evolutionary chain, because monkey children are cuffed and slapped into obedience.

An inquiry which will be dealt with in the "Mail" column raises an interesting question of more general interest. "How can I break my 2-year-old child of wanting a pacifier at night?" is the request. As a counter-inquiry one might ask, "Why start habits that have later to be broken?" Every mother should know that if a child is to have straight, well-formed teeth he must not be allowed to suck on a pacifier, and she should be chary indeed of starting habits which, in the interests of the child, must later be eradicated.

A local jeweller tells me that engagement rings for men are becoming more fashionable and that there is a steadily increasing demand for them. In the best circles, it is said, sapphires are most commonly used, and this seems particularly appropriate in view of that gem's association with chastity and temperance. And why shouldn't a man, as well as his prospective mate, carry an announcement to the world of his engagement?

Mothers with small children who find difficulty in going to sleep in daylight will appreciate this vacation-time hint from Mrs. Callister. "I carry with me a piece of dark green sateen the size of a window, with two brass rings sewn at the top, and some push pins (I always have several, because they do get lost). When sleepy time comes I just hang up the sateen, and as soon as Myrtle gets to sleep I take it down, so that the air may circulate, or pin it up so that the open part of the window is free."

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

By MARY MARSHALL

Beige and pale blue are combined in the ensemble at the right. The stockings and blouse are of the pale blue while the suit, hat, scarf, and shoes are of beige. Brown, cream and apple green are worn together at the left—brown crepe de chine skirt and scarf, cream georgette blouse and apple green faille silk coat.

A real one-tone color scheme is very nearly impossible to achieve unless you select gray, beige, black or white—but it is sometimes extremely smart. Gray frock with hat, shoes, stockings of precisely the same tone of gray—all white including shoes and sheer silk stockings—everything of precisely the same soft light tone of beige, may be decidedly striking. Save for evening wear one would hardly choose the all black combination unless in mourning. Some bit of colored jewelry would usually be added.

Usually we choose between a two-colors scheme and an arrangement of three colors. To attempt four colors or more is difficult save in some of the new printed fabrics.

One of the costumes sketched shows a clever combination of brown, cream color and apple green — and the other pale blue and beige. As a note of variety the stockings are of the pale blue instead of beige.

White emerald and lettuce green makes a smart color scheme for linen or cotton ensembles. A white pique has heavy linen appliquees of orange, yellow and red. A sheer summer frock shows a combination of white organdie with violet and rose in morning glory shades. Coral and cream white is a decidedly smart color alliance.

Pale yellow is sometimes combined with light blue and in an interesting recent bridesmaid's frock pale yellow was ornamented with a twisted girdle of blue and mauve. At an important golf match recently the winner of the championship wore a white flannel skirt and white sweater edged with two shades of violet and a rather definite rose.

WIVES ARE NOT FAIRLY TREATED

K.C. Declares Men Should Not be Able to Will Away Property.

Toronto, Ont., June 28 (CP).—"I think it is a scandalous thing that a man can will all his property away from his wife and children," said Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada, at a banquet given to visiting women lawyers by their sisters of Ontario. "I would like to see you advocate a change in our laws," he went on. "It is a gross injustice that the woman and family who depend upon him, and who have taken part in the joint adventure of life, should be deprived of what is justly theirs. I would like to see you back up the attempt of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to remedy this. You as young lawyers can do much. You talk about the English women lawyers, but I know that Lady Astor, Miss Bondfield, the Duchess of Athol and some others I have heard are not capable of making better addresses than I have heard you make here tonight." He made special reference to the speech of a young Buffalo lawyer, and to that of Miss Ruby Wigle. "I believe," he said further, "that the advent of women in law, and the influence of the girl-secretary has been of great benefit. They never betray a confidence and are discretion itself. I am sure the Discipline Committee will not have to deal with women, who have the attribute of honesty to a marked degree as compared with men."

Miss Bertha Stoutmen of Buffalo spoke of the prejudice which women lawyers encountered in the earlier years, a prejudice that has since disappeared in the United States. "Girls have proved themselves acceptable in law offices, and acquired positions quite readily, while women of exceptional brilliancy and application are forging to the front," she declared. "In Buffalo there are over 20 women lawyers."

She spoke of Judge Norris of Cleveland in the women's city court, as one of the outstanding women in the profession. She also mentioned Miss Cline of Cleveland, who had been made a judge of the federal court, the first woman to be so elected.

In New York the women of the legal profession are working hard to make it possible for a woman to act on a jury, she explained. "In 23 states they have obtained this privilege and it is found to work well, particularly in the West. I hope we will soon have it in New York State and that also you will soon have it in Ontario."

MISS EARHART WAS V.A.D. AT TORONTO

First Woman to Fly Across Atlantic Remembered From War Days.

Toronto, Ont., June 28 (CP).—Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly the Atlantic, is the subject, naturally, of reminiscence by those who remember her while she was in Toronto.

She is recalled as a venturesome young lady for whom taking a chance held no terrors. She was but 18 years of age then, and came to Toronto about a year before the end of the war in an endeavor to get overseas, having been unable to do so from the United States.

"She is a shy sort of girl," said Mrs. Duncan Robertson (the former Miss Mildred Trent), friend of Miss Earhart's, dating back to war days, when they both served as V.A.D.'s in the diet kitchen of the Spadina Military Hospital. "She is the sort of girl who accomplishes what she starts out to do. She is very cool and level-headed," said Mrs. Robertson. "A most attractive personality." She took a course in chemistry in Columbia University, and had a strong bent for mechanics. At one time she made a continental tour in a racing automobile she had bought.

While in Toronto she more than once demonstrated her line of achievement. One instance is recalled by friends. Both Amelia and her sister, Mildred, who went to school here, were expert riders and rode regularly at a local academy.

At the Canadian Exhibition she saw an exhibition of riding at a wild west show. One of the stunts was to challenge anyone in the audience to keep his seat on a bucking broncho. Before any of the men had a chance to accept, Miss Earhart had done so. Although not in riding costume, she mounted the unbroken animal and "stayed put" until the beast stopped its tantrums through exhaustion. She returned to the hospital without mentioning her exploit although the story later got out. She also got a thrill out of riding some of the "bad" horses at the academy.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(C. McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Friday, June 29, 1928.

Astrologers read in to-day's horoscope contrary influences, but the benefic aspects are strong.

The early morning may be a time for small business perplexities and thwarting incidents that disturb the temper.

The wise will not seek audiences with persons who exercise authority over them. The sway tends toward irritability among those who dare to show their moods.

It is not a promising sway for those who look for employment. They should delay initiative, for they are not likely to be lucky.

Neptune to-day frowns upon many interests dear to dwellers on the planet Earth. The sign indicates widespread prevalence of graft and intrigue.

This is read as rather an unpropitious day for starting ocean voyages, for sudden storms appear to be indicated.

Money is to be given freely to civic enterprises, while this configuration prevails, the seers prophesy.

The signs to-day are favorable for those who solicit campaign funds.

It is a fortunate rule under which to transact important business with bankers and financiers.

Borrowing may be an easier matter to-day than usual, but warning is given by the seers that whatever is spent in speculation is likely to be lost under this direction of the stars.

Old-fashioned diseases now supposedly eliminated are likely to appear this summer. Nervous maladies also will spread.

It will be remembered that the seers prophesied for the new era many sudden deaths and the rapid disappearance of the heroes of the past in public life. These prophesies have come true, but the rule still continues.

Persons whose birthdate it is should not change their employment or place of residence this year.

Children born on this day may be more or less unlucky in childhood, but they should be carefully trained for life. The subjects of this sign usually have good brains.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Bessie" says: "You might, in your satire on valeting, have told us just where a man's slippers should be placed. So many of us wish to act the part of valet to that perfection which should be ours naturally by long practice."

Bessie, the shoes, according to this authority, should be just to the right of the right leg of a low chair, and touching it, with the shoehorn protruding from the right-foot shoe, and shoe trees immediately in rear. The slippers should be just to the right of the left leg of the chair, with the heel of the left shoe against the chair leg. Before you and other Peterborough wife-valets start laying out hubby's clothes, perhaps you had better give warning, so that the poor man will know what it's all about.

That Clothes Budget!

Dear Marion: There has been a question in my mind, as to whether or not I may put myself in a class with the thrifty.

Recently (and it was partly because of your articles on girls' clothes) I was well-reprimanted when I told that my expenses for clothes averaged $30 a month, excluding a fur coat purchased three years ago and a very nice spring coat I got last year. I do not believe I have more clothes than I need, nor do I go in for all the fads; I usually buy only good, serviceable garments.

My salary is $120 a month, and although I am staying at home, I pay board—not as much as those girls living away from home, but enough to make me feel the responsibility. And I never have missed a month.

My saving is about $20 a month; the balance is spent for music lessons and incidentals, out of which I did save $150 to go to Vancouver two years ago, and I now have almost that much for a trip to the States this year.

I thought I was doing very nicely, but after the little sermon I had given me, I began to wonder. You had quite a lot to do with bringing down this wrath upon my head, and now I want you to tell me your opinion of my case.

What do you think?

Spendthrift.

I think you do very well to put away $20 a month after paying for your nice trips. Out of your salary, the amount you spend for clothes does not seem extravagant. Of course—as shown in the Saturday articles—you could get along on much less, and if your parents needed help, or any other more pressing need arose, it might be necessary to alter your budget.

What do you other girls think?

"Miss M. B.," if you fuss and quarrel during courtship days the future does not look inviting. It will not always be so easy and pleasant to "make up."

WHERE IS HER BROTHER?

A lady and her companion conversed on Hunter Street. Down the street came a small girlie, about four years of age. She approached the pair with prim steps and spoke nicely to the lady, who stopped her and asked her for the health of her little brother.

"Oh, he is very well," answered the little girl. "He is at home to-day." She went on down the street.

"She doesn't possess a little brother of any sort," explained the lady, looking after her with a smile. "But she always speaks as if she had one. If you asked her that at home, she would say he was at school. He is always somewhere else, and he is always quite well."

"Did she have a little brother who died?" asked the companion, interestedly.

"No, she is the only child," answered the other woman.

Freudian psychologists might explain this. Does the little girl hanker so for a brother that she manufactures him out of thin air?

KING WEARS CROWN ON ALL OCCASIONS

African Potentate Has Two — Creates Sensation in London.

LONDON, June 28. — England's most picturesque visitor, Sir. Offri Atta, blue-black potentate of Akim Abuakwa, has arrived to receive from the King at Buckingham Palace, on Wednesday, the accolade of his new British knighthood.

Sir Offri, as he will be called in the British scheme of titles, rules over one of the largest of the African gold coast states. He is huge in size, good-natured, and speaks English fluently.

Between now and Wednesday life for King Offri Atta will be a continuous round of new sights, receptions, banquets and theatres. Over his ebony forehead he wears a gorgeous crown. He wore it as he picked his way down the gangway of the ship which brought him to England.

He wears it on the streets, in the lobby, in the park, and when he rides in a taxi to and from his official appointments. He wore it when he attended an evening theatrical performance the other night. He observed that it was the British custom to remove head covering in a theatre and and tuck it under the seat.

Off came the crown straightway and under King Offri Atta's chair.

He has one crown of beaten gold for week days, and a more elaborate heredity crown for Sundays and special days. The latter, much bigger and brighter, will be worn on Wednesday for the State visit to Buckingham Palace.

King Offri brought a retinue of servants, a native bodyguard, and small group officials. One is a deputy drinker, who helps his sovereign when the press of official drinking becomes too much for one man.

Another carries the soverign's war regalia, another bears aloft the royal blue and red umbrella.

TORONTO COMPANY JOINS U.S. FIRMS

Carpet Manufacturers Invading U. S. Field—Not Changing Hands.

With the announcement that the Barrymore Seamless Wilton Co. of Philadelphia, a subsidiary of the Toronto Carpet Company, has joined with three of the largest manufacturers of floor coverings in the United States to market its products through W. and J. Sloane and Company, New York, another stage in the invasion of the United States manufacturing field by a Canadian firm has been reached.

The Barrymore Company, pioneers in the weaving of seamless Wilton carpets, was incorporated in Pennsylvania in 1921. Since that time two plants, one in Philadelphia and another in Holesburg, employing over six hundred hands, have been opened.

Up until the present, this company has distributed its products through its own selling organization, with offices in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. It was recently approached by W. and J. Sloane and Co., of New York, who wished to obtain the sole selling rights of Barrymore products in conjunction with the goods of the Alexander Smith Company, manufacturers of Axminster carpets, the output of the C. H. Masland Company, manufacturers of tapestry rugs and carpets, and the output of W. J. Sloane and Company, makers of linoleum and felt base.

Negotiations were completed for the Sloane Company to take over the merchandising of the entire Barrymore output from November 1, 1928. None of the companies in the deal have changed hands in any way. They are all independent, but will work together.

The output of the Canadian Company will still be marketed through offices in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

It was not until the seamless Wilton carpet looms were perfected at the Toronto Carpet Company's plant that the American branch of the firm was opened. The looms, originally brought from Germany after the war, were improved by men here in Toronto, with the result that a machine was evolved capable of producing a product which filled a long-felt need.

The Toronto Carpet Company was founded by F. B. Hayes, who is still president of the company, in 1891. The story of its development, during the founder's liftime, is one of the romances of big business.

MISS ORCUTT IS ELIMINATED

Beatrice Cottlieb Plays Superb Game To Win From Star.

AT BUFFALO.

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 28.—(Canadian Press).—Playing a superb and steady game, Beatrice Gottlieb of New York, sprang the first surprise of the eight annual Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Buffalo Country Club yesterday when she eliminated Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., metropolitan champion.

One of three favored stars of the tourney, the New Jersey girl was erratic on fairways and greens, passing out of the competition under the steady onslaught of Miss Gottlieb, who won by one up.

Two other favorite, Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R.I., former national champion, and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, winner of last year's tournament, had better luck.

Slow at the start, but hitting her stride on the inward nine of the 18 hole match, the former champion defeated Mrs. P. J. Mulqueen of Toronto, 4 and 3. The Providence star was only one stroke over women's par for the last six holes of the struggle.

Miss Van Wie matched Miss Collett's play with a flashy score of 39 on the first nine, eliminating Miss Bernie Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 8 and 6.

Arsenic Production in Canada

A variety of arsenical ores are found throughout Canada. Ores and refinery residues from the Cobalt area which provide about four-fifths of the arsenic produced in Canada, are shipped to Deloro, Ontario, where the arsenic is recovered as a by-product and marketed, chiefly as white arsenic.

Seniors Win From League Leaders by 4-1 Count

PETES PLAY SMART BALL BEHIND HARDILL'S FINE PITCHING TO WIN FROM LEADERS IN BELLEVILLE

Jump Hoot Gibson in First Three Frames and Register Neat Victory.

THE COUNT IS 4-1.

First Defeat of Railroaders at Home Marked By Good Ball.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes snapped back into their real form at Belleville yesterday and playing clever ball behind fine pitching by Jeff Hardill handed the league leaders their second defeat in two days. The count was 4 to 1 and the victory was all the sweeter because it was at the expense of "Hoot" Gibson, the ace of the Belleville pitching staff who had been saved for the Petes.

Gibson was a little slow getting started and the ball game had slipped out of his grasp before he realized he had a battle before him. The Petes crowded six of their eight hits and all their runs into the first three frames and although Gibson held them to two safeties and no runs for the balance of the game this nice heaving was all running for Sweeney in view of the fact that the Railroaders could do nothing with Hardill's service when hits would have meant runs.

Thus, although Walter Gerow's men managed to register nine safeties, only one figured in the run-making department of the game. Hardill had plenty of speed and his curve was working prettily and he was on top of the batters all the way through, giving one of his most effective performances of the year. Going that way the big right-hander can make any team in the league say uncle.

Behind him the Petes played heads-up ball, their defensive work being decidedly effective. Twice Belleville runners were picked off bases and Swanston tossed out Ross on another occasion when the fleet centre-fielder tried to steal second. With Rose an absentee the versatile Hap Harrison played second base, and played it as if it were his life-time position. He handled six chances perfectly and had the Petes feature play of the day when he went into the air for a line drive from Blakely's bat and converted the circus catch into a double killing. Ash turned in a stellar card at first base and Batten and Holyman looked after the third base side of the diamond in good style.

Blakely contributed Belleville's most sensational piece of fielding when he leaped high in the air and pulled down a screaming liner with his gloved hand, cutting Holyman out of a sure-fire hit.

As has been said the Petes won the game in the first three frames. Gibson tightened up after that and pitched in masterly fashion, showing a great assortment of stuff but his performance was waste motion in the face of the Petes' early lead. Hardill's effectiveness and the snappy fielding of the ultimate winners.

It was the first start Gibson has lost this season and the first defeat of the year for Belleville at home. The result naturally surprised the Quinte fans but they were willing to admit the better team on the day's performance won and most of them wanted to know what the Petes were doing down in the second division.

Certainly their showing yesterday was smart enough to prove that there is no real reason why they should not be heading the parade.

A Good Start.

The Petes got away to a good start. Turner walked and dashed round to third when Jake Hall ripped a single past second. Hall was caught off first but while he was being run down Turner sprinted home. Ash drove a single past Scott. Harrison fanned. Swanston forced Ash at second.

Belleville wasted two hits. After Ross had grounded to Hardill, Weir singled down the third base line and Harry Mills singled through short. W. Mills hit to Batten, forcing Weir at third and Harrison tossed out Blakely.

The Petes got another in the second in the same way. Hardill blazed a single to centre and ran to third when Batten cut another one-baser past Weir's ear. Gibson's smooth motion caught Batten off first but once more a run scored, Hardill going home while Batten was being retired. Wilgar rolled to Blakely. Holyman was safe on Scott's error but Turner was out on a high bounder to the same player.

For the Railroaders Scott filed to J. Hall. Green got a life when Swanston lost the third strike and then hit the runner with the throw to first. Green stole second. Hagerman struck out and then Green was picked off second when Holyman stole over and took Hardill's throw.

Hap Harrison interjected the longest wallop of the day to send two more Peterborough counters home in the third. J. Hall was safe on Blakely's miss and Ash singled to right. Harrison drove a mammoth triple to deep right centre to score Hall and Ash. He was stranded himself, however, for Swanston rolled to Blakely and Hardill and Batten struck out.

Belleville got their only run in their half. Gibson struck out and Ross rolled to Hardill, but Weir walked, stole second and scored on Harry Mills' clean single to centre. W. Mills singled past third and Blakely beat out a slow roller to fill the bases but Hardill went to work on Scott and fanned the Belleville third baseman, getting out of the deepest hole of the day.

The fourth was short, Wilgar filed to Weir and Holyman and Turner struck out.

For the Gerowmen Green rolled to Holyman, Hagerman fanned and Gibson was thrown out by Harrison.

In the fifth Hall struck out, Ash fouled to Gibson and Harrison's line drive to deep centre was right in Ross's hands.

In Belleville's half Ross rolled to Harrison. Weir singled to centre but was picked off first, Hardill to Ash, and H. Mills fanned.

Swanston started the Petes' sixth with a roller to Weir, Hardill filed to Green and Batten struck out.

Belleville got a couple of useless hits. W. Mills popped to Ash and Blakely fanned, but Scott singled to right and Green through short. A. Weir, who had replaced Hagerman, struck out.

In the seventh Wilgar grounded to H. Mills, Blakely robbed Holyman of a hit with a sensational jumping catch, and Turner fanned.

Gibson was thrown out by Batten. Ross got a life on Hardill's high throw to first, but was out, Swanston to Harrison, when he tried to steal. Weir struck out.

Hall got the Petes' first hit since the third to start the eighth inning, dropping a safety into right. He was forced at second on Ash's rap to Gibson. Harrison struck out and Swanston filed to Ross in centre field. H. Mills rolled to Hardill. W. Mills' hard rap was knocked down by Batten, but the runner was called safe at first. He was doubled the next moment when Harrison went into the air for Blakely's line drive.

In the ninth Hardill got none of the breaks when he was called out on his rap to Gibson. Blakely tossed out Batten. Wilgar tripled over Green's head in right field. Holyman popped to Blakely.

Belleville's half was soon over. Scott was extinguished on a high fly which Holyman took with one hand in short left field. Green fanned and Flegler, batting for A. Weir, did the same thing, to end the game.

OUTLAWS WIN FROM CLERKS

Losers' Winning Streak Broken After Four Victories To Their Credit.

BY 13-5 SCORE.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28.—With four victories to their credit, the Clerks' winning streak was broken Tuesday night by the Outlaws when the latter took the honors with the score standing 13-5 at the end of nine innings. Blute's pitching for the Clerks was not up to its usual standard and Maybee seemed to be pitching a steadier game for the Outlaws. The Clerks led the field till the third inning when the Otulaws gathered in the two runs necessary to tie the score. At the end of the fifth the score remained a tie at four all. But from then on the Outlaws slowly added to their lead till the game ended with them being eight runs to the good. Sargison's home runs was the only run scored in the fifth and tied the score It won him the cheers of the fans an d their auto horns. Bernard Blute showed that he had a level head when he caught an infield fly and also got a put out by getting the ball on the runner between third and home and midway between the two. Runions pulled a fatal error when he hesitated with the ball in his hand when the bases were full. His error gave the Outlaws a run and left first base vacant for the batter. The Outlaw's victory lands them at the top of the League and leaves the Clerks in second place.

GIANTS TAKE 4TH STRAIGHT

Hammer Philadelphia For Twelve Hits To Win 11-8 Victory.

TWO HOMERS.

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Giants won their fourth straight game from the Phillies as the scene was shifted to the Polo Grounds yesterday. The score was 11 to 8. Four Philadelphia pitchers were touched for twelve hits, including home runs by Andy Cohen and Mel Ott. Schulte and Lerian hit for the circuit for the Phils. Lerian's homer came with two on in the eighth, and tied the score. The Phils later in the same inning took a one-run lead on singles by Southern and Hurst, but thr Giants won out in their own half with a smashing rally for four runs. Three passes, a fielder's choice, Sweetland's error and Jackson's single figured in the scoring. Benton pitched the last inning for the Giants, but credit for the victory went to Faulkner. Aldridge was knocked out in the eighth. Only one game scheduled.

YANKS INCREASE LEAGUE LEAD

Defeat Athletics 7-4 to Make Gain of Eleven Games.

SOX WIN DOUBLE.

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Yankees increased their lead to eleven games by defeating the Athletics, 7 to 4, at Philadelphia yesterday in the opening clash of a three game series. Young Henry Johnson again took the decision over the veteran, Robert Moses Grove, who was pounded for three runs in the first, and four more in the eighth. Ossie Orwell finished the game.

Johnson was steady, except in the fourth, when the Athletics bunched three of their five hits with the only two Yankees errors for three runs and a lead of 4 to 3, which lasted until the eighth. Grove pitched fine ball in between the two big Yankee rallies.

The Red Sox celebrated their return home by taking both games of a double-header from Washington, 4 to 1, and 11 to 4. In the first game the Senators made only four hits off Ruffing and in the second Ed. Morris held them to seven. Boston bombarded Burke and Lisenbee freely in the first contest and fell upon Zachary and Lisenbee with abandon in the second. Tait made five hits in five times at bat in the second contest, including a double and a triple. Flagstead fielded brilliantly in both games.

Only three games scheduled.

KINGSTON WINS FROM DELORO

BUNCHED HITS WIN.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 28. — A home run by "Bubs" Britton in the third inning featured the Central Ontario League game here last night, when Kingston won from Deloro, 12-7, and went into second place behind Belleville in the standing.

Deloro piled up a five-run lead in the second inning, hammering Smith to all corners of the lot. Shea of Deloro was hit hard throughout and was relieved in the eighth by Wood, who allowed one more run.

Kingston bunched their hits to win, and they fielded cleverly behind Young, who replaced Smith in the second. "Hec" Boudreau's long drive for three bases and Brown's double were the only extra base hits for the visitors. The box score:

COGS TAKE EASY VICTORY

Bethany Hurlers Hit Hard By City Crew For 16-3 Decision.

FIELDING POOR.

Bethany unexpectedly failed to deliver the goods at Exhibition Park last evening, and Cogs won an easy victory by 16 to 3. The win placed the Cogs within hailing distance of the Raybestos and another win to-morrow night will send them into a tie with the Brakeliners.

Rex Daw started for Bethany but he was shelled from the perch with only one down and five runs against him. Daw was wild and his support was not up to the mark. Russell, who had a hard tussle with Crescents on Monday night, finished the game and was hit hard in the third and sixth, Corbett coming through in the sixth with a double to right that sent three runners across.

Catcher Baker put in a bad time and had to be retired from the game in the fourth after a second injury to his throwing hand. Manager Davis finished the inning, and Delahaye did the backstopping from then on. Vanness started the game at first base where he did some fancy fielding, and relieved Billingsley on the mound in the fourth, the latter going to the bag, where he also performed well.

Both teams clouted the ball, and Cogs had to be good, to prevent the visitors breaking out. The infielding of the team was classy with Crary, Wilson and Corbett handling hard chances.

Four hits, including a double by Crary, an error, a pass and a dropped third strike gave Cogs five runs off Daw in the first, and an error and a throw to the plate off Wilson's grounder gave them another run with Russell pitching.

Billingsley's single, Philp's error, and Prest's infield out, brought a run in the second, and three more came in the third on Wilson's hit, Cripps' triple, Billingsley's hit and Crary's double. In the sixth, Vannest's scratch hit, a pass to Grose, Delahaye's single, another pass, Corbett's double, Cripps single and Billingsley's infield out accounted for six runs.

Bethany got one run in the second, on Ryley's single, after which he went down to second when Baker took a shoot on the fingers, Philps' fly to right and Wilson's error.

Two more came in the third on a single by Johnston, Ryley's choice, and Staples drive into left. After Vannest took the mound in the fourth Staples was the only visitor to get to first base. He tried to purloin second but slid over the bag and went out.

Montreal Players In Semi-Finals

MONTREAL, Que., June 28.—(Canadian Press)—Montreal and Toronto still have equal representation in the men's singles tennis championships of the province of Quebec which reached the semi-final stage yesterday. The four who will play in the semi-final matches to-day are Pat Burrows, West Hill, Montreal, Dr. J. A. Wright, McGill Montreal, Gilbert Nuons, Toronto, and Dr. A. W. Ham, Toronto. Burrows, the intermediate champion of the province reached the semi-final stage by defeating W Leroy Rennie, of Toronto, a former Dominion title-holder, 2-6, 7-5 6-1. Rennie was favored to defeat Burrows, who, after a poor start, steadied and had Rennie running all over the court in the last set.

The other three results were rather expected. Nunns disposed of Paul Deschenes, of Verdun 6-2 6-3; Wright beat Walter Martin, Toronto, 6-4, 7-5, and Ham scored a straight set win over Marcil Rainville, of Outremont, 6-4, 6-3.

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes next Central Ontario games will be on Dominion Day when they play Belleville here at 10 o'clock in the morning and then motor to Deloro for an afternoon battle with Bob Elliott's Smelter crew. The holiday morning fixture should attract the biggest crowd of the year in view of the old rivalry between the two clubs. Belleville will undoubtedly shoot Hoot Gibson back at the Petes in this fixture but the gang have taken his number once and are confident of being able to repeat.

Hap Harrison is the prize utility man of the Central loop. He has done practically everything for the Petes but catch. His work at second base yesterday was a treat and on top of his great fielding he tossed a triple into the game at the most opportune moment.

Vincent Rishea umpired behind the plate at Belleville yesterday and the youngster handled the game nicely.

Stan Hagerman started in left field for Belleville yesterday and struck out on his first two trips to the plate. So they took him out and substituted Alex Weir, who fanned on his only appearance. Flegler hit for Weir in the ninth and also fanned as Hardill registered a perfect score over the eighth man in Belleville's batting order.

Eight of Belleville's nine hits were useless except for fattening their batting averages. On the other hand five of the Petes eight safeties figured in the tally-making.

Although the Petes did not move out of the cellar as a result of yesterday's nice win at Belleville they materially improved their position and the race is all in a tangle.

The League standing:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Belleville	6	4	.600
Kingston	5	4	.556
Oshawa	4	4	.500
Deloro	3	4	.429
Peterborough	3	5	.375

Only two games separate Belleville at the top and the Petes in the cellar while the local gang are only a game and a half behind Kingston, a game behind Oshawa and a half a game behind Deloro. With two-thirds of the schedule yet to be played the Petes have every chance in the world to get up with the leaders. A win over Belleville here on Dominion Day morning would put them right in the hunt.

ROYALS LOSE TWO; NOW STAND FIFTH

Drop Below Orioles By Loss To Buffalo—League Leaders Idle.

BUFFALO, June 28.—The Buffalo Bisons defeated the Montreal Royals in both portions of a twin bill here yesterday by scores of 9 to 5 and 5 to 4.

The second game was replete with thrills and tense situations and went four innings extra over the seven-round time limit before Bill Kelley's long double with Barrett on first base decided the issue. The blow came with one out in the Bison's half of the eleventh. Howard Sinnor, youthful Bison flinger, won his third complete game victory in the opener.

When George Fisher hit the sixth home run of the game, five by Buffalo, to tie the score for Buffalo in their half of the seventh in the second game the blow marked the seventeenth round tripper whacked out since the clubs opened their series Monday.

Johnson Fails in Pinch

NEWARK, June 28.—With the tying run on second and the winning tally on first, Newark's manager, Walter Johnson, enacted an unsuccessful pinch hitting role here yesterday against the Baltimore Orioles. He lifted a fly which Porter by a great run managed to nab and the visitors won the hectic game, 10 to 9.

READING WINS TWO

READING, Pa., June 28.—Reading took both ends of a double-header from Jersey City yesterday, 6 to 3 and 8 to 3.

Socks Seibold won his eleventh game of the season in the opener, while Eddie Lautenschlager won the final.

HELEN WILLS WINS EASILY

U. S. Star Defends Title Against Champion of England at Wimbledon.

PLAYS STEADY GAME.

As the rain of Tuesday gave way to bright sunshine, Miss Wills called on all her skill and power to down Miss Kate A. Goldsack, hard court champion of England, by the decisive margin of 6—3, 6—1.

Girls of a dozen nations, stealing the play from the huskier males in the singles, disposed of easy opponents, drew a crowd of 15,000, jamming into the amphitheatre about the Wimbledon Centre court. To add to the feminine dominations, Amelia Earhart, who flew the Atlantic, perched in the stands and shared cheers with the athletes.

Aside from Miss Wills' victory, interest on the courts centred around the sterling performance of Helen Jacobs of California, who dropped only two games in defeating Joan Ridley, one of England's finest players. Only last week Miss Ridley won the Queen's club singles title. The scores were 6—0, 6—3.

Miss L. Bickerton stopped Mrs. Molla Mallory yesterday, the American veteran could not cope with the youth and speed of the English girl, losing 6—3, 4—6, 6—4.

Miss Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., defeated Miss Christabel Hardie of England, 6—4, 6—4, and Elizabeth Ryan, now living in England, eliminated Mrs. A. V. Bridge, 6—1, 6—4.

In the men's singles, Wilbur, "Junior" Coon, 16-year-old Kansas City boy, disposed of the Indian Davies Cup player, E. V. Robb, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3, and smiling John Hennessey of Indianapolis, beat Norman Latchford of England, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2.

Big Bill Tilden, American captain, performed only in the double, pairing with Francis T. Hunter to smother the youngster, E. B. Avory and C. S. Higgins, 6—3, 6—3, 6—0, while Hennessey and George Lott worked hard to defeat Danet and Gention, of France, 7—5, 7—5, 6—3.

Skeptical Wimbledon, only half believing the tales of Helen Wills' tremendous improvement in tennis skill and technique, marvelled yesterday as the western girl unclosed her stroke lightning upon Miss Goldstack. Helen was never really pressed after losing two of the first three games, but when she did apply full power to her drives, points automatically jumped to her side of the netting.

For just a brief moment in the opening set, the stands thought Miss Goldsack might be a match for the calm champion. The English girl took a lead of two to one in games, but thereafter Miss Goldsack's time was mostly spent in racing over the court after balls that Miss Wills placed with mechanical precision, within an inch or so of where she wanted them.

By dint of good court covering, a brilliant passing shot, and a drive that tipped the net cord, Miss Goldsack managed to take the third game of the second set. With scarcely any effort thereafter, however, Miss Wills quickly ran out the set and match.

The masterful manner in which Helen Jacobs disposed of Joan Ridley proved a surprise. Miss Jacobs' powerful service and fine overhead game left the English girl beaten and almost as surprised as the spectators.

Towards dusk the famous French doubles team of Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste eliminated weak opponents.

The struggle of Avory and Higgins, young Englishmen, against the Tilden and Hunter pair entertained the gallery. The youngsters drew applause when they scored rare points.

"Kill-the-Blues" Cope, Humorous Lecturer, Coming

Herbert Leon Cope to Speak at Redpath Tent.

The announcement that "Kill-the-Blues" Cope is to lecture here on the fourth night of the Dominion Redpath Chautauqua is good news for this community, for, as his sobriquet denotes, Mr. Cope is calculated to do to the death any case of "blues" which may cross his path.

The title of "Kill-the-Blues" attached itself to Herbert Leon Cope during the war, while as a lecturer-entertainer he was making an army laugh. More than a million soldiers and marines were brightened by his bubbling humor and good cheer. He was a bright spot in their camp life. He chased away the gloom—and the soldiers nicknamed him "Kill-the-Blues."

Mr. Cope is one of the best-known humorists on the lecture platform today. And not only a humorist, but a kindly philosopher as well. There is a sermon in his every sentence—yet no one suspects him of preaching. He simply reflects the sunshine of life and spreads his gospel of healthy laughter.

"There is one Cope and he is unclassified," says a prominent newspaper editor. "An attempt to analyze his melange of fun, fancy and fact would make a writer a fit subject for the sanitarium or asylum. He created more real mirth to the square inch than any man who has visited us in years."

Will appear in the Chautauqua Course of Entertainment which is in Peterborough July 13, 14, 16.

BENEFIT GAME BETWEEN PETES AND E. P. STARS

Central Leaguers Will Meet Intermediate Selects Saturday.

A REAL ARGUMENT.

And the Proceeds Go To Help Two Injured Players.

Saturday afternoon at James Stevenson Park local fans will have a chance to compare Central Ontario League ball with the East Peterborough article and at the same time help out two injured ball players.

The Petes will play a benefit game with an all-star team from the East Peterborough League in aid of Right Fielder Jack LeBarr of the Crescents and First Baseman Rook of the Cogs. Bill Kay and Charlie Curtis are picking the East Peterborough team which will be thoroughly representative with players from all the teams including Bethany. The line up will be announced to-morrow.

Angus Macdonald, son of G. A. Macdonald, Quaker Oats Company, who has been playing ball at school in Pennsylvania has joined the Petes. He is a left-handed pitcher and in all probability will get the assignment against the All-Stars on Saturday.

This game will give an opportunity to compare the two leagues and provide the fans with a real battle. At the same time it will be a boost for two good fellows who have been under heavy expense as a result of injuries.

It will be called at 3 o'clock and a real crowd is looked for.

Re-stocking Inland Fisheries

The total distribution in 1926 of fish and fish eggs from hatcheries operated by the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Canada, was nearly 722,000,000. In addition to the distributions that were made from the hatcheries twenty-five lakes received allotments of fry or older fish from other bodies of water. With one exception this work was confined to the western provinces where there are many districts that are not readily accessible to existing hatcheries. It involved the capture and transfer, in many instances for a considerable distance, 68,362 fish, comprising nine different species. Sixty black bass, for instance, some weighing as much as four pounds, were caught in Dog lake, in the Kenora district, and transferred to Fox lake near McDougall's Mills Station, northwestern Ontario.

ROYALS BEAT LOCKWORKS IN JUNIOR GAME

Lockworks Defence Fails and Support Crumbles in the Fourth to Allow Five Runs.

SCORE 8-2.

Murray Gets Away to Poor Start By Walking Four Men.

All Saints' Royals were the victors, eight runs to two, when they clashed with the Lock Works last night at James Stevenson Park in a Junior League game. The Lock Works, the new team in this year's Junior League, failed to have the vim and the pep that they had when they defeated the Kiwanis the night before nine runs to seven. It was a rather hard dose for the boys to make them play two nights in succession, but they took it with good grace.

The Lock Works scored their two runs in the second inning and the Royals crossed the plate thrice in the first and five times in the fourth. In the final three frames no runs were scored, although the Royals nearly tottered their opponents' defence in the fifth.

Both pitchers got able support and the fact that the Royals bunched their hits accounted for the eight runs scored. The losers failed to swing the willow and connected for only three singles.

Murray, the Lock Works pitcher, got away to a poor start when he walked four men in the first inning. Pitching from the mound bothered him and for a time he was unable to get the balls across the plate low enough. The same thing has happened to many senior pitchers when they first took the local James Stevenson Park mound.

The only double play of the game was pulled off in fine style when Cripps caught Stante at second and Hollingsworth got Barry at first. The Royals' defence faltered in the second and only for poor base running by the Lock Works more runs might have crossed the plate. Cripps was not sure of himself and was doing considerable worrying. The first man up had singled, an error at first allowed Whaley to get in, and Ashmore singled to score Barry. Jones struck out for the second down. O'Brien and Burke walked, but Ashmore faltered when coming home on a wild pitch and was tagged on the runway.

In the fourth the Royals went right after Murray. Cripps and Hollingsworth doubled, Newson walked and Holland, Hatton and Hartley singled, with the result that five runs crossed the plate. Jones in left field played two of the singles in this inning poorly.

The 100 yard race at the Canadian Olympic trials is beginning to shape up like a red letter event on the program. The West is starting to offer real competition and doping out the winners isn't the job it used to be. British Columbia is on its toes and is sending along the red hot threat, Percy Williams, the High School of Commerce lad, who has been making monkeys out of the century runners all along the coast.

He began smashing records in 1927, but up to that time he held the inter-high school athletic meet record of the 100 and 200 yards. On March 23rd, 1927, he galloped over the 100 yards in 10 seconds flat, under such difficulties as a grass track in a heavy downpour of rain. On the same afternoon he covered 220 yards in the speedy time of 22 2-5 seconds.

Again this year he ran the 100 yards on May 5th, at the Washington University relay carnival in the record time of 9 9-10 seconds, thus setting up a new record for the state to take pot shots at. Again this year, at an inter-high school meet, he clipped off 220 yards in 22 seconds flat, and some railbirds even had him down at 21 9-10.

In the longer distances Jack Walters has been picked by the Olympic chairman as one of the brightest entries in the 101,000 metre class. For the past four years he has been outstanding in his class and now looms up as a real threat to Dave Griffin, the flying reporter of Hamilton, for the 151,000 metre event.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call it "Joint-Ease" Because It's For Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury dispenses it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists everywhere.

GERMANS BACK IN OLYMPICS

Will Be Entered This Year For First Time Since War.

MANY ATHLETES.

In Amsterdam's Olympic Stadium this summer, for the first time in a long stretch of years, the deep-throated German "Hoch!" is going to be heard when rooters of a score and more of nations acclaim victorious countrymen. Germany is out to win—if not in this Ninth Olympics, then in the Tenth Olympics in Los Angeles in 1932.

Lawson Robertson, head coach of the United States Olympic Team, predicts in the July issue of Popular Science Monthly:

"I don't think the Germans will be strong enough to beat the great team that we will send to Amsterdam, but they will probably beat the Finns for second honors, and by 1932 they will be dangerous rivals even to Uncle Sam.

"Sometimes when I read what some high-browed gentleman has to say about American 'over emphasis' of sport, I have to smile. Compared to the preparation of Germany and some other European nations for this year's games, our preparation, thorough as it has been, seems almost casual.

"I went to see what the Germans were doing to develop their Olympic team. I hadn't been in the stadium in Leipsic—the great general head-quarters for German track and field sport—for two minutes when I realized the Germans were taking their athletics with characteristic national seriousness. While I waited to talk with Dr. Waitzer, the national sport instructor, I was courteously requested to stop smoking.

"'But,' I objected, just to hear what would be said, 'I'm not an athlete.'

"'That,' I was told, 'makes no difference. This stadium is devoted to physical development, and no one may smoke.'

"Almost 4,000 athletic clubs with a total membership of more than 300,000 athletes, Dr. Waitzer told me, are controlled by the Governmental Board for Light Athletics that is promoting track and field athletics throughout Germany. The country has been divided into seven districts, each of which has its chief sport instructor, who travels from town to town instructing club sport instructors. Every town has its cinder track; almost every city its stadium. Today German athletes are credited officially with three world's records, have broken two others, and have come within easy striking distance of three more.

"The finest athlete ever developed in Germany is Otto Peltzer, the blond six-foot Doctor of Philosophy who holds world's records at 500 and 800 meters and 880 yards, who has lowered the present official world's record for 1,500 meters, and who has won victories over the greatest middle distance runners, Paavo Nurmi of Finland, D. G. A. Lowe of Great Britain, and Edvin Wide of Sweden. If he can recover from his recent serious injury, the high spot of this year's cinder path competition will come when Dr. Peltzer measures strides with the field of marvelous runners in the final of the 800 meters event."

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

"The Girl from Chicago" is tense, glittering melodrama, the sort that keeps the audience at high tension from the first scene to the final fade-out. It recounts the adventures of a well-brought-up girl of the old south, who leaves her aged father and braves the dangers of a great city to save the life of her brother who has fallen into the hands of crooks and is sentenced to death.

Exciting and swift as mad horses is the action of the melodrama which whirls the girl, now known as "Molly, the Gal from Chi," from one danger to another, until at last she accomplishes the task she has come to do.

Myrna Loy gives the greatest performance of her career, because she has the first part worthy of her talents. Conrad Nagel, always forceful and pleasing, triumphs as the dapper detective who is supposed by Molly to be another of the crooks. William Russell gives a characteristically strong portrayal of Big Steeve of the tenderloin. Alderson is especially appealing as the Colonel of before-the-war gentility, pride and fierceness, and the direction has been done with great deftness.

There is a strong story to build on and the building is of the lasting sort. No lover of red-blooded, honest, thrilling melodrama should miss seeing Conrad Nigel and Myrna Loy in "The Girl From Chicago," now playing at the Regent.

AT THE CAPITOL.

BRIGHT, JAZZY, IRRESISTIBLY FUNNY DESCRIBES "FEEL MY PULSE" THE DELIGHTFUL COMEDY FEATURING BEBE DANIELS, WHICH WILL BE THE FEATURE ATTRACTION AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT.

When it comes to providing excellent motion picture entertainment and a steady series of laughs Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, has no equal among comediennes.

The dark eyed star of the screen again proved this last night at the opening of her latest farce, "Feel My Pulse," which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Funny situations, fast action and many thrills go together with Miss Daniels and this production is no exception. It is a combination of "Senorita," "Swim ,Girl, Swim" and "She's A Sheik," her recent successes, all rolled into one and, although the story is different it is refreshingly so and is real entertainment from the start right through to the finish.

Richard Arlen, who made such a tremendous success in "Wings" and who was seen with Miss Daniels in "She's A Sheik", again is her leading man, in this case a young novelist.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

--day Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JUNE BUG

Uncle Wiggily sat on a toadstool underneath a tree. The sun was shining warmly on the old gentleman rabbit's pink, twinkling nose. The wind was gently blowing the leaves. Everything was lovely.

All of a sudden, down in the grass where the stem of the toadstool grew in the earth, there was a rustling, buzzing sound and Uncle Wiggily, who had almost fallen asleep, sat up with a jump.

"Bless my ears!" exclaimed the old rabbit gentleman. "What's that?"

He saw where the grass was gently moving, as though something might be crawling through it and Uncle Wiggily got ready to jump and to hop and run his very fastest.

"For maybe the Wolf or Fox is coming after me," thought the bunny.

But when he looked again at the rustling, moving grass, he knew it could not be the Fox or Wolf creeping through it. For they were large animals and would have made the grass move much harder than it was doing. As it was, the grass just flickered a little.

"Who is there? Who is creeping up on me?" boldly asked Mr. Longears as he sat on the edge of the toadstool and lifted his paws up off the ground so they couldn't be tickled. "Quick! Tell me who you are or I'll whistle for the Police Dog!"

Out of the grass crawled a June Bug lady

Uncle Wiggily just said this for fun, for he didn't know where the Police Dog was just then, and he didn't know that the Police Do would come even if whistled for.

But a little buzzing voice answered and said:

"Please don't be angry with me. I am only crawling toward you through the grass to get you to help me, for I am in trouble."

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

Out of the grass crawled a June Bug Lady, who stopped at the bottom of the toadstool and, looking up at Uncle Wiggily, she buzzed:

"You have helped so many others I wish you would help me. You helped Baby Bunty find her lost hoop yesterday."

"Who told you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"The Trap Door Spider," was the answer. "She said she drew a puzzle picture of Bunty's lost hoop and you showed the little orphan rabbit where it was hidden at the left of a tree."

"Yes, I did that," said Uncle Wiggily, modest like and sanitary. But how may I have the pleasure of helping you?"

"Oh, Flicker, one of my little June Bug boys, is so lazy he will not try to fly," said Mrs. June Bug. "And we bugs must always fly in this world. I can't make Flicker Fly. I wish you would come to my house and see if you can cure him of being lazy."

"I'll try," said Uncle Wiggily, hopping off the toadstool. The June Bug Lady flew on ahead to her house and Mr. Longears followed. He saw Flicker crawling around but not flying.

"Come, Flicker, fly!" buzzed Mrs. June Bug. "Don't be lazy when Uncle Wiggily is here looking at you. Please fly, Flicker!"

"I can't fly!" buzzed the little bug. "I've tried but I can't."

"Perhaps there is something the matter with his wings," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll look." And when the bunny uncle looked, lo and behold Flicker's wings were all sticky with gum from the pine tree. "No wonder he couldn't fly!" said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" buzzed Mrs. June Bug. "Why didn't you tell me about it, Flicker?" The little June Bug boy said he guessed he forgot. And when the sticky gum was cleaned off his wings he flew fine.

"Oh, I feel as if I could do anything now!" buzzed Flicker.

"Well, see if you can do this puzzle," said Uncle Wiggily. So he drew a picture in the sand—a picture of a barrel, some birds flying and leaves blowing in the wind. "I made three mistakes in my picture, Flicker," said the bunny gentleman. "See if you are smart enough to find them."

And here is the puzzle for you. Look for the mistakes.

WELL WATER BEING TESTED

Laboratory Here Busy Analysing Samples Taken From Wells and Springs.

CAN BE PURIFIED.

That an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure is an ever-truthful slogan being adopted more and more by modern health authorities. It is evidenced by a well-organized and efficient system of clinics, laboratories and other modes of bettering the human race and is manned by a school of modern medical men of a school which thoroughly approves the idea of prevention rather than cure.

The Peterborough Branch laboratory is taking no little part in this work and during the past couple of weeks, as well as for the next month or so, it has been, and will be busy making tests of water from the surrounding district, together with the routine work. The increase in this phase of investigation is due to the fact that cottagers and in fact all people who use water from wells and springs are becoming educated to safeguarding themselves and their families against typhoid or other diseases in this manner.

Each day, anywhere from five to twenty-five samples of water are received at the Peterborough Branch Laboratory, where they are tested at no cost to the sender—indeed there is an obligation upon everyone to send in a sample where there is any single doubt of its purity. It is a pleasingly significant fact that so far this year, the number of tests revealing the presence of dangerous bacilli have been so few as to be considered negligible — if anything so serious could be. Sterile bottle for collecting of water samples may be obtained at the laboratory upon request.

The Analysis

On reaching the laboratory the water is tested and colon organisms are reported if present.

Colon bacilli are bacteria which normally inhabit the intestinal tract of both man and animal and are passed out in large numbers with the excreta. They, of themselves, do not prove that a water contains disease producing bacteria but serve rather as a warning that dangerous germs or bacteria, also of intestinal origin, such as typhoid, dysentery, etc., may be present. As colon bacilli always greatly outnumber disease germs in a water, is is usually impracticable to recover the latter by laboratory methods. Wherever disease germs of this nature are present colon bacilli always accompany them, and usually in large numbers, but colon bacilli may also occur when no disease germs are present.

Detection of colon bacilli in a sample of water is, consequently, a more practical procedure than isolating the disease germs themselves. The essential point is that the presence of these colon organisms in small quantities of the sample indicates that the water is potentially dangerous to health.

Detection of Colon Organisms

In the analysis an attempt is made to determine in what quantities of water these organisms are present. Various amounts of the sample from 50 cc's to 1-10cc. are planted in a suitable food broth. (1cc. corresponds to about ¼ teaspoonful). The tubes containing the quantities of the water sample and the food material are then kept to body temperature for forty-eight hours. At the end of this cultivation period, it is determined in what amounts of the water sample colon bacilli are present. It is evident that the smaller the quantity of water in which these organisms appear the heavier is the pollution.

A water sample which shows colon bacilli to be present in 1cc. or less is generally regarded as being heavily polluted. Samples from properly protected or treated supplies show no colon bacilli in any amounts up to and including 50 cc's.

Interpretation of Findings

No supply should be approved on the result of a single bacteriological examination. Contamination may be intermitten and unevenly distributed and consequently water samples frequently show wide variations in the degree of pollution. Sanitary engineers use two methods in particular to determine the quality of a water supply for drinking purposes. These are:

(1) A sanitary survey of the surroundings;

(2) Repeated bacteriological examinations.

In making a sanitary survey, it is important to ascertain the possibility of pollution of the water by human excreta, such as from an improperly constructed privy, seepage from a cesspool, or wastes thrown on the ground in the vicinity of the well, or carried by boots and other means to the well covering where it may be washed into the water through an improperly constructed top. The distance that dangerous pollution will travel to a water supply depends upon the nature of the soil and the rate and direction of flow of ground-water. Human pollution is the most dangerous kind, since germs of typhoid fever, paratyphoid fever and dysentery are confined to the discharges of man.

Unfortunately, at present, no laboratory test can be used to distinguish between colon bacilli of human origin and those of animal origin. Hence arises the necessity for a sanitary survey. Drainage from a stable may highly contaminate a spring or well, and the results of the analyses would then appear exactly the same as if the water were contaminated by the more dangerous human pollution.

When the samples have been fully analyzed, a report is made by the chemist, who indicates by letters, whether the examination has failed to show the presence of colon bacilli in all portions tested. The letter "A" indicates that the water is good quality.

"B"—Indicates fair quality; that is, there has not been sufficient pollution present at the time of sampling to regard the water as definitely unfit for drinking purposes.

"C"—means doubtful quality; in others words, there is bacteria of intestinal original present in amounts considered as reaching the limit of safety for a drinking water supply. Further samples should be sent in to ascertain whether the amount of pollution is or is not variable.

"D"—is indicative of unsatisfactory quality. There are bacteria of intestinal origin present in numbers usually considered as unsafe for a drinking water supply unless the water be previously treated by boiling, chlorinating or by other recognized methods.

Purification Method

There is a simple method of water purification which is regarded as being a most reliable and efficient one. A level teaspoonful of chloride of lime should be rubbed into a teacupful of water. This solution should be diluted with three cupfuls of water and a teaspoonful of the whole quantity added to each two-gallon pailful of drinking water. This will give four or five parts of free chlorine to a million parts of water, sufficient to destroy in ten minutes, all typhoid and colon bacilli or other dysentery-producing organisms in the water, all traces of the chlorine will rapidly disappear.

This method has been tested with Toronto Bay water, inoculated with millions of bacteria. Every germ has been destroyed and it has been unnecessary to boil the water. Not only will the above recipe be valuable to cottagers, but miners, prospectors, campers and soldiers will be wise to use it where the condition of waters being used may not be above suspicion.

W.O.W. CHANGES INSURANCE RULES

Assessments Will No Longer Be Levied—Dividends To Be Paid.

Fred Sutcliffe Deputy Consul of the Woodmen of the World represented Peterboro' council is in London at the 35th annual convention of the woodmen.

At the convention Clair Jarvis was again elected Head Consul Commander of the W.O.W. The officers for the year are Charles Hanna ex-M.P. for Belleville, head advisory lieutenant; J. H. Saunders of London, head banker; P. C. Hooper, of London, head clerk; D. Cinnamon of Lindsay, past head consul commander; Dr. J. L. Huffman of London, head physician; H. Durrant, of Toronto, head escort; John Manning of London, William Meen of Toronto and E. E. Hilpon of Strathroy as head managers; Jared Vining of London as head solicitor.

Twenty-five candidates of London and vicinity were initiated at the conference when there were over 300 present.

Legislative amendments that provide for the elimination of executive authority to levy additional assessments were enacted at the session during a consideration of the by-laws.

In addition to the amendment limiting the executive authority with regard to making assessments provision was also made to make the association a dividend paying concern and it was announced at the meeting that the order will distribute something like $100,000 to $150,000 among policy holders in Canada.

Dr. Frank Sanderson, of Toronto and the actuary of the organization, with H. J. Hitchins of Toronto were present and addressed the meeting. Both declared that the condition of the order and its actuarial solvency warranted a departure from the old regulations and a complete departure from the assessment system and approved heartily the declaring of a dividend.

The acturaries pointed out that by the change being made the organization would then be on a par with any of the competing insurance companies. A very bright outlook for the future financially was very pleasing to all.

"Dairy Products," the wholesome food, ice cream, milk, cream, butter and cheese.

Now, folks, just sit down, read over their respective advts and exercise your memory and think out the slogan you would like to have Mr. Free use on the different firms he has chosen to do business with and mail it to Mr. Free, care of Peterborough Examiner. He may use it and you will be $5.00 to the good.

SLOGAN FOR FRIDAY.

"Oh, there you are, Mr. Free from The Daily Examiner, presenting to us the news written interestingly and cleanly. I congratulate you upon your excellent judgment in using Super-Power and Peerless Gasoline in your Hudson Super-Six Seven Passenger Sedan for more power."

WATCH FOR THE SEDAN.

The best tip that Mr. Free can give you is to watch for the blue Hudson Sedan. Just as soon as you see the car, reach for the most recent copy of The Examiner and take it to the door with you. Take plenty of time while saying the words, for Mr. Free will not say anything in any way to interrupt you. That is where so many persons fall in the attempt. They feel too sure of themselves, try to say the words too fast and make a mistake.

Mr. Free was asked why he chose a Hudon Super-Six Sedan, and his answer was "Because of power-pep in Hudson Super-Six. Service counts, and all authorized Hudson Essex dealers give service."

Mr. Free will make twenty calls in Peterborough each day this week. Grab The Examiner and say the magic words of greeting to every person who rings your door bell or knocks at your door.

Mr. Free uses Super-Power and Peerless Gasoline, distributed by the British American Oil Co., Ltd., because it fires quickly and cleanly and their stations everywhere are ready to serve you.

MANY AMUSING INCIDENTS.

On Mr. Free's visits to Peterborough homes yesterday many amusing incidents occurred. One woman answered the door with the Examiner in her hand, working her mouth rapidly, but not making a sound. The sight of me standing there made her so nervous really I didn't know I was so frightening.

Another woman, who had been baking, came to the door, paper in hand, repeated the slogan correctly down to the last three words, when she smelled her pie burning, excused herself and ran to her baking. Another woman had the Daily Examiner ready on the table, but forgot to bring it to the door. She said the slogan correctly but her oversight cost her five dollars. One woman answered the door four times saying the slogan to four different men. When I arrived she opened the door but stood there without saying a word. Too bad!

Now folks, if you try to get Mr. Free's gold just as hard as he is going to try to keep it himself, no doubt you will get many five dollar gold pieces before his engagement comes to a close. You must say the slogan correctly, word for word, as given in this article. Smile and the world smiles with you. Forget that Daily Examiner and you get no five. Mr. Free will try to have something new for you each day. Watch The Examiner for full details. Watch for the Hudson Super-Six and don't forget the slogan.

RECENT ARRIVAL OF NEW LION CAUSES FRICTION THAT THRILLS BIG CROWD AT SPARKS CIRCUS

Daring Young Lady Has Battle of Wills With Vicious Beast.

FINE PERFORMANCE.

Acrobats, Clowns and Well-Drilled Animals Interest and Amuse Many Spectators.

Friction in the lion house was the factor that made the performances of Sparks' Circus here yesterday memorable and thrilling. Seven big, powerful Nubian lions were in the steel arena last night in a swift, tense struggle for mastery with their commander that made the crowd silently echo, at its conclusion, the utterance of the clown policemen outside; "I'm glad that's over."

Miss Ione Carl, a slight woman in a white suit, had the lions last night, and she had quite a few dangerous moments with the big unruly beasts. While the watching sextette of lions looked on, she struggled for several minutes with Nero, who nearly claimed the victory in a battle of wills. There are seven male lions in the group and they are nervous and excited over the advent of a newcommer, Sultan, a huge, kingly beast who has a cage all to himself. Prince, the old leader, is a "duck-footed" lion, as the circuits men describe him, and he and Sultan are having a struggle for leadership that leaves the other lions in a state of uncertain tension until the battle is over, if it ever is allowed to transpire. Just a short time ago, Buster, one of the group, bit the arm from the regular trainer, Captain John Guilfoyle, at Syracuse, N.Y. and Miss Carl is in charge of them.

The attendants were polite and attentive, and the circus performance was a very fine one, one of the most interesting seen here in some time, with three rings, but interest centered mainly on the chief attractions, the lesser performances being somewhat overshadowed by the central ring. Last night, over three thousand people were under the big white top, and appeared to enjoy every moment of a snappy show.

The opening was a review of the entire company of over a hundred men and women, with a procession of the fine examples of horseflesh which distinguish this circus, the camels, elephants and other animals in the menageries, the brilliant jazz band in Eastern costumes, and the clowns.

Beautiful Costumes

The costumes were particularly beautiful and artistic throughout the entire production. "The Wedding of L'Ora, the Jungle Queen" which was the highlight in the opening review, was gorgeously staged, the Queen, with a jewel-studded gown, enormous headdress and fan of ostrich feathers, reclining on a purple houdah borne by a huge elephant, whose trappings also gleamed with colored stones. Miss Alice Sohn, prima donna, assisted by Juanita Gray, mezzo sopranno, and George Sohn, baritone, were singers in this opening review.

Then came the various arena acts; the riding dogs and monkey, leopards going through their paces with more or less docility; a comedy stunt of high kicking by horses in a football game that sent large colored balls flying to the top of the tent; trained white dogs in a series of clever acts; big lumbering Polar bears drinking from milk bottles; the Mankichi Duo of Japanese tumblers and jugglers climbing steel poles and doing muscular feats of agility and skill; wonderfully-robed girls on the flying ladders in breath-taking aerial flights; a ladies' riding number on two bareback white horses with skins like gleaming satin, galloping around the sawdust arena, while a quartette of clever performers put them through a series of swift turns, and then the lions, in their thrilling demonstration of the mastery of will and courage over brute strength of a very high order.

Tigers Well Trained

After the lion act, the performance by ten powerful Royal Bengal tigers, clever and nimble as it was, seemed quite tame. But the big cats were wonderfully trained by their master, Franz Woska, and he put them through their paces in record time, keeping them on the move every minute, with every one of the big, orange cats alert at his signal. One big tiger, who yawned placidly at intervals, was in his place for different stunts before the trainer gave the word and seemed quite pleased with his own skill. They walked a plank and trundled a barrel and jumped through a hoop at the word of a foreign command.

Trained Georgia hogs were another group that seemed to derive a good deal of satisfaction from their performance. Doubtless aware that sliding down a tin incline might not be dignified, but was a good deal better than forming one of an abattoir party, the big black and brown porkers had a little show of their

Given Prison Term on Nine Charges

MONTREAL, Que., June 29 (Canadian Press). — George Juneau alias Dion, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary by Judge Lacroix yesterday on nine charges involving worthless cheques, burglaries and forgeries. Juneau concentrated his thieving efforts for the most part on women victims, several of them widows.

One of the charges for which Juneau was sentenced was that of having been admitted to the home of Mrs. J. Lacoste, a widow, aged 73, and stolen $500 in cash from her after representing himself as a prospective purchaser of her furniture. She had withdrawn the money from the bank on that day and had it in a purse in her bedroom. When she left him a moment to answer the telephone he took the money.

HELP WANTED IN MANY LINES

Varied List of Vacancies Shown On Employment Office Bulletin.

FORTY OUT OF WORK.

Many and varied are the types of workmen in demand, and equally as varied are the types of ability claimed by applicants at the Employment Bureau office, Charlotte Street. In the winter months the list of those seeking work is much larger than at the present time, when the number is in the neighborhood of forty. Even this may seem large, but consideration should be given the fact that many of that number are transients who have called and whose names remain on the list for at least two weeks.

There is a blackboard in the local office on which the various classes of help asked for are listed. A glance over it discloses that one employer seeks a wood carver; there is an opening for a stone mason; several acetylene welders may obtain employment. Besides these, another party seeks a millwright: a setter for a steam set saw mill is sought; plush weavers, a pastry maker (male), a dye maker, a teamster, and a hard candy maker have all been asked for.

The usual demand for farm help is far from satisfied as yet, and as a result, farmers are coming to the office every day seeking for help during the summer months.

Small Boy Crushed to Death by Pole

QUEBEC, Que., June 29 (Canadian Press).—Ovila Godin, six-year-old son of Joseph Godin, was crushed to death here when an ornamental pole, broken by an automobile, fell across the sidewalk.

The automobile, driven by a woman, was proceeding up Charveau Avenue hill in the midst of an electrical storm, when it became necessary to change gears. Apparently the car was put in reverse in error, and started down the hill, eventually crashing into the ornamental pole.

Ovila Godin and his sister, Leda Godin, were on the sidewalk. The butt of the broken pole struck the boy and death was instantaneous.

J. W. DEVALL GOES ON TRIAL NEXT ASSIZES

Is Allowed Out On $5,000 Bail Until Court Sits in October.

CAR KILLED CHILD.

Case Arising Out of Fatality May 24 Finally Passes Preliminary Stages.

Wesley Devall, taxi driver was this morning bailed for trial on a charge of manslaughter at the fall sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario which commence before the Honorable Mr. Justice in the court house on Monday, October 8th.

Devall was driving his automobile on the evening of the 24th of May last and in backing away from the residence of Harry Johnston in the township of North Monaghan he knocked down and ran over little Graeme McMillan, who later that evening died from the injuries received.

The Coroner's jury completely exonerated Devall, finding the death accidental but the Crown was not bound to the verdict of the jury and went on with its preliminary hearing. Devall was arrested early on May 25th and that morning he was arraigned on the charge of manslaughter and the preliminary hearing was set for the following Monday. Then followed a series of adjournments and the case was not heard until the middle of June after which His Worship Magistrate Langley reserved judgement until this morning.

In the meantime Sandfield McManus, who was with Devall on the night of the accident, was convicted in police court for being intoxicated that evening in a public place and Harry Johnston was convicted of selling liquor. In the evidence at both the inquest and the preliminary hearing it has been alleged that Devall that night did not drink any of the beer although one of the witnesses saw him put a glass to his mouth and later set it on the stove.

His Worship this morning in sending Devall up for trial said, "I have considered the evidence which was given at the preliminary hearing very fully. It appears to me that there was some evidence of negligence and hence I think it is up to a jury to say whether it was criminal or not. According to McManus, Devall walked around the back of the car before he started but there is no evidence to show he looked towards the rear when he was backing up. The evidence also does not say whether he saw any children playing around the car but possibly the inference is that he did not. In conclusion, I think it is for a jury to say that walking around the back of the car and then, getting in, stepping on the starter, turning on the lights, and backing up is taking necessary precaution. I propose to bail the accused for trial at the next sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario. I do not think there is enough evidence to warrant committing the accused for trial hence I will grant bail that will be satisfactory to the Crown Attorney and myself."

Bail was fixed at $5,000 with F. R. J. McPherson and Philip Revoy the bondsmen. V. J. McElderry, K.C., is acting for the accused.

Youth Killed when Ottawa City and District Swept by Violent Storm

OTTAWA, Ont., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—The season's most violent eletcrical storm, accompanied by torrents of rain and considerable hail, centered on the capital and district yesterday afternoon, taking a toll of one life and causing some property damage.

The victim of the storm was Lucien Lalonde, aged 17 years, who was struck down by lightning while walking along a street to his home in the adjacent city of Hull, Que., Another boy who was accompanying the ill-fatted youth, was unscathed by the brilliant flash which brought instant death to Lalonde.

A number of places in this city were hit by the almost incessant string of lightning and the fire brigade were kept on the run as alarm after alarm came in. One was when a transformer burned out on Bank street near McLaren. Another call for the same cause came from the corner of Bank and and Queen. A portion of the spire of St. George's Anglican church on Metcalfe street was knocked off. A third transformer in the New Edinburgh section of the city also blazed up and was responsible for another alarm being sent in.

The two electric companies had a great deal of trouble with lightning striking so many of their wires and many places of business were in darkness for a time. The rain flooded a number of cellars and two of the principal subways leading south from the city was so submerged that they became impassible to vehicular traffic. As the storm cleared however the situation soon righted itself.

In the outlying sections of the countryside standing grain crops were damaged by the heavy rainfall. A number of streets were flooded.

Mr. Free was caught yesterday by Miss F. Jobe, 576 Aylmer Street, a lady spending her vacation in Peterborough, greeted Mr. Free with the winning smile, and received the reward of an order on the Royal Bank of Canada for a five dollar gold piece.

Many other readers of The Examiner were losers of five dollar gold pieces in their excitement and haste in greeting Mr. Free.

Interest taken in Mr. Free and his gold pieces and gifts of various kinds is increasing, and one salesman for the Brewer Motor Sales, a married man, came down to the shop this morning with a strange tale, of awakening in the middle of the night and hearing a weird chant which filled the quietness of the room and made the cold chills run up and down his spinal column, as a horrible feeling of spooks and other unearthly things filled his mind, the cobwebs cleared and he perceived his wife standing in the middle of the room, holding a copy of the Evening Examiner in her hand and memorizing the slogan which would bring her the $5.00 gold piece. "What the ——," said her hubby. "Oh, go to sleep," said wife. "What are you doing anyway." "Mind your own business," and so on, far into the night.

Report is Denied Flight Called Off

NEW YORK, June 29—Through her secretary, Mrs. James A. Stillman, financial backer of the projected transatlantic flight of Miss Thea Rasche, yesterday afternoon denied reports from Cap de la Madelaine, Que., that the flight had been called off.

The secretary said Miss Rasche is returning to New York to-day to sign some papers in connection with the injunction recently obtained by girl pilot's previous backers restraining her from using a plane which Mrs. Stillman had bought for her. Miss Rasche will return to Cap de la Madelaine in a day or two to resume plans for flight, the secretary said.

Complete Balustrade Without Inscription

LOUVAIN, Belgium, June 29.—Herbert Hoover, who is still director of Belgium Relief, sent a cable message to Monsignor Ledeuze of Louvain Library, granting full jurisdiction to the university over what inscription is to be placed on the memorial.

The rector has been engaged in a heated controversy with Whitney Warren, the American architect, who has insisted on the inscription used in the original plans, including the words, destroyed by German fury.

In accordance with his desire that the inscription should be omitted from the library, which will be dedicated July 4th, Monsignor Ladeuze is having the dedicatory balustrade completed without the inscription.

PREPARE PARK FOR MEMORIAL

Aldermen Order New Sidewalk Put in to Replace Unsightly Foot Path.

FLAG POLE ON ORDER.

In keeping with the fine monument to be erected in Confederation Square this summer, the City Council, through its Parks Committee, will improve the park. Much work has been done already, such as the removal of a number of unsightly stumps and the regrading of the Murray street corner, but more is planned.

Possibly the greatest improvement of all will be the building of a new sidewalk. This will cross the square diagonally from the corner of George and McDonnel streets, to Murray street, following the present unsightly footpath, worn by the feet of hundreds of persons in past years. Corresponding with the walk at present laid from George and Murray streets to McDonnel, the new walk will add to the appearance of the park, increasing its symmetrical appearance, already given by the rows of trees.

The beautiful war memorial will be immediately behind the intersection of the two walks, where it will be easily seen both by motorists and pedestrians.

Another change contemplated by the council has to do with the Brown Memorial, commemorating Peterborough's war dead of 1885. This monument is becoming defaced by children climbing over it while using the drinking fountain embodied in it. The council is having the monument removed to another site in the park, and will have a low drinking fountain of more modern type installed where the memorial now stands. The memorial will be cleaned up and restored.

The third project in connection with the park is the erection of a flagpole. A steel pole will be erected near the War Memorial, and will be, to use Mayor Denne's words, "The highest we can get." A flag can be flown here on holidays and war anniversaries, and a big one, in keeping with the pole, is being ordered.

More than 65 per cent of the passengers who cross the Atlantic to see Europe are women, many of them elderly. Seventy per cent of the passengers on cruises are married couples.

Don't for tourists should include—Don't ask to see Raphael's Sistine Madonna in the Sistine Chapel at Rome; don't look in Germany for Carlsbad; don't expect to see the Pope if you are wearing a low evening gown.

TRENT CANAL TO BE FEEDER

Small Canals Should Be Adjunct To St. Lawrence, Says Speaker.

AT KIWANIS CLUB.

Kiwanians of Peterborough to-day listened to an address carefully prepared and equally as well delivered by Professor Goforth ,of the Department of Economics of McGill University, a recognized authority on his subject, "The Economic Relation of the Trent Waterways to the St. Lawrence River Development Project." Introduced by President Joe John, Professor Goforth proceeded to deliver his address in two divisions — the first dealing particularly with the Trent Waterways, and the second treating of the national and economic phases of the proposed St. Lawrence development. The former part appears below, while the latter section will appear in a later issue.

Relations of the Two.

"It is rarely that any student of Canadian water transport has attempted to analyze the relationship between the various feeding and secondary connective canals of the Great Lakes St. Lawrence Valley with the main water route,' said Professor Goforth. "On the other hand, there is in my estimation no doubt that these canals, of which your Trent Waterway system is one, will be very materially affected by any improvement or change in the main artery of the system.

"While your Trent Waterway is by no means a new factor in the transportation life of Canada, having been started in 1833, and having been progressively improved in a series of stages not yet completed, yet there has been a tendency to ignore it in a discussion of the many transportation problems of Canada. The fact that it shortens the distance between Ford William and Kingston by nearly 200 miles, that it cuts off 110 miles along with the Oswego Canal, as compared with the normal barge route to New York from upper lake points, is very seldom referred to outside of cities like your own.

"There is the further significant feature about the Trent system, namely, that over a period of seven or eight years it has shown a larger passenger traffic than any other canal in the Dominion. In 1921, the peak year of passenger traffic on the Trent Canal, over 100,000 people were carried—largely attracted by the exceptional scenic beauty of the system. This exceeds by 45,000 the total carried on an other canal in the Dominion during that year. These facts in my estimation would alone force critics who have claimed that the Trent system is of no economic importance to Canada to reverse their opinion. Added to this are the very valuable potentialities in hydro-electric power developments which the Trent Waterway provides—an asset which will very shortly be urgently required owing to the full development of all available power permitted by Treaty on the Niagara River. To this extent the factor of electrical wealth on our Trent Canal must be viewed under exactly similar conditions, as I will indicate later when touching upon the St. Lawrence projects.

"While from a strictly freight viewpoint, the Trent system must be regarded as substantially a barge proposition, and as such would always tap a rather different field from that of the heavy steamboat traffic of the main St. Lawrence Waterway, yet, in my estimation, this same barge traffic, judging by the experience of analogous conditions in England and elsewhere, would be materially augmented if it may be shown on the one hand, the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway can be shown to enjoy a considerably increased traffic over the present, and on the other it can be demonstrated that the Canadian power resources on the St. Lawrence, as well as on your system, would when fully developed cause an aporeciable industrial and population expansion in the Central Provinces.

"It must be remembered, when considering the depression of the English canals after the establishment of the railway, that this was merely a temporary condition, and that the greatly increased traffic which the railways made possible brought incidental increases to the canals which fed them.

"While I do not consider that the Trent Waterway system will ever stand in the position of a serious competitor for the steamship traffic of the main waterway, in other words, its advantages in distance can never in the larger field overcome its disadvantages in limited depth (6 feet) and in long restricted stretches of canal prism (including 45 locks) yet it should serve a valuable purpose in the freight handling of this part of the Dominion as a feeder of considerable importance to the main system and its traffic should grow in proportion to the expansion of population and industry.

"It is for the reasons I have just mentioned that you who dwell along the Trent system and are naturally interested in its possibilities, both present and future, must necessarily be likewise interested in the potentialities of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway."

The meeting to-day, held, as usual

HOUSTON, Tex., June 29.—(Canadian Press.)—In a manner almost twin to the uproarious enthusiasm with which it had nominated Governor Smith, but a few hours before, the Democratic National Convention to-day potsily made Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, his running mate.

When the name of the Arkansas Senator was presented for the Vice-Presidency a five minute demonstration saw the standards of more than a score of States, many of them with imposing blocs of votes to bestow, fall into the line of the parade. His supporters jubilantly pushed on to his nomination at the same session and the final adjournment.

Steamer Abandoned as Loss by Company

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 29 (Canadian Press).—The British steamer Plas Dinam which stranded at Freshwater near Trepassey Bay last week, has been abandoned as a total loss, according to Captain Deese, who arrived here yesterday with the vessel's crew to await sailing of the Furness liner Nova Scotia on which they will return to England. Captain Deese said he was proceeding in a dense fog when the current drove the steamer off her course. The Plas Dinam was moving at half speed when breakers were sighted under her bow. The engines were reversed, but it was too late. The vessel slipped over the reef and settled on jagged rocks near the shore, remaining hard and fast and taking water.

Prohibition Plank Confined to Pledge to Enforce 18th Amendment.

AID TO AGRICULTURE.

Strong Declaration Made Against Entangling Foreign Alliances.

SAM HOUSTON HALL, Houston, Texas, June 29. — Governor Alfred E. Smith was nominated for the Presidency on the first ballot of the Democratic convention early this morning, when Ohio, which had first given but one vote to Smith and 67 for Atlee Pomerene, switched and gave Smith 45 votes, giving the New York executive a total of 849 3-3, only 733 1-3 being required.

Then the band-wagon got into gear and everybody tried to get on board. The big evening was over except for the adding machines.

The new party standard-bearer goes before the country on a platform reaffirming the traditional principles of Democracy, promising "prime and immediate" attention to farm relief and pledging "the party and its nominees to an honest effort to enforce the eighteenth amendment, and all other provisions of the Federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

These two planks, the most troublesome in the platform, were drafted after long debate in committee, and were accepted finally without protest by the principal disputants on both sides.

The prohibition declaration was pronounced satisfactory by the official leaders of the national dry organizations.

The convention will meet again tomorrow, at a final session, to select a nominee for the Vice-Presidency. The general expectation of the party leaders is that this nomination will go to Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas.

While Senator Kay Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, was reading amid applause the party's creed for the 1928 campaign embracing a pledge of enforcement of the eighteenth as well as other constitutional amendments, Governor Moody, of Texas, decided merely to file a statement of his position and make no fight on the dry issue.

Moody has led the ultra-drys in the pre-convention battles.

The platform of 400,000 words was described by Pittman as having been reached through the co-operation of all the members of the committee, to whom he gave high praise. The farm plank attacked the Republican failure to act and pledged the Democrats to enact such legislation as might be necessary for the control and orderly handling of surplus, and outlined agricultural credit, farm marketing, and other measures to that end.

Platform Endorsed

A pledge for an honest enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, a wideopen door for enactment of legislation to aid agriculture, and a scathing attack upon "Republican corruption" constitute the major points in Democracy's 1928 platform declaration, in dominant national issues approved to-night by the contention in Sam Houston Hall.

Throughout the four-thousand-word pronouncement— the shortest national political platform of recent years —the republican party is assailed, with especial attention given to its treatment of agriculture, its foreign policy with especial reference to dealings with Latin-America, its failure to enforce prohibition.

No mention is made in the platform of either the League of Nations or the World Court, but there is a strong declaration against entangling political alliances with foreign nations.

The tariff pronouncement also came in for especial attention by party leaders since it asserted that the "actual difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, with adequate safeguard for the wage of the American laborer, must be the extreme measure of every tariff rate."

For Law Enforcement

The law enforcement plank of the Democrats consists of only ten lines, saying at the outset that the Republican party, after eight years of control of the Government, presented "the remarkable spectacle" of feeling compelled to apologize to the country for its failure to enforce the dry laws. Then it adds:—

"Speaking for the National Democracy, this convention pledges the party and its nominee to an honest effort to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

Summary of Platform

The highlights of the Democratic declaration, aside from prohibition are: Agriculture—Credit aid to co-operative marketing organizations; Creating of a federal farm board to assist the farmer in the marketing of products.

Enactment of a measure designed to maintain legitimate business and a high standard for American labor with duties that will permit effective competition, insure against monopoly and free the tariff commis-

NO CHANGES AT SCHOOLS

Campbellford Board Retains Same Staffs—Water Supply Discussed.

GRANT TO BE PAID.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29—There will be the same staff at each of the schools when they reopen in September as when they closed for the Summer vacation. At the board meeting last night there was no resignations tendered and, apparently none asked. Thus it is natural to deduce that satisfaction is mutual on the part of the teachers and the board. There will be two changes in the equipment of the schools, however. The water supply in the high school will be changed and there will be a piano added to the equipment of the kindergarten-primary group. The well, which was selected at the last meeting of the board as a source of supply for the drinking water, has been found unsuitable on two counts, the well in question had been cleaned

Trustee Birmingham reported that and a sample of the water sent away for analysis. The report had not been satisfactory but he would leave this explanation to the chairman, Dr. Richardson. The committee had looked over a spring water proposition and had decided that the water could be brought to the school via Booth street. This would eliminate the necessity of crossing several lots which were privately owned.

Dr. Richardson explained that the water had been analyzed and pronounced third grade. This meant that it was doubtful if it were advisable to use it for drinking purposes. There were only four grades, he said, and the fourth was termed "bad." He recommended that the water from the spring be sent to Toronto for analysis before any definite steps were taken toward using it.

During the discussion that followed it developed that it would be necessary to pipe the water more than eight hundred feet across private property and that the Booth street installation would require only about seventy-five feet more. The matter was left to the property committee to investigate and install.

Dr. Richardson spoke for a few minutes on the county grant that has been so much in evidence at the last session of the Counties Council. Cobourg had pressed the claim and the result was that all the schools had been paid. Later, Trustee O'Sullivan said that he was in Cobourg during the discussion at the June council session. An attempt had been made to secure the attendance of as many of the members who had been present when the gentleman's agreement was supposed to have been made. All the schools were represented at the last meeting with the exception of Brighton. The majority of the schools were agreeable to stand by the gentleman's agreement if such had been made and were content to forego the grant. But Cobourg pressed their claim and even had a writ issued against the counties council which would be brought into court in the event of the grant not being paid. The final result was that the grant was paid and Campbellford High school get $1,381. Cobourg will get approximately twice that amount.

Dr. Richardson then explained the township grant which remained unpaid for several years. The money had to do with the erection of the new high school and was in the hands of the town council. It was not a matter for the school trustees.

A letter from Miss McGirr, read by the secretary, asked that a piano be purchased for the use of the kindergarten-primary grade. She felt the need of this instrument in the work, she said, and felt also that the children who had passed out of her room this term had missed something that might be of real value to them in later life. Her request was not for a new piano but a good one with good tone. After some discussion it was left with the property committee to purchase a piano.

There being no further business to transact, the accounts were read and passed and the board adjourned at 8.50 p.m.

GARDEN PARTY AT CAMPBELLFORD

Annual Summer Social Gathering at St. John's is Great Success.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29.—There were almost one thousand paid admissions to St. John's garden party, held on the church lawn and in the Sunday school rooms Wednesday night. A shower of rain about four o'clock in the afternoon served as a reminder of the disastrous results the weather had on a former event of the same kind, but the evening turned out ideally and crowds thronged the grounds all evening. The Northumberland regimental band furnished music which added greatly to the attractions of the evening.

Although the lawn was gaily decorated with booths selling candy, needle work, hot dogs and cold refreshments, the most popular attraction seemed to be the family album. During the entire evening there was a line-up waiting for admission. After a suitable introduction by Mrs. G. A. Kingston, the characters appeared just as they do in some of the old fashioned family albums, now a thing of the past in many homes. Another novelty feature was the orange tree laden with fruit. Before the evening was far advanced, the tree was quite barren. All the booths did capacity business and the affair was a complete success from every angle. The Reverend Ernest Harston, who had made his formal farewell on Sunday last, motored from Oshawa to attend the party. He was greatly pleased with its success.

FARM CROPS IN GOOD SHAPE

Good Prospects For Crops in the Bailieboro District.

FALL WHEAT LIGHT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, June 29. — This summer the crops in South Monaghan promise to be wonderfully good. The recent rains arrived just in time to leave their mark upon the crops, which were beginning to burn with the drought. Fall wheat is going to be the lightest crop this season, while the hay and alsike look very promising at present. Spring grains have not been as promising in many years as they are now. The farmers are now preparing for haying. W. Byers has already got a large field of sweet clover hay cut, and in coil, and next week haying will most likely be general if the weather clears.

Strawberries are beginning to ripen in the early patches. In another week they will be at their best in this locality.

W. D. Hibbard, who operates a large boat livery at Rice Lake, had some time ago all his boats rented for July 1. He could not secure nearly enough boats to meet the demands of the patrons.

The tourists have not commenced to arrive as yet in great numbers, but it is expected that there will be an increase in traffic after the fishing season opens.

Personals.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hugh Brown Honored By Women's Auxiliary Society.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 29. — A pleasing feature of the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St John's Church held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. M. Williams, was the presentation of a comfort set to Mrs. (Rev.) Hugh Brown. The members felt that they could not let the occasion of her marriage pass without expressing in some way their esteem and appreciation of the services she has rendered as Dorcas secretary of the society, and also their good wishes for future happiness. An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Jesse Weymark, the presentation being made by Mrs R. Sanderson.

Mrs. Brown, although taken by surprise, replied, thanking her coworkers for the gift and the kind wishes which accompanied it.

After the business session, which concluded the meetings for the holiday season, a social hour was spent and a dainty tea served by the hostess.

HEAVY TRUCK GOES THROUGH CULVERT

Peterborough-Toronto Transport Meets Mishap South of Codrington.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WELCOME, June 29. — On Thursday night, at Codrington, an event occurred which might have had more serious effects. Throughout the day men had been putting in a new culvert south of Codrington. Early in the evening a Peterborough-Toronto Transport truck came up from Campbellford. On being advised by the workers that he could safely cross over, the driver attempted to cross. But as the truck was so heavy, the rear wheels sank down through the gravel of the unfinished culvert, and stopped further progress of the truck, which remained stationary at a precarious angle. One wheel had slid off the road and down into the bank. However, no one was hurt, and the accident was not serious.

CHURCH MEMBERS HONOR PASTOR

Rev. W. W. Jones Presented With Purse of Gold at Warkworth.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, June 29.—A large number of members and friends of St. Paul's United Church met Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room of the church to bid farewell to Rev. W. W. Jones and Mrs. Jones on the eve of their departure for Millbrook. After singing Hymn 13 in the Sunday School Hymnal and all joining in the Lord's Prayer, short addresses were given by P. S. Ewing, B. Buchanan, and K. B. Booth, each in their usual good manner expressing their appreciation of Mr. Jones as pastor and a citizen and especially for his great kindness and sympathy to the sick and afflicted, and they that mourn.

Many quotations were given beside the following:

"Did you give him a lift; he's a brother of man
Bearing about all the trouble he can?
Did you give him a smile; he was downcast and blue?
And a smile would have helped him to battle it through.
Do you know it's the part of a brother of man
To find where the grief is, and help when you can?
Did you reach out a hand? Did you show him the road?
Or did you just let him go by with his load?"

As a slight expression of esteem and best wishes, George H. Bensley presented Mr. Jones with a purse of gold.

Mr. Jones replied in his usual efficient manner.

Miss Jessie Bull of Ontario Hospital, Cobourg, is spending a couple of weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bull, Sr.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Suffers From Indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

Zion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 27.—Despite the inclemency of the weather, a goodly number patronized the lawn social held at Zion church, North Marmora, on Monday evening. Under the shelter of the shed, a program was carried out towards which Rev. A. J. Beckley and Messrs. J. F. Baker and W. A. Sanderson contributed vocal numbers. The booth did a fair business so that the promoters were not altogether dampened in spirits over the affair not being the great success fine weather would have made possible.

WEDDING BELLS

LAVENDER—HENDERSON

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, June 29.—In the same church in which her parents were the first couple to be united in holy matrimony, namely St. Margaret's Glanmire, Hazel Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson on Wednesday morning became the bride of William David son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lavender of Wellington. The wedding was unique in another respect, the bride's parents discharging the duties of bridesmaid and best man. The officiating minister was the Rev. Grant Sparling incumbent of Bannockburn. The bride who was given away by her father, looked dainty in a costume of poudre blue georgette with silver trimming and mohair hat to match. Mrs. Henderson wore a becoming dress of Canton crepe. There was a large congregation for the ceremony for which the church was most beautifully decorated. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Upon return from their wedding trip the happy couple will reside in Glanmire.

own on the side, while performing seals went through a series of clever and well-trained stunts across the way.

Elephants Entertaining

The elephant show was another very entertaining exhibition of masterful training of these huge beasts that can move so quickly for all their clumsy weight. Their performance was very fine and included a number of thrilling stunts by the girls who worked them.

As a finale to a clever show, the big animals lined up on the Hippodrome track and saluted the audience with all the dignity and cheerfulness which go with a well-trained herd of these big pachyderms.

The Alexander Troupe of acrobats gave a splendid display of skill, featuring a triple somersault from a springboard to a chair, held aloft on the shoulders of a member of the group and Japanese foot jugglers gave an entertaining exhibition.

A slackwire act that was quite outstanding was that of Miacahua, the Brazillian Wonder Girl, a charming little lady of wonderful pose, balance and muscle control who did a lot of interesting things with a wire rope, using no pole or parasol or other device to retain her balance. She walked and danced and sat and got up again and waved wildly on the moving rope, in a wonderful exhibition of wire-walking that brought her much applause.

Twenty-six beautifully groomed horses gave a demonstration of rotation work in the three rings, finding their places without a word of command. They were marvellous examples of fine horseflesh, splendidly trained.

Feats of dental dexerity, as they were called, were the stunts by Aerial butterflies of the circus, wearing gleaming satin gowns and flying through the air, suspended from overhead rings by their teeth.

Clever Horses

The Sparks' High School horse show featured some exceptionally fine riding by a group of trimly habited girls and one man, Burt Mao, riding the beauty horse of the circus, Lady Fashion, a superb animal with gleaming skin of cream color and ashen tail and mane. This horse won first prize at a recent show at Des Moines, Iowa, while the group of companion horses includes seven animals from the Kaiser's stables. In turn, the well-trained beasts did the chicken reel, the Georgia cakewalk, and the Black Bottom, concluding with an exhibition of fine horsemanship in the broad and the high jump. Miss Ione Carl, intrepid trainer in the lion arena, was featured in many of the other performances and in this demonstration of swift riding.

"Historic Canada"

A brilliant Historical pageant, concluded the circus performance proper. Depicting the birth and progress of the nation from the landing of Jacques Cartier to the present day, it brought in, in turn, Samuel Champlain, Sir Francis Drake, Generals Wolfe and Montcalm, Mackenzie of Scotland and a memoer of the R.N.W.M.P ending with a review of some of the heroes of the Great War—John Bull and Miss Canada.

A word about the comedians of the circus, is deserved by those minor actors who do much to add to the merriment of the performance and break the tension of the dangerous animal stunts. They were many and varied last night, in costumes of many hues, and their acts were original and diverting. A bull fight was one of the episodes.

The After Show.

As a wind-up, a concert that included a four-round boxing bout and an exhibition of Wild West riding and rope-throwing, served as a demitasse to the main show. "Irish" Jordan, a local fisticuff expert, outpointed the circus upholder of boxing honors, the champion of the Pacific Coast, Young Gotch, in a four-round exhibition of eye, foot and fist skill. The two milled it up considerably in the final round, but appeared in excellent condition at the close, with the local man winner of a $25 purse, in recogition of his prowess.

Weaver Gray, assisted by a group of cowboys and a cowgirl, riding western ponies, gave a very skillful and entertaining demonstration of rope and lariat throwing that was, in view of its real cleverness, one of the best bits of a very fine program.

A visit to the animal tent constitutes one of the most interesting portions of the trip to the big white top. Here are the seals, barking at all comers, Babe and Charlie and Nemo, with Babe as the star performer in the later arena exhibition. Here are the camels, haughty of countenance but eager for peanuts and popcorn. Yesterday afternoon, Mose, the big white camel, devoured nearly a pound of crackers presented by an admiring lady visitor. Mose is the father of Willie Green, the six-day old baby camel with spindly, tottering legs, who has a mother in Helen, with her mouse-brown coat. Cliff and Clara and Lucy constituted other members of the family of these "ships of the desert."

Nearby are the elephants, ranging from the little seven-year old Mary to the huge Topsy and Myrtle of thirty-five years of age, with their jewel-studded trappings and big, flapping ears, torn by the trainer's hook. They are greedy for peanuts and popcorn too, and accept such offerings with skirt appreciation. Bunnie and Queenie are two more examples of elephant nomenclature. "Yes, they are quiet now, but you never know with elephants," remarks their keen-eyed trainer.

Here are the monkeys in a dark side cage, and the zebras, those nightmare beasts that never look real, but like creatures of another world, with their regular painted stripes and round bodies.

The lions roar solemnly in their long-barred cages, with Sultan, the kingly newcomer, in sole possession of his long steel enclosure, looking at the world with aloof disdain, his huge head resembling the famous Paramount lion that is familiar to movie goers.

Besides the lions are the tiger cages, with the big cats enjoying a late afternoon siesta and the mother of the six little tiger kittens, guarding the small things very carefully. These were born in Macon, Georgia, on March 26th and are already assuming the fiercely suave expression of the older members of their species.

Solitary Polar bears weave back and forth in desolate longing for the Arctic wastes. They have a big cage that seems too constricted for the huge, furry things. "Doc" Cook is one of these, named after the famous gentleman who claimed, in competition with Peary, to have been the first arrival at the North Pole.

The Problem of Quick Heat.

That's where the Gas Range excels all others. It is built to give a quicker heat than any other class of range.

No more tiresome waiting for the kettle to boil. No more meals delayed by slow cooking. The Gas Range has revolutionized cooking.

The new approved burners throw the heat directly on the cooking utensils. None is wasted. In less than six minutes a quart of cold water can be brought to a boil, with the range cold at the start.

LEARNING ABOUT CANADA.

The visit to Canada this summer of the fifty British children who won the scholarships in the competition carried on by the Canadian National Railways, the Cunard Line, and the allied newspapers of Great Britain should be of much value to this country as well as to the successful competitors.

In fact the competition itself in which a quarter of a million children participated has probably done more to teach the people of the British Isles about Canada than any other single event.

The fact that competitors were required to answer a list of questions on the Empire in general and Canada in particular—eighty per cent. dealt with this country—made the scheme thoroughly effective in its educational value and did much to correct that ignorance of Canadian geography, Canadian history and Canadian conditions that has existed in Great Britain to a surprising degree.

Canada in fact to most Britishers was merely one of the Dominions across the sea, about which they had some hazy conceptions.

The competition and the visit to this country of the fifty winners will undoubtedly do much to bring about a better knowledge of Canada among British people.

MUST HELP THEMSELVES.

Commenting upon the evident intention of the Democratic party in the United States to appeal to the farmers, trusting to cash in on the split in the Republican ranks over the question of farm relief, the Border Cities Star points out to the farmers of the United States that they might profit through a study of the experience of Western Canada farmers.

There is much truth in that statement.

The farmers of our Western provinces have lost their faith in any scheme of government assistance, and by their own efforts in organizing the wheat pool and other similar movements have started themselves on the road to prosperity.

Through their own endeavors they have greatly improved their condition, and The Examiner agrees with our Windsor contemporary that the farmers across the border will make a mistake if they count upon a great deal of help from Governments.

The relief sought will not come from the politicians but from the farmers themselves.

THE BY-ELECTION RESULTS.

The result of the three Provincial by-elections in North Renfrew, South Bruce and Hamilton was not a surprise except in the large majorities rolled up by the government candidates.

The Renfrew and Hamilton seats were safe government riding, but a closer fight was expected in South Bruce, where the Conservative candidate carried off the honors from the Progressive standard-bearer by 1,500 majority.

By some people no doubt the emphatic verdict of the electors in these three ridings will be accepted as an endorsation after a year's trial of the government's liquor policy, but it is doubtful whether that question played any large part in deciding the result.

There was nothing in particular to be charged up against the record of the government, and it is probable that in the absence of any strong criticism of its legislation and administration the majority of the electors took the view that it would be good business to have their constituency represented by a government supporter.

The net result is that Mr. Ferguson has one more stalwart in a House where he already has more support perhaps than is necessary for the good of his own party.

A strong opposition helps to make a good government and perhaps in the long run the present administration may find that it might have been better off with fewer members.

CANADIAN COAL.

It is gratifying to note that the test movement of Canadian coal is showing satisfactory results and that in districts where United States fuel has had no competition a large quantity of the Canadian coal has been disposed of.

The wisdom of rendering this country less dependent upon outside mines for fuel is so self-evident that the progress already recorded will be regarded by thinking Canadians as most satisfactory.

It is a question to which the people of this country would do well to give more thought, for it means keeping at home millions of dollars that are now going out of Canada for fuel for which Canadian coal might be substituted.

The Mines Department at Ottawa reports that "the test movement of Nova Scotia coal from St. Lawrence ports by rail to points inland is well under way. To date, the Dominion Fuel Board has dealt with nearly forty applications under the order-in-council providing for assistance to this movement and has approved shipments amounting to near 400,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal which apply to markets in fifteen localities where American coal has for many years been free from competition. To displace this amount of United States coal is, in the existing circumstances, no small undertaking and it is hardly to be expected that contracts for the full amount will be made. The government, however, is satisfied that the measure it has adopted will help fill Canada's coal requirements with Canadian coal.

"The securing of markets under the most keenly competitive conditions will undoubtedly have a desirable psychological effect on the new operators and miners of Nova Scotia, and help to show how far Nova Scotia coal can compete with United States bituminous coal on a basis of quality. For steam raising purposes Maritime coals already have a wide market, but for gas making Ontario and Quebec have been in the habit of using imported coal.

"RED" GRANGE AND LINDBERGH.

When "Red" Grange jumped out of his college course to lend his name to professional football and to a hundred and one ways of exploiting his fame for money, there were many to criticize him. They said he owed it to college football not to enter the professional game, and that he owed it to his school not to quit until he had finished his course. We did not at the time think he owed amateur football or his own school any very sizable debt. They had both been exploiting him. But he did owe "Red" Grange a wise decision. Did he make it?

Now, after three years, we can check up a bit as Grange and his chief exploiter, C. C. Pyle, part company. "Red" retires from the game with a disabled knee and a pocketbook which, once bulging with banknotes, has steadily been reduced by the losses of the last two years. He may have considerable money left, but, if he has, that is all he got out of three years of exploitation. Otherwise he is not a step farther along than he was the day he walked off the college campus to the chagrin of his admirers at Urbana.

In the meantime, the type of hero worshipped by the American boy has changed. It's Charley Lindbergh now. And Lindbergh, because he refused to be exploited, refused to grab left and right for gain, is also the hero of the public at large.

The success of Lindbergh is its own commentary on the failure of Grange. Not that we wish to prod Grange for his misfortunes or the unwise management to which he submitted. But if the Lindbergh performance is an inspiration to the American boy, the activities of Grange are a lesson on how not to start a career. —Milwaukee Journal.

PROHIBITION TO BE THE ISSUE.

Prohibition, cockpit of battle on many a political field, threatens to become the chief issue of the United States Presidential campaign. On Thursday of last week, the Baltimore Sun, an independent Democratic journal, and one of the great newspapers of the United States, exhorted the Democratic Convention which meets at Houston to-morrow to come forward with a clear-cut declaration for reform of the Volstead Act. Asserting its profound conviction that "a grave mistake was made when control of the liquor question was taken out of the hands of the States," the Sun declares that the duty of the Democratic party is to appeal boldly and sincerely to the rural districts of the nation for modification of the existing law. Thus:

"If relief is to be had, then, from the present conditions, if the great and swiftly expanding urban centres of this country are not to pass from a state of defiant violation and flouting of the prohibition laws to a settled state of nullification—nullification arising direct from the people—there must be an awakening of the people in the rural districts to the whole of the facts in the urban districts. There must be patient and open-minded re-examination of these facts by the voters in the rural districts—those voters who send to Congress the dry majorities that now and for a decade past have pressed down drastic prohibition laws upon the whole nation, urban and rural. And to persuade the rural voters to this examination, the cities need, above all else, the voice of an authentic spokesman for their decent lives, their decent desires and their decent demand for common rights."

In the opinion of the Sun, the one man qualified to become a spokesman in this crusade, is Governor Alfred Smith. In a sympathetic picture of his character and abilities, it says:

"We know of no one so qualified as is Governor Smith to become the spokesman of the people of the cities to the people of the rural districts. He is obviously the typical city man. It is written all over him that when he has done the day's work he likes to "dress up" and go out to take his decent pleasure, free from interference from any man so long as he interferes with no man. At the same time it is written all over him that his life is clean—clean inwardly as outwardly; it is written so plainly that strangers would put themselves under his protection after five minutes of conversation. And to all of this symbolism of the average city man and all of this projection of simple honesty there is added in Smith the gift of tongues. Others may elucidate and proclaim doctrines. He can interpret the heart of a people in terms that another people can understand and trust.

"And if ever the interpretation of the heart of one people to another cried out for the doing it is in this business of prohibition. Here in the big cities and in the small cities, are millions of honorable men who simply ask to be let alone in their own communities to regulate their habits and customs, and who are entirely willing that the people of all other communities, rural or not, be allowed to regulate theirs. Some of these people in the cities who ask freedom in their own affairs are sons and daughters of rural families; others—hard-working and kindly people—are born of European stock which has been accustomed through uncounted generations to beer and other light beverages at the family tables, and they simply cannot comprehend why denial of these ancient pleasures should suddenly be attempted. Added to these are many others, not disturbed personally by prohibition, who know from the sights before their eyes the unnecessary and uncalled for denial it works upon their neighbors."

As if in answer to this appeal, Governor Smith, in a statement issued the following day, courageously disregarding the "dry" element in his party, came out squarely for modification of prohibition. The meaning of this, of course, is that if Smith is nominated at Houston, the liquor question will become the burning issue of the campaign, with foreign affairs, disarmament, economy and farm relief in the background. What, in such an event, the outcome would be, it is impossible to say; but the contest would hold both interest and significance for many outside the Republic. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

The record majority for the Government candidate in North Renfrew was generally expected after the Toronto Star had predicted that the opposition standard-bearer was likely to win.

The success, or otherwise, of Mr. Bennett's tour of Quebec will not be definitely tested until the ballots are counted in the next general election.

The number of outside cars seen in Peterborough yesterday showed that the circus still appeals.

No wonder young Peterborough thinks all is right with the world. Yesterday a circus and to-day the schools close for the long summer holiday.

The Globe says that ginger beer and lemonade are driving rum out of the British Navy. Is that part of the disarmament policy?

The West hints at one of the biggest crops on record. They can't make us feel bad with that kind of news.

A Thought

PA'S PRAYERS

Once upon a time sickness came to the family of a poorly-paid pastor of a country church in West Virginia. It was winter and the pastor was in financial straits. A number of his flock decided to meet at his house and offer prayers for the speedy recovery of the sick ones and for material blessings upon the pastor's family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened a stout farmer's boy was seen wrapped up comfortably.

"What do you want?" asked one of the elders.

"I've brought pa's prayers," replied the boy.

"Brought pa's prayers? What do you mean?"

"Yep, brought his prayers, and they are out in the wagon. Just help me and we'll get 'em in."

Investigation disclosed the fact that pa's prayers consisted of potatoes, flour, bacon, cornmeal, turnips, apples, warm clothing and a lot of jellies for the sick ones. The prayer meeting adjourned in short order.

GOD'S MINUTE

His faith is counted for righteousness. —Rom. 4 : 5.

Almighty Father, Shepherd and Bishop of our souls, lift upon us the Light of Thy countenance. We thank Thee that it is possible for us to approach the unveiled mercy seat. We come not in our own name, nor do we plead any merit in ourselves. Our hope is in Christ, Thy beloved Son, crucified for us. He bore our sins in His own body on the tree, and by His stripes we are healed. Let Thy benediction rest upon this family circle. Help us to keep the fire of gratitude and devotion burning on Thine altar. Give us grace to overcome evil in the day of temptation. Give us courage in the hour of adversity, and humility in prosperity. Help us to live as in Thy sight; doing Thy will with alacrity and cheerfulness. Give wisdom and integrity of purpose, we pray Thee, to all those in authority over us, that in the administration of public affairs they may "do justly, and love mercy." We invoke Thy special blessing upon the household under this roof, that we may not disappoint Thy gracious will concerning us. Bestow Thy heavenly grace upon father, mother, and children, so that we may be worthy to have a place in the Great Family of God, which shall, by and by, enter upon their eternal inheritance. Thanks to Thee for victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen, and Amen.

DEFEATING THE A.A.A.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

There was recently published a letter from G. B. Oliver calling attention to an address by Rev. Leighton Richards of Birmingham, England, presumably invited to take part in the recent conference of the United Church of Canada.

He indulged in some unseemly remarks, tending to belittle the authority of the Holy Scriptures. Whether he was taken to task by any of the clergy on that occasion is not stated. All that we do know is that when Mr. Oliver had finished his well-merited castigation all that remained of their visitor was the reverse of a sweet-smelling odor (Isaiah 3: 24).

Modernism up to the present time has done Satan's work in a quiet way by sowing doubts, half-truths, ridiculing and denying or holding up to contempt fundamental truths, one at a time, piecemeal, so that people might not be alarmed, but rather led unconsciously into the broad road that leads to eternal perdition.

The appalling and poisonous atmosphere created by the clergyman is but a mild sample of the terrible thing spoken of in Rev. 9:5 when the bottomless pit is opened and through the smoke appear, as it were, the scorpions that we are told will torment the unregenerate in this sin-cursed world.

The most startling sign as yet seen is the "Amalgamated Association for the Advancement of Atheism," already at work in the United States and beginning its awful attempt to debauch the young and drown men in the depths of misery and despair. The following passages taken from the annual report of the "4 A's" are illuminating:

"Atheism, as a philosophy, is to be planted in the minds of children and youth.

"Godless children shall have back of them an organized effort to help them free their companions and comrades from the religious yoke.

"Through organization and co-operation, boys and girls will be removed from the 'evil' effect of the clergy.

"The 'illusion' of immortality is to be taught, together with the determination to obliterate from youthful minds the fear of hell and the hope of heaven.

"Local branches shall be formed in all places where leaders can be secured. Special stress is to be laid on the formation of these branches in high schools. Students will be listed in organizing what they call 'Dammed Souls Soceties.'

"Good times, picnics, outdoor trips and such inducements are the baits to be held out to boys and girls everywhere.

"Religion deserves no respect. It rests on the God-lie. We now know that there is no God. The time for doubt and dodging is past. Religion must go. It poisons life. If you would free mankind from this frightful curse, fight with us."

Other contemptuous allusions are given in this report, but are so blasphemous that my pen refuses to write them.

In the society now being formed in Canada to fight this awful "A.A. A.A." association is this piteous statement: "Countless parents are to-day in tragic despair because their boys and girls have returned from school mocking at the Word of God." As Christians we cannot ignore these facts nor treat them with indifference. It is therefore a glad fact that an organization has already been been formed to fight this fiendish foe. It is called the "Day School Gospel League", with an office at Room 401, 366 Bay Street, Toronto. The Secretary is Mrs. Maude Howe, to whom all correspondence should be addressed, and who is authorized to receive contributions sent to carry on the good work already begun.

This work is (1) an appeal of prayer—earnest, believing prayer to the Great Captain of our salvation. (2) The distribution amoung the young of Gospel literature, the first issue being most appropriately the Gospel of St. John. Full particulars as to the mode of procedure of this organization can be had by application to the secretary at the address given above.

It may be well to point out that already the membership of this league numbers 2,000 young people, all reading and studying the Word of God in their homes, in order to answer the questions, which are so put as to show the plan of salvation simply through the Word itself. This surely is significant and an offset to the pernicious literature now spread broadcast by modernistic propaganda.

This is only a beginning, but it is begun in prayer and in dependence on the One who, though all-merciful, is also inexorable justice; moreover, He loves His own, and more especially the "little ones", and for their protection He will "hew to the line." Therefore all who worship our glorious King will be glad to have a share in this warfare and hasten to supply its increasing cost.

There is plenty of money in Satan's camp. One of his followers in New Jersey, U.S.A., has given to the A.A.A.A. the sum of fifty million dollars to be paid in instalments of $2,000,000 each to teach people that there is no God! The poor fool! What is that to the One who owns the earth and all that therein is?

Let me conclude by saying that many who have considered the subject think that the formation of this impious society may be reasonably taken to be the beginning among the English-speaking nations of the last attempt of the rebel Archangel Lucifer to take from his Creator the dominion and lordship of this earth on which we live. He tried to get it quietly from the "wilderness temptation", but failed and so left our Lord for a season. He is now preparing to take it if possible by force, Armageddon to be the battlefield.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., June 29 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in wheat here yesterday was again quiet which would indicate that English importers were not disposed to operate to any extent at the present level of prices. There was some demand from the Continent for Canadian Western oats, and sales of odc loads were made, but on the whole the market was exceedingly quiet.

The domestic market for cash grain was without any special feature to note, prices being steady with a small trade passing in car lots for country account.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a quiet demand.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the increased demand from United States buyers for July, August and September shipment, but as the prices bid were out of line with millers' views, little new business was accomplished. The local and country demand was fair and prices were firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was dull and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in eggs in a wholesale way, including sales of Western extras at 33½c, firsts at 31½c, and seconds at 26½c

IN POLICE COURT

Examiner Staff Correspondence.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29. — Sidney Webb, Kingston, paid fifty dollars into the police court yesterday afternoon as the result of being found guilty of a breach of the Highway Traffic Act, section 25. His permit was also cancelled for one month. The accident occurred on May 17 on the Havelock road, just east of Connely's school, when the children were returning from school. From evidence given in court, Webb was driving a touring car which struck Vera Clarke, 10, who was standing about two feet out on the grass at the side of the road. Webb and his partner claim that they were crowded off the road by another car, and that this car escaped before they were able to get out of their own car and get the number. They swear that they managed to see that the missing car had 331 as the last three numbers of its license number.

Vera Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clarke, is a timid, fair-complexioned girl, who was not at all at ease when she first began to tell her story to the magistrate. But since he did not prove deadly to her childish fancies she spoke with greater ease a few minutes after she had started. Occasionally her mother attempted to explain the meaning of some of the magistrate's words, but his worship ruled against it, and did the explaining himself. According to the girl's story, she was knocked unconscious, and sustained injuries to her hip, arm and cheek. She also lost three teeth.

Vera Clarke.

Neither accused nor plaintiffs were represented by counsel. Vera Clarke was the first to tell her story. She was placed under oath and made it known to the court that she understood the nature of the oath and its significance. She recalled the day of the accident and told of seeing the car some distance back. There was only one car that she saw and it was coming in the same direction that she was walking. She looked back several times to watch the progress of the car.

She was about two feet over on the grass when she was struck and remembered nothing till she was being helped up by one of the men whom she recognized in the court. She did not think the car was going very fast. The man had asked her where she lived and she had directed him to her grandmother's which was closer. Only one man went with her, and the other remained to get the car right side up again, and said that he would get some of the school boys to help him. Questioned concerning the actions of the car, Vera said she saw the car go first to the right side and then to the left, and then back to the ditch on the right hand side. It was then that she was struck. The little girl did not think the men were drunk.

Mrs. D. Durran.

Mrs. D. Durran (nee Stella Clarke) who was at her parents' home at the time, said she was the first to see the child coming, and went out to see what was the matter. The man said he had struck her with his car, and that another car had crowded him off the road and caused the accident. His partner had gone to telephone ahead to get the number of the second car, which had speeded away. The man had amitted that it was not the girl's fault because she was off the road. If he had not used his brakes as he did she would have been killed. He also said he was going back to straighten up his car and would come back with his name and address. While he was gone Mrs. Durran telephoned to a doctor and to the girl's mother. The man did return and left an address which was filed as exhibit one. Later that night there was a phone call from a man who claimed to be the man who had brought the girl in. He asked what the doctor had said and when he was told, proceeded to describe his own condition, saying that he had fainted before reaching Campbellford (three miles.) He had gone on to a Peterborough doctor and found that he had three ribs broken and a dislocated elbow. He was not in Campbellford. Mrs. Durran understood him to say that he was in hospital in Peterborough, and that his wife in Toronto, was "In a bad way about the accident." He said that he did not get the names of the passengers in the second car, which had escaped.

Chief Light.

Chief Light, sworn, told of being on the corner at the west-end of the Bridge Street bridge when he noticed a Ford touring car with a broken windshield and damage hood cross to the eastern end of the bridge. It was about 5.45 in the afternoon of May 17th .an he had become suspicious that something was amiss. He also noticed that there was grass and dirt on the hood. He took the number (367-121) and traced the car to an alley way on the west side of Rear Street. The alley way leads to the rear of the Kerr Block on Front Street . There was no one in the car, but ten minutes later Donald Perry appeared, and in answer to Chief Light's questions said his partner was the owner and driver of the car and that his name was Webb.

Perry accounted for his cut and bleeding hands by saying that they had had a little mishap out in the country and had run into the ditch. He denied having any liquor in the car. Search by the Chief proved the statement to be true. Not knowing anything of the accident at the time, Chief Light made no further inquiries. About nine o'clock the same evening Perry came to Light's house selling tablets, marked "Lest We Forget." Light pointed out that this was at the time when one of the men was supposed to have been in hospital.

The following morning, the girl's father got in touch with the Chief, and from the information which he received, Light began to make further inquiries. About 9.45 that morning, he found the men and took them to his office for questioning. They admitted hitting hegirl and claimed that it was a "clear accident." Another car had forced them from the road. They denied having telephoned to Clarke's the previous night. They had produced their permits and license card which showed the transfer to have been made in Belleville the Monday previous to the accident. Light had tried to locate the car said to have forced accused off the road, he said. Offers of help from two passing motorists had been refused. Perry had given his address at 10 James Street, Kingston, but Webb's license had given his as Trenton. The car was in the latter's name.

Webb did not question any of the three witnesses.

Donald Perry

Donald Perry was the first to give evidence for the defense. He admitted being with Webb in the car and said that they were coming from Havelock to Campbellford and driving slowly. They were not selling pattent medicine, but "A little war memorial." They had already passed several school children and had noticed the Clarke girl some distance ahead. Their car, he claimed, had been crowded off the road by another car which came from behind and did not stop after the accident. Perry's description of the accident from this point was the same as had been told by the other witnesses. The fact that he had given his wrong address he explained by saying that he was an overseas man and had been shell shocked. The excitement was too much for him. He had given his correct name but a false address. His correct address was the one in Kingston. The next morning he had recovered from the shock and had shown his credentials to the chief of police.

Perry denied having been in Peterborough and also having called the Clarke home during the evening. He and his partner had gone out to do some canvassing and retired about nine-thirty. They had started out again the following morning when the chief met them. He had known and worked with Webb for some time.

Sidney Webb.

Sidney Webb, defendant, admitted owning and driving the car. He described the accident as the others had done and claimed that he would not have struck the girl had not the other car struck him and crowded him off the road. The other car managed to get away too quickly for them to get its number, but he remembered that the last three numbers were 331. His own car was on its side in the ditch beside the road. He also denied telephoning to Clarkes, and said that the Chief had refused to allow him to use the police phone the next morning in the office.

A. E. Denne, Trenton, was present in court and explained that when the car returned to Trenton it carried marks which would indicate an accident such as the two occupants of the car had described. He was not under oath.

In passing judgment, his worship said that he did not hesitate to find that the car which had injured the girl was the one driven by Webb. While he had great respect for overseas men and sympathy for those who had suffered shell shock, he was not of the opinion that this was the cause of giving the wrong address since the hand writing did not show any signs of nervousness. His worship also believed that one of these two men phoned to the house and pointed out that there had been some irregularity in the way they had left their address and also in the phone conversation.

He was not favorably impressed by their attitudes in court, he said. The fine was originally placed ta twenty dollars and costs and seven days or nineteen days without a fine, and Webb's driving license cancelled for one month. Later the sentence was made to read fifty dollars and costs and the driver's permit suspended for the period of one month.

Cessation Of Rains Brings Lower Prices

CHICAGO, June 29 (Canadian Press). — Owing largely to the cessation of rains in the harvest region, wheat values here turned downward to-day in the early dealings. Kansas despatches said that with continued dry warm weather the binders would be in the fields by the last of the week. Opening ⅛c off to ¼c up, wheat later underwent a material setback all around. Corn, oats, and provisions developed firmness, with corn starting at ¼c to ⅝c advance, and later scoring additional gains.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 136½, September 139¼. Corn, July 105⅝, September 101⅝. Oats, July 56, September 46.

Eight Per Cent Money Checks Upward Trend

NEW YORK, June 29. Canadian Press. — Eight per cent. call money, making its first appearance in Wall street to-day since June 2, 1921, checked a promising upward movement in prices on the New York stock exchange to-day. Early gains of one to five points in the standard industrials and six to twelve points in a number of specialties, were quickly cut down in the selling movement which followed the higher rate.

Fixing of the renewal rate of call loans at 7½ per cent. provided a temporary check, but the offerings were quickly observed and the market headed higher. The banks called $30,000,000 in loans, and the rate was marked up to 8 per cent. about 1.15 p.m. The drop of $110,000,000 in brokers' loans last week wes the basis for the early bullish demonstration.

Toronto Trading Slackens As Holiday Approaches

TORONTO, June 29 (Canadian Press). — The market on the Toronto Stock Exchange was slower than yesterday, but was far from returning to last week's state of extreme lethargy. The prospect of the long week-end undoubtedly had something to do with the slow up. Goodyear Tire, with transactions in less than 200 shares, was up seven to 52. Brazilian with very few sales was softer, being off ¼ at 58½. Hayes Wheel was up 1½ to 29, while Massey-Harris sagged ¼ to 39. The oils were firm again to-day. British American was firmer with a gain of ⅝ to 37⅝. Home Oil was a feature of the list, showing a fifty point gain to 3.40.

Noranda Reaches New High At 45.10

TORONTO, June 29 (Canadian Press). — Noranda again featured the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, climbing to a new high at 45.10. From this mark it eased only to 44.90 at noon, for a net advance of 3.40 a share in heavy trading. The market generally showed a firm tone, but for the most part price changes were very small. The only other really strong spot was Hudson Bay, climbing 1.85 at 19.25. Another western issue, Pend Oreille, improved half a dollar at 14.00. The Kirkland Lakes generally were firmer, with Wright Hargreaves up ten at 390, Lake Shore up 35 at 22.50, and Bidgood a point higher at 70. McIntyre firmed to 25.05, Grover Daly to 12, and Amulet to 3.90. The few weaker issues included Barry Hollinger at sixty, Kirkland Lake Gold at 153, and Mandy Mines at 2.68.

Trent Canal to be Feeder

in the dining room of the Empress hotel, was not as well attended as had been expected, probably owing to the commencement of the holiday season. However, there was plenty of enthusiasm and entertainment. Announcements, table singing led by Carl Brown and George Liddle were heard previous to two pleasingly rendered vocal selections by Mrs. L. H. Ingram, soloist of Murray Street Baptist church. Mr. Liddle was her accompanist.

Art. Moffat issued an invitation which might well be heeded, if for no other reason than the imperative tones in which it came. He desired that every Kiwanian turn out on Wednesday evening, spade in hand, to help with the new courts for quoits, or "barnyard golf." He desired that the volunteers be on hand at King Edward park at seven o'clock sharp. It is understood that another meeting will be held later in the week, to which all interested in quoits will be invited. The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce council room.

President Joe John extended congratulations of the club to E. H. D. Hall on his recent appointment as a King's Counsel. He also introduced the Rev. Dr. McLean, newly called pastor of St. Andrew's United church. Emmett Sheehy, who has recently begun practice in Peterborough as a barrister at law, was introduced to the club by Charlie Elliott.

At the close of the meeting a sincere vote of appreciation to the soloist and speaker of the day was tendered by W. S. Merill.

A "one-minute" executive meeting was held following the singing of O, Canada.

IN POLICE COURT

Conditions that might be expected in an uncivilized country were hinted at this morning in police court when a young woman appeared to-day on a charge of vagrancy. In her arms was her third baby, which was born on May 28 in one of the city's hospitals. The girl has remained in the hospital ever since, and this morning was arraigned before Magistrate Langley as she had no place to go, her brother and sister disowning her on account of her conduct.

The Children's Aid and other organizations have done their best to try and get her to go right for the last three years, and the upshot of this morning's session was the laying of the charge of insanity. His Worship ordered two doctors to examine her, and in the meantime she will spend until Friday next in the common jail.

The girl spent the greater part of the winter in a lumber camp not many miles from this city.

NEW YORK, June 29 (Canadian Press). — J. H. "Tommy," Sparkling Comedy, at Chautauqua

"Tommy," popular comedy success which will be presented here at the coming Dominion Redpath Chautauqua by a notable New York cast, belongs to that rare group of plays which have registered a Broadway hit overnight. It was heralded by the metropolitan critics, without exception, as the cleverest, most thoroughly enjoyable comedy that New York has seen for ages.

The charm of "Tommy" is to be found in the fact that it tells a human, understandable story, and tells it with shouts of laughter and gripping pathos, through real, living human beings.

Will appear in the Chautauqua Course of Entertainment which is in Peterborough July 13, 14, 16.

ANNUAL PICNIC GREAT SUCCESS

George Street Congregation and School Enjoy Outing at Nicholls Oval.

SPORTS AND SUPPER.

The congregational picnic of George Street United Church, held at Nicholls Oval on Wednesday afternoon, was a decided success, despite the shower of rain, which came early in the afternoon. At first it was feared that this would hinder many from attending, but it took more than a slight shower to dampen the spirits of the enthusiastic crowd of between three and four hundred that soon assembled; all ages being represented from the Cradle Roll to the older members of the congregation.

An exceptionally good time was enjoyed by all present. All arrangements had been carefully planned by the committees in charge and worked out to the minutest detail, with such ease and smoothness, that everyone was constantly entertained.

A splendid program of sports and races had been arranged by C. H. Saunders, and was carried out very successfully. Three tugs of war caused much amusement, particularly the one in which eight big husky men were pulled down by about a dozen slight women, proving that in this age of women's sports they are developing muscle.

A baseball tournament in charge of J. E. Smith was indulged in by six of the older classes of the Sunday school. The games were closely contested, the T.O.B. class being declared the winners with a score of 27 points. Close competitors were the Excelsior club with 24 points, J. E. Middleton's class (19 points), Miss Eva Outram's class (16 points), Music Club (11 points), Mrs. P. Hetherington' class (8 points.)

Several games of horse-shoe, in charge of L. M. Richardson, were played by the men, some of the players showing professional skill, while many young people played friendly games of tennis.

At 5.30 o'clock, the ladies had the tables ready, and all sat down to an excellent community supper to which they did ample justice. Many were the comments made as to the extent of some folks' appetites.

Arrangements for the supper were in charge of Mrs. B. Shortly with a committee from the Ladies' Aid, W. M.S. and the Sunday school.

C. S. Thompson acted as chairman of a splendid committee of workers, who carried out their duties in a very efficient manner, making the picnic one of the best ever held.

The committees were composed of From the Ladies' Aid: Mrs. Shortly and Miss Miller.

From the W.M.S.: Mrs. J. E. Todd and Mrs. H. G. Walker.

From the Sunday school, Mrs. P. Hetherington and Miss E. Higgins.

From the Excelsior Club: Messrs. C. H. Saunders and L. Gilderr.

From the Men's Club: Messrs. J. E. Middleton and J. E. Smith.

W. H. Cunningham had charge of the transportation of people to the Oval while T. Shields, with his truck, looked after taking the supplies from the church to the grounds.

G. Robertson, S. S. Superintendent and C. H. Saunders, presented the prizes to the following successful contestants in the sports:

per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, while ontario extras sold at 34c, firsts at 31c, and seconds at 27c per dozen, f.o.b. The trade in a jobbing way was steady, and a firm feeling prevailed in the market. The receipts were 784 cases.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for potatoes, but the volume of business was not large owing to the fact that buyers are now paying more attention to new crop American potatoes, for which the consumptive demand is steadily increasing on account of the reasonable prices prevailing at this season of the year. There was some demand for old crop Canadian potatoes, and sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 80c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track. American new crop No. 1 grade sold at $4.00 per barrel, and No. 2 grade at $2.75 per barrel.

The market for imported beans was without any new feature to note, the prices being fully maintained under a steady demand for supplies and small offerings. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked beans to arrive were made at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots sold at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

The strength that developed in the local butter situation on Wednesday was fully maintained, and prices scored a further rise of ¼c per pound. The demand from local and outside buyers for supplies was steady, and a fair amount of business was done. The receipts were 1,821 packages.

There was practically no change in the condition of the cheese market, the undertone being about steady, with some business reported on spot. The receipts were 5,375 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO June 29 (Canadian Press)—Wet harvest conditions tended to lift wheat values yesterday, but it was shown that new wheat is arriving here just as early as in 1927. Besides, word was at hand that despite unwelcome rains two Kansas points received together as many as 165 cars of wheat yesterday.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Wednesday's finish to 5-8 cent higher. Corn finished 5-8 cent to 2 cents up, oats at 5-8 cent decline to 1-8 cent advonce, and provisions varying from 10 cents off to 5 cents gain.

Simultaneously with despatches telling of further downpours in the harvest region southwest, the first car of new wheat this season reached Chicago yesterday, and was applied on an existing contract. The shipment from Wichita, Kansas, graded No. 2 hard and tested 59 pounds. A year ago, the first car arrived on the exact corresponding day. Meanwhile houses with Southwest connections were conspicuous as buyers of wheat future deliveries here, but the Northwest was on the selling side, and the market did not get far, either up or down.

Favorable crop reports from Canada and from the American Northwest together with lower quotations at Liverpool, were of considerable effect at times in giving an advantage to bears. Current advices emphasising likelihood of a large yield in Canada were supplemented by an authoritative trade summary saying that rains of late in domestic Spring wheat territory have brought crops up to approximately a normal condition, with the outlook satisfactory. Exports demand to-day for wheat from North America appeared to be virtually at a standstill.

Urgent buying on the part of previous sellers of July delivery of corn had a bullish influence on the corn market as a whole. Offerings were scarce and receipts light. Corn belt weather was auspicous except that cooler temperatures were indicated. Oats held within narrow limits, and trade lacked volume.

Provisions were somewhat easier on account of selling to and realize profits.

CHAPTER XLVI.

"Well, I don't know anything about that," said the fat bellboy, "but Folsom waited over for another car while he looked at them. They didn't see him; they were laughing and talking together, but he couldn't 'a' been more kerflummuxed if he'd seen the Old Nick himself."

"Was he unpleasantly surprised?"

"I don't think so, sir. He didn't seem either glad or sorry, especially, only just struck. That's all."

"Well, that doesn't seem to amount to much," Stone sighed wearily. "Hello, here's Myrtle. We seem to get clean towels every hour on the hour."

"That isn't why Myrt shows up so frequent," Tubby said, and, laughing, he went away.

"Myrtle," the detective said to the chambermaid, "I suppose you know nothing of Mr. Folsom that you haven't told, do you?"

"Not a spick-speck," declared the girl. "Wish I did. I'd be rich if I could answer the questions that's been fired at me ever since the poor man died."

'He was nice to you?"

"He was a nice gentleman, Mr. Folsom was. He was nice, if you mean generous with his money and polite-mannered. But if you mean anything like petting or silly talk, no."

"Still, you only saw him once or twice."

"That's all, sir, but we girls size up a man in less time than that. And Mr Folsom, he wasn't the sort to be silly that way. The only silly ways he had was this doll racket."

She looked around at the dolls still scattered about the room, and going to one of them changed its position to what she deemed a more picturesque pose.

"You're fond of them?" Stone said, as she fingered the short skirts and long slim legs of the doll.

"I love 'em," she declared. "As a baby I was always crazy about dolls. I had dozens of them, though none, of course, except cheap ones. And even as I grew older I didn't outgrow my love for dolls. Then, a few years ago, these began to be the rage. I have two or three, but they are not the expensive kind like these. You know, they make imitations that are quite dear, but nothing of this sort is made over here. These are all French dolls, or imported ones, anyway."

As Myrtle talked, she caressed and played with the dolls, and Stone watched her curiously.

Yet it was only the admiration of a child who loved dolls, mingled with the natural feminine delight in exquisite fabrics and harmonious colors.

"Pelton gave you one of these dolls, I hear," he said. "Was it as pretty as these?"

"Beautiful!" Myrtle turned rapt eyes to him. "It was the one Mr. Folsom loved best. Mr. Pelton let me take my choice and so I took that one. Oh, it's beautiful."

"Will you let me see it, Myrtle? Where is it?"

"In my room. Yes, sir, I'll get it."

She went away and returned with the doll.

"This is my hour off," she explained. "Mr. Pelton said he didn't mind if I came in here and played with the dolls, so long as I don't touch anything else. This is the one he gave me. Isn't she lovely?"

Fleming Stone took the doll in his hands and stared at it.

For a moment he was speechless. Then he said:

"Did you tell me this was Mr. Folsom's favorite?"

"Yes, sir. I think it reminded him of somebody he loved. For he talked to it and said: 'You're mine—you shall be mine again—and for ever!' or some such words as that. Oh, yes, he loved this one best."

And Stone saw that the doll was the very image of Madeline Barron.

"Go away now, Myrtle," Stone said, speaking, as she said afterward, like a man in a dream. "Go away, Myrtle. Here, take your doll. I daresay Mr. Pelton will give you another. If he doesn't I will. But go away now."

Myrtle glanced at him sharply. What had happened? This man was not the sort to have sudden fits of illness, nor did he look ill.

But there was no choice for her. Stone said go, and she went. Then Fleming Stone began to piece things together.

Garrett Folsom had dolls who looked like the women he had loved. The one he had declared he had loved best was the exact image of Madeline Barron.

Moreover, Folsom had declared that this doll, the one that looked like Mrs. Barron, was his best love, and that he would yet have her for his own again.

This implied that he had formerly loved her and—

Where was it all leading?

Clearly, Myrtle had never connected the appearance of this doll with the beautiful Mrs. Barron. But then, Myrtle doubtless did not know Madeline. The Barrons' rooms were not on Myrtle's floor, and the girl had no way of seeing her, as her duties never took her to the lounge or dining-room.

Tubby might perceive the resemblance, but a boy would not notice such things.

For a moment Stone was so shocked, so upset by the vistas opening before his troubled imagination, that he was tempted to call Myrtle back, buy the doll from her, and burn it up.

Yet he could not, in honesty, suppress such a definite lead.

He shrank from the job of piecing things together, but it had to be done.

First he thought up everything he knew about Madeline Barron. It wasn't much, but it was definite.

To begin with, he remembered her unwillingness to talk on the subject of Folsom's death. When he had asked her a few simple questions about it, she had become so nervously excited as to be almost hysterical.

Then, when he had taxed her with this, she had declared it was because she was sympathetic with Folsom's sister and nephew. But further probing had brought out an assertion that her unrest was because of worry lest Croydon Sears be suspected of the crime.

Then, too, she had stated that she had absolutely no acquaintance with Garrett Folsom, and knew nothing of him save what she had heard since his tragic death. She had deeply resented his queries, so deeply that it began now to seem she could scarcely have been so annoyed at inquiries about a real stranger.

Well, none of this meant much, but it all went to prove that Madeline Barron had a secret trouble that was not shared by her husband or her nearest friends.

Anyway, it had to be looked into, and perhaps — and Stone hoped—it would turn out to mean nothing and the doll's resemblance to the lady be the merest chance.

A brisk hike on the boardwalk seemed to be indicated, and with a sigh Stone went out to take it.

As he passed the squad of empty chairs at the great hotel entrance a sudden thought struck him.

He turned to the group of idle but alertly watchful chair-pushers, and said:

"Listen sharp here, boys. Did any of you take Mr. Folsom out in a chair the night he was here? You know, the man who was killed in the ocean."

"Nope" and "No, sir" came from various disinterested hearers, and Stone was about to go on his way, when the sight of his hand suggestively in his pocket stirred the memory of one of the pushmen.

"I say, Boss," he volunteered, "that Mr. Folsom, he didn't go out in no chair that night, but he came home in one."

"What?" Stone's hand sank deeper in his pocket and some coins clinked pleasantly. "Don't make up anything, now, that won't do."

"No, sir," and the earnest voice betokened truth, "but that gentleman, he came right here to this door, about the middle of the evening. Say 'bout ten o'clock."

"Was he alone?"

"Yes, sir, all alone."

"There's a dollar, my man, and if you can find for me the chair man who brought him here I'll double it."

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE MAN HE IS.

Men always build into their wares
Whatever character is theirs.
I do not need to meet a man
His heart to know, his soul to scan.
I'll buy his product in the mart
And search his soul and read his heart.
If on his goods I can't depend
I would not want him for a friend.

The man who gives his honest grade
According to the price he's paid,
Who makes some product for the earth
And frankly tells me what it's worth,
I'll trust with more than merely gold,
I'll give him more than that to hold.
I'll give my faith, as he gives his,
Because I know the man he is.

NEIGHBORLY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webster of Otonabee were hosts on Tuesday evening of a very jolly gathering, which took the form of a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Pearl Petrie, whose marriage to Mr. Gordon McIntosh of North Monaghan takes place this week. The earlier part of the evening was spent in the enjoyment of music and dancing, then the bride-elect was placed in a beautifully decorated chair in the living room, and a gaily decorated wagon and basket trailer were drawn in by a tiny bride and bridegroom, little Mae Webster and Master Lloyd Webster in navy suit. Mr. Charles Webster read an address to Miss Petrie, expressive of the appreciation of her friends and neighbors of her cheerful character and many acts of kindness, experienced through years of pleasant association. The address was signed on behalf of the neighborhood by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webster, Mrs. T. Lynch and Mrs. John Webster. The gifts were then opened and presented by Mr. J. Fitzgerald. An apropriate acknowledgment was made by Miss Petrie and Mr. McIntosh, Mr. Thomas Petrie also expressing his appreciation to the hosts. Dainty refreshments were served.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

TWO EXTREMES OF CHIC—At the left, long hair, long sleeves, long waist, long skirt, long necklace and a large hat—at the right, short hair, short sleeves, short skirt, normal waistline, tight-fitting toque and short choker.

Half an inch, half an inch, half an inch shorter,
Skirts are the same for mother and daughter.
When the wind blows, each of them shows,
Half an inch, half an inch, more than she oughter.

This little verse was repeated to me by an English woman who assured me that it was composed by a venerable bishop of the English Church—and it seemed too good not to pass on. So I am hoping you have not already heard it.

One interesting thing about it is that the bishop in question and ever so many other folk go on talking as if skirts were still as short as ever and as if fashion had not been looking again with favor on long hair. That is so frequently the way. People object to extreme fashions and go on objecting after the fashion has begun to wane and do not seem to realize that fashion never lingers very long in any mood and that the more extreme a fashion becomes the greater the likelihood of its changing. After fashion of her own accord had given up the hour-glass silhouette there were still protests against tight lacing.

As far as skirt and hair lengths go at present we seem to be in a transition period—and interestingly enough it is possible to present a smart appearance with the long or the short of it.

Another interesting phase of the situation is that the chief exponents in this country at least of the lengthened lines are the younger women. The up-to-date matron is inclined to cling to her bobbed hair and knee-length skirts for some time after her young daughter has adopted the apparently more demure fashions.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

NOW that summer has arrived, Peterborough people are hieing themselves to the lakes on the slightest provocation. Somebody suggests "Let's picnic this evening"—and away the family goes, helter-skelter. Mother may save herself a lot of trouble by keeping all picnic things together—dishes, spoons, and all the trimmings. Then, when some member of the family has the picnic brain wave she does not have to go all through pantry and china closet to pick out the picnic ware.

• • •

And, by the way, for those who like to vary their picnic spots, the little articles in Wednesday's Examiner will prove very useful. They tell the interesting places and the best roads in five neighboring counties.

Here is an easily prepared picnic menu, suggested by Mrs. L. B., Lotus: Sliced meat loaf, hard-cooked eggs, ripe tomatoes, cinnamon rolls, pickles, milk, iced tea, and cakes. May I suggest, Mrs. L. B., the inclusion of oranges? There's nothing more refreshing after the heating exercises of a picnic party than an orange.

I was shown, the other day, a new type of suitcase which is adjustable to fourteen different sizes. It is claimed for it that it is handy because always ready for the last-minute overflow. But why not just make it the largest size, because a woman's suitcase, however large, will always be filled.

Why is it so unfortunately true, as I heard a bachelor say at one of last winter's smartest parties, that men who have been successful in business look much better preserved than their wives? Don't women bother to stay young? Or is it their varied interests that keep men so alive? Or is women's work in the home to blame? Do they do the worrying while their husbands do the money-making?

CREDIT VALLEY'S UNIQUE BRIDAL

Five Hundred Guests Present at Colorful Affair—Swimming And All.

Toronto, Ont., June 29 (CP).—It is not often that society writers have something directly in their own province which is unique. Therefore, the other day when a wedding took place at Riverwood, Erindale, in the lonely Credit Valley (the affair being made a picturesque fete at which 500 guests were present) a "pageant-like bridal" well described it. Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. P. Parker, was the bride, and Mr. Somers, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Somers, the bride-groom.

A buffet dinner was served at sunset on the terrace, the ceremonies throughout being out of doors. Dancing was almost continuous; some went in swimming; one young matron had a flying trip as well, when an aeroplane, in which she was a passenger, showered confetti and roses. As twilight came the hillside was alight with colored lanterns and bonfires.

Just after the bride's father had read a congratulatory wire from Premier King (who had also sent the bride silver candlesticks) a cry was heard about the bride, and feminine guests drew back in horror. A snake had appeared from a crevice in the rocks and was gliding about the bridal party. Then the bride's father tried to reassure the company: "Remember, there was a snake even in the Garden of Eden," quoth he.

BRIDAL GOWN IN 3 MINUTES

Herman Frankentha Drapes Model in 16 Yards of Satin And Adds Lace.

Toronto, Ont., June 29 (CP).—A bridal gown made in three minutes!

To the audience at the convention of the International Association of Display Men held in this city, what appeared to be an amazing art was presented by Herman Frankentha, dean of the profession of designers, when he draped a model in a beautiful film of satin, lace and a hazy veil, in that space of time. He laid out 16 yards of satin which he draped and folded over the model with the use of pins. He tacked on several yards of lace, and with the aid of a straw frame, fashioned a bridal veil.

Bridesmaids, maid of honor, and a model displaying the travelling gown of the bride, all were clothed after the same fashion in the average time of about a minute. And after, Mr. Frankenthal told the convention, that, although the gowns were held together merely with pins, they could be worn at a dance and could not be told from the finished creation of a designer. Forty years ago when he began his trade, he draped his first model with 17-cent calico, he said.

IN CLOVER

"Clover?"

"Yes."

The slender girl with the large dark eyes and the very fair hair who had asked the mono-syllabic question, frowned as she lifted the delicate china cup to her lips.

"Yes, clover!" continued her hostess as she daintily balanced a loaf of sugar in the tiny gold tongs and slipped it into her own cup. "Anyone is certainly in clover who has a chance to go on a Mediterranean cruise—especially at this season of the year and with a perfectly good father who spends money on his child as—as she spends it on herself!" she ended with a laugh.

"But what if one doesn't in the least desire to go on a cruise or to have money spent on her pleasure, Phyllis Saunders?"

"Then you really mean you do not want to go, you silly child? Why, if it wasn't for Philip, I'd jump at the chance of being in your shoes."

"That's exactly it! If it wasn't for Phillip!"

"I'm only just beginning to think," Phyllis returned with a knowing smile. "Which is he, dear?"

But Helen ignored the question. "Father planned this whole trip just to get me away," she said. "I know he did. He wasn't going over until spring. He never did like Harvard men just because he's a Yale grad."

"Oh, ho! Getting warm!" Phyllis triumphed. "A Harvard man. Dark or fair?"

Just here young Mrs. Arthur Jamison was ushered in and joined the two at the tea table. For which Helen heartily thanked any lucky stars she might have left. Phyllis was a persistent person.

"Philip," Phyllis asked at the dinner table that night, "you're a Harvard man. Now's the time to show your knowledge."

"What's wanted, dear? Not a date, I hope. I never shone in history."

"Only modern history's needed. Which Harvard man most often makes a date with our dear little Helen?"

"Frank Hughes and Russel Williams. Don't they both hang around number 60 East pretty often?"

"Yes! I had forgotten they are both Harvard men."

"Both after my time. Nineteen twenty-one and '22, if I'm not mistaken."

"But which?" Phyllis was musing. "I have it! Phil, don't you suppose you can get tickets for Sea Saws for Monday night?"

"But say, didn't you say you saw it with Sally Ward last week?" hopefully from Philip.

"Yes, I did."

"Then you certainly do not want to see it again!" triumphantly.

"Certainly not. And you said you didn't care to go at all, Phil."

"You know how I hate musical comedy."

"Thanks. Then you will get the tickets?"

"Must I go to that? Why not something——"

"No you mustn't. That is just it! Helen and the right Harvard man must."

• • • • • •

It was noon the next day when Phyllis called Helen on the telephone.

"You're coming to dinner Monday, Helen?"

"Why, yes, I said I would."

"I know. I simply failed to inform Philip of that fact. He just called up to say he has two tickets for Sea Saws for that night."

"Then let me come another evening. That's quite all right, Phyllis."

"No. Come just as we planned. What I wanted to say is, I've seen Sea Saws. Phil had forgotten."

"But he wants to go and you won't mind seeing it again to please him, will you?" Helen asked from her end of the wire.

"Oh, he got the tickets to please me. He hates musical comedy. Won't you help me out and use the tickets? Then Phil will not mind so much. Ask some man to dinner too to go along."

"Why, thanks. I guess I might bring Mr. Williams if it's quite all right?"

"Absolutely. Goodbye."

• • • • • •

"I believe Phil said you were a Harvard man, too, Mr. Williams?" Phyllis innocently inquired of the tall, good-looking man with eyes as brown as Helen's own, who sat on her right at dinner the following Monday evening.

4. Steam 3 hours.

"Why, yes, I am," Russel Williams replied.

Helen started—then actually blushed. How had Phyllis found out her secret?

"When do you sail?" Philip Saunders was asking her, wondering why she seemed suddenly so ill at ease.

"In about two weeks."

"Helen says you don't want to go at all."

It was Russell Williams's turn to start.

"Why, I thought she was only too glad to go and leave us. She is always deserting us poor hard-working stay-at-homes and departing for parts unknown except to globe trotters like herself. How about it, young lady?"

Helen tried to laugh. "One gets tired of traveling," she replied.

• • • • • •

It was late that night when they were returning from Sea Saws in Russel Williams' car that he turned to Helen and said quietly:

"Then could you be happy if you settled down, dear?"

"I might if father didn't object too much to a Harvard man," she whispered.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Saturday, June 30, 1928.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects rule to-day, according to astrology, but there is one sinister sign to take into consideration.

Under this planetary government the sway is encouraging to big land deals and real estate should be exceedingly active.

Home-buying will be prevalent all through the summer, it is forecast, and gardens will attain general recognition as of supreme value.

Interest in horticulture is to be productive of important movements in many cities, astrologers foretell, for science is to make parks newly beautiful and wonderfully instructive to lovers of trees and plants.

Again discontent on the part of the people is signified and it seems to be certain that civic affairs will be investigated in many places.

The planetary government to-day is fortunate for men and women who have attained the habit of success. To him that hath it shall be given while this configuration prevails.

There is a favorable aspect for the giving of presents to-day, unless the gift be an engagement ring.

Jewels are to be in great demand and many rare gems will be acquired by Americans, it is foretold.

London astrologers repeat the prophecy that a scientific discovery will revolutionize the conception of human life.

All the tramels of the past that limited high attainment are to disappear as the second quarter of the new century unfolds itself in the passing years, the seers declare.

Conditions of thought are to be responsible for an amazing literature in which real inspiration appears, if the stars are to be trusted.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have good luck through wills or inheritances.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely intelligent. The subject of this sign succeed in the learned professions. Many historians and fiction writers belong to this part of the month of June.

Hastings Lose Their First Game This Season

LOCKWORKS WIN 8-4 TILT

Victory Ties Two Teams For Leadership of County Series.

E. P. LEAGUE.

A batting spree which netted them five runs in the fifth, brought victory to the Lock Works in their game with Hastings last night. The score was 8 to 4, and the win tied the two teams for the leadership of the county series of the East Peterborough League.

Hastings with a team of veterans and youngsters shaped up nicely, but they had a hard time trying to get through Ralph's pitching. The local heaver had good control and the visitors bunched their hits only in the second when they counted twice. His support was good.

Archie Zufelt started on the mound for the visitors. He struck out four batsmen in the first, issued one pass and held Lock Works hitless, yet the locals scored three runs, infield wobbles being responsible for all of them. He pitched a strong game until the fifth when he was hit freely, a pair of safely bunted hits, being his final undoing. He gave way to Ibey, who went through to the end to hold Lock Works hitless and runless.

Baker opened for the visitors by drawing a pass after which he stole second. Stevenson flied to Westbrooke, who made a neat running catch. A. Zufelt fanned and C. Zufelt grounded out.

Green struckout for Lock Works and sprinted safely to first. Cowell losing the ball. Smith struck out, and Westbrooke walked. Black lined to C. Zufelt, who threw to the plate and lost Green. Westbrooke who was doing some fast works on the paths took advantage of the visitors' loose play and also scored. Lowe fanned. Jobbitt grounded to Ibey, and his high throw to first allowed Black to go in. Hunt struck out to retire the side.

Hastings got two back in the second. Cowell flew out to Lowe, Ibey got a double to left and Forbert singled through short. Scriver singled and Ibey followed. Lemoire fanned Baker's hit into middle scored Forbert, and Scriver trying to follow him in was thrown out at the plate by Green.

Two infield errors and Ibey's single through short gave the visitors a run in the third and tied the score.

In the fifth Lock Works broke out with a bang. With one gone, Conners, who had replaced Smith, was passed. He stole second. Westbrooke hit through short and Black doubled to middle to score two. Magee, batting for Lowe, singled to score Black. Jobbitt laid down a bunt that sent Magee in, King, who had replaced Hunt laid down another teaser, and Zufelt threw the ball into right field. Jobbitt advancing, and scoring when Stevenson missed Baird's grounder down third. That was enough for Zufelt. Ibey took up the burden. Ralph popped to Baker and Green to Forbert.

A home run on a drive into middle by Forbert, whose fast work on the runway figured largely in the tally, revived the hope of the visitors in the sixth, and a two-base clout by Lemoire also helped. The rally was stopped without further scoring, and in the seventh, Hastings went out in order.

GIANTS WIN 5TH STRAIGHT

Joe Genewich Held Philly Batsmen To Take 2-1 Victory.

CARDINALS WIN 4-3.

NEW YORK, June 29 (Canadian Press).—The Giants made it five straight over the Phillies here yesterday when they won by 2 to 1. Joe Genewich outpitched both Ray Benge and Claude Willoughby, and put down a Philadelphia rally in the ninth to seal the verdict in his favor. Genewich had a two-hit game in his pocket until the visitors broke loose in the closing round. Each team finished up with four safeties, all of the Giant drives being made off Benge.

Six victories in a row were credited to "Wee Willie" Sherdel yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals took a 4 to 3 game from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Charles Hafey crashed out the winning run with a homer in the seventh after Frankie Frisch had tied the score in the same inning with a four base hit. Wright also hit for the circuit.

BLUTE FOR CLERKS STRIKES OUT 14

Team Defeats Mill 18-3 and Gets Back Into First Place.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29.—Last night the Clerks regained some of their lost honors, when they won from the Mill, 18 to 3, in a nine innings game. Bernard Blute was at the top of his form and struck out twelve men. His pitching is causing more than a little favorable comment among fans and players alike. Until the fifth innings the Mill failed to get a run, and in the preceding four only three men got as far as first base, and only one of these on a hit. The three runs in the fifth were the only scores for the Mill and these were the direct result of a home run by Reynolds when there were two men on.

Things began to look interesting, but the Mill worked through the other four innings without getting any more counts. In the eighth they went to pieces and the Clerks got six runs. Bun Blue hit a homer when he came up to bat for the last time. Of his six times at bat he hit five times and was walked. In the second innings he was left on third base and in the fifth was called out between first and second when he touched the ball in running. He was responsible for four of the Clerks' eighteen runs.

The line-up:

Mill.—V. Cochrane, p; E. Wilkes, c; M. Booth, 1b; W. Reynolds, 2b; W. Blake, 3b; F. Blake, ss; F. Beaudoin, cf; C. Montgomery, rf; G. Anderson, lf.

VIEWS ON SPORT

K. of C. and DeLaval will meet to-night in a city league softball fixture at Confederation Park. A good game is exected.

Harrison's North-Enders and the C.G.E. played real softball last night when the northmen came out on the large end of a 6-4 count. The game was a tight contest until the last two frames when the victors scored six runs to win the decision.

* * * * * *

Hastings lost their first game this season in the county section of the E.P.L. and the Lockworks went into a tie with them for the group leadership by reason of the latter's 8-4 victory over the former in a league fixture at the Exhibition grounds last night.

* * * * * *

Ralph the local heaver had all kinds of control and given good control by his teammates he had no trouble in holding up the visitors. Errors on the part of the Hasting's infield in the fore part of the game allowed the locals to tally up an early lead.

Players in all city league groups are reminded that before leaving the city to play ball on any team they must first notify the league officials.

* * * * * *

The East Peterborough League clubs will send some of their smartest ball tossers against the Petes tomorrow afternoon, at James Stevenson Park. The backstopping will be handled by Bob Ross, of the Crescents, Baker of the Cogs and Rogers from the Raybestos, and the fans will see Maudsley, Vannest, Billingsley and Frost in action on the hurling heap. Barry will start at first base, Scully at second, Wilson at short and Mein and H. Nicholls will work at third. The outfield will include Joe and Freddy Jones and Moore. Bethany hope to be able to send in two players.

With this material, which has good battling strength, infield and outfield ability, and speed on the bases, the lineup should show up well against the Central League pastimers.

* * * * * *

Raybestos and Cogs are down to furnish the excitement at Exhibition Park this evening. The game is the replay of a tie score, and a win for Cogs will put them on even terms with the Rays for the league leadership. Right now, both teams are playing a good brand of baseball.

TRIPLE IN NINTH WINS FOR SOX

Cissell Sends in Winning Run Against Cleveland—Browns Climbing.

SENATORS SPLIT.

Bill Cissell's triple in the ninth inning, scoring Metsle, gave the White Sox a 3 to 2 victory over Cleveland in the opening game of the Chicago series.

Ted Blankenship outpitched Cleveland's mound ace, George Uhle, and appeared to have the game clinched until the ninth when Carl Lind derricked a homer into the left field stands to tie the score. The winning tally came with none out. Bruce Caldwell, Yale football and baseball star, reported to the Indians to-day for duty.

Browns Climbing

The St. Louis Browns climbed to within 2 games of second place in the American League standing by taking the opening game at Detroit, 5 to 3, while Philadelphia was losing to New York. The Tigers used 17 players including three pitchers. Heinie Manush's triple with the bases loaded in the fourth inning, and Sam Gray's effective pitching were the main factors in the St. Louis victory.

The Washington Senators divided a double-header with the Red Sox at Boston, winning the first game 4 to 3 and losing the second, 8 to 7.

Bill Carrigan, Red Sox manager, and Third baseman Buddy Meyer, were put off the field by Umpire Ormsy in the sixth inning of the second game when disputing a Washington double-plaly that cut the Sox off without a run in that inning. A few pop bottles were thrown on the field but none hit the umpire.

Same Jones pitched steady ball for the Senators in the first game and held the Red Sox to six scattered hits. Boston won the second game in the eighth inning when the score tied, pinch hitter Rollings doubled with two on base.

GROWTH OF FOREST INDUSTRIES

Canada has made rapid progress in the development of her forest industries and has lately taken first place in the matter of world's newsprint production. The wise conservation of the forest resources of the Dominion, particularly the reduction of losses through preventable forest firest, and the encouragement of systematic reforestation and tree-planting schemes, have been increasingly urged upon the attention of the general public.

BELLEVILLE TO PLAY MORNING HOLIDAY GAME

League Leaders and Petes Renew Argument Here Monday.

A REAL STRUGGLE.

Win For Homesters Will Put Them Well Up the Ladder.

The clean cut win scored over Belleville on Wednesday has put all kinds of fight into the Petes and when Walter Gerow and his league leaders invade Peterborough on Monday morning for a holiday game they will find the home crew determined to repeat the dose. The Petes are only two games away from the lead of the heap and they can cut that margin in two by beating the Railroaders on Monday.

The morning game gives ball fans who plan to be out of town in the afternoon a chance to see the old rivals clash and from all indications there will be an old time crowd out when Umpire Colling of Belleville sends the teams away at 10 o'clock sharp.

The Belleville crew a week ago looked as if they were going to pull right away from the rest of the loop but they were knocked off by Oshawa and the Petes on successive days this and the double jolt has dumped them pretty well back with the other four teams. They will be out here Monday fighting mightily to win back the lost ground and with the Petes back to normal the engagement will be one of the best of the season.

You can't stay away from this one if you like your baseball hot.

Either Gibson or Utronki will start for Belleville with the odds favoring the former who is aching for a chance to get revenge for Wednesday's trimming.

C. G. E. LOSE TO HARRISONS

North-Enders Score Six Runs in Finals For 6-4 Decision.

TIGHT CONTEST.

Confederation Park was the scene of a real softball game last night when Harrison's North Enders and the C.G.E. met. A large crowd witnessed the defeat of the C.G.E. in the last innings and excitement ran high until by scoring six runs in the last two frames the northmen came out on the long end of a 6-4 score.

It looked like the C.G.E. ball game as they scored four runs in the fourth when a bad throw to first had the Harrison men up in the air for a while and they made numerous errors in that frame. But after this scoring the y were held without a tally for the rest of the game. Harrison's were held scoreless until the last of the seventh when a triple by Walton followed by another by Montgomery scored them their first counter. Then they were going great guns and each had a trip to the plate in the eighth and Walton made another three base clout and five runs were scored in the entire frame to put the northerners in the lead.

Smart fielding by them put the C.G.E. out in order without a chance to stage a come back. Both sides played real ball and there is very little to choose between the teams. Each had a bad innings and it was by hard luck that the C.G.E. did not have the final scoring punch. The large crowd that witnessed it were on their toes through the whole game and saw softball as it should be played. This will be a big boost for this game.

Smith, Walton and Montgomery were the outstanding Northerners while Ecobichon deserves special mention the way he handled the foul tips and the bunts that were laid down in front of the plate.

Barry the first baseman for the factory looked nice and also F. Jones. Dyer proved his merit at base stealing when he sneaked past three times.

Each pitcher struck out one man and there were no home runs made. Howell, the Electric's pitcher, relied a whole lot on his support which came through with flying colors and the Harrison men had nothing to complain about their aid.

It was sure a fine game to watch, both teams on their toes and out for blood and the lack of errors was a feature that everyone was very glad to see. A few more games like this would mean a greater crowd and better league. If all the teams took the same interest as these fellows what a league it would be.

Harrison's made a nice double play in the first of the seventh when Smith at first caught an impossible fly and made a clean and fast throw to second to catch J. Jones who had seen his error and was sliding back to the bag. The boys looked nice on this play, Smith to Dorrington.

The teams lined up as follows:

C.G.E.—J. Jones, cf; Weese, ss; McDonough, 2b; Frost, 3b; Dyer, c; Howell p; Crary, lf; Barry, rf.

Score by innings:

Harrisons	00000015x—6
C.G.E.	004000000—4

Struck out—Dundas 1, Howell 1.
Home runs—0.
Umpires—L. LeBarr at the plate; W. Ranger on the bases.

RUTH CLOUTS TWO HOMERS

Brings Up Total To Thirty as Yankees Defeat Athletics 10-4.

12 GAME LEAD.

NEW YORK, June 29 (Canadian Press)—Babe Ruth hit two home runs to run his season's total to thirty at Philadelphia yesterday on the Yankees won their second straight over the Athletics, 10 to 4. The victory sent the Hugmen into a lead of 12 games over the second place Athletics, and gave them a record of nine out of ten at Shrive Park this season with one decision yet to be reached to-day.

Bob Meusel added a home run of his own to Ruth's first drive in the opening inning with Rube Walberg in the box. Another New York assault for two runs in the second sent Walberg to the bench and brought George Earnshaw into action. The Yanks totalled fifteen hits for twenty-two bases. Ruth's second homer was off Earnshaw in the eighth.

George Pipgras pitched a steady game for the champions, although the home team got ten hits. Jimmy Dykes hit a home run in the third with Earnshaw on base.

Ruth's two drives placed him twenty games, fourteen days and six home runs ahead of his record pace of 1927 when he hit 60. This is the longest lead he ever enjoyed at any time over a previous campaign, except in 1920, when he was lifting the record from 29 to 54. With fourteen games to play before he reached the midway mark of his season, the Babe already has reached exactly half of his record total of 1927.

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes are the only team in the Central Ontario League to beat Belleville at home this season and also the only team to beat the leaders with their first string pitcher in action. The home gang have done the trick twice beating both Gibson and Utronki. The only other games lost by Belleville were fixtures in Oshawa and Kingston when their second string pitchers were sent to the hill top to open the doings.

Monday's schedule provides some tough work for both Belleville and the Petes. The Railroaders play only one game but they have to leave home early in the morning to get here for a 10 o'clock fixture while the Petes, on the other hand, have to meet Belleville here in the morning and then chase themselves down to Deloro for an afternoon battle. And then on Wednesday they make the long trip to Kingston. Its not all milk and honey with this five-teamed crazy quilt schedule.

Sonny Green, the Indian outfielder on the Belleville team, reached first after striking out the other day. And he was still talking about Hardill's puzzling curves when Tommy Holyman stole over and picked him off second.

Jack Turner robbed himself of a hit in Belleville on Wednesday when he bounced a high one to Scott that he could have beaten a mile but failed to run out, figuring the hit was foul.

Jeff Hardill leads the Central League pitchers in strike outs, the Petes' twirler having fanned 49 men so far this season.

Oshawa and Kingston play a double header in Oshawa on Monday and it is a safe bet there will be plenty of clouting before the last game is over.

Jack Shea, the Deloro pitcher, drew his first bump of the year the other night the Ponies hammering him hard. Jamieson is now the only undefeated pitcher in the League, if you are careless enough to call him that.

Tomorrow's East Peterborough-Central Ontario League clash at James Stevenson Park should be full of interest. The East Peterborough squad comprises the pick of the loop and will make the Petes travel all the way.

The Central Ontario Leaguers expect to have most of their regulars in line except Max Swanston. Hap Wilgar will do the catching against the All Stars and Angus Macdonald, the youthful left-hander, is slated to go to the firing pit.

The disadvantage the Petes have been working under this season through inability to have all their material always available is shown by the fact that in eight games they have used four pitchers, two catchers, three first basemen, four second sackers, two shortstops, three third basemen and eight different players in the outfield.

George Ada, the bulky Kingston outfielder, is a mile in front in batting, leading the league with a percentage of .514. He has come through with 19 hits in 37 times at bat. Ada last year led the Inter-County League.

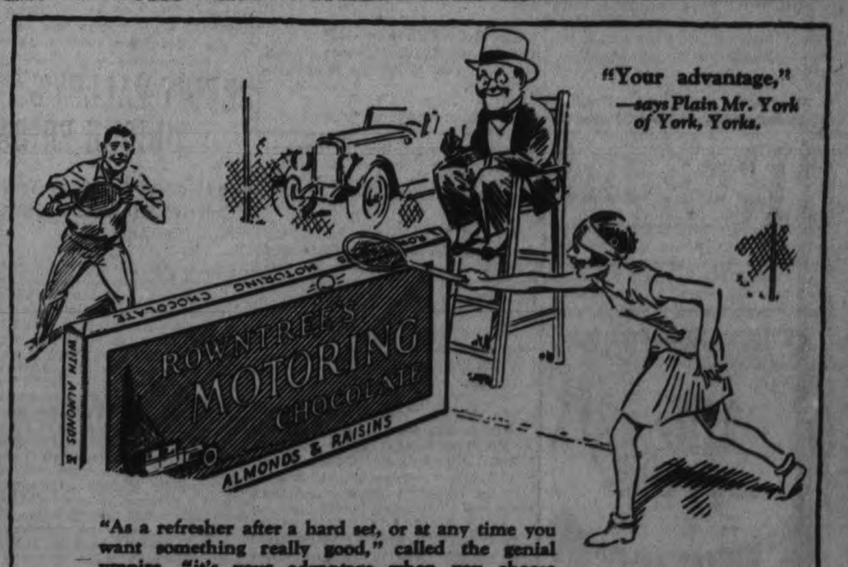
Weather Conditions Interfere with Rowing Practice at Henley

HENLEY, Eng., June 29.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Weather conditions here today were unfavorable for serious rowing practice owing to a strong wind blowing straight down the course on the River Thames, and consequently the two Toronto scullers Joe Wright Jr. and Jack Guest, who are training on the Henley course in preparation for the Diamond Sculls, coveted amateur trophy which will be rowed for starting the first week in July, were forced to curtain their daily workout somewhat.

In the morning when the wind was not so strong they both rowed down the river at a good rate and did not slacken until they reached Greenlands. Here they turned and proceeded up the river to Temple Island with the wind blowing directly against them. They then practised starts from the Henley Regatta starting line and this finished their work except for the row back.

The wind had gained in force when the Canadians set out in the presence of a large crowd on their second outing later in the day. They rowed downstream to Temple Island and after more starting practice they rowed hard all the way against the wind.

Wright showed fine form and his work upstream against the wind was particularly good.



"As a refresher after a hard set, or at any time you want something really good," called the genial umpire, "it's your advantage when you choose Rowntree's Motoring Chocolate. Two kinds, you know,—Plain or Milk—both with blanched Valencia almonds and luscious Nectar raisins."

WRIGHT-NUNNS MEET TO-DAY

In Finals of Men's Singles in Provincial Tennis Championships.

AT MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. J. A. Wright, Canadian champion, and Gilbert Nunns, third ranking player in the Dominion, will meet this afternoon in the final of the men's singles in the Provincial tennis championships now being played here. Wright qualified today after a strenuous struggle with his Davis Cup teammate Dr. A. M. Ham, of Toronto, the score being 6-3, 8-6, 6-3. While Nunns on the next court swamped N. A. Burrows under a deluge of vicious forehand drives at 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Dr. Wright was in splendid form in his match with Dr. Ham, but he found the latter playing sound tennis, which reached great heights at times. Both men relied chiefly on their powerful services to make the breaks, and both advanced frequently to the net, following in on their own delivery or on well-placed drives to the back-line. The local doctor emerged the victor owing to his greater assortment of shots and his splendid court generalship, while the Toronto doctor relied chiefly on a hard driving game, coupled with a net attack to deal with Wright's attack.

The Canadian champion took the opening set after breaking through Ham's service in the second game and holding his advantage to the end. Wright took the lead in the second set, only to see Ham equalize. But though hard-pressed, Wright again took the lead and the set. Dr. Ham made his great effort i nthe third set running up a lead of 5-3, but then Wright steadied down, and by brilliant stroking and daring volleying evened the count at 5-5. It looked as if this set was to be a repetition of the second, but this time Ham made no mistake, and broke through Wright's serve in the fourteenth game to take the set.

After the rest interval Wright stepped in to the attack once more and forced Ham into frequent errors with a barrage of stinging drives, sliced backhands and well-angled volleys. Ham continued to fight and pulled off some brilliant passing shots, staying right in the game until the final shot. But Wright's experience and all-round ability told in the end, and Ham had to concede another victory to the Canadian champion.

Nunns was near the top of his form in his match with Burrows. It is doubtful if the Toronto youth has ever played as fine tennis in Montreal, except perhaps in the opening sets of his match against Crocker here last year. His forehand drives were ripping over at a terrific pace and he seemed to be able to land them in either back corner at will. His usually weak backhand was steady and at times was used as an offensive weapon, while he capped his performance with a faultless attack from the net, where his overhead smashes and drop volleys scored frequently. Burrows fought grimly against great odds and at times, especially in the opening set, seemed to be holding his own. But Nunns always rose to the occasion when pressed, and most of Burrows' efforts went for nought.

U. S. INVADERS ARE DEFEATED

"Junior" Coen, George Lott, Sidney and Helen Jacobs Eliminated.

AT WIMBLEDON.

WIMBLEDON, June 29 (A.P.).—Four American invaders bit the turf in the Wimbledon singles yesterday. They were "Junior" Coen, George Lott, Sidney Wood and Helen Jacobs, and they were respectively removed from further competition by H. W. Austin of England, Rene La Coste of France, Pierre Landry of France, and Daphne Arkhurst of Australia.

Coen, who hails from Cincinnati and has been boosted a good deal by such experts as Tilden, put up a smashing battle against the young English stylist. The match was a five set thriller and the scores were: 6—4, 3—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1. Austin's conservative steady persistent playing was too much for the dash of Coen. The Englishman couldn't cope with Coen's drives, but eventually the quieter game proved the winner.

All of France's musketeers advanced in the men's singles, along with Baron de Morpurgo of Italy, Ronald Boyd of Argentina and Pat Crawford of Australia. Henri Cochet, the defending champion, dropped a set before beating H. G. Mayes of England, 6—1, 6—8, 7—5, 6—2, while Morotra was hard pressed to defeat the South African P. D. Spence, 7—5, 7—5, 6—3.

John Hennessey took matters rather easily to defeat the Englishman, G. R. Sherwell, 6—4, 7—5, 6—2.

Favorites among the women to advance included Eileen Bennett of England, Senorita de Alvarez of Spain, Kea Bouman of Holland, Evelyn Colyer and Miss E. H. Harvey of England.

Miss Colyer put out her countrywoman, Miss Joan Fry, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4. To-day Miss Helen Wills will play Miss Harvey.

Miss Wills figured in two victories yesterday, pairing with Frank Hunter in the mixed double to beat the Australians, Jan Kozeluh and J. Slaney, 6—1, 6—2.

She had scarcely a workout in vanquishing the inexperienced French girl, Mlle. V. Gallay, 6—0, 6—0, in a match that served principally to exhibit the slashing power of stroke and accuracy in the champion's game.

Their Majesties in Attendance

CRICKET

The following players will represent the Peterborough Club against the Birchcliffe Club at the Oval on Monday:—

Dunkerley, (Capt.) Thorpe, Stuart, Hammond, Dyer (F.), ade, Smith, Hart, Gore, Hamilton, Dymond and Massey-Cooke. Reserve, F. Imming.

The game will commence at 12.45 sharp and all players are asked to be on the grounds and ready to start at that time. Full practices will be held tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

All those selected to play in the above game are urged to turn out to either one of these practices.

BENEFIT GAME WILL PROVIDE REAL TUSSLE

East Peterborough Stars Will Furnish Plenty of Opposition.

A STRONG OUTFIT.

Intermediates Have Selected the Cream of the Loop.

To-morrow's benefit game at James Stevenson Park between the Peterborough Central Leaguers and an All-Star team from the East Peterborough loop in aid of Players Lebarr and Rooke should provide a real interesting afternoon. The Petes will start Angus Macdonald against the intermediate selects and Al. Heckman may also be seen in action on the mound while the East Peterborough firing squad will include Scotty Maudsley of Raybestos, Bun Frost of the Crescents and Billingsley and Vannest of the Cogs. The East Peterborough gang will be under the management of Art Primeau of the Raybestos and they can be counted upon to furnish plenty of opposition for the senior outfit.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

The East Peterborough teams have been playing smart ball and the line up selected for tomorrow is thoroughly representative and capable. The Petes as far as possible will field their regular team the game being an excellent workout for their two big Central Ontario League battles with Belleville and Deloro on Monday.

The game will give the fans a chance to compare the ball played in the two leagues and the proceeds will go to the two injured players. Lew Lebarr, Sr., has donated half a dozen balls for the game and there will be practically no expenses so a neat sum should be realized.

ROYALS TAKE LAST OF SERIES

Beat Buffalo 6-2, Strong Defence Featuring—Jersey City Wins.

BUPNT BEATS BIRDS.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 29. — Playing marvellous defence, the Montreal Royals had no difficulty beating the Bisons in the final game of the series here yesterday. The score was 6 to 2. Radwin and Stapleton featured in the magic defence, the pair negotiating three double plays in the first six innings, each coming just after a Bison opened the round with a safe hit. Radwan picked at least three hits right out of the Bison averages. Fowler and Murphy featured on the offence, each blasting three hits. Fisher hit a homer for Buffalo in the seventh and it was the eighteenth circuit drive of the five-game series.

Reading Misses Chance.

READING, Pa., June 29. — Jersey City outscored Reading by 11 to 7 here yesterday in the final clash of a five game series. The Keys nevertheless finished with an edge of three games to two over the Black Cats for the complete engagement.

Harrison was knocked out of the box in the opening inning when the first four Jersey City batsmen hit safely, and Henderson was removed in the home half after passing the first three Keys to fill the bases with none out. Each team got four runs in the wild first round.

Bears Beat Birds.

NEWARK, N. J., June 29. — A perfect bunt by Bill Lamar in the ninth with all the bases populated enabled the Bears to win from the Baltimore team, 5-4, and break even in the four-game series. The veteran Fritz Coumbe was sent into the box in the ninth inning after Bolen was touched for a double. Lamar's hit sent Bagby home with the winning run. With two on in the second Malone cracked his eleventh homer of the season. Then in the fourth Mackin hit for the circuit.

Mickey Devine was banished from the game for disputing a decision.

MOOSE LOSE 12-8 DECISION

Kiwanis Victors in Juvenile League Fixture Play Ragged Ball.

The Kiwanis Juvenile gained their fourth straight victory over the Moose by a 12—8 score in a ragged exhibition of ball.

Dinesen started off for the losers and although he only allowed two hits, the Kiwanis scored 12 runs. Six free passes and poor support by the fielders helped the Kiwanis along for the first four innings and enabled them to get the runs.

In the fourth, Kay replaced Dinesen and from then on the Kiwanis failed to score.

The Moose were also poor at bat and Woods' pitching for the winners, held them to one hit and four free passes.

In the fifth frame the Moose boys started a little rally, led by Kay's drive past first, and scored two runs. In the next innings, Merret pitched and the bases were filled, but Dinesen's infield fly was caught by Weir and the side retired.

In the seventh, the Moose scored five runs, although they only secured one hit, but were assisted by four walks. Score by innings:

Kiwanis	1 3 2 6 0 0 0—12
Moose	0 0 1 0 2 0 5— 8

Spectators Argue over Seats at Tennis Exhibition at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—While tennis enthusiasts who jammed the galleries at the central court yesterday were watching H. W. Austin, brilliant young Englishman, take the measure of the much boosted Wilbur Coon of Cincinnati, there was some difficulty about seats and a battle among the spectators added to the good clean fun

During the third set of the blistering match, the umpire on the court was forced to turn referee when a free for all broke out in the crowded aisles of the tiny enclosure, excited crowds, milling in the gangways, crushed down toward the players and in a moment fists were flying.

Those who had gained precious seats objected strenuously as the mob blocked their view. Throughout the second set, a group of elderly men bellowed continually for those in front to sit down. When their pleas went unheeded, they drew their trusty umbrellas, standard equipment for every man attending the Wimbledon display, and advanced to the attack.

Several crushed bowlers marked the first casualties as the warfare grew hot. The umpire finally stopped the play, decrecating such unseemly conduct from tennis spectators, usually the most decorous of all sport fans.

Maybe the row will be mentioned in Parliament.

DRAGOONS WIN AT SOFTBALL

Defeat Ottawa and Kingston Regiments in Brigade Sports.

TAKE ALL DAY TRIP.

(Special to The Examiner)

BARRIEFIELD, June 29.—Tuesday brought fair weather and the whole regiment moved off early for all day maneuvres under Lieut-Col. Powell and the squadron commanders. Noon lunch was carried and the regiment returned to camp at 5 p.m.

The Brigade sports program was started with a softball game between 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, P.L.D.C. had Lieut. Dymond as manager and with Major Sloan catcher and Major Stewart pitcher a hard fought victory resulted for the Peterborough unit by the score of 10-6.

The team:

With hardly a break for rest the winning team had to meet the 4th Hussars and easily cleaned up 18-5. The same team played except that Trooper Marshall played centre field, Corporal O'Brien going to left in place of Corporal Calladine.

The regiment is fast developing a splendid espirit de corps and the O.C. commended a regiment where 2 squadron commanders took the lead in the regimental ball team.

Wednesday.

General brigade inspection in morning. The rest of the camp will be spent in brigade maneuvres giving two all day parades to the developing of mass formation work.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE SOMETIMES CRUEL.

It is said that only spiders and human beings practise torture. There is no end to illustrations of cruelty and torture on the part of human beings. The North American Indian practised torture of enemies as a fine art. Flaying, burning alive, hacking off arms and legs, and scalping were the common practice.

A correspondent to this column refers to the "instinct to harm."

Instinct is usually defined as an inborn persistent tendency to a definite act. Cruelty could not qualify as an instinct. Moreover, it is generally agreed that there is no evil instinct and that none of the instincts are bad in themselves. Each serves a useful purpose in the life of the individual. Take the instinct of curiosity, for example, which leads to investigation, exploration and adventure, resulting in knowledge and progress. The sex instinct leads to the propagation of the race and the continuance of the species. Every instinct has a good and useful purpose.

It is true, however, that while there is no evil instinct, any of the instincts may be perverted through over indulgence or oversuppression or abuse. Thus, the instinct of curiosity may be perverted into meddlesomeness, rank gossip and scandal mongering, and the sex impulse prostituted to unmentionable and revolting depths.

So-called bad instincts are abnormal conditions. There are moral perverts who are lacking in the final sensibilities. But there is no scientific evidence pointing to a universal instinct for cruelty. We must account for the widespread practices of torture on the basis of social custom and traditions as a means of protection and for terrorizing others. If any instinct at all is involved it is the instinct of self-assertion, which is not inherently bad.

Freud uses the term sadism to describe a certain type of moral pervert who takes pleasure in causing suffering on the part of a wife or husband.

One bit of Carelessness at the wheel

A whole vacation spoiled —perhaps worse

They left for their vacation by motor—all happy and free from care. This was the holiday they had planned months ago. But the driver took a chance—was careless or inattentive for just a moment. An accident! Vacation utterly ruined—perhaps worse.

It happens too often. Yet most motor accidents can be averted if drivers will only be constantly alert.

Again Ontario highways lure the holiday seekers. Because of the Canadian National Holiday on Monday and the American National Holiday on Wednesday, during this week-end over three million persons will be touring, or driving to the scene of their summer enjoyment. Automobile traffic will probably reach a volume never known before. The accident hazard will increase in far greater proportions.

The slightest bit of carelessness or inattention is a positive risk. Play safe always. The few minutes to be gained by taking a chance are not worth anything if risk is incurred.

The driver who maintains a reasonable, steady speed, gets there almost as soon—and gets there safely. The reckless driver, cutting in and out of traffic, now "stepping on it," now jamming brakes, gains little in time and is a constant danger to himself and to his passengers and other innocent people on the road.

During this week-end Traffic Officers and Municipal Police will be particularly vigilant and maximum punishment may be expected by all who receive a summons.

Remember
These 7 Rules of Safety

1. Have your car in perfect mechanical shape—particularly Brakes, Steering Gear and Headlights.
2. Give your undivided attention to your driving. In passing traffic, be sure there is a place for you in the traffic line ahead.
3. When other motor vehicles try to pass you—let them pass.
4. In entering main streets or highways, or in approaching a railway crossing where a full view of the track is obstructed, stop and look.
5. Don't "loaf" where traffic is heavy.
6. Always signal before you slow down, stop or change your course.
7. Never back up before ascertaining that the road behind is clear.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Today: Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND FLICKER'S FUN

Flicker, the little June Bug boy, was sitting on top of Uncle Wiggily's tall, silk hat, having a fine ride. For as Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods, looking for an adventure, the old rabbit gentleman carried the little June Bug boy along with him.

"I hope I'm not too heavy for you, Uncle Wig," buzzed Flicker, as he looked down over the edge of Uncle Wiggily's hat.

"Oh, not at all," said Mr. Longears. "You're as light as a feather, Flicker."

Then, all of a sudden, the June Bug boy began to laugh.

"What is the matter?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, you do look so funny!" chuckled Flicker. "Your face is so very, very queer."

"Is that so?" asked Uncle Wiggily, coming to a stop near a little pool of water, which was like a mirror. "I'll take a look and see what is wrong."

But when he had looked at himself in the water glass the old gentleman rabbit said:

"I don't see anything the matter with my face."

"Oh, I guess it's just because I'm looking at you upside down that you seem so queer. Wait a minute." Flicker flew down off the hat, over the edge of which he had been peering down at Uncle Wiggily, and the June Bug boy perched himself on one of the buttons of the rabbit's coat. From there he could look up at his face.

"How about me?" asked Uncle Wiggily, anxiously.

"You're all right now," said Flicker. "It was just the upside down look that was funny."

"I'm glad of that!" said Mr. Longears with a laugh at the June Bug boy's fun. Then he hopped on, letting Flicker ride perched on a button and after a while the June Bug boy said:

"I'm not very smart, Unkie Wig. I think I'd like to go to the Hollow Stump School you told me about and have the Lady Mouse teach me."

"Why do you think you aren't smart, Flicker?" asked the bunny.

"Because I only found two mistakes in the puzzle picture you made for me yesterday," buzzed Flicker. "I ought to go to school."

"Perhaps you had," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "In the puzzle picture I made, after your mother and I cleaned the gum off your wings yesterday so you could fly, there were three mistakes. The birds were flying upside down, the leaves on the weeds were upside down on their stems and the barrel had no hoops to hold it together."

"That's what I missed—the hoops on the barrel," buzzed Flicker. "I must go to school to learn to be smarter."

So Uncle Wiggily said he would hop with the June Bug boy to the Hollow Stump School, taught by the Lady Mouse. On the way, all of a sudden, the Bob Cat jumped out from behind a bush and tried to catch Mr. Longears. But the bunny hopped fast and Flicker flew off the button and banged himself into the eyes of the Bob Cat so hard that the Bad Chap couldn't see to catch Uncle Wiggily, who got safely away.

Pretty soon Uncle Wiggily and Flicker reached the Hollow Stump School. Miss Mouse very kindly said she would teach the June Bug boy some lessons. The other animal children were very kind and helped Flicker. Then, after a while, Miss Mouse said:

"Now, Flicker, go to the blackboard; write a sentence and do some number work." Flicker dipped his legs in chalk dust and made some marks on the blackboard.

"Why, Flicker!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "You have made a puzzle picture with three more mistakes in it. You have——"

"Wait! Don't tell him!" squeaked the Lady Mouse. "Let some of the other children see if they can tell Flicker's mistakes."

Every little pupil looked at the blackboard, just as you are doing.

INSURANCE MAN HONORED

C. M. BOWMAN,
chairman of the Board, Mutual Life of Canada, Waterloo, in honor of whose 65th birthday a special drive is being made. June is Bowman Month to Mutualists,

In connection with a special drive for business, the month of June has been named "Bowman Month" in honor of Mr. C. M. Bowman, the chairman of the Board of the Mutual Life of Canada, Waterloo, Ont., who has just celebrated his 65th birthday.

Mr. Bowman is the son of the late Mr. I. E. Bowman, the first president of the Mutual Life—Canada's pioneer mutual. For twenty-one years Mr. Bowman represented a Bruce County constituency in the Ontario Legislature and he has operated a successful manufacturing concern.

In 1915 he was elected to the Board of Directors; in 1920 appointed to the position of chairman of the Executive, and in 1926, when the office of chairman of the Board was created, he was called upon to fill that office.

"Bowman Month" is proving to be a highly successful tribute to this well-known Mutualist. Keen interest was stimulated by the recent announcement of a special extra dividend amounting to $700,000 to be paid to Mutual policyholders in addition to their regular 1928 dividend, and another milestone in the company's history was passed early this month when the total assurances in force reached the four hundred million dollar mark ($400,000,000).

The solid, substantial growth of this fine old company from nothing in 1869 to this inspiring figure in June, 1928, is both a tribute to the Mutual principle and an evidence of the high esteem in which this strictly Canadian company—writing business only in Canada and Newfoundland—is held.

GLITTERING MELODRAMA WINS HIGH ACLAIM

"The Girl From Chicago"

Melodrama, good old-fashioned, honest melodrama, never loses its claim on our imaginations and in Warner Bros. production, "The Girl from Chicago," starring Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy, and now at the Regent Theatre, true melodrama again comes to life. Here is the thrill of the subterranean haunts of a great city, the crooks, the cops and the upright and the mean, and through it all glitters the brave girl who has come from her sheltered Southern home to free her brother from the gang which has caused his sentence to execution. Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy give brilliant performances and the strong supporting cast includes William Russell, Carrol Nye, Paul Panzer and Erville Alderson, Ray Enright directed.

AT THE CAPITOL.

BEBE DANIELS IN "FEEL MY PULSE."

One of the light, entertaining pictures that are especially adapted to summer weather is the feature at the Capitol Theatre for the last half of this week, with the zippy Bebe Daniels as the star performer, in a role that shows her as a neurotic invalid of self-imposed type, who is constantly worried about her pulse and her heart, which is supposed to be afflicted with hereditary angina pectoris.

She is Barbara Manning, heiress to a thirty million dollar fortune and the aforementioned weak heart and she is left to the care of guardians who do everything to make her existense as antiseptic and thrill-less as possible. A Texan uncle, arriving on the scene, advises a change to a more peppy type of life, but Barbara frowns on the thought. However, on her twenty-first birthday, she decided to pay a visit to the Manning Sanitarium, a former flourishing resort of invalids which has been left to the care of a weak-minded man who has handed it over to the tender mercies of a band of rum-runners. Their chief is Phil Todd, played by William Powell, one of the convincing villains of the screen.

Barbara arrives on the scene to find the rum-runners essaying the role of invalids, in order to deceive her and keep her from knowing the truth. She makes friends with a particularly bad egg who is addicted to rum and is supposed to be very ill. She exchanges medicines with him and he consumes quantities of liquid remedies in a manner that causes a shiver to run over the watchers. Barbara gets mildly drunk and Todd commences to annoy her, but is prevetned by one of the gang, a supposed rum-runner who is really a reporter and engaged in writing up conditions outside the three mile limit. Richard Arlen has this role of Wallace Roberts. The two have a wild time when hi-jackers arrive on the island to engage in a fight with the rum runners, but the picture ends satisfactorily, as usual. It is a vivacious, artificial and entertaining affair, and the comedy that accompanies it provides plenty of laughs.

Visitor Gets $5 Gold Piece

Peterborough home, the lady of the house opened the door and exclaiming "Why Mr. Free I imagined you were an old man with whiskers." Mr. Free answered, "No I am not as old as I might be." When you see a man who weighs about 190 pounds, is six feet in height, has blue eyes and fair hair, (what's left of it) it is Mr. Free, that's a safe guess.

How to Win $150.00 in Cash
If Mr. Free is caught eleven times during his engagement in Peterborough, one of the lucky eleven persons will receive besides his Five Dollar Gold Piece an Award of $150.00 in cash. This amount will be deposited in the Royal Bank, "The Friendly Bank," which Mr. Free chose himself.

Watch for Car
Mr. Free's schedule for Saturday will be any street in Peterborough, so watch for the Hudson Super-Six Sedan on your street. If you are prepared and do not think he will knock at the door, call The Daily Examiner and leave your street and number. If he does not come the first day, be prepared with each day's slogan, because he will make his friendly calls and distribute gold coins until Thursday, July 5th.

Mr. Free's Memory Exercise
Mr. Free has chosen the following business places to carry out his plans and each place of business has a special day. To the readers of The Examiner, Mr. Free offers $5.00 in Gold for the Best Slogan on the place of business to be featured each day.

Rules
1—You must start the slogan by the greeting for Mr. Free.
2—You must mention The Examiner.
3—You must close with the make of car he is driving.
4—You must not use more than 50 words of less than 25.
This, readers of The Examiner, is very simple. Just look over the slogans and if Mr. Free uses your slogan just nail him anywhere on the street and collect.

Saturday—Parker's Day
Parker's Cleaning and Dyeing and Specialists in the art of removing spots.

Monday. Fanning's Laundry Day
Fanning's Laundry with new and modern equipment for handling the family washing, washed, dried and ironed, and when they return they are safe to clothe the little folk. Safe to grace your table, your bed, your bath. Follow them out some day and visit Fanning's and their new home at 171 King Street.

Tuesday—Lillow's Day
The Lillow Shoe Store for perfect fitting and particular people's shoes—Men, Women and Children.

Wednesday—Bond's Drug Store Day.
A good place to shop because they always have what you want and I know from experience at the lowest prices in Peterborough. Waited on by a staff of competent, courteous clerks and prompt delivery service.

Thursday—Peterborough Milk Products Day
Dairy Products, the Home of wholesome food.
The Slogans for Parker's Dye Works and Fanning's Laundry must be in The Examiner Office not later than 12 p.m. noon Saturday, on account of Monday's holiday.
Now, folks, just sit down, read over their respective advts, and exercise your memory and think out the slogan you would like to have Mr. Free use on the different firms he has chosen to do business with and mail to to Mr. Free, care of Peterborough Examiner. He may use it and you will be $5.00 to the good.

WATCH FOR THE SEDAN
The best tip that Mr. Free can give you is to watch for the blue Hudson Sedan. Just as soon as you see the car, reach for the most recent copy of The Examiner and take it to the door with you. Take plenty of time while saying the words, for Mr. Free will not say anything in any way to interrupt you. That is where so many persons fail in the attempt. They feel too sure of themselves, try to say the words too fast and make a mistake.
Mr. Free was asked why he chose a Hudson Super-Six Sedan, and his answer was "Because of power-pep in Hudson Super-Six. Service counts, and all authorized Hudson-Essex dealers give service."
Mr. Free will make twenty calls in Peterborough each day this week. Grab The Examiner and say the magic words of greeting to every person who rings your door bell or knocks at your door.
Mr. Free uses Super-Power and Peerless Gasoline, distributed by the British American Oil Co., Ltd., because it fires quickly and cleanly and their stations everywhere are ready to serve you.
One woman repeated the slogan correctly, except in the word peerless, in which she said powerful. Then she tried to excuse herself, saying she had never driven a car and did not know the different brands of gasoline, but if he was lucky enough to guess the miles driven by Mr. Free in the Hudson Super-Six Sedan she might induce her husband to purchase a car from the Brewer Motor Sales, then she would be able to greet Mr. Free properly when he returned to The Peterborough Examiner at some future date.

Do Dreams Come True?
Mr. Free in his wide range of experience has met much in the way of amusement, but it took Peterborough to give him his first experience in wrecking his faith in dreams. One woman dreamt one night that Mr. Free called and she repeated the slogan correctly, and that she was presented with the $5.00 gold piece, then Mr. Free had just left for a few minutes when he came back and said: "Mistress ——, you repeated the formula so well that I am going to give you another gold piece, and he did." But when Mr. Free really did call, the Peterborough Examiner had been placed behind the mirror for safe keeping, and in her hurry to get the paper and get to the door, she knocked down the mirror, and in her excitement, forgot the magic words, and her dreams proved anything but prophetic.
(Hope you're not superstitious, lady, because Mr. Free doesn't wish you seven years of bad luck.)

Magic Words for Saturday.
Pardon me, Mr. Free, you are from The Daily Examiner, a paper Peterborough should be proud of. I see you are driving a Hudson Super Six Sedan, protected from all harm by L. L. Maguire, against fire, theft, collision, liability, and property damage.
Now, folks, if you try to get Mr. Free's gold just as hard as he is going to try to keep it himself, no doubt you will get many five dollar gold pieces before his engagement comes to a close. You must say the slogan correctly, word for word, as given in this article. Smile and the world smiles with you. Forget that Daily Examiner, and you get no five Mr. Free will try to have something new for you each day. Watch The Examiner for full details. Watch for the Hudson Super-Six, and don't forget the slogan.

WEDDING BELLS

WALLING—MARTIN.
The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. B. Greatrix, yesterday, at 438 Park street, of Victoria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of North Monaghan, and Sidney Norman Walling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walling of Haliburton.
Attendants were Miss Viola Susan Martin, sister of the bride, and Mr. Alvin Clifford Walling, cousin of the bridegroom.

NEILSON—DOUGLAS.
A quiet wedding was solemnized at Norwood on June 27, when the Rev. Mr. Moyer united in marriage Alice May Douglas to Frederick Oscar Neilson, both of Westwood.
The bride wore a dress of embroidered rose georgette, with hat, shoes and hose to match.
After the ceremony, the happy couple left on the afternoon train for Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a coat of navy poiret twill.
On their return they will reside in Westwood.

BUDD—LONG
A pretty wedding took place at one o'clock to-day at St. John's Church, when the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Florence Minnie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland G. Long, 168 McDonnel street, to Bertram Armstead Budd of Newmarket, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bugg, Wolsley street, Peterborough. The wedding music was played by Frederick G. Mann., A.Mus.
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of poudre blue georgette, the skirt made in bouffant style with pointed hemline and the bodice trimmed with French flowers. Her hat was of fine grey Visca straw piped with blue ribbon and she wore grey kid gloves, grey kid slippers and grey silk hose. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. Her bouquet was of columbia roses and orange blossoms.
The matron of honor, Mrs. Cecil J. Foley, sister of the bride, was in beige Canton crepe with hat, shoes and hose to match and bouquet of red carnations.
A dainty little flower girl, Freda Gray, niece of the bridegroom, wore a frock and hat of peach organdie and carried a basket of tea roses.
Mr. William Bugg, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.
After the ceremony, a reception to thirty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. R. G. Long wearing grey French crepe, with corsage bouquet of pink carnations, and Mrs. R. Bugg in brown embroidered French voile, with corsage of pink carnations.
The bride's table was centred by the three-tiered cake, which was topped by an ornament sent from England, a pair of little wax hands which formed the adornment of her grandmother's sixtieth wedding anniversary cake.
Floral decorations of the house were done in tea roses, peonies and carnations.
Mr. Budd and his bride left later by motor for a trip to Hamilton and points west, en route to their home in Newmarket. The bride travelled in a gown of grey taffeta trimmed with tiny French blue bows. She wore a coat of silver needlepoint with cape back and platinum fox collar and her hat, shoes and hose were in matching shades.
The gift of the bridegroom to the bridge was a set of rose, pearl and amber French ivory; to the matron of honor, a silver mayonaise spoon; to the best man, a pearl pin, and to the little flower girl, a doll carriage.
A cablegram from the bride's grandparents in England formed one of the messages received at the wedding.

MARRIED.
NEILSON-DOUGLAS—At Norwood on Wednesday, June 27th, by the Rev. Mr. Moyer, Frederick Oscar Neilson to Alice May Douglas, both of Westwood.

IN MEMORIAM.
NINA FLETCHER. — In loving memory of our dear little friend, who passed away June 29, 1927.
—Rosemary and Irene Kumary.

IN MEMORIAM
FLETCHER—In loving memory of Nina A. Fletcher, who died June 29, 1927.
It is not the tears at the time that are shed
That tell the heart is torn,
But the passionate tears in the after years
And a remembrance in prayer, silently borne.
No sweeter thoughts our souls can frame,
No sweeter words our lips can name
Infants, when her love first came,
Grow-up, we found it just the same,
And reverently we breathe her name,
The sacred name of Nina.
—Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. A. Fisher and Lucy and Horace.

IN MEMORIAM.
BUCK—In sad and loving memory of our darling Lillian, who passed into rest June 29, 1927.
The midnight stars are gleaming
On a lone and silent grave,
Beneath sleeps one we loved
But one we couldn't save.
Her weary hours and days of pain
Her troubled nights are past,
Her ever patient worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
The flowers we place upon your little grave
May wither and decay,
But the love and memory that you left
Will never fade away.
—Inserted by father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buck, Hastings, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM.
FLETCHER—In loving memory of little Nina Fletcher, who died 29th June, 1927.
There is someone who misses you sadly,
And has found the year long since you went;
There is someone who misses you daily,
Though we try to be brave and content
Time moves on and we are reminded
Of a day our hearts were crushed
When God took you, oh so quickly,
And we all in our gloom were thrust.
Times may come and bring many changes,
Fresh with every coming year.
But your memory we will cherish
In the hearts that loved you here.
Adieu, sweet blossom early culled,
Who grief nor sorrow knew
Come but to win your parents' love
And then to Heaven withdrew.
—Sadly missed by mother, father and sister.

DISTRICT FARMERS ATTEND CENTRAL AYRSHIRE BREEDERS ANNUAL PICNIC AT HAVELOCK

Many Breeders Take Part in Judging Contests—Moving Picture Shown.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Addresses Heard On Feeding As Important Factor To Good Breeding.

The Central Ayrshire Breeders held their picnic this year yesterday at the People Brothers' farm, about seven miles below Havelock. There was a good crowd of interested breeers in spite of the bad weather that held many away. The farm is an ideal one, owned by Robert and William People. It consists of five hundred acres, including every variety of land as well as a muskrat farm. The barn is large and spacious, harboring a herd of thirty head of the finest Ayrshire cattle in the country, a perfect example of scientific feeding. The house is a large red brick structure, in keeping with the modern appearance of the farm.

There was a large tent erected on the side lawn, in which the speeches and meeting were held. The large garage was turned into a refreshment booth, where anything the heart desired could be purchased. Ice-cream, chocolate bars, cigars, were all there, to say nothing of the tasty home-made cakes that were rapidly cut and sold.

Alexander Hume, representative of the National Dairy Council, and of Humeshaugh Farm, acted as chairman of the meeting. He is a leading Ayrshire breeder and past president of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders. "The club now extends from Toronto to Brockville," said the chairman in his opening address, "which is a very large territory with many members, but there should be more. When Mr. Hunter resigned as a director the Hon. Frank Briggs was elected in his place. I believe this to be an injustice to our district. There should have been a representative of this section. We should protest as a club. We are too modest. The Nova Scotia Club at their recent meeting had the Lieutenant-Governor give an address, as also the Minister of Agriculture. Why can't we do that? Make our meetings interesting. We should have our field day fixed at least a month ahead of time and advertised in the agriculture magazines. As representative of the National Dairy Council, a few words will not be out of place. It is the strongest body in Canada in regard to dairy matters. It has lowered the rates on butter and cheese, and has done more for butter than cheese, but will do all in its power for both. They are fighting for the cancellation of a revision of the Australian and New Zealand tariff of one cent a pound and return to the old tariff of three cents a pound. It is not politics, but affects every dairyman and cheese factory. Australia also pays a bounty of six cents a pound for butter exported. The Dairy Council has expert lawyers working for them, but they need revenue and ask the dairymen to contribute something to their fund.

Walter Smith.

Walter Smith, B.S.A., agriculture representative for Northumberland, was next. He heartily endorsed the idea of bigger and better speakers. They should have prominent men address the meeting, and asked some time in advance in order that they may have time to prepare an address. Something interesting and something for the best could be arranged. Mr. Nelson and myself, said Mr. Smith, will be glad to help you, and if you arrange your date in advance we will aid in getting good speakers.

"The situation to-day," continued the speaker, "is hard to sum up. Where are we going and how far is the question concerning agriculturists here? This applies to all business of to-day. Illustrated by a firm in Guelph where 60 per cent. of the steering wheel devices were made. A machine to make a nut was installed and enabled the firm to reduce their price under their nearest competitor by five cents saved on the one article. We in the agriculture business are in the same position concerning competition. Farming is not a tough proposition; it has its disadvantages, but what business hasn't? We have to apply business ability if we want to get along. I have worked in a big factory, and we do not know anything about competition in the country. If we figured what others have ot do we would appreciate our own position. eW do not make the most of our opportunities. Make the best of what we have at hand. It is not only feasible but logical that everyone who can keep accredited and registered stock should do so. If you cannot keep accredited grades, keep the best possible, which is a pure grade without the papers. But why not get the papers?

Records Are Necessary.

"Records to-day are necessary. They tell us things we cannot find out any other way. In recent tests records show that the small Leghorn hen will not lay as heavy or as large or as many eggs as the larger

MR. FREE PAYS $10 ON FRIDAY

One Lady Repeats Slogan Right, While Another Writes One.

WORKS ON HOLIDAY.

Mr. Free visited 391 Armour Road in response to one of the many telephone calls and was greeted properly by Mrs. Alice Fitzgerald, who had the formula correctly memorized.

Memory Exercise Reward.

Slogan for Thursday was written by Mrs. William Roebusk, R. R. No. 3, Peterborough.

Mrs. Roebuck, please call the Examiner for your $5.00 order on the Royal Bank of Canada, the friendly bank of which Mr. V. Eastwood is the able manager.

One of the places of business that is linked up with Mr. Free's campaign in Peterborough, is Stock's Bread, makers of the most popular product in Peterborough and for a large radius from the city. Stock's Bread is one of the best known household words in hundreds of homes. On Thursday next when Mr. Free makes his calls the readers of the Daily Examiner will be requested to bring a Stock Bread ticket to the door with them along with the Daily Examiner and to the one who writes the best slogan on Stock's Bread, according to the rules of the contest, combining it with Tuesday's, Wednesday's and Thursday's slogan, will be awarded with an extra special prize of $5.00 in trade beside the Gold Piece Order on the Royal Bank of Canada.

A left-handed compliment was given Mr. Free at one home yesterday. The lady who came to the door, instead of bringing her Peterborough Examiner and launching into the prescribed greeting, became reminiscent. "Why, are you Mr. Free?" she exclaimed. "While I was in London last summer, they had a freak that looked just like you working on one of the newspapers there." "Yes, lady they did," said Mr. Free, his smile still visible through the rapidly spreading crimson of embarrassment, "I was the freak."

How to Win $150.00 in Cash

If Mr. Free is caught eleven times during his engagement in Peterborough, one of the lucky eleven persons will receive besides his Five Dollar Gold Piece an Award of $150.00 in cash. This amount will be deposited in the Royal Bank, which Mr. Free chose himself.

Watch for Car

Mr. Free's schedule for Saturday will be any street in Peterborough, so watch for the Hudson Super-Six Sedan on your street. If you are prepared and do not think he will knock at the door, call The Daily Examiner and leave your street and number. If he does not come the first day, be prepared with each day's slogan, because he will make his friendly calls and distribute gold coins until Thursday, July 5th.

Mr. Free's Memory Exercise

Mr. Free has chosen the following business places to carry out his plans and each place of business has a special day. To the readers of The Examiner, Mr. Free offers $5.00 in Gold for the Best Slogan on the place of business to be featured each day.

Rules

1—You must start the slogan by the greeting for Mr. Free.
2—You must mention The Examiner.
3—You must close with the make of car he is driving.
4—You must not use more than 50 words of less than 25.

This, readers of The Examiner, is very simple. Just look over the slogans and if Mr. Free uses your slogan just nail him anywhere on the street and collect.

BUSINESS EDUCATORS MEET FOR DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Heads of Business Colleges of Ontario Gather in Peterborough.

ENJOY SCENERY.

Discuss Business Practice and Standards of Commercial Education.

The members of the Business Educators' Association of Canada for this district are holding a conference in Peterborough. The members arrived yesterday and had their roll call at The Lakefield Inn. From there they travelled to Young's Point, where the first business meeting was held.

J. A. McKone, president of the Peterborough Business College, is acting as their host. He told The Examiner that there were many favorable comments passed on the scenery and attractiveness of the district and that many expressed their intention of returning after the trip yesterday.

The representatives are here discussing commercial problems, such as shorthand and bookkeeping, and to set high standards so that the students that graduate will be best fitted for service.

The Peterborough Business College, which is a member of the association, has a very high standard. The history behind the organization is interesting.

The system of graduation in private commercial schools before 1896 was acknowledged to be a weakness. To overcome this defect representative school men met in Hamilton in 1896 to discuss the feasibility of a uniform standard of examinations. The outcome was a plan so devised as to have for its objective the elevation of the standard of business education and shorthand education in Canada. By-laws governing the conduct of its members were formed and a plan formulated by which it sofficers were elected annually.

Among other requirements, school affiliating with the association have the required equipment and a qualified teaching staff, and send up and pass a certain number of candidates each year or lose their affiliation. Several schools have been dropped because of this, and the better schools between Halifax and Vancouver are members of the association and enjoy its privileges.

The B.E.A. is the only association of business college proprietors in Canada, and the Peterborough Business College is the only institution between Ottawa and Toronto in affiliation with it.

The membership includes schools from coast to coast.

The following Schools are members of the Association: Maritime Business College, Halifax, N. S.; Fredericton, N.B.; Gowlng Business College, Ottawa, Ont; Peterborough Business College, Peterborough, Ont.; Shaw's Business and Shorhand Schools, Toronto, Ont.; Barrie Business College, Barrie, Ont.; Canada Business College, Hamilton, Ont.; Park Business College, Hamilton, Ont.; St. Catherines Business College, St. Catharines, Ont.; Brantford Business College, Brantford Ont; Galt Business College, Galt, Ont.; Euler Business College, Kitchener, Ont.; Westervelt School, London, Ont.; St. Thomas Business College, St. Thomas, Ont.; Windsor Business College, Windsor, Ont.; Sarnia Business College, Sarnia Ont.; Success Business College, Winnipeg, Man.; Sprott-Shaw School, Vancouver, B. C.; B. C Commercial and Secretarial Schools, Vancouver, B.C.; Robinson Business College Waterford, Ont.; Simcoe Business College, Simcoe, Ont.; Sprott-Shaw Business College, Victoria, B.C.; Wheat City Business College, Man.

Members attending the convention, which this morning held its closing session in The Peterborough Business College are: A. J. Park of The Park Business College, Hamilton; W. E. Brown, of the Galt Business College; Miss Florence Surby of the Windsor Business College; W. J. Marshall of the Westervelt School, London; W. E. Nixon, of the Euler Business College, Kitchener; A. F. Sprout, of the Commercial Text Book Company, Toronto; P. McIntosh, of Shaw's Schools, Toronto; R. E. Clemens of the Canada Business College, Hamilton; R. R. Stringer of the Sarnia Business College; I. F. Wright, of the St. Catharine's Business College; J. M. Rosser of the St. Thomas Business College; W. H. Stableton, registrar of the organization at St. Thomas; A. E. Day, of the Brantford Business College; J. H. Bowden of the Simcoe Business College; W. A. Turner of the Barrie Business College; F. M. Wright of Windsor Business College, and J. A. McKone, of Peterborough Business College.

"The idea of having the opening meetings in the Lake District," Mr. McKone said. "Was to boost this section of the country and to how the country and to show the delegates what we have here."

Owing to wet weather, the Rangers Friday night band concert had to be postponed, but by arrangement with the chairman of the Finance Committee, the band will play in Victoria Park (weather permitting) at 8.30 on Sunday evening.

Two Men Drowned when Canoe Upsets

WINNIPEG, Man., June 30. — (Canadian Press).—Two mining men were drowned and a third rescued when their canoe capsized in Narrow Lake, situated in Eastern Manitoba.

The dead are: George H. V. Belyea, mining engineer, of Toronto, and Harry Donovan, mine manager.

C. H. Tyrell, the third man in the canoe, was rescued. He is a resident of Winnipeg.

The victim's bodies have not yet been recovered, but a provincial constable is en route to the scene of the accident by aeroplane to conduct a search.

The tragedy occurred while the three men were returning to camp. The motor on the craft stalled, and while attempting to repair it, the canoe upset. Belyea and Donovan attempted to swim to shore, but sank before aid could reach them.

Although the accident occured a week ago, word of the tragedy was not received here until yesterday.

TIMBERS FALL FROM NEW BARN

Workman Has Narrow Escape On Farm of Herb McKay, Otonabee.

HAS FOOT BRUISED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

INDIAN RIVER, June 30. — An accident that might have had serious consequences occurred on the farm of Herb McKay yesterday afternoon. Some twenty-five men were engaged in putting the large timbers on top of the foundation walls of a new barn when in some way one of the timbers got out of control while being raised, and crashed. In falling it knocked down a supporting post and caused another large timber to go down. Archie Davidson was standing on the second timber, and was carried with it. He escaped with a bruised foot.

Fortunately none of the men engaged was inside the foundation at the time, or a fatality might have resulted.

STRAWBERRIES ON SALE TO-DAY

Fine Large Fruit Offered On Farmers' Market—Better Than Last Year's.

HOME GROWN TOMATOES.

Home-grown strawberries made their initial bow of the season to buyers at the farmers' market this morning. They are fine looking berries, better than the first fruit of last year, their redder pulp having its source in the heavy rains of recent weeks, so their growers assert. Upstairs, they were selling at 15 cents for the pint box size and on the open market at 25 to 28 cents for a quart box.

New cabbage also appeared this morning, at 15 cents a head. This is fairly early for cabbage, considering the late spring which kept back the berries until now and has retarded the appearance of new potatoes for still another fortnight. Old potatoes sold at $1.25 a bag.

Local tomatoes, real "love apples" of rich red, were 30 cents a pound.

Butter was quoted at 35 to 40 cents a pound in the basket section and eggs were 33 to 38 cents a dozen. Broilers were 35 cents a pound and hens were priced at 25 to 30 cents a pound.

On the open market, an interesting item was the huge trout from Lake Superior, glistening, fourteen-pound specimens selling at 20 cents a pound, the same price as their smaller cousins from Lake Ontario. Mudcats were 10 cents a pound.

Little Yorkshire piglets were $13 a pair.

Flowers had a large place at the market this morning. Peonies were a nickel apiece, and there were forget-me-nots and sweet william and gaarden heliotrope. Blooming pansy boxes and petunias were 20 and 15 cents a box, respectively. Roots of gaillardia and Veronica were 3 for 25 cents and columbine roots were 2 for a quarter. Cabbage plants were 10 cents a bundle. Gypsophila and phlox were 15 cents a root.

AUTO PILLOW

An oilcloth pillow is a nice gift to the autoist. Often on a trip a pillow eases a weary back and is just the thing to catch a few winks of sleep on.

VISIT ORILLIA LIGHTING PLANT

Utilities Commissioners Will See System July 11—Hydro Wants Rebate.

PAID TOO MUCH FOR LINES.

Peterborough Utilities Commission decided yesterday at its meeting to accept the invitation of the Orillia Power, Water and Light Commission to visit its plant some time in July, and to discuss power problems with the Orillia body. July 11 was suggested as the date when the trip would probably be made.

The Commission decided to reduce the water rate charged to several of the residents on Smith Street who live near the bridge as there is no sewer, and the present revenue from the main more than meets that required by statute.

The manager submitted figures on what the improved lighting plan on Aylmer Street would cost, but as the City Council has not asked for the information as yet the matter was let stand.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission wrote asking a rebate of over $1,600 as in its valuation of the rural lines it found the valuator had made a mistake, and $1,600 too much had been paid to the local Commission. The Peterborough body took the stand that the Ontario Commission had set its own price, and if there had been a mistake made it was not its affair. The matter, however, was referred to the solicitor.

Alderman Greene, chairman of the Parks Committee of the City Council, wrote asking for 12 standards with 300-watt lights to be placed in Victoria Park and two in Confederation Square. Manager Dobbin reported that the standards had been placed in Victoria Park, but that the brackets were not available at present, and that in the case of Confederation Square no work would be done until the monument was erected so that the lighting system would be as effective as possible.

SMITH WANTS LAW REVISED

In Accepting Nomination He Says There Should Be Changes.

CORRUPTION PREVALENT.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Governor Alfred E. Smith has sent an acceptance telegram to the Democratic National Convention in which he reiterated his belief that there should be fundamental changes in the present provision for national prohibition.

He said in the telegram, which was addressed to Senator Robinson, chairman of the convention, that common honesty compels the admission that corruption of law enforcement officials, bootleggers, and lawlessness are prevalent throughout the country.

You bet, they'll be telling them longer beforeMon. will have come and gone, for though July 1 chances to fall on the Sabbath this year, the fact that the fishing season of maskinong and bass opens on that day resulted in a large number of Peterborough fishermen taking to the nearby lakes and streams. Needless to say, that contingent will be augmented on Monday by many more persons whose religious scruples lead them to forego the first day.

Early-season indications are of good fishing in this district though the total catch will be largely determined, as much by the fishermen as by the fish.

Carrier Pigeon Falls in Yard at Nassau

A carrier pigeon, homing or outward bound, it is impossible to say, dropped dead on Thursday in the yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox of Nassau. It appeared to be in good condition, and it is thought that it had probably fed on poisoned grain. It bore on its leg a rubber band inscribed on one side with K742 and on the other with the numerals 688, or 686. A metal band near the claw is marked "Made in Belgium. Det. 26, 22496."

CITY COUNCIL CAN'T FINANCE UNIT'S VISIT

No Funds Available To Bring Toronto Regiment Here Over Holiday.

COMMITTEES MEET.

Routine Business Disposed of by Finance Committee and Board of Works.

Unless some other body than the City Council assumes the financial responsibility the Toronto Regiment (3rd Battalion, C.E.F.), will not visit Peterborough over the Civic Holiday week-end. The aldermen decided last night, in Finance Committee, that they could not affor' to risk $1,000 on the weather in the present state of the city's exchequer.

The proposition, as submitted to the council, was that the regiment would care for $1,000 of its expenses. The balance, about $1,000, the council would guarantee, but the regiment, assisted by the local units, would put on a military display, band concert, and sports program, which it felt would bring in enough money to care for this, with possibly a balance.

A deputation from the Chamber of Commerce, headed by President James Dutton, and Major M. H. Park, second-in-command of the Peterborough Rangers, met the committee in this matter. The Chamber was very anxious to have the matter go through and promised full co-operation; President Dutton even volunteering to take the lead in a joint committee, when this phase of the matter was mentioned; but the Mayor, and the aldermen present split even on a motion that no action be taken and on an amendment that the city guarantee up to $500. A suggestion that the final decision be left over until Tuesday evening's council meeting, which would in effect give Ald. Cotton the casting vote, was turned down, and a motion that the regiment be informed that the city cannot provide these funds this year, but hopes to be able to welcome the men another time, was carried.

Alderman C. H. Ackerman was the principal opponent of the visit in council. He pointed out that St. Catharines and Guelph councils had when the regiment proposed visiting there, voted the full amount required. In answer to the Mayor he admitted that the Toronto Regiment had not invited the Guelph and St. Catharines units to pay a return visit.

"I don't think the people would stand for it," declared Ald. Lowe. "I'm think of the extra work entailed by the war memorial," added Ald. Greene. "It wasn't foreseen when we made our budget. There's the new sidewalk, the grading of the park, the new flagpole, and the moving of the Brown memorial. I'm not against this, but I want to spend the money for the greatest good to the people generally."

Mr. Dutton

"There's no question about it that Peterborough would gain a great deal of publicity from this," declared Mr. Dutton, after outlining the scheme. It would also be an encouragement to the men who are carrying on local units at great disadvantage.

"The proposition is that the city guarantee $1,000, while the sports would draw a large crowd and possibly meet all the expenses.

"The Chamber of Commerce will," he said, "give moral support and cooperate with the local units to put on the program."

A. J. Reynolds felt that the publicity end of the scheme was most important, but he could not see where there would be any loss. There would be a military display at the Exhibition Grounds, such as has not been given here for a number of years, and the people would be very pleased to see them.

Major Park

Major M. H. Park promised the support of the Rangers in the line of entertainment and co-operation in making the matter a success.

"It all boils down to this," summed up Ald. Ackerman: "Can the Chamber of Commerce put on a show that will safeguard the council from paying $1,000."

"It would appear that there is very little interest in the matter among the military men," remarked Ald. Geene, pointing out that only one unit was represented.

"We haven't got the $1,000," was Ald. McIntyre's terse remark.

"It's all a matter of weather," declared Ald. Stocker.

"It doesn't look good for the city to turn it down, after smaller cities have put it over," remarked Ald Phelan.

"Have we the thousand dollars?" asked the Mayor. "I think they should have worked through the military men here and invited them back. To stimulate our own units here, we might better give some money to them and let them go on a trip. They have never invited the units from these other towns."

"We've got to be prepared to pay $1,000 if it's a bad day. It's a good day we won't lose," said Ald. Phelan.

"It will bring in a lot of people to Peterborough," pointed out Ald. Ackerman.

"I think a strong committee could put it over and no matter how bad the weather is we won't lose the whole $1,000," declared Mr. Reynolds.

"We can support you to the extent

CAMPBELLFORD PAPER MILL TO BE CLOSED NEXT MONTH

Company Transferring Men To Frankfort and Toronto Plants.

NEW MILL TO BE OPENED.

Campbellford Plant Likely To Remain Closed Until Business Expands.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30.—Unless some alteration is made to the present indicated plans, the local plant of the Canadian Paperboard Co., Ltd., will not be in operation after the latter part of July or the first of August of this year. At the present time there is a letter posted in the machine room of the mill here under date of June 22nd and signed by David F. Robertson, general manager of the company, whose offices are at 2 Seigneurs street, Montreal. The letter announces that the new Toronto mill will be in operation during the month of August and it will not be possible for some time at least to keep both the Campbellford and Frankfort mills running. This will be the case until such time as the market is able to absorb the increased tonnage.

It is the wish of the company, according to the letter, to employ as many of their men in the two mills that will be in operation as possible. In order to comply with the wishes of the men wherever possible, the employees have been asked to make application to head office for positions either in Toronto or Frankford. These applications are asked for not later than July 1st.

Outside the information which the letter contained, the officials of the mill here could say nothing. The men employed in and about the plant have generally asked to be transferred to Toronto. A few have expressed a wish to be employed in the Frankford mill. Among the men there is an air of depression at thus being called upon to leave the mill and their homes here.

The paper mill, as it is generally known to residents of the district, has been in operation here for almost fifty years. During that time it has changed hands several times and is now one of the properties of the Canadian Paperboard Co., Ltd., with headquarters at Montreal. David F. Robertson, general manager, was formerly manager of the mill here. There are on the payroll about sixty men which includes the two shifts from the mill and the office staff. The mill capacity here is thirty-five tons daily, as compared with about forty-five at Frankford and one hundred at the new mill, which is shortly to be put in operation in Toronto.

In February 1916 the mill here suffered severe loss from fire but was rebuilt and has been steadily in operation since that time. The men employed are practically all owners of their homes. Campbellford will lose a number of good citizens by this change in operations.

As well as being one of the oldest established industries of the town, the plant here is practically self-contained. It owns its own power plant, which is capable of developing one thousand horse power. This is the result of the settlement made with the company when the canal was put through Campbellford and the water power cut off from all the manufacturing concerns who were using it at the time. This power is privately owned and will be idle once the plant shuts down.

Asked whether or not the machinery would be moved or sold, the officials here could furnish no information. They expressed the opinion that the mill would be left standing as it is at the present time. There may be some other arrangements made at a future date. Whether or not the power rights will be disposed of separately has not yet been learned. There is a faint indication that the mill may not be closed down permanently but only till such time as the company is able to market its extra hundred tons daily.

ATTEMPT MADE TO STEAL AUTO

Campbellford Man Wakes Just in Time to Prevent Theft.

THIEF GETS AWAY.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30.—Shortly before two o'clock yesterday morning, T. E. Hyland, Tice street, chanced to awaken from his slumbers to hear a car being pushed along the street in front of his house. A glance from the window told him that it was his own Chevrolet sedan, and the situation at once became serious. Hyland stuck his head out of the window and roared at the man to stop. The shout had the effect of scaring the man so that he jumped from the car and ran up Sebastapol street. It also wakened and frightened Mrs. Hyland, who was sleeping in the adjoining room.

The night policeman was summoned but could find no trace of the missing man. When Hyland went out to recover his car he found that a Chevrolet key had been left in the ignition lock. His own key was in his pocket.

The man is described as about five feet eight inches tall and was wearing a blue suit with light colored cap.

NOTICE IS GIVEN OF TRADE TREATY

Pact Between Dominion and Newfoundland Mentioned in Canada Gazette.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30 (Canadian Press).—In the current issue of The Canada Gazette notice is given of the trade treaty between Canada and Newfoundland, whereby, in exchange for British preferential rates in the admission of Newfoundland goods into Canada this country is granted the most favorable treatment for Canadian products entering the ancient colony. It is announced by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, that this agreement completes the negotiations which have been carried on for a number of years between the two governments. While fish and other fisheries products of Newfoundland have been admitted free of duty to Canada for many years, the Dominion has not received the benefit of preferential rates granted by Newfoundland to certain other countries. After the adoption by Newfoundland of the Anglo-Spanish trade treaty Canadian exporters in some lines found themselves in a more unfavorable position than ever.

Canada has a varied list of exports to Newfoundland, the value of such in the fiscal year ending March 31 last being $11,661,248. Imports from Newfoundland in the same period had a value of $2,097,525.

The necessary legislative action ratifying the arrangement has already been taken by the Government of Newfoundland. In Canada, the Governor-in-Council has power to extend by Order-in-Council the benefits of the British preferential tariff to any British Dominion or possession, and the necessary Order-in-Council has been passed, becoming effective June 30.

In connection with the trade agreement, the steamship subsidy which was discontinued about four years ago is being restored, Canada undertaking to pay this in return for the increased preferences accorded Canadian goods.

POINCARE IS GIVEN VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Chamber of Deputies Down Opponents By 455 to 136 Vote.

ADJOURN FOR SUMMER.

Communists, Socialists and Small Group of Radicals For Opposition.

PARIS, June 30.—(American Press)—Raymond Poincare emerged victorious yesterday from the most bitter and best planned attack that his government has been called upon to face since he assumed power in 1926. The Chamber of Deputies voted confidence in the cabinet by 455 to 126.

As the Chamber will adjourn within a few days for the summer recess, the Opposition has been tamed until Parliament reconvenes in October.

There were really two pro-government votes in the proceedings. After the radical Left had presented approval of the ministerial declarations as the order of the day, the Socialists tried to gain priority for parliamentary program of their own. They came out at the small end of a 460 to 120 ballot. With this as a test the result of the actual confidence vote was a foregone conclusion.

Poincare, who has made many masterful speeches in his long career, outdid himself yesterday and completely disorganized his opponents' forces. Only Communists, Socialists and a small group of Radicals voted against him.

The Premier declined to yield an inch and in his own words refused to elide one single syllable from the ministerial declaration." He virtually stampeded the Chamber and three fourths of the deputies who had come to slay him politically arose at the end of the speech to join in an ovation of [illegible] and [illegible] tude.

The scene had not been surpassed in the French Parliament since the glorious days of 1918 when Clemenceau told the House how the Allied Armies were marching on to victory in the world war.

Parliamentarians close to Poincare related that he heaved a little sigh of relief after the vote was announced. The man who for two years has spent 18 hours daily with documents and figures, both at his home and in his office added:

"Now we can go to work.

THE FAMOUS TOUR OF CONTRASTS

"ACROSS CANADA AND BACK"

A striking feature of this year's "Across Canada and Back Tour", which leaves North Toronto station 1.00 p.m., on July 23 under the auspices of Dean Laird, is the fact that many tourists are coming over from Great Britain to take part in the journey. The special all steel million dollar train which will carry the party across the Dominion is the equal in all respects to the famous "Trans-Canada Ltd." There are no difficulties to confront the traveller as Sinclair Laird, the director, who has already piloted seven similar trips, has made the way smooth beforehand. Bookings for the tour are already exceptionally heavy and all previous records are expected to go by the board. The itinerary includes stops at all the important cities and towns en route and the beauty spots in the Rocky Mountains, Banff and Lake Louise, bungalow camps and industrial centres. A sail across Kootenay Lake, a steamship trip from Vancouver to Victoria and return and another cruise down the Great Lakes add variety to a holiday both delightful and educational. There is not a moment in the twenty-one days wasted and everywhere throughout the western lines a most hearty welcome awaits the visitors. Everything is included from Toronto and return in the sum of $330.00.

JOHN E. THOMPSON.

MARMORA, June 30. — Following a paralytic stroke which he suffered on Monday forenoon, John E. Thompson passed away at his home in Marmora on Wednesday evening in the seventy-third year of his age.

Mr. Thompson had been in poor health for some time, yet few thought, seeing that tall, robust frame, seasoned by years of healthy, honest toil, that his farewell of earth would be so comparatively sudden.

The late Mr. Thompson, who was born in Sidney Township, lived the greater part of his life in the vicinity of Marmora. He moved to the village about seven years ago from the farm at Allan's Mills, familiarly known to old settlers as John Drennan's. Previous to a long residency at Allen's Mills, he farmed for nine years at Crowe Lake. For many years he combined threshing and shantying with farm labors. He was considered one of the best horsemen of his day, being noted for the pride he would take in his horses. He was a staunch Conservative and belonged to the United Church. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, having been initiated into Queen Lodge, No. 122, Marmora, on June 10, 1897.

Besides his widow, five children are left to mourn his loss—Wilson of Marmora Township, Mrs. R. Howes of Marmora, Mrs. Andrew Hay of Hoard's Station, Mrs. William Rylott of Stanwood, and Mrs. John H. Wallace of Campbellford.

The funeral service was conducted at his late residence on Friday afternoon by Rev. P. F. Gardiner, of Springbrook, after which interment was made in the 12th Line Cemetery in Rawdon Township.

Verbal Duel Between Members Feature of Shop Hours Debate in London House

LONDON, June 30 (Canadian Press Cable).—Instances of chaotic conditions under present acts regulating the hours of certain shops in Britain and a verbal duel between Miss Ellan Wilkinson (Labor, Middlesbrough West), and Mrs. Hilton Philipson (Conservative, Berwick), marked the debate on the bill setting permanent regulations for the closing of shops, which was given third reading in the House of Commons yesterday.

J. Stewart (Labor, St. Rollox), in moving the deletion of the clause permitting confectionery and ice-cream chops to keep open till 10 p.m. on Saturday, and 9.30 p.m. on other days, said shops which were allowed to keep open to sell one certain thing sold many other things; thus confectioners sold newspapers, news-agents sold tobacco, and fruiterers sold confectionery.

Miss Wilkinson, in seconding the motion, provoked the feminine duel by appealing to her women colleagues, "especially one who has identified herself with increasing shop hours."

Mrs. Philipson accepted the challenge, and said she had worked on behalf of former service men who wanted work for their individual selves.

Miss Wilkinson accused Mrs. Philipson of being "in a state of muzziness" regarding the real meaning of the clause.

"Nobody is entitled to say I don't feel for working girls and women," Mrs. Philipson retorted. "Nobody has worked longer hours than I have, for I was left an orphan early in life and had to work hard.

Mr. Stewart subsequently withdrew his motion, and the bill was read a third time.

GREAT SERMONS BY GREAT MEN

"CHRISTIAN MEEKNESS"

By Rev. J. Oswald Dykes, D.D., London, Eng.

Titus iii., 1-4: "Put them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work, to speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, showing all meekness unto all men. For we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another. But after that the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man appeared."

The instructions given by St,. Paul in the second chapter of this letter had reference to domestic or household life,. Those to which he now proceeds in this third chapter relate to the public and social demeanour of the Christians in Crete,. They fall under two classes; for a Christian's duty to society includes a right attitude to the State or civil aurthoities on the one hand, and on the other, a proper behaviour in his private intercourse with his neighbors. On both points Paul has something to say appropriate to believers; and, therefore, our subject falls under two heads; first, how the Christians were to act towards the State; second, how they could act in intercourse with ordinary heathen society. If we would do justice to the first group of apostolic counsels, we must remind ourselves of the political circumstances with which his agent, Titus, had to deal. Throughout the ancient world, authority, both domestic and civil, assumed a more severe complexion than it does with us, and pressed with a weight which we should deem excessive upon the subject classes,.

It was so with the model kingdom of a family Roman, as well as Hebrew law, gave to the father an almost unlimited authority over his children, and to the most despotic power over his slaves. One very natural result of the coming of Christianity into a home was to beget in a child, or in a slave, some indications of this domestic tyranny. Christ makes His people free; Christ views all men as fundamentally equal; Christ vindicates for every one the full rights of a spiritual being and of redeemed manhood. The converted son was very likely, therefore, to dispute the interference of a parent with the new allegiance he had learnt to pay to his Father in heaven. The baptized slave was very readily tempted to resent the mastership of a heathen lord, now that he knew himself to be a free man of Christ.

Hence it became necessary to warn believing children against unruly behaviour, and to change bondsmen to be obedient still, and more than ever, to their own masters, otherwise the new teaching of the gospel would not be adorned, not commended, but discredited in the eyes of the heathen population, and the Word of God blasphemed.

Danger in Politics

Now, a danger precisely similar arises in political life. The rule of Rome which then lay upon all the lands where the gospel was being preached was a rule which rested upon the sword. Everywhere ancient nationalities had been subjected; venerable constitution had been overthrown; the freedom of the commonwealth had been ruthlessly suppressed ,and though it was Rome's policy to leave the old forms of administration untouched, wherever possible, yet it was impossible to conceal from the conquered peoples the degrading tokens of their conquest, as it is with us to-day, for example, in the case of our Indian Empire. Roman troops surrounded the palaces when Roman pro-consuls sat in the seat of dethroned kings; Roman judges administered Roman law; taxes were paid in Roman kind; and the military power that pressed on the neck of once haughty and mighty nations, was but at best a heavy yoke. The Imperial laws were, on the whole, just, yet they were stern and could be merciless. Nor were the Imperial courts above the imputation of corruptness. The imposts were very heavy, and provincial revenues were drained off to feed the monstrous dissipation of the capital. For the most part, therefore, the provinces groaned beneath the burden which the strongest were unable to cast off, yet beneath which the weakest were sometimes goaded into turbulnce. It is very easy for you to see that into a society thus honeycombed with political disaffection and threatening to break into revolt, the entrance of Christianity with its new concentions of human dignity and human freedom, must have added one more element of ferment. It could not fail to quicken in men's souls that sense of injustice which oppression brings, to deepen the irritation they felt at wrong and insolence in the dominant race, to intensify their longing for a happier era, when the kingdom of God which they had received into their hearts now, should become also a kingdom of God in society, and the State—a kingdom with social equity, liberty, and brotherhood. Hence, you see, it became an object of necessity with the first preachers of the gospel to warn their early converts against political restlessness. Do as they might, they could hardly hope, under such a government as that of Nero, to escape suspicion. They were pretty sure to be reckoned in the bureau amongst those dangerous forces which every day exist in society, heaving with discontent. To do anything to give the authorities an excuse for repression would have been foolish as well as wrong. It would have compromised the progress and success of the gospel by mixing it up with the department of human affairs with which the gospel has only indirectly to do. The most successful and resolute resistance which has ever been offered to arbitrary power in this world has been offered by men whom the truth made free, and who carried their Bibles beneath the same belt on which hung their sword. But personal and political liberty are the secondary effects of the gospel after it has penetrated the whole structure of society, and has had time to remake nations on its own new lines. For the individual private convert in an age like Paul's, or in a state of society like that of the later Roman Empire, to fling himself against the State, or to run away from his master, would have been to act falsely to the principles of his own faith, and to misrepresent it to his contemporaries. The question, at what time or in what way a Christian community is justified in deposing a tyrant in order to organize itself into a free commonwealth, is a question which belongs to the Christian community, when such a community exists, and can only arise under another condition of society altogether. The time for that was by a long way not yet come. What the gospel enjoined, therefore, on the private citizen or subject, so long as the government stood, was to discern Divine ordinance underlying and dignifying all authority, even while authority is abused, so long as that authority is legitimate, and to render that obedience which is due to the magistrate as such for conscience sake towards Him who is the supreme Magistrate of all.

It is curious that the two churches to which St. Paul addresses the most explicit instructions on this nead were the Church of Rome and the Church of Crete. Rome itself was the only focus for the dissatisfied and the lawless. There the sesuality of the aristocracy and the corruption of justice were most conspicuous. In its purlieus every conspirator could lurk most secure. Some years before Paul wrote his warning to Rome, the Christians were, as yet, mingled and confounded with the Hebrews. In Crete, likewise, there were local reasons which called for a similar warning, for, it, too, was a great nest of Jews. Nor did the Cretan population stand in any need of foreign intervention. Many years before this, their constitution had been abolished by the Roman general, and their island placed under officers from Rome; but the people never took kindly to their new masters, any more than they have to this day taken to their Turkish conquerors. In Paul's day, as in our own, Crete was a restless dependency of Greeks, struggling at intervals to regain their lost privilege of self-government. Were these people to see the reminder in the opening verse? Put them in mind," said Paul to his delegate, "to submit themselves to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work."

Spirit Toward Unbelievers

But even of greater consequence for the honor and repute of our holy religion, and of greater consequence for our own guidance, perhaps, are the instructions in the second verse. These refer to the spirit in which a Christian should act towards his unbelieving neighbors in social life. A handful of converts n the midst of a swarming, heathen population, sustained everywhere a peculiar responsibility. The case of modern mission churches, as in China or in India, for example, very closely resembles that of Paul's converts in the primitive age. They are imperfectly cured of old, ingrained, rough habits; the vices characteristic of Paganism are scarcely yet eradicated; they cannot escape contact from bad examples everywhere around; they must breathe a vitiated moral atmosphere; they are pressed on every hand by the customs of idolatry, and by the modes of thought proper to an unchristian command by the modes of thought proper to an unchristian community. More than that, these converts are daily exposed to rude remarks, to unkindness, even to abuse, for the singularity of their religion; petty acts of hostility are perpetrated at their expense, for which no remedy can be had; occasionally even grosser outrage occurs which has to be borne as best it can; even where the government is tolerant and the magistrates indifferent or not unkindly, the public dislike of a new and foreign superstitution is at no loss to express itself in a number of disagreeable and vexatious ways. All this is hard to bear, and it comes specially hard on men just struggling out of heathenism—men used to give a loose rein to the tongue. Now, the Cretans of the lower orders were a passionate people, rude in their manners, easily provoked to a brawl, quick to take offence, and ready in their employment of vituperation and blows. It was hard work, you will admit, to teach such men Christian meekness, patience under provocation, and to repay blow for unprovoked and undeserved evil. Yet notice the responsibility under which those Cretan believers lay. If the Cretan Christian were to show himself not less quick to resent an insult than he ever was; if in the wine shop he went into a passion, and used his knife, as readily as his comrade that swore by Jupiter; if the ready blow was not exchanged for the demeanor more becoming the sons of God, what the better was the man for his Christianity, or how could his neighbors be ready to respect his new law or to imitate his new faith? The graces, therefore, Paul told his delegate to impress above everything else on these converted islanders were those characteristic of the graces of the gospel, and that formed the greatest contrast to the society around them. They were never to let a word of abuse pass their lips; they were to keep clear of brawls and quarrels; they were to give way to insolence and wrong-doing of others rather than resent it; in short, they were to display towards all sorts of persons every form of Christian meekness—for on that word lies the emphasis. Meekness: what is it, brethren? It is the quality which heathenism everywhere has scouted as mean-spiritedness, but which the gospel of Christ has canonised. It is that one condition of soul which springing out of genuine penitence for sin, a profound sense of personal unworthiness, and a profound appreciation of the Divince mercy, predisposes a man to forbearance under provocation and forgiveness for injury. It has nothing in common with pusillanimity, but it has its origin in the religious experience which we call conversion; for it is when the tap root of human pride is broken by a thorough crushing down of the soul under the discovery of its sinfulness before God; it is when the strong man reduced to cry for mercy at the hands of Infinite Justice, is fain to receive forgiveness, and hope, and peace with God as unmerited gifts from the very grace of his Redeemer; it is then, and through that religious change, that the heart grows suscentible of true meekness. Then humbleness enters—humbleness, the child of penitence, and mild charity, too, for all men, and a tender feeling—a feeling that one who has himself done so much evil in his day ought to bear with the evil doing of other men; that one who owes everything to mercy should be, above all things, merciful. Brethren, it might well seem a difficult undertaking to persuade the quick passionate heathen of a Mediterranean harbor to check the biting words upon their tongue, to bear with the gibes of a tipsy comrade, or the deliberate insult or rudeness of some fanatical Jew. It was a difficult undertaking—so difficult that one could only say, in the words of Christ, "What is impossible with men is possible with God."

But Paul knew how that change was to be wrought. He knew what change, stranger than magic, had already come over these men since they had welcomed Christ's gospel. He knew what constraining power lay in that religious change to remodel their moral nature and turn the lion into a lamb; and therefore he did not despair of making them, to the astonishment of their neighbors, models of an unheard of virtue, if only they would give to the facts of their own conversion, and to the facts of the gospel they believed, a due influence over their daily conduct. The splendid sentence which opens with the seventh verse, comprises a great deal of teaching which cannot be unfolded now. It is so packed full of precious, central, evangelical truth as to sparkle among the minor epistles of St. Paul as one of their most conspicuous and memorable passages. You notice that the argument supporting his plea for meekness, is introduced by the word "For." It gives the reasosn why the Apostle expected his Cretan friends to exhibit so rare a gentleness before their Pagan neighbors; and to argumentative value of the sentence let us try to do justice. The sentence is in form of a contrast. It sets the former condition of the believer over against his present condition. The words of time are emphatic—"then" and "now." It reminds the Cretans of what they had been in their unconverted and unbaptized state, and it grandly magnifies the grace which had now made them so wonderfully different.

Remember the Past

Now, out of this little historical sketch—for such it really is—a sketch of their past life and conversion, there grew up the arguments for a meek behaviour. In the first place the argument runs like this. "These heathen neighbors of yours, whose conduct is so very provoking, who irritate, abuse, and try to quarrel with you, are not at all different from what you yourselves used to be, if you remember. Look back a few years and see what you were before God's grace found you. Precisely such as they are to-day. You did not then see your own foulness any more than they do, before the light came to you neither do they see it now; you cannot expect them to; and yet contemplate you the hateful picture of what you were. What is Pagan life? Life unrenewed, life unregenerate—so dark on religious subjects as to have no true knowledge of Christ such as you now have—no just apprehension of spiritual truth; as the result, in part, of this ignorance, disobedience in practice to all the requirements of Divine law and duty—deluded, in fact, misled—a prey to false conceptions of right and wrong, and false superstitions in worship; nay, worse, enslaved to your own desires after pleasure, given over to self-indulgence and the mere pursuit of what seemed to you to be an advantage, what seemed to you delectable, even if immoral, socially leading a life too sensual to be either just or generous to other men—a life, therefore, of malignity and enmity, cherishing rancour against one another for imagined slights and jealousies on account of superior advantages—is that a true picture of the natural life? Is that a picture of the unregenerate as it now mirrors itself in the enlightened Christian conscience? To sum it up in a word, are not such men repulsive as well as repellent, hateful as well as hating? Yet such were you; now, better than your poor heathen fellow-townsmen continue this day to be. Oh! by the memory of your own forlorn and guilty state; by the memory of the faults you used to share with them; by the old darkness out of which you have been led, bear with them tenderly, think of them kindly."

Examine the Present

So runs the first argument, and to this argument a second joins itself. "Out of that universal depravity of mankind how came you to be delivered? How? By your own effort, or by another's kindness? Nay, not as you were; not through any righteous actions of your own or meritorious struggles to become better men, sheerly and only was it not through the unmerited mercy, the cleansing and renewing power of God our Saviour, by the Divine salvation which came to you, and found you helpless, surprised you with its benefactions, and made new men of you in the day you turned from idols [illegible] the heairs of eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Saved by the philanthropy of heaven, have you none for your unsaved brother? Changed through Divine mercy, where is your mercy? They are as you were—these unconverted and unlovable neighbors. Treat them as you were treated, [illegible] as he did to you. How if God has been resentful against you—hard, quick to take offence, ready to strike in His anger? Oh, how ill it becomes a Christian to speak evil of others; to brawl, to give back word for word and blow for blow! By the kindness your Saviour has shown in returning you good for your wrong, show to your still wrongful fellows what is that kindness of God, that love of God for men which has been manifested to you, which might now be manifested to them if they only received it. Show by your example that they, too, may taste and see that God is good." So I read Paul's argument.

Look to the Future

My brethrsn, the argument holds good to this day. I have tried to bring back into the Apostle's reasoning a little of the original force addressed, as it was, to new converts from [illegible] far, thus read, the words may give a certain freshness to your mind, and the edge of the argument be somewhat whetted. But to us, if we have been converted from a selfish and ungodly life, the appeal carries just the same force. Brethren, there is nothing in which a holy, chastened, renewed—if I may so say—Christened, temper, displayed [illegible] unmistakable and with [illegible] charm as by bearing with sweet patience, and repaying with gentle kindness, the unreasonable or the angry opposition of irreligious people. Still, as with the Cretan, my brethren, meekness will set well on forgiven and redeemed men. Still the philanthropy of God our Saviour breathes with inspiration, and prescribes a model of our brotherly kindness. By the memory of what we were till God came us, and of the spontaneous grace from heaven which has made us what we are, oh! let us reach after that crown of saintliness and meakness which makes us the bearers of all things, and the forgivers of all things, for Christ's sake. Amen.

Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolators, ner adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.. Blesed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you. Matt. v., 10-12.

For what glory is it, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God. For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example that ye should follow in his steps. I. Pet. ii., 20, 21.

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near.. Isa. lv., 6.

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he can not see the kingdom of God. Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. If ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of him. I. Jno. ii., 29.

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it. Whosoever, therefore, shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels. Mark viii., 35, 38.

The Wrong Pew

YOU are working, and this is the right church. But are you in the right pew? Are you in a profession or are you in a business? Are you making good, or are you just making a failure? Are you competent to do what you are trying to do? Have you made a mistake in your calling?

You may not know just how to get an impartial answer to this question, and I will help you by asking another question: Do you like your work?

If you have an intense desire to work at your calling, if you are proud of your profession, stay where you are. You are in the right pew.

If you consider your work as an automatic advantage to get a living, you are playing on the wrong bag.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1928.

CANADA AT AMSTERDAM.

Most Canadians will agree with Dr. A. S. Lamb, general manager of the Canadian Olympic team, that "if our Canadian contribution to the Olympics is of real value in raising the standards of the games then the winning is merely incidental."

Dr. Lamb is right.

It is more important to show the qualities of genuine sportsmanship than it is to win points, and while we hope that our athletes will be successful in the competitions in which they are entered, we will only be disappointed should they fail to live up to the standard of gentlemen and sportsmen.

The Olympic games, unfortunately, have been far from striking the desired level in the past: in fact they have been responsible for so much bickering, recrimination and complaint that many people have felt that the world would get along much better if these international competitions were abandoned.

Of the bearing of our Canadian athletes, there seems little cause to be afraid; the Maple Leaf Olympic team promises to be made up of a type we should be glad to have represent us in Europe.

And they can be counted upon to accept victory modestly and defeat without rancor.

IT'S HERE AT LAST.

For many residents of Ontario the real beginning of summer will date from Monday morning.

Not because Dominion Day is to be celebrated but because at last the closed season for game fish has drawn to an end, and Monday morning will set Ontario's army of anglers free to try for the fighting black bass and the hard-hitting muskies.

The extension of the closed season has been a bit trying to the patience of the ardent fisherman, but the waiting is almost over, and perhaps the reward will come in the shape of big catches next week when the lines are wet for the first time and the old tackle box comes into its own.

After all the fishermen will win anyway—if the luck be good or ill.

It's not really the fish that counts but the going after them, and whether the catch be large or small or nil, the angler has his recompense in the sheer joy of his surroundings, the sight of rippled waters, the song of the paddle, the glorious appetite that breezes sweeping over miles of pines and cedars conjures up.

And so good luck to all the sportsmen who have played the game and obeyed the law—may their favorite fishing holes surprise them with the numbers of bass they produce.

ENDORSES THE CANAL.

The arguments advanced by Professor Goforth of the Department of Economics at McGill University in his address to the Kiwanis Club yesterday should be of great value to the Trent Waterway Development Association when endeavoring to persuade the Government to complete the canal.

Professor Goforth, who is a recognized authority, points out a variety of reasons why the Trent Waterway is of great importance.

(1) It shortens the distance from Fort William to Kingston by nearly 200 miles.

(2) In a period of 7 or 8 years it has shown a larger passenger traffic than any canal in the Dominion.

(3) It provides very valuable potentialities in Hydro-Electric power development.

(4) It should serve a valuable purpose in freight handling as a feeder of considerable importance to the main system.

(5) Its traffic should grow in proportion to the expansion of population and industry.

Unfortunately Miss Agnes MacPhail and other amateur economists who would fill in the Trent Waterway to make a motor road were not here to listen to Professor Goforth.

It might be good business to see that every member of Parliament is furnished with a copy of the admirable case presented by the McGill authority.

DOMINION DAY.

If material prosperity counts for anything, Canadians should enter upon the celebration of the sixty-first anniversary of the birth of the Dominion with every reason to rejoice.

No other country in the world at the present time is enjoying such good times and no other country in the world is facing such a promising future.

The omens are all propitious.

It has just been reported that Canadian bank deposits are greater even than last year, when a new record was established.

The net operating profit s of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways are growing.

And most important of all is the announcement that the West expects the greatest crop in years.

If that optimistic prediction is confirmed and the Western farmers add another good year to a cycle of good years, the prosperity and growth of the whole Dominion will reflect the good times on the prairies.

Canada is on the move and starts the sixty-second year of its history as a Dominion with every prospect pleasing.

Well may the Ottawa Journal describe this country as "truly a land of milk and honey—a cozy corner of the world."

We have every reason to make holiday and to rejoice at the fact that we are living in such a land, and on Dominion Day we should not only celebrate our material prosperity but think back in gratitude to the men who paved the way for our growth and expansion.

Nor should our observance of our national birthday be interfered with by disturbing thoughts about our status.

Among some politicians, a few newspapers and a number of individuals with more love for space-grabbing than for the British Empire, this may be a burning question, but the great mass of Canadians are not worrying.

They may be a little hazy about our exact position in the Empire, but they are satisfied to think they are still part of that great organization, happy to feel that no people on earth have a greater measure of freedom or a more democratic form of government, and content to share in the general prosperity.

To those who like to get excited over such things, some nine million Canadians who can see no cause for any great change are willing to leave the matter.

They themselves will be too busy celebrating their prosperity and happiness as citizens of the British Empire to lose any sleep over such matters as our "status."

THE U.S. PARTY PLATFORMS.

The world is watching while the Democratic convention at Houston, Texas, goes through the throes of preparing and delivering to the country that bewildering but inevitable piece of political equipment, the party platform. Platforms are important affairs. It is true the public has much cynicism regarding them, a cynicism justified the world over by bitter experience. One frank politician has explained their customary demolition on election day by declaring that political platforms were made to get in on, not to work on. Long ago the mythical but worldly wise Senator Sorghum poured mild scorn on all these structures by remarking: "When it means anything it can be interpreted differently, and when it doesn't mean anything it will never make any trouble for the boys." That is only too true. But as the getting in is a highly important question for the nation, and an all-important necessity for the professional politician, it is natural that much attention should be devoted to these fighting stations of the political fray.

At first glance the Democrats seem to have some initial advantage in the comparison of the two party structures. It is true that the Democratic platform is unfinished. The prohibition plank, as yet unshapen, may strengthen, weaken, or even destroy the whole. But of the features already visible, and considered apart from political leaders, the Democratic planks afford the better jumping-off places for the political fight.

Four questions are outstanding in the public life of the United States to-day: the oil scandals, farm relief, the tariff, prohibition.

On the first of these questions the Kansas City convention took no attitude whatever. The Teapot Dome oil leases were surrounded by corruption that would have been a disgrace to the Government of any Christian State. Not only was the Harding Administration besmeared, but later revelations have shown that even recent transactions of the national Republican party organization were tainted with oily money. The honest, manly thing for the Republican convention to have done would have been to denounce the wrongdoers and repudiate those who had sold the national birthright and the party honor for a mess of oily pottage. It did no such thing. Democratic denunciation was to be expected. Nevertheless it is justified. No honorable nation can afford to disregard such matters.

Likewise tariff and farm relief. The Republicans adopted a stand-pat attitude on the former. They refused to wipe away the sting of President Coolidge's caustic comments in his latest veto of the McNary-Haugen farm bill. The thousands of Mid-West farmers who journeyed to Kansas City, clamoring fruitlessly for an opportunity to be heard, were sent home dissatisfied and disgruntled. For these reasons the ringing cry of Mr. Claude G. Bowers, "keynote" speaker, sent the Democratic convention into frenzies of enthusiasm. "We do not ask paternalistic privilege for the farmer," he said, "but we do demand that the hand of privilege be taken out of the farmers' pockets and off the farmers' throats." That is a cry that will re-echo through all the disaffected Republican farm States, and they are many.

The Republicans have come out staunchly, if indirectly, on the prohibition question. The Democrats have not yet planed into final shape their plank. Nevertheless it is apparent that those who rightly regard the Eighteenth Amendment as the greatest moral reform since the abolition of slavery will look, not to the Democrats, but to the Republicans. It may be that the former will agree to a plank advocating rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws, while the latter only urged the application of the whole Constitution in letter and spirit. In this respect whatever action the Democratic convention may take is overshadowed by the recent pronouncements of the prospective Presidential candidate, Governor "Al" Smith, an avowed wet.

Platforms, of course, are but minor things as compared with the men who fight from them. Probably the great mass of the American people will think only of platforms as they are likely to be applied by men, in particular by the President-elect.

The platforms in this election are unusually outstanding. But the prospective Presidential candidates are even more so: the one a Quaker, a prohibitionist, an engineer with a remarkable record, spurning the glad hand of politics; the other a Roman Catholic, a wet, a professional statesman of the successful smiling Tammany school with a clean and noteworthy record. A colorful contest is certain, in which the electors, as usual, will have to endorse indirectly some things of which they disapprove in voting for the man they prefer. —The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Safety first should be the motto over the week-end, assuring a safe and sane Dominion Day.

Up to the moment of writing none of the candidates in the Provincial by-elections had demanded a recount.

There is no evident paucity of people willing to serve the State in British Columbia, judging by the number of candidates in the field for the Legislature.

The biggest show on earth does everything in a big way. Witness the number of bottles seized in that liquor raid the other day.

Rev. Ben. Spence has been reporting the Democratic Convention at Houston. But we listened over the radio in vain for any indication that Mr. Spence had led a demonstration in favor of Governor Al. Smith.

Even if the Democratic candidate only gets the solid vote of the Smiths in the United States, he'll make a noteworthy showing.

News of Our Own Village

Many of our readers from the country was here Thursday for the circus. A good time was had by all.

Fred Roy, our enterprising photographer, is en route for Europe. They'd better watch the art galleries over there for Fred likes to take pictures.

It rained here last Saturday so our ball team didn't lose that day. Wednesday they motored to Belleville, east of here, and we won 4 to 1.

Billy Bradburn, our member in the Legislature, when interviewed by your scribe said he didn't expect to lose any sleep over the by-election results.

Sandy McTavish says he don't expect to spend anything but the day on Monday.

A lot of folks here attended the Democratic convention in Houston, Texas, by radio this week.

Col. Bradburn, the boss of our village liquor store had better get on the job. The fellow that plays the trombone in the clown band in the circus parade Thursday played "How Dry I Am", passing the Drayton dispensary but he couldn't get no service. Perhaps the staff haven't got no ear for music.

The village council's doing some big business these days. This week they offered $300,000 for the gas plant but the other fellows haven't been heard from yet.

The swimming season is in full swing here now so a lot of our citizens has been studying nature at Inverlea Park.

Jim Matthews and some other fellows is putting on a regatta here Monday. They say this is one game that won't have to be called off because of wet grounds.

Who was the young bride who wanted to know if the druggist had anything that would keep sea fleas away?

Schools closed on Friday, and the poor teachers are forced to take two months' holiday.

Magistrate Langley held traffic court here Wednesday and several of our citizens attended on a special invitation from the police department. More bids may be expected so watch out, say we.

We don't expect many more June weddings this year.

The Question Box

(Address inquiries to "The Question Box.)

The answer to "S.W." printed yesterday has brought dozens of complaints about this and that Canadian battle being omitted. The list published yesterday was correct, as the following replies show:

G.N.—Q. Why didn't you mention the battle of Fricourt, July, 1916, in your list of Canadian battles?

A.—Because it is not officially listed as a Canadian battle, since no color-bearing Canadian troops were engaged. Only detached units, such as individual batteries, mining companies, etc., participated.

W.B.—Q. You don't give the Canadians any credit for fighting around Ypres in 1918. Why?

A.—Same as above. Only detached units were engaged 28 September-1 October, 1918.

D.G.H.—Q. I fought with the P.P.C.L.I. in the St. Eloi action which opened on March 14, 1915. This was the first battle in which Canadians participated, but you ignore it.

A.—The only color-bearing Canadian troops present were the P.P.C.L.I. Only battles in which a Canadian Division was responsible for a part of the line are counted. "Canadian Battles."

T.H.—Q. There was a battle for Bellewaerde Ridge, commencing, I think, about May 27, 1915, which you do not name.

A.—Same as D.G.H. The battle was fought May 24-25, 1915, but only the P.P.C.L.I. took part.

G.C.—Q. A big battle occurred on March 25, 1917, in which I took part. I was with the Canucks. Why isn't this included?

A.—It is presumed you refer to the battle officially known as "The German Retreat to the Hindenburg Line" fought March 24 to 29, 1917. The only color-bearing Canadian troops present were cavalry regiments of the Canadian Cavalry Brigade.

A.P.M.—Q. (1) Isn't Fromelles considered a Canadian battle? (2) And what about the first battle of Passchendaele?

A.—(1) No. Only Canadian cavalry units participated in the battle for Fromelles (Bazentin Ridge was the major operation) on July 19, 1916. (2) Only detached Canadian units were engaged at the first Passchendaele, October 12, 1917. Second Passchendaele, which opened 14 days later, was a Canadian battle.

J.A.—Q. You mention "The Ancre" as a battle. What was this?

A.—The capture of Beaumont Hamel, one of the Somme battles of 1916, which took place November 13 to 18.

B.G.—Q. What do you mean by "Second Scarpe" and "Third Scarpe?"

A.—The second Scarpe battle (April 23, 1917) was the attack on la Coulotte. The hird Scarpe was the capture of Fresnoy, May 3 and 4, 1917, following up the battle of Vimy Ridge.

AUX MORTS.

M.D.—Q. What is "Aux morts?"

A.—"To the dead." The title given Paul A. Bartholome's masterpiece, the statuary group Aux Morts. It is placed in the cemetery at Pere-Lachaise, Paris, and depicts tired humanity dragging itself to the door of the tomb, while in the grave beneath are rest and peace.

GOD'S MINUTE

Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience. I. Tim. 3, 9.

We extol Thee, O Lord, our King, as we present ourselves before Thee, through the merits of Jesus Christ, Who by His cross and precious blood, hath redeemed us from our sin. We humbly beseech Thee, O merciful Father, to pardon our offences against Thee and Thy Holy Law; to create within us a clean heart and a right spirit; to cause the words of our mouths and the meditations of our hearts to be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, our Rock and our Redeemer. We bless Thy Holy Name, our Father, for Thy manifold and unceasing goodness unto us. We owe to Thee the temporal blessing of our lives, and all the opportunities we have for usefulness and happiness. Enable us, by Thy Holy Spirit, that we may enjoy and use these, and all Thy good gifts in a worthy and acceptable manner. Be compassionate, O God, toward all the suffering, sorrowing, and sinning ones. Be the comforter of the aged, the guide of the young, the wisdom of all who teach, the ruler of all who govern, the light of all who are in darkness—the Saviour of all mankind. Hasten, O Lord, Thy gracious appearing, and number us among those who shall receive at Thy right hand the crown of glory that fadeth not away. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

"GOD'S MEMORIAL"

The Sabbath, which is the memorial of God's creative power will never cease to exist. It is the sign between God and the children of Israel forever. God selected the day for all, and said: "It is my day: keep it because I have set it apart."

The religious law does not say a seventh day is your Sabbath, or my Sabbath; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord. I wonder how many make it the Lord's day and how many make it a day for themselves; a day for their own amusements.

We should rejoice in the Lord always and not only on the Sabbath. We can't be sinners six days of the week and then a saint on Sunday. How can we make a world of darkness shine when we close the church door after the Sunday evening service and say in our hearts, "Good by, religion, until next Sabbath."

The object of man's Sunday laws is to compel all people to worship. Can't you see that some are servants to the law of man and not of God? We want the craving for worship to sweep across the continents. We don't want the people like slaves to the altar.

God said that Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. If it were made for man, it could not well be one of those things that were against him. The Sabbath is a ray of light guiding us to the first commandment.

Don't trample upon God's day but turn and seek God's honor. The Sabbath is the masterpiece of peace

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

I—THE RESCUE

To begin with Jennifer Fry was quite an ordinary woman, the daughter of ordinary middle-class people, and she was brought up in a suburban neighborhood where nobody ever knew their next-door neighbors, nor wished to know them, and where nothing exciting ever happened unless one counted sale times in the local shops and bank holidays.

Jennifer spent most of the year saving up for these two events. She firmly believed that she obtained wonderful bargains at Messrs. Doblin & Green's great quarterly sales, and she firmly believed that she thoroughly enjoyed the exhausting outings at Easter and Whitsun, and on August bank holiday, when she and her father and mother started off at daybreak with ham sandwiches and a thermos flask of tea, and returned home in the early hours of the following morning, worn and weary, on the last suburban train which stopped at every station.

Jennifer's father was in a bank, a tall, thin man with a prematurely bald head and short-sighted eyes. He had very little ability and even less ambition, and wore paper over his cuffs during office hours. His wife was the only daughter of a Low Church parson, a cheery, optimistic little soul, who was always talking of the day when her husband would be made a branch manager and they would live over the bank.

"There is always so much more to see from an upstairs window," she would say brightly. "And we shall get coal and light free. Besides, the wife of a bank manager has such a much better social position."

She was blissfully unconscious that, as the wife of Edward Fry, she would never have any social position anywhere. He was too shy and too insignificant to push his way to the front of anything, and perhaps, also, too honest and conscientious.

Jennifer loved her father and mother, and whole-heartedly believed in them both. She was perfectly contented with her lot and envied nobody. Her one form of amusement was a local and very mixed tennis club, where she was not particularly popular because she inherited a good deal of her father's shyness, and also because she played a very indifferent game of tennis. But at home she was a good, dutiful daughter, and she helped her mother with the washing on Mondays and with the ironing on Tuesdays, and she made many of her own clothes and managed to look a great deal better in them than one would ever have imagined.

When she was twenty-five she met Nicholas Gaunt and for the first time romance touched the monotony of her life.

She met him on the crowded, unromantic sands at Herne Bay, whither she and her parents had gone for a day trip one August bank holiday.

Jennifer was bathing. She was a good swimmer, having taken lessons at the local baths at home, but nevertheless, when she was some way out from the shore, she was seized with a curious sense of faintness, and but for the near-by presence of Nicholas Gaunt she would in all probability have been drowned.

Nicholas himself was a very fine swimmer, and he had been admiring Jennifer's long, easy strokes as he followed her slowly as a respectful distance, when suddenly he heard her cry out and saw her fling up her arms. He was on the spot in a second, and had seized her firmly by the shoulders before she had sufficient time in which to realize fully her danger.

"You're all right," he said with quick assurance. "Just keep your nerve and trust me. I'll take you in easily."

She saw his face, bronzed and wet with sea-water, looking down at her through the sunshine, and a sudden contentment filled her heart as she gave herself into the safekeeping of his strong hands.

He took her ashore on the sands some way from where her father lay on his back reading a newspaper which he had found in the train, and her mother sat contentedly eating chocolates out of a paper bag and listening to a couple of people who were really not at all amusing.

Jennifer sat very still for some moments with her back to a breakwater, breathing fast, and only very slowly getting rid of the sick, faint feeling that had seized her so mercilessly. And Nicholas Gaunt stood beside her, the water dripping from his strong limbs and lying on his sunburnt face, watching her with a gleam of anxiety in his brown eyes.

Then suddenly she looked up and smiled.

"I'm all right now. I can't think what happened to me. I've never felt like that before."

"It was the sun I expect," he said practically. "It's very hot this morning. I felt it a bit myself."

"You saved my life," she said. Her eyes showed their gratitude. "I should have been drowned if you had not been there."

He laughed and shook his head.

"Oh, no, someone would have come; there are hundreds of people in the sea this morning."

"But they might not have seen that I was in trouble," she insisted quietly.

She rose slowly to her feet, still feeling a little shaky and unlike herself.

"I'll go and find my tent," she said. "Thank you again very much indeed."

"I'm glad I happened to be there," Gaunt said lightly. "I'll walk along with you if I may. I'm afraid we've some distance to go. The tide was running this way and I wanted to land you as soon as possible. Do you know your number?"

"Yes, thirteen!" They looked at one another and smiled. "I ought to have taken the warning," Jennifer said. They walked along the water's edge together.

"Are you staying here long?" Gaunt asked.

"No, we are only down for the day. I came with my father and mother."

"I go back to-morrow," he told her. "I've had a week here with friends who have a house up on the cliff. It's been splendid weather all the time."

"How lovely!" Jennifer looked wistful. She had never spent a week at the sea.

"Do you live in London?" Gaunt asked.

She told him frankly enough.

"We live just off the Kilburn High-road. It's not a very nice district," she added regretfully. It was the first time she had ever felt it necessary to apologize for her home surroundings.

"I know it very well, of course," Gaunt said. He knew seaside girls very well also, and had been fully prepared to be told the usual romance of well-to-do people and a flat in Mayfair.

"I have friends at Northwood, and I often run down there for week-ends. I go the Harrow Road way there."

"You have a car?" she asked diffidently.

"Yes, a two-seater. She can move though."

"Yes."

Jennifer had never ridden in a car, unless one counted the L.C.C. trams.

They were close to the bathing tents now, and Gaunt said, "Perhaps we shall meet again. I've got a flat just off Great Portland Street and my name is Gaunt, Nicholas Gaunt."

"And mine is Jennifer Fry," she told him shyly. She had never before given her name to a stranger, but it seemed the most natural thing in the world. Still, of course, he had saved her life, which made the circumstances rather different.

"Jennifer Fry! It's like a stage name," he said. "I shall find it easy to remember."

"We live at No. 24 Bolton Road," she told him.

"I shall remember that, too," he said again. "This is your tent. Are you sure you feel all right?"

"Quite, and thank you again very much."

"I'm glad I was on the spot," he answered, and after the barest hesitation, he held out his hand.

Jennifer flushed as she took it.

"Goodbye," she said, but he would not have that.

"Not goodbye. We shall meet again," he insisted.

II—A LETTER

Jennifer went into her tent. Everything seemed rather an effort still, and she dressed slowly, but when she rejoined her parents it was to find that they had not missed her or been at all anxious.

"Did you have a nice bathe, dear?" her mother asked, with a last regretful groping into the empty chocolate bag.

Jennifer sat down beside her on the warm sand. Although the sun was so hot she felt cold, and it was hard work to keep her teeth from chattering.

"Very nice," she said.

She was watching the tent into which Gaunt had disappeared, and presently he came out, bareheaded, and with towel and bathing suit slung over one shoulder.

He wore white flannels and a dark blue blazer with arms of some sort worked on the pocket. He looked much more distinguished than the men around him, Jennifer thought, with a thrill of pride, and hoped he would look in her direction. But he went straight up on to the promenade and disappeared in the crowd.

Mrs. Fry threw away her paper bag with a sigh.

"I suppose we may as well have lunch," said she, and dived into a string bag, from which she retrieved three packets of rather thick sandwiches and a medium-sized thermos flask.

"I really haven't much appetite," she informed her husband and daughter.

"Which is hardly surprising, considering the amount of chocolate you have eaten this morning," Mr. Fry said mildly.

Jennifer had no appetite either. She kept thinking of Gaunt and of the moments when his steady eyes met her own terrified ones as she was slipping beneath the blue sea.

"If it was a book, of course, I should meet him again," she told herself with a sigh. "But nothing ever happens in real life as it does in books."

But in that she was wrong, for a week later, when she came downstairs to make early morning tea for her parents, a letter, addressed to herself in a strange hand, lay on the mat, and her heart gave a quick throb of hope as she picked it up and broke open the seal.

Dear Miss Fry,

No doubt you have forgotten me, but you will see that I still remember you. I hope you have quite recovered from your little fright at Herne Bay on Monday, and that it will not make you nervous in the future. I shall be glad to hear how you are, if you can spare the time to drop me a line, or I may be passing your way one day this week, and will call in if you have no objection.

Kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Nicholas Gaunt.

The color rose in a swift flush to Jennifer's face. She hardly knew if she were pleased or sorry to have heard from him. She was glad that he had remembered her, and yet sorry that their chance acquaintance had, by his letter, been pushed yet another step onwards.

She looked around her with critical eyes as she stood in the narrow hall. What would he think of her home? The brown linoleum on the floor looked shabby, and the wallpaper ugly. The fumed-oak hallstand had suddenly grown cheap and rickety, whereas hitherto she had thought it rather a nice piece of furniture. When presently she went into the dining-room and drew up the cotton blinds, it struck her that the green baize tablecloth was quite the wrong shade of green, and that it clashed horribly with the reds and yellows of the Axminster carpet.

What would a man who lived in a flat off Great Portland Street, and who owned a car, think of her home? Then she was ashamed and pushed the thought determinedly from her as she went into the little kitchen and put the kettle on the gas ring.

After all, if he wanted to see her, he would not mind her surroundings, but she did wish that her father was already a branch manager, and that they lived over a bank where the view from the windows would be better, and her mother have a better social position.

She answered Gaunt's note that afternoon, thanking him for his inquiries and admitting that she had not forgotten him.

I am quite well again, and do not think I shall be nervous in future. I love swimming, and I go to the baths here whenever I can. Perhaps you had better not call, if you do not mind, as you see I did not tell my parents anything about our meeting because I thought it would frighten them. It is kind of you to have written all the same, and I hope that one day we shall meet again.

Yours sincerely,

Jennifer Fry.

She posted the note with many misgivings. Was it too unfriendly to forbid him to call, or was it too friendly to say she hoped they would meet again?

She had no sleep that night. She kept thinking of Gaunt's brown eyes and the grip of his hands, and she knew that, more than anything on earth, she wanted to see him again. For the next two days, every time the postman came, her heart raced and her pulses jerked. Every time there was a step on the narrow path up to the front door she was terrified lest it should be he, and bitterly disappointed when it was not. Then he wrote again.

I was so pleased to get your letter, and to know that you are all right. Do you ever go out to tea with people, and, if so, will you have tea with me on Monday somewhere? To save time I suggest Rumpelmeyer's at four-thirty.

Jennifer had never been so happy in her life. The whole world seemed to have changed, and she herself by some extraordinary miracle to have grown almost pretty, when shyly she looked at her reflection in the glass. There was a new light in her eyes and a rose flush in her cheeks. She had never before noticed the red shades in her brown hair, never cared that when she smiled a little dimple appeared in one cheek.

She longed to tell her mother of the wonderful thing that had happened, but she was afraid. Mrs. Fry was old-fashioned in many ways, and Jennifer was not sure that she would have approved of her daughter's life being saved by a total stranger.

But she wrote to Gaunt and said she would try to be at Rumpelmeyer's at four-thirty on Monday, and then she set about trying to find out where Rumpelmeyer's was. She did not like to ask her father, and she was sure that her mother would not know. Finally she went to the post office and looked it up in the telephone directory. St. James' Street. Yes, she might have known it would be in an expensive and exclusive part of London.

That brought along the agonized question of clothes. Her summer hat was shabby and the sales had not yet started, but she resolutely trod underfoot her desire not to wait for the sales, and when Monday came she bravely put on the old hat and took a bus to Piccadilly.

III—LOVE COMES TO JENNIFER

It was raining, a nice, gentle rain that did no more harm than just lay the dust and wash the sun-baked face of London, and by the time she was walking down St. James' Street the sun was shining again, and the pavements were drying beneath her feet. Books and her mother had taught Jennifer that she must never arrive anywhere a moment before time, so she purposely walked slowly till the silver wrist watch which her father and mother had given her on her birthday, pointed to twenty minutes to five, then taking her fast-dying courage in both hands she pushed open Rumpelmeyer's door and walked in.

A crowd of smartly-dressed girls and women were having tea and cool-looking iced drinks in tall glasses, and the babble of chatter and laughter almost defeaned Jennifer, and from sheer nervousness she would have turned and fled, but at that moment Gaunt spoke beside her.

"How do you do? I was afraid you would not come."

And he took her hand in his as he spoke, and suddenly she forgot the smart people around her and her own shabby hat, and she was afraid no more even though she was vaguely aware of the Bond Street cut of his clothes, and of the inexplicable air about him which spoke of good breeding and a plentiful supply of this world's goods, and when he said, "I've reserved a table, shall I lead the way?" she followed him as if she had been used to Rumpelmeyer's all her life, and every pulse in her body was throbbing with joy.

They were facing one another across the dainty little table, and Gaunt's brown eyes were on her face as she said impulsively:

"Well, you're even prettier than I had remembered!" Then he laughed apologetically and added, "I hope you're not offended," and Jennifer shook her head, her cheeks crimson, as she answered:

"Oh no! but I've never been called pretty before!"

He looked amazed.

"Where are the men?" he asked, and Jennifer took his words literally and said, "I don't know. I know very few myself. Just those at the tennis club, and I don't think they like me very much, except perhaps Alfred Heaton, and you see he is in father's bank."

"Your father is a banker?" Gaunt asked, and Jennifer answered hurriedly:

"He's one of the cashiers at the Kilburn branch, but we hope he will soon be made a manager."

"I hope so, too, I'm sure," Gaunt said kindly.

She took courage.

"You see, we should live over the bank then," she pointed out. "And mother says we should have a much better social position if she was a manager's wife."

Gaunt listened attentively. He liked to hear her talk. She had a pretty voice, a little slow and shy, and he liked the way the color kept coming and going in her face, and the sweep of the long lashes over her eyes.

Then tea was brought and he asked her to pour out, and he said, as she obeyed him with unsteady hands, "It's very good of you to have come to-day. I was half afraid you would not."

"It took me a long time to make up my mind," she confessed. "But I thought if I didn't, perhaps you would not ask me any more, and so——"

He broke in eagerly. "Do you mean that I may ask you again?"

"If you really want to," she queried doubtfully.

"In her agitation she filled the cup too full and it all flowed over into the saucer, and Gaunt laughed and called her a careless little girl, and then they both laughed, and Jennifer said with spirit:

"Little girl, indeed? How old do you think I am?"

He laughed again at that and said, "Well, you can't be more than about eighteen to have asked such a question."

"I'm twenty-five," she admitted. She held out her wrist and showed him the silver watch. "Mother and father gave me that on my last birthday."

"Did they! How ripping of them."

He took her wrist in a gentle clasp and held it a little longer than was strictly necessary. "How ripping of them," he said again.

He shrewdly guessed that the watch had not cost more than about thirty shillings, but from the pleasure in her eyes it might have been diamond studded.

"My twenty-eighth birthday is a thing of the past," he told her, "I am nearly twenty-nine."

She opened her eyes wide.

"Are you! I thought you were much younger," she hazarded.

"Is twenty-nine too old?" he asked.

"Too old for what?" she questioned.

"To please you," he said deliberately.

She shook her head. "Oh no. I don't like boys."

"Not even Alfred Heaton?" he asked quickly.

She laughed, showing the little dimple in her cheek.

"You have a wonderful memory for names," she told him. "And Alfred Heaton is forty. Quite old, you see."

"I am sure he would not to hear you say that. To-day, men of forty consider themselves quite young."

"Do they?" Her eyes wandered away from him round the room.

"Everyone is very smart here," she said, lowering her voice.

He glanced up indifferently.

"Are they? I am afraid I don't know what 'smart' means exactly."

"Clothes that are not home-made, like mine are," she explained simply.

A warm look filled his eyes, he leaned a little nearer to her across the table.

"When will you let me call at your home?" he asked with apparent irrelevance.

The traitorous color flushed once more to her cheeks.

"Oh, I couldn't! Mother and father don't know anything about you."

"Well, you can tell them, or I will."

She shook her head and her eyes grew distressed.

"I don't think they would like me to know you."

"Why? Am I so unpresentable?"

"You know I did not mean that," she protested.

She hesitated, searching for words in which to explain herself, but she could only think of the shabby linoleum in the little hall at home, and the tablecloth of the wrong shade of green that clashed so horribly with the reds and blues of the Axminster carpet. And again she was ashamed of the thought, and to cover it up she said quickly:

"I don't think they want me to know any men."

A smile crossed his face. "But don't they ever want you to marry?"

"To marry?" she echoed the words in a whisper, her eyes on his, and try as she would she could not move them away nor steady the racing of her pulses.

And Gaunt touched her hand which lay on the table as he said gently:

"Don't look so frightened. I was only teasing." But she had not looked frightened, she had only looked like a wondering, excited child who listens to a fairy story told in the firelight.

IV—DEATH'S CALL

Then Gaunt drew his hand away and turned the conversation to other things. He told her about himself, how that he was an only son, and that his father was dead and his mother a great invalid.

"She lives in the country," he explained, "and sometimes I go down to spend week-ends with her."

"And all the week you work in London?" Jennifer asked. She was keenly interested in everything he had to tell her; already she felt as if in some strange way she owned a proprietary share in him, and yet this was only the second time they had ever met, and instinctively she knew that his world was not her world.

But he laughed as he answered her last question. "I'm sorry. I hope you won't be disgusted, but I don't work. I haven't any job."

Swift sympathy filled her eyes.

"You mean—you can't get one?"

Her thoughts flew to her father. He was not very influential in the bank, at least not yet, but all the same, perhaps he might be able to get Nicholas a job, even if it was only at a nominal salary. But he soon dispelled her dreams.

"No, I don't mean that. I mean that I don't want a job. You see I'm independent. My father left me money."

"Then why do you live in London?" she asked amazed. Jennifer hated London. It was her secret dream to be able to live in the country, and keep ducks and chickens, and perhaps a pony; it was always her secret and half-ashamed prayer that her father might be made manager of a country branch.

"I live in London because I like it," Gaunt told her. "The country's all right for a day or two in fine weather, perhaps even for a month, but give me London to live in."

"Oh!" She was vaguely disappointed. "I don't think you would care for the part we live in," she added as a compromise.

"I don't suppose you will always live there," he said.

"I hope not," Jennifer agreed fervently.

It was getting late then, and people were leaving. Gaunt called for the bill, and on their way out to the street he stopped at the counter and bought Jennifer the largest box of chocolates she had ever seen.

"We can never carry it," she gasped.

"We'll have a taxicab," he answered.

It was like a drive into fairyland. Only once before had Jennifer ever ridden in a taxicab, and that was when she was on her way with her father and mother to an aunt's funeral, and something had happened to the train to make them late at the station, and they had had to take a cab in order to reach the house in time. Now she was too excited to want to talk. Her eyes shone like stars and her cheeks were like roses. They drove all the way down to Kilburn.

"I'll tell him to stop at the end of your road," Gaunt said, as if reading her agitated thoughts—his eyes twinkled—then nobody will know that you have been out with such a scallywag as me."

"I don't think you're a scallywag," she protested in distress. "Oh, how can you say such things? I've had a perfectly lovely time."

"Then you will come again?"

His eyes were upon her.

"Oh, yes," she breathed.

"When?"

Her lips trembled so that she could hardly speak, but he caught her whispered words:

"Whenever you like."

And that was how love came into Jennifer's life.

After that they saw one another a great deal. There were teas, and lunches, and rides in the swift little car and sometimes a theatre.

"Jennifer is getting positively pretty," Jennifer's mother said to her husband. "And have you noticed how happy she seems? She is always singing."

Edward Fry was not a man who noticed anything, but he answered loyally that, of course, Jennifer was pretty because she was so like her mother, and that of course she was happy, she had no cause to be anything else. But he pondered over his wife's words, pondered over them so deeply that one cold morning in early October he forgot to put on his overcoat before he went to the bank, with the result that he caught a cold which turned to pneumonia, and in three days he was dead.

There was nothing at all romantic or beautiful about his death, poor man, any more than there had been about his life, unless one counted his patience and humility, and he died choking and fighting for breath, with his wife in hysterics in the next room, and Jennifer broken-hearted and terror-stricken, kneeling beside him. And late that night, when her mother was calmer, Jennifer went to her and took her in her arms and sobbed.

"Oh, mummy darling, what shall we do without him?"

And Mrs. Fry answered broken-heartedly: "He'll never be branch manager now, and I should have been so proud, so happy!"

So that was that little tragedy, and as soon as Jennifer could find a moment she slipped away and wrote a note to Gaunt.

"Daddy is dead, so I can't meet you to-morrow as we arranged."

She longed to add that if only now he would come to the house she would be so happy to see him. She knew that if he came their great trouble would be far easier to bear. She longed for him as she had never longed for anyone before, she wanted him more than anyone on earth, but she was too shy to say so. She could only hope and pray that he would understand and come.

And in the morning there was a letter which must have crossed her own, informing her that his mother was seriously ill in the South of France, and that he was catching the night boat to be with her.

Jennifer was conscious of a sudden bleak disappointment, and yet she knew she could not blame him. They were both in trouble, she was not alone, and she tried to find comfort from the fact.

The funeral arrangements were made, and the hearse with its cheap coffin and following coaches crept along through the autumn sunshine to Kensal Green Cemetery, and Jennifer stood beside her father's grave with Alfred Heaton and two other men from the bank, and felt as if her heart would break.

ALL AT SEA

By CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XLVII

"I know him," the man told Stone. "It was Bill Bramber."

"Can you take me to him—now?"

"Guess so—if you'll fix it with the boss."

Stone fixed it and they went forth.

His guide soon located Bill, who chanced to be idle, and was by no means averse to telling anything he knew—for a consideration.

And he knew a lot.

"Yes, sir," he said, "I remember the matter well. You see, a lady was my passenger, a real swell one——"

"Alone?"

"Yes, sir, all alone. Said she just wanted a breath of air and a little rest from folks, or sumpin' like that. They often do that. Well, I rolled her along, and then a gentleman stopped me and he got in with the lady, and told me to roll on. As the lady made no objection, it was none of my business, so I pushed 'em down to the end of the route, and then turned back again. We'd nearly reached the Majusaca, when the gentleman calls out for me to stop, and then the lady got out and got into another chair, and he stayed in and I rolled on to the hotel, and he got out there—at the Majusaca."

"You know who he was?"

"I didn't then, Mister, but next day, I found it was the very chap what was murdered in the ocean!"

"Why did you never tell this to anyone?"

"Nobody asked me anything about it, and I'd no reason to say anything. I couldn't see as it had any bearin's on the murder and I'd no wish to drag in the lady."

"Do you know who she was?"

"I didn't that night, but I've found out since."

"Well, who was she?"

"Her name is Mrs. Barron, sir."

"Bramber," Stone said, "you did right to keep this matter quiet. Now continue to do so. I am authority, and you'll get in no trouble if you say nothing. But peep one word of it, and you'll be in such trouble as you've never dreamed of. See?"

Bramber saw, and egged on by a monetary influence, willingly agreed to keep his own counsel.

"What a revelation," thought Stone as he walked away. "Madeline Barron secretly riding in a chair with Folsom that night, and sneaking into the hotel by herself. Looks pretty positive, but nothing's positive till it's proved.

Had the astute sleuth but known it, his suspicions were at that very moment being proved up to the hilt.

The Barrons, in their own suite, were dressing for luncheon, when Madeline's composure gave way.

"Ned," she cried, in a sort of broken wail, "I can't stand it! I can't!"

"Of course, you can't, darling. I've only been waiting for this breakdown to come. I knew it must come, but I didn't want to force it. My darling girl, don't you suppose I've seen every bit of your struggle, followed every step of your way, for the last few days! I know you so well, sweetheart, every tone of your voice, every look in your dear eyes—and now, are you ready to tell me all about it?"

But Madeline, her whole form shaking with sobs, was unable to speak.

Barron took her in his arms and drew her down to the couch, while he petted and soothed her.

"Pretty bad, is it, dear? Well, wait till you're ready to talk."

The great, enveloping love that was hers, instead of helping Madeline, seemed rather to make her distress greater, but the wise and good man beside her only held her gently to him, and now and then whispered an encouraging word.

"Dear little Maddy," he said, "say what you want to, when you feel like it, only remember, dearest, no matter what it is, no matter what you have to tell me, nothing can shake my love for you the least mite. And, remember, too, that I am here for you to lean on. Here to protect you from any danger or any trouble. Got that? Well, then, aren't you nearly ready to begin?"

"It's about—about——"

"Yes, Madeline, about Garret Folsom."

"How did you know?"

"I didn't know. But when you go white if his name is mentioned and are nervous and restless ever since that tragedy, I can't help knowing there's some connection."

"There is." Madeline suddenly sat up straight and looked at him. "There is, Ned, and I'm going to tell you all about it and then you can do with me as you see fit."

"Before you begin, dear, let me assure you that you needn't tell me. I don't need to know details. You were, in some way, treated badly by him, and now it's all past and over with. Shall we just let it go at that?"

"I'm afraid we can't, Ned. I think I shall have to tell you."

"Ve y well, then. We'll skip luncheon for the present, anyway, and get this over first. Go on, now."

He held her in his arms, his lips pressed to the top of her curly, bobbed head, and though his heart was torn with apprehension he listened steadily and quietly while she spoke.

"You didn't know me long ago, Ned," she said, slowly, "but I was a stenographer——"

"Oh, I knew that."

"Well, I was stenographer to Garret Folsom."

His clasp tightened a little convulsively, but he said no word.

"And—he—he married me——"

"Married you——"

"No, that's it—he didn't. But he pretended to——"

"Madeline, what are you talking about? Have you lost your mind?"

"I wish I had. But I haven't. Keep still, Ned, and let me get this over. He took me away with him and pretended to marry me, but it was a mock marriage. And then—then Father came and rescued me—just in time. He, Mr. Folsom I mean, didn't know Father, and didn't see him, and Father got me away from the place——"

"You hadn't been alone with him——"

"Not for a minute!" Madeline looked straight into her husband's eyes and he read truth there. "Father wanted to kill him, but he realized that any revenge or punishment would only bring my name into it and make it worse for me than it already was. So Father took me home, and we moved away to New York, and—then, I met you."

"My precious, darling little girl, and you've been bearing this all alone ever since! I wish you had told me long ago and saved your own dear self these years of secret sorrow. For I know it has been a sorrow to you. Now, Madeline, is that all?"

"Yes, Ned, that's all."

"That's why he kept looking over at you, in the ocean that morning?"

"Yes; oh, Ned, when I saw him come in the night before, I thought I should scream. And then I went out, as you know, for a chair ride by myself. I sometimes did that, you know."

"Yes, I liked to see you do it once in a while. It always seemed to give you a new outlook or something."

"Yes, I did it when I needed to bring myself up with a round turn. Well, that night I went out, never dreaming he would follow, and he did, and he got into my chair——"

"Go on, dearest," and Barron kissed her tenderly.

"And he said unless I left you and went away with him he would publish to the world the story of my going away with him. And he said nobody would believe that Father came and took me away before we were alone a moment."

"And still you didn't kill him, Maddy?"

(To Be Concluded.)

Did Madeline Barron kill Garrett Folsom? Don't miss the startling conclusion on Tuesday.)

DISTRICT FARMERS ATTEND FIELD DAY

hens. Recors revealed this. We must use them.

"So the pure bred cow is the best cow, because you have the records, and you have to keep them. This holds true to any stock. To be a success records to keep track of the cows are necessary to meet competition. We cannot continue the same as our fathers did; conditions now mand a change. The farmer now spends three times as much money as before. He has to, but he lives better. It is worth it but he has to make more money. We must make those cows give us 7000 pounds of milk instead of 4000. They can do it. It is not the cow. Proper feeding, housing and development is necessary. Probably not a matter of breeding—75 per cent. of the cattle are better than we believe or know. Competition now calls the farmer to do better. He knows how. Health is not given much consideration. The number lost varies with the years and the loss was blamed on various things. Now we know that these are caused by diseases. Health plays a great deal—a more important part—than we realized. Accreditation and restricted areas, will they pay us?

Are Great Asset.

"Tested cows are a great asset and farmers have awakened to the sources of infection, and are changing to meet it. It is coming and the restricted area simply means the sooner we can get in the better. People have told me that. It means for you more money, and that you can raise better stock. It will pay, and is paying. We believe that we haven't been giving our stock sufficient attention, and we also have been neglecting our crop situation. We may have to spend a little money here and there, but we will receive more money in the end. We are going to get together in Northumberland, as an illustration, and find out the better way to do things. The tomato growers, fifty strong, have got together, and have a specialist to find the sources of the recent blights; it has to be done to make it pay, and this applies to farming. There are two many individual problems for the individual farmers. With one hundred and fifty or two hundred men working on a single problem more can be accomplished. Dr. Stevenson of the department is working at present on the prevalent diseases in sheep and hogs; we should all work together on this and get away from individualism; the trend of the times makes this necessary. These are only a few of the problems we have to contend with.

Feeding as Factor.

Fred Walsh of the Quaker Oats, was the next speaker to address the meeting. Mr. Smith's address strikes me as very good information. In my travels I have met all conditions and there needs to be a greater efficiency on the farms. Only by greater efficiency can we cope with the modern competition. We must produce more with lower cost. It can be done with more thought and care. Feeding is a very important factor. The Quaker Oats Company co-operates with the government to seek the best results. To be able to produce milk, beef or pork at less cost there must be first class animals, with good feeding and good management. These three must work with each other and an excess of one or the other will not be good. To keep our animals alive they are fed carbo-hydrates, such as barley, corn, oats and millfeeds. There are also proteins and fats. Minerals are not clearly understood but are essential to-day. A balanced ration is necessary for the growth and production of all. There must be a balanced diet. Too much of one of the necessities, as minerals or fats is not of any use.

The feeding of a steer and of a milk cow calls for two entirely different diets. The base of all foods is carbohydrates. If a milk cow is fed in the regular way it gets no proteins to speak of, but a high carbohydrate and a low protein diet, it is not right for this. Proteins are peculiar in that they are necessary for the production of milk a cow will give you. Our government has experimented to find the correct amount of production a cow needs and have found it to be about 20 p.c. More or less is unsatisfactory, an excess of proteins causes much trouble in milk cows. A cow giving 40 pounds of milk a day will yield 65 to 75 pounds of pure lime in her milk in a year.

Lime is necessary; if a cow does not get lime in her feeding she will draw on her carcas and system. Mysterious broken bones will often find their cause here. The same with hogs. Get away from rickets and other troubles with a balanced diet. Virginia and Kentucky horses are very fine because the type of grass they feed on is rich in lime. This confirms the value of minerals. I wanted to convey something about the elements necessary in feeding.

Harry Jacks.

Harry Jacks, president of the Peterborough Heifers' Club was next to be called upon. He said that all the members of the club were well pleased. The club has a unique honor with a lady member whose heifer is the leader in quantity and quality of production. Nine out of ten heifers in the club are in the test. I have kept track of the record of my heifer and have received 6,000 pounds of milk in six months. I have kept track of the feed and have sought the best, receiving an increased production with Quaker Oats feed. I have also tried to regulate it in accordance with her production. In 8½ months she will have paid for herself, $150.00. If all the boys and girls realized this they would be greatly interested. They are given splendid care and are urged on by competitions and government prizes. All heifers shown at the open classes in the fair carried off prizes and convinced the members of the value of records. We will buy stock again from stock where records are kept.

Greatest Dairy District.

J. A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P. for East Peterborough, next took the floor. "This is the greatest dairy district in Ontario. I was pleased to see my old friend, Mr. Stewart, who pioneered this country with eleven head of Ayrshire cattle and who carried off a number of prizes at the world fair in Chicago. The trouble of the farm to-day is that they do not read enough and learn of the competition. Efficiency is necessary. I am interested in the change of the Australian tariff. An Australian farmer can ship butter to Vancouver at two cents a pound less than can a farmer from Edmonton. Intelligent feeding and breeding as well as management is necessary; you can't get milk out of the blue sky. We have room for all of the varieties of the best cattle in the world in Canada. We have to work together to solve our problems. The manufacturers competition is not one, two three with the farmers'. We need help in the worst way and the young man is leaving the farm as soon as they grow up. These conditions must change and will change.

Agricultural Representative

J. B. Nelson, agriculture representative for Peterborough was the next. He welcomed the Ayshire breeders to Peterborough county for the second time in succession and considered it an honor to have the picnic here two years in succession. This year it is held at a farm where Ayshires have been kept from the first and a really good farm but not much had been heard of the cattle as their owner was not a show man.

The Boy's Heifer club of Smith is doing exceptional work. The hard days are past and they are ready now to do better work. The hard luck and lack of interest has been overcome. There really has been no hard work only a little sickness. They interest the boys in better cattle, feeding methods and feeding mixtures. The fact they were interested in better production caused them to try better feed mixtures. The Peterborough fair is another inducement; the boys enter not for the money but the experience. People at the ring remarked as theirs being the best fitted display they had seen.

It took a lot of trouble and the boys even entered in the open classes. This year they will show in the cow and calf classes and will not be afraid of even Mr. Rutherford's herd. The county is glad to have the field day here again. It moves around much in this district, but they ar spreading because they are good dairy cattle, in a good dairy cattle country. Is interest in dairy cattle lessening around Norwood? A group of people such as this on a wet daiy still shows there is hope.

In our judging contests this afternoon let us get some discussion as many valuable points are brought out. Dairying is the backbone of Ontario. Milk and milk products are practically the chief source of income for the farmer east of Toronto, health is a bigger factor with dairy cattle than any other. Accredited herds are increasing all over the province because buyers want tested cattle. Breeding of dairy cattle is being handled well by our association. Your breeding association is doing very big work. Feeding is greatly neglected. Hundreds and thousands of cattle producing 3,000 pounds of milk per year should produce much more but do not because of feeding methods. Some farmers only milk in the summer when the cheese factories will take the milk but now creameries will take milk all the year and you will have a twelve month market. The whole summer is practically lost by the time you have your cows in shape again to milk after leaving them all winter. Hay and succulent feeds are important. Many have no succulent feeds as roots and silage because they say that labor is too scarce. But the labor spent will be repaid. Better fed cattle, better bred cattle and better health were his closing words.

Mr. Wilson the new district representative of Hastings told of the work in Wentworth county and the meetings held there. He also explained the cow testing associations and how Hamilton received all tested milk free from T.B. All cattle are kept under records.

H. M. Carr of Campbellford was the last speaker, he told how agriculture exceeded the mining and lumbering industries and the reason why there was not more publicity was because the farmers were workers not a publicity organization. They should have one and the National Dairy Council is crippled in this respect because of the lack of funds. He then explained the grading of cream and encouraged the keeping of records to make dairying pay. His closing phrase made a real catch word "You will find your cows are bigger robbers than you think the creamery men are" referring to the difference that would be found when records were kept.

All then moved to the spacious garage where Mr. Walsh showed a moving picture of dairy cows and how to judge them. The barn proved very interesting when the various classes were being judged each explaining why he chose a certain cow for first place. This way much was learned about the differences that are important, everyone giving his knowledge to the rest. Mr. Kerr, Frank Dowson, Mr. Bell, Harry Jackson and many other all took part in these judging competitions.

Judge Gives Decision in Dispute Among Chinese Over Payments.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30.—Judge Huycke was not kept long yesterday afternoon in disposing of the Chinese case which had been postponed from the regular court day till yesterday in order that another witness might be brought from Toronto.

No one appeared in court but the judge, the clerk of the court, the bailiff, and the counsel for the plaintiff. After waiting for half an hour, Judge Huycke gave his decision in favor of the plaintiff, and ordered that the money which had been paid into court, be paid the plaintiff after the usual fourteen days limit had been passed with no application for a new trial made.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 30 (Canadian Press).—Harvest weather improvement led to lower prices yesterday for wheat. Likelihood that monthly unofficial crop estimates due on Monday will prove bearish counted also as a selling incentive to the wheat trade.

Closing quotations on wheat were easy, ¾ to 1 cent net lower. Corn finished irregular at ¼c decline to ½ cent advance; oats ¼ to ¼ cent off to ¼ cent up. Provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 17 cents.

Influenced by nearly a complete letup in the long continued drains which have been holding back the harvest southwest, wheat values tended downward yesterday the greater part of the time. Showers predicted for last night helped bring about a transient rally and so likewise did a temporary bulge in corn prices, but with export demand again slow for wheat from North America, and with the corn market flattening out in the late dealings, wheat closed at virtually the day's bottom level.

Contributing to the downward trend of the wheat market were favorable crop advances from Canada and from the American northwest as well. In some districts, wheat was reported to be already in the shot blade stage. Houses with connections northwest were conspicuous on the selling side of the market. Incidentally, news of welcome showers in the Pacific northwest attracted notice, some dispatches current here having asserted that crops were deteriorating in that section and that the out-turn of wheat there might be much less than last year's total.

Evening up of open speculative accounts in the July delivery of corn was largely responsible for sharp advances at times in the corn market. Continued wet weather preventing cultivation of the new crop was also a bullish factor. Besides receipts of corn were small. Price upturns, however induced extensive profit-taking sales, and in the end the advances were about nullified. Oats fluctuated within a narrow range.

Provisions averaged higher, apparently as a reflection of strength shown by the cotton market.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., June 30 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the continued indifferent demand from the United Kingdom and the continent for wheat business here yesterday was again very quiet. There was some demand from New York interests for oats and sales of No. 2 feed were made at 4½ cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the strength in the Chicago future corn market and the steady upward tendency prices of late local dealers advanced prices for cash corn here two cents per bushel. Sales of American No. 2 commercial yellow at $1.13 per bushel, ex-store. The trade in oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was quiet, but prices ruled firm.

There continued to be a demand from buyers in the United States for millfeed here and as the prices bid were in line with some millers' views some business was done for July shipment and the prospects are that the movement in this direction will be fairly large in the near future owing to the shortage. The trade on spot and with local and country buyers was fair with a steady undertone. An easier feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats and prices were reduced 10 cents per bag.

A feature of the egg trade continued to be the good demand from dealers for fresh extras to meet their immediate wants and all supplies offering met with ready buyers. Further sales of Western extras were made at 33½c, and firsts at 31½c per dozen, f.o.b., and Ontario extras changed hands at 34c, and firsts at 31c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, but the volume of business was not large, as only small lots were being offered. A fair trade was done in a jobbing way. The receipts were 2,068 cases.

There were no further developments in the market for potatoes, prices being steady owing to the smaller arrivals of late and the fact that stocks on track on spot were small. There was some demand for local account.

Owing to the continued small arrivals of imported beans and the fact that stocks on spot are not large, a very firm feeling prevailed with a steady demand. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

There was no further change in prices for butter, but the undertone to the market was stronger and the general impression was that a higher level would be reached in the very near future. There was an improved demand from both local and outside interests for supplies and a large volume of business was accomplished. The receipts were 5,843 packages.

The trade in cheese was quiet in all directions owing to the fact that buyers generally had filled their requirements for the week, and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 8,689 boxes.

Amusing Incidents in Mr. Free's Visits

The way of the Five Dollar Gold Piece distributor is one not unmixed with fun. Yesterday Mr. Free enjoyed many a smile in his visits. At one home the lady of the house qualified perfectly for the award, perfectly except—Coming to the door in response to Mr. Free's knock, she repeated the magic formula correctly, but her embarrassment was deep when Mr. Free pointed out to her that instead of the latest copy of The Peterborough Examiner in her hand, one of the prime requisites, she had a wet dish cloth tightly clutched in her hand. As is his custom to make a little gift to those who try, and fail, Mr. Free left her a box of Neilson's Chocolates from Bond's Drug Store.

In another home, Mr. Free opened the screen door, to find a note pinned inside. The note read: "Dear Mr. Free: You got here too late, I had to go to the store."

Another note was particularly good. It said: "Dear Mr. Free: I have gone to the meat market and will be right back. Please sit down on the porch and wait till I return; not that I want to win the five dollars, but I want my little boy to see what you look like."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Six-days Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BEAR'S BACK

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily politely held open the door of the Hollow Stump School so the Lady Mouse Teacher might creep out and not get her tail pinched.

"I suppose you are glad school is out, aren't you, Miss Mouse?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he hopped along beside her.

"Well, I'm glad the children are out, anyhow," squeaked Miss Mouse. "They always seem so glad when it's Saturday."

"Yes, they do," agreed Uncle Wiggily. It happened that the day before, which was Friday, Uncle Wiggily had taken Flicker, the little June Bug boy to school. While there Flicker dabbled his legs in chalk dust and made a puzzle picture on the blackboard. When school was out, Uncle Wiggily hopped away with Miss Mouse and the children, some of whom guessed Flicker's puzzle, as you did, I suppose.

But in hopping away from school the day before, Uncle Wiggily left his rheumatism crutch on one of the desks. He forgot about it because his rheumatism pain went away all of a sudden. But this Saturday, feeling his pain come back, and needing his crutch, Uncle Wiggily had to get the lady Mouse to unlock the school for him. They were now coming away, the rabbit gentleman carrying his crutch.

"Those were cute mistakes Flicker made on the blackboard," said Miss Mouse as she locked the door so none of the animal children could get in the school on Saturday, which some of them might try to do.

"Yes, very cute mistakes!" chuckled the bunny uncle. "The idea of chalking up that six times two are ten, when every one knows the answer is twelve."

"He added up his number wrong, too," squeaked the Lady Mouse.

"So he did," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "The sum of sixty-two and thirty-seven is ninety-nine, not eighty-nine as Flicker had it. And he not only spelled the word "three" wrong but he was mistaken when he tried to say a cow has three legs."

"Of course!" laughed Miss Mouse. "A cow has four legs. Ha! Ha!"

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" loudly laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" suddenly echoed another laugh and, as it had come from neither of them, Uncle Wiggily and Miss Mouse looked at each other in surprise. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the voice again.

"Did—did you hear that?" whispered Miss Mouse.

"Ye—ye—yes," answered Mr. Longears. "It sounded like one of the Bad Chaps making fun of us."

"Oh, it is a Bad Chap—look!" cried Miss Mouse covering her eyes with her long tail and pointing one paw at a Big Black Bear who was shuffling toward the rabbit and the Lady Mouse. "Oh! Oh! Oh!"

"Dear me!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, wishing he were a Police Dog.

"Don't be afraid," said the Big Black Bear with a polite bow. "I am not going to harm you. I just came to have my back scratched!"

"What—what's that?" asked Uncle Wiggily, wondering what would happen next.

"I want my back scratched," growled the Big Black Bear, but not at all crossly. "You see I have an itchy place right in the middle of my back and I can't reach around to scratch it. Will you please scratch my back for me?" he asked the rabbit gentleman, blowing a kiss from his paw to Miss Mouse.

"I shall be pleased to," answered Uncle Wiggily. So with his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, Uncle Wiggily scratched the bear's back. And then the Big Black chap, smiled in a friendly way and growled.

"Well, you scratched my back, and now I'll scratch yours."

"Oh, thank you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, looking at the sharp claws of the Big Black Bear, "my back doesn't need scratching. But if you want to use your claws and scratch a puzzle picture for me and Miss Mouse on the bark of a tree, it will be nice. Go ahead and make a puzzle."

"Delighted!" growled the Bear. So he scratched a picture all cut up in pieces and said:

"When the puzzle pieces are put together it makes something very nice. So the Lady Mouse tried to guess what it was.

Peterborough War Memorial

This is the list of Peterborough City and County war dead as revised by the War Memorial Committee. It has been decided that rank will not be included, but that decorations are to be added.

This is the last opportunity that can be given relatives and friends of the men who fell overseas to make corrections and additions. The sculptor is ready to begin the lettering, and all corrections must be received within ten days.

It is requested that every reader examiner the list and write or phone additions of names and decorations to The Examiner office.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The new Chanel scarf shown above is made of striped and dotted beige and brown silk, held with a tortoise-shell ring. Below, a gold sequin handkerchief scarf for evening.

Under normal conditions, I suppose, women's costumes must needs be completed with innumerable accessories—almost countless little things that must needs be added to frock or suit before the "tout ensemble" is complete.

As a result of the war, women learned to do without most of them, and many of us thought that having proved to ourselves that dressing could be thus simplified we would never go back to the accessory habit again.

It was within the first years of the war epoch that women gave up veils, separate belts, collars, cuffs and other lingerie touches, hatpins, fur collars, parasols—that they began to wear one-piece frocks and learned that underthings could be reduced to a single garment. The time saved in not having to attend to these trifles left more time to be spent sewing shirts for soldiers and making mitts for the marines or whatever it was that we did to show our patriotism.

Oddly enough, even the war did not teach men to do without accessories in dress. They went right on with collar buttons and separate collars, belts and three-piece suits and spent just as much time dressing as if there were no war. But in matters of dress at least men decidedly constitute unadaptable sex.

And now little by little women have gone back to their pre-war accessories—veils, belts, collars, cuffs, scarfs innumerable and different handbags for every costume. And dressing has again become a complicated and sometimes nerve-racking business.

A few years ago dressmakers found their customers unwilling to order frocks that couldn't be put on complete it a single piece—now they purposely provide separate belts, unattached scarfs, removable collars, cuffs and vestees.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

MZOR a comparatively small city, Peterborough is wonderfully up-to-date MZin its manner of living. One reads in a fashionable magazine, for instance, MZthat "The printed ensemble is a distinctly new fashion"—and presto! there is a lovely printed ensemble on George street.

• • •

There's a joker in this somewhere, too, because as a matter of fact the magazine hasn't reached Peterborough yet. I got the above fashion note from rough proof sheets which are sent in advance to Women's Page editors, and when I asked at the bookstore for the magazine they were still selling last month's.

• • •

So how did that more than up-to-the-minute young lady know?

• • •

In another way we are behind the times. Lots of people from Montreal, Toronto, and other large cities think Peterborough a delightful place to spend vacation, but we natives, as soon as the sun becomes benevolent, pack up and leave for "the cottage." I walked around the avenues which border on Monaghan road one evening this week, and marvelled that people with houses so pretty and gardens so beautiful could bear to change to a mosquito-ridden resort with only bare rocks. Yet . . .

• • •

One of these days, I, too, shall pack up!

• • •

A charming frock seen in one of the stores is of georgette, with sun-ray tucks below a V-neck. The back is in one piece.

• • •

Lunch cloths for informal use are shown in a George street store. They have pretty decorations of floral wreaths encircling embroidered dishes and tableware.

• • •

A bridge hostess recently used an attractive cover, centered with a nicely embroidered windmill, the sails of which were the four aces. The corners of the cloth carried out the Dutch motif.

• • •

Mrs. A. P. follows up my suggestion about quilted pillows by remarking that square and oval pillows are quickly and easily made and very effective when finished. They give experience, too, that will be valuable when one attempts larger and more pretentious quilting.

• • •

An addition to the appearance of those painted furniture pieces for the summer cottage comes from McCracken's. The idea is to take suitable colored pictures, cut them out, paste them on the furniture where a panel or a flat surface offers a proper setting, and varnish them. I believe some specially designed motifs can be bought.

• • •

One notices an increasing use of the designation "For Active Sports Wear" in advertising. Certainly many of the "sports" frocks shown this year are not intended for sports. Not every girl who wears a stunning costume plays tennis—any more than one would expect every male in plus fours to play golf.

• • •

A bouffant frock for evening wear is shown in an up-town store, with wrap-around straight gathered skirt attached to basque and camisole bodice top. It is in two shades, and demonstrates the definite "one sided" trend of feminine wear.

• • •

They say the trend is definitely feminine, but there remain some brave souls. There was a girl in Confederation Square on Thursday at whom one had to look more than once to ascertain her sex. Finally, it was the cigarette that convinced me. No male so youthful looking as this would have dared flaunt the "pill" as she did.

• • •

On a trip up town on Saturday evening, with music on Charlotte street and music on Hunter street, broadcast by amplifiers, one has all the thrill of a Broadway night-club without the couvert charge, and of grand opera without buying the season ticket.

• • •

By the way, a pleasant party was nearly broken up one night when a lady member of the company referred to a local dealer's pet instrument as "a music box." Try it on him.

• • •

I asked a city restauranteur whether Peterborough girls avoid potatoes. If they do, they don't sidestep them in his restaurant. But we read about a league in Australia of 60,000 girls who are banded together to avoid glorious, golden, fried potatoes in order to keep thin. Think of it, girls!

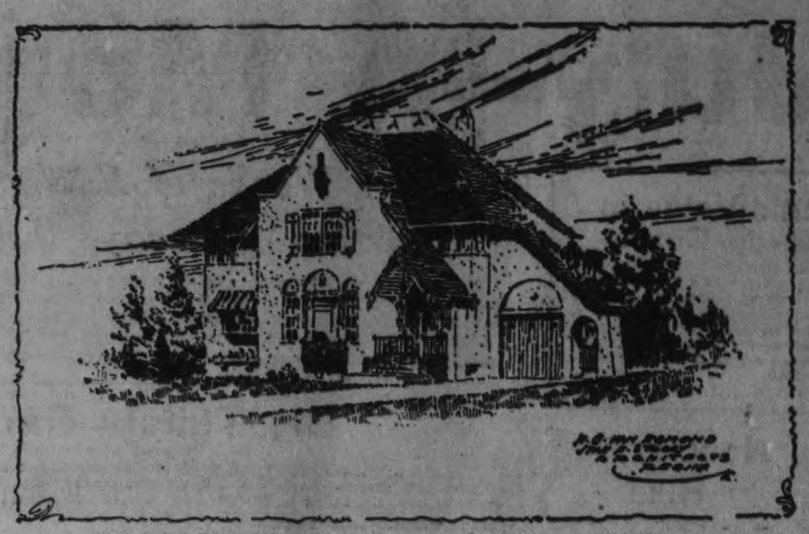
PLANING . BUILDING . FINANCING
DECORATING . FURNISHING . GARDENING



WHEN AN ARCHITECT BUILDS

W. G. Van Edmond & Stan E. Storey, Architects.

Here, unhampered by a client's individual ideas, the designer has erected what to him exemplifies the perfect home, for this is an architect's own home. Let us see what a triumph of convenience and distinctiveness has resulted.

The quaint charm of the exterior may be attributed to several factors among which good proportions, and the judicious use of wrought iron, are outstanding. Another contributory item is the variegated thatch effect shingle roof. To appreciate the value of this feature it is only necessary to imagine the comparatively harsh effect of the quaint little entrance hood if finished with the usual right angles and straight lines.

An unusual feature of the ground floor is the lowering of the dining- and living-room floors, these being slightly below the other rooms. In addition to providing the extra headroom desirable in these larger, ornamental ceilinged rooms it forms, in itself, an interesting detail. Other features of this floor are the sun-room, electric fireplace and the pullman style breakfast nook.

Upstairs are four main rooms, a small sleeping-room, ample closet space, a three-piece bathroom off the hall, and a two-piece toilet directly off the owner's room.

Equipped with electric range and refrigeration, automatic water heating, and a hot water oil burning heating system, this home cost $12,000, but a basis of 36,830 cubic feet may be used in estimating the cost under other conditions.

This house, the main dimensions of which are 33 ft. by 36 ft., was erected on a 60-foot lot, facing east.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with Home Building Information Service, 345 Adelaide St., West, Toronto, Ontario, who will see that it is supplied. When writing, please mention Design No. 131. Copyright, 1928.

BANISH THE SHADOWS TO MAKE HOME HOME

Each Separate Room Has a Particular Lighting Need.

The living-room must be lighted not only to banish all dullness and give a good light for reading, but, withal, to provide a cheerful, home-like glow to the entire room. This delightful combination can only be had through placing at least four bracket outlets in the walls and a ceiling outlet in the centre of the room. The ceiling type fixture should be installed quite close up. It is the source of proper light for card-playing and entertaining.

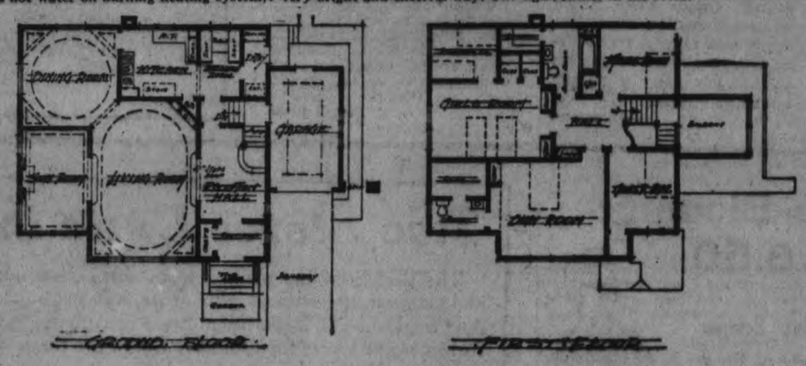
An important feature in lighting the living-room, dining-room or other ground floor rooms is to keep the bracket outlets five feet eight inches from the floor-level.

The dining-room must be lighted in a very bright and cheerful way. The ligh from a nice silver candelabra fixture, fitted with silk shades and suspended at the proper height, will bring out the beauty of the silverware on the white linen. Brackets are not only decorative in the dining-room but also serve a useful purpose before and after meals in giving just enough light to dress the table.

The kitchen is the office of the home and some one spends a great deal of time there. The lighting fixture should have a very strong lamp entirely enclosed by a diffusing glass unit, attached directly to the ceiling, and individual brackets should be placed near the stove and sink.

The bedrooms should each be treated in a different manner. Most bedrooms demand a three- or four-light candelabra or cluster fixture from the ceiling. These fixtures should be fitted with silk or cretonne shades to match the drapery. There should be at least two bracket lights in each bedroom, one on either side of the dressing-table. The wiring outlets should not be over five feet four inches from the floor-level. Bedroom fixtures may be had in ivory, silver or Florentine finish to harmonize with any decorative scheme.

The bathroom should be lighted with a similar ceiling fixture to that used in the kitchen. To get a good light for shaving-purposes, a bracket light should be installed on either side of the mirror. These fixtures should be finished in a baked white enamel finish to match the white in the room.



BUDGETING FOR PLEASURE

This week we are to give the expense accounts of a family of five in Peterborough. It is not an easy task, because some families of five will consume much more food than others; some will increase the food bill by eating meat often while others are practically vegetarians; some will pay high rent and others save on rent to buy a car. All that can be done is to give an average.

Let us suppose that this family eats meat, and allow 2 lbs. sirloin, 2 lbs. shoulder, 1 lb. veal, 1 lb. mutton, 1 lb. pork and 1 lb. breakfast bacon, at average prices of 73c, 45c, 26c, 28c, 23c, and 32c, a total of $2.27. Some families would not spend this on meat in a month.

One dozen eggs, fresh, and one dozen storage will be an average allowance, costing 72c. Six quarts of milk (60c); 3 lbs. butter ($1.32); 1 lb. cheese (30c); 15 lbs. bread ($1.05); 10 lbs. flour (40c); 5 lbs. rolled oats (30c); 1 lb. rice (11c); 2 lbs. beans (17c); 1 lb. prunes (13c); 4 lbs. sugar, (30c); ¼ lb. tea (18c); ¼ lb. coffee (15c); 2 pks. potatoes (64c); 1 lb. lard (21c); salt, pepper, vinegar, cream of tartar, laundry starch, soap, and other kitchen needs (50c); 4 lbs. jam (77c); raisins, 15 ozs. (16c). The total for food will be $10.28, or 59c less than the average for sixty cities in Canada. If some of the prices are up in to-day's market report, others will be down so that the average remains about the same.

To the food bill must be added rent, light and fuel, the last two varying from month to month. One 8-roomed house we heard of this week only used 4½ tons of coal last winter; another, which is better known, used 10 tons. Probably 6 tons is average, and the best way to handle this item in a budget is to spread it over the whole year, charging up ½ ton a month, say $8. At least a cord of hardwood will be used, and half a cord of softwood (kindling), another $22, or $1.80 a month. Light will be about $1.50, and gas $2.50. With rent at $25 a month, these items add up to $9 a week, which is $1.19 under the average for sixty cities in Canada.

To the total now obtained of $19.28 must be added clothing, recreation and insurance. As shown in the article by Jeannette last Saturday, the cost of clothing varies according to the ability of the mistress of the house to sew. So variable is this expenditure, according to personal desire and the age of the family, that the government does not attempt a computation.

An interesting fact shown by the government figures is the stability of clothing prices, which are not coming down nearly as fast as most people think. The government index number is based on the 1913 average, taken as 100. Then the peak was reached from March to June, 1920, when the index number jumped to 251, which is two and a half times 1913 prices. Whereas food prices had dropped from a peak of 231 in June, 1920, to 152 in June, 1921, clothing had dropped only 51 points to 193 in June, 1921, and the latest figures show clothing at 155 and food at 148. The former has remained unchanged for nine months, while food prices have increased from 148 to 152 and dropped again to 148 in the same period.

Insurance must be of importance to the head of a family of five; it is an item which he cannot ignore, especially if the children be young. A good insurance plan calls for provision of a monthly income for the widow equal to the present earnings of the husband. This can be arranged on a sliding scale, so that during the youth of the children there will be more coming in than after they have graduated into business. For the man with 3 children, 10, 12 and 14, for instance, who is earning $200 a month, a good plan would be to have a monthly income insurance of $200 for ten years, then $100 monthly income insurance payable for the life of the beneficiary. A little immediate death benefit insurance should be carried also, of course, to meet medical and funeral expenses.

Taking the foregoing expense account as a basis, or one which you will make up from your own experience, it should be easy to prepare a budget to fit your individual case. There need be nothing mysterious or complicated about the budget system; as has been shown before. The mere fact of writing down all expenditures will show leaks that can be plugged with advantage to the bank account.

To the family with a limited income, contemplating purchase of a house or a car, a budget is a practical necessity. It is easy—so easy!—to spend the weekly or monthly salary on things which appear to be necessary, while the provision of future payments on house and car is left to next month. Much worry will be saved for more worthy objects if the income is budgeted simply—and the budget lived up to.

A Tip or Two

LUNCHEON DISH.

Hard-boiled eggs, served hot on grilled sausages and covered with cheese sauce, make a luncheon dish with a tang. Garnish with parsley.

CIRCULAR HEMS

On circular skirt use narrow silk ribbon to finish back the hem, instead of turning it under. Also catch it by hand only at intervals. Never stitch it.

MIXED SALAD.

Nothing is more refreshing than a salad which mixes its greens—say Romaine, watercress and endive with chopped parsley in the French dressing.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE.

RENDEZVOUS.

Put on my well-flowered hat—
Blue skies above me—
Fasten my yellow frock . . . .
Ah, he will love me!

Saucy, small slippers—
Hurting is bliss.
When down a shaded path
Lovers may kiss.

One dash of powder,
Lips reddened prim . . . .
No hour so sweet as this—
Dressing for him!

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

AT WARSAW.

Warsaw, June 30.—Warsaw Woman's Institute has a library of about four hundred books. There are works of fiction, poetry, nursing, history, stories for children, books of reference. Magazines, such as Canadian Home Journal, Ladies' Home Journal, Farmers' Advocate, are donated often by subscribers.

The books are kept in a case in the institute rooms. During the summer months it is opened after each meeting. During the winter, it is generally open on Saturday evenings. Works of fiction are most generally read.

Since the rural mail delivery there has not been the demand for library books there used to be. People subscribe for one or two dailies, an agricultural paper, and some magazine, and perhaps their church paper. In these there is a good amount of good reading, and farmers' wives, daughters, the farmer himself, and his son are very apt to have little time for a great amount of other reading, especially as the great dailies, and the journals and magazines are of the standard they are. The rural delivery insures daily papers, and there has been a great increase in subscriptions to dailies since they could be had. Time is devoted to them which used to be devoted to other reading matter.

MILLBROOK BRANCH.

The Millbrook Women's Institute, like practically all the other branches in East Durham, has responded to the annual appeal from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, by sending a generous number of gems of fruit and jam to that institution each Christmas season.

The speaker sent by the Department to visit the East Durham institutes this month, Mrs. McCoun, of Campbellford, mentioned this matter in her address to the combined institutes of Bethany, Mount Pleasant, Millbrook, and Cavan, at the Cavan Community Hall, stating that the superintendent, G. A. Putnam, urges giving attention to needy cases in the home communities first before sending contributions out of the local centres.

Granted that out of the hundreds of women's institutes in Ontario to all of whom, apparently, the appeal is sent each year, scores respond by sending the fruit, etc., asked for, the quantity received must be of amazing proportions. There is no wish on Mr. Putnam's part to discourage assistance to worthy objects, but the suggestion seems reasonable that the total amount donated must be rather more than could be used in one institution. Hence the emphasis on home charities as a first charge.

The Home Series of "Little Blue Books," issued by the Department of Health at Ottawa, is of peculiar interest to members of women's institutes, and the books are available for the asking just as is the series on practical farm and community topics issued by the Department of Agriculture. Some of the titles include: "How to Take Care of Household Waste"; "Canadians Need Milk"; "Household Cost Accounting in Canada"; "How to Manage Housework in Canada"; "How We Cook in Canada"; "How to Avoid Accidents and Give First Aid"; "How to Take Care of the Baby"; "How to Take Care of the Family"; "How to Take Care of the Children"; "How to Build the Canadian House"; "How to Take Care of Mother"; "How to Take Care of Father and the Family."

LEADING LADIES OF CONVENTION

Three women took a prominent part in the Republican national convention at Kansas City. They were: (1) Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, so-called "king-maker" of American politics; (2) Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, United States assistant Attorney-General, whose duties at Washington involve the supervision of dry law prosecutions, and (3) Mrs. Alice Longworth, daughter of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and wife of Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives. Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Longworth are close friends, the latter being the godmother of the former's three-year-old daughter, Paulina. At Kansas, however, they lined up in opposing camps, Ruth being a Lowdenite and Alice a Hooverite. Both helped make political history by joining in the night conference at Mellon's headquarters which culminated with the choice for vice-presidential candidate of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, a farmer champion who is of French-Canadian and Indian descent and who once was a jockey. Mrs. Willebrandt was one of Hoover's most active campaigners.

WORKING WOMEN GO TO COLLEGE

Residential Students Range From 21 Years of Age Upwards.

London, Eng., June 30 (CP).—One of the most interesting developments in adult education during recent years has been the Residential College for Working Women at Hillcroft, Surbiton, Surrey. Begun in a small way as an experiment in 1920 at Beckenham, it soon outgrew its first home and moved to a beautiful new house at Surbiton in 1926, where 20 students are now in residence, with 40 expected in September.

And who are these students? They are working women who left school at 14 and have been engaged in wage-earning occupations ever since, and also at the same time have continued their education at evening classes, continuation school, etc. They are not accepted at less than 21 years of age, and most of them are older. They come from all sorts of occupations—domestic, industrial or commercial, mill hands, waitresses and shop assistants—but all have one thing in common—that they desire further educational opportunities. In some cases they run the risks of losing their employment by giving it up for a year to attend college; in others their employers not only keep their places open for them but pay their fees as well. All students fully realize that the aim of the college is not to open the way to a better post, or to enable them to "better themselves" in the worldly sense, but to enlarge their vision and develop their mental and spiritual qualities.

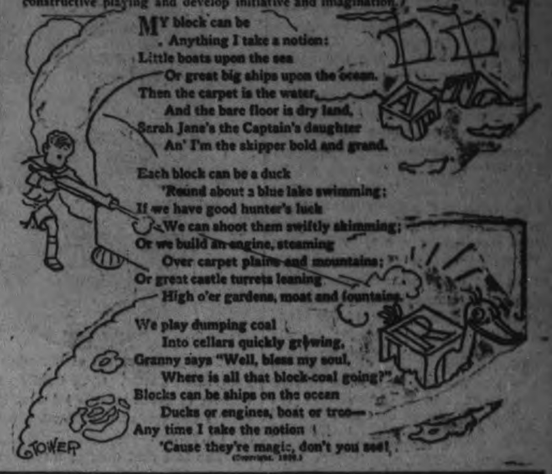
WHAT toys has your child which either force, or give him opportunity, to exercise his imagination? Are his toys and games so complete that he just plays mechanically without developing ideas and originality? I am not being derogatory about the beautiful and complete toys of now-a-days; they are lovely. I only wonder if we are giving the children enough simple material to demand constructive playing and develop initiative and imagination.



DEAREST LITTLE GIRL

By H. Louis Raybold.

It did not seem to Mr. John Billings as if the old town of Caryville had changed any during his five years' absence. Same dingy station, same two-story railroad hotel, same paint-peeled trolley jolting up Main Street. Thank Fortune, he had escaped while the escaping was good. Otherwise he might have been caught like his friend Bill, whose wedding on the morrow was his reason for his return.

In fact, he might have been standing in Bill's very shoes for there had been a time when both had been sweet on Elinor Seaver and John had never entirely recovered from the feeling that, had he stayed on, he might have cut Bill out.

But here he was, foot loose and fancy free, striding up town in preference to boarding the one-man car, and glad enough that he was in Caryville for the night and not for a lifetime.

Twenty minutes later, he stood on Bill's familiar porch where of old the "gang" had been won't to congregate.

"Johnny Say, old man, this is awfully decent of you to take Kent's place as best man on such short notice. I couldn't very well explain over the phone how I would have asked you in the first place only—"

"Cut it out, Bill. Glad of the chance to help put the handcuffs on you." And John found himself drawn in to meet Bill's folks again.

"Will I see the 'dearest little girl in the world,' as you call her, before the fatal hour?" he asked later.

"Hardly think so," said Bill with a worried little frown. "She's rather done up. Rehearsal last night kept us out to a late hour. Kind of thought you and I might go down to the Opera House and take in a show together. Man needs a little relaxation with all this going on and the youngster gave me leave to spend my last evening as a bachelor any old way I pleased. She's a darn good little sport, Johnny!"

The musical comedy which they witnessed that night proved better than the usual run of such entertainments and occupied their minds to the exclusion of what lay ahead on the morrow. Not once was the wedding mentioned. Afterwards they drifted in to Caryville's small lunch room and over cigarettes and a Welsh Rabbit hashed over old school days.

But morning brought a different Bill to the breakfast table. One fully aware of the day's cares and significance. Would John be sure to produce the ring without hesitation—would he see that the train tickets were placed in the pocket of his gray suit?

John, secretly smug over his own secure bachelorhood, was calmly reassuring about everything. "Cut out the worry, Bill. The show will move like clock work and by this time tomorrow you and the dearest little girl in the world will be speeding on your way to Canada."

A few hours later arrived that vital moment when, in the midst of flowers and expectant guests, he and Bill stood waiting the entrance of the wedding party. The organist, who had been giving a short preliminary musicale for the benefit of the early comers swung suddenly from the Priest March of Mendelssohn into the strains of Lohengrin and John became aware of movement at the farther end of the church.

Slowly the procession advanced. Four ushers—four bridesmaids—the maid of honor with a sweeping bouquet and a droppy hat that hid her eyes—the bride on the arm of J. Daniel Seaver.

"Elinor has grown plump," thought John critically, and wondered if, when she lifted her veil, he would find her as pretty as he remembered her.

The service began. John, not particularly attentive, was brought to his sense with a shock.

Margaret Jane Seaver! Margaret Jane— Had Elinor changed her name or who the Dickens was Bill marrying anyhow? Elinor had no sister. He recalled vaguely a cousin who had come to visit her once. Peggy—Peggy Jane. So that was it! Bill wasn't marrying Elinor after all!

For the rest of the ceremony John muddled the thing over in his mind. Something had happened to break up Bill's old affair and he had not heard about it. In fact, he had rather lost touch with Bill and Caryville until suddenly had come this short notice request on Bill's part to fill the place of Kent Stone who had fallen ill.

At that point in his cogitations and just as he handed the ring to Bill, his eyes met those of the maid of honor. Lucky that the ring was safely in Bill's fingers or it might have fallen to the floor. The maid of honor was Elinor and not only was she as lovely as he had remembered her but far, far lovelier with the beauty that maturity sometimes confers on even less attractive girls than Elinor had been.

But did he ever tell her of his mistake He never did. Not even after they were married and had settled down in Caryville with John taking over J. Daniel Seaver's real estate business.

Yes. Caryville points to Mr. John Billings as one of its chief boosters, and it is at his house that Bill and Peggy Jane always stay when they return for a brief visit to the old town, although Bill, in the privacy of their room, is apt to exclaim that he is glad he escaped while the escaping was good.

SINGER ONCE KEPT THE QUEEN WAITING

Mme. Wilson-Jones Recalls How She Charmed Gladstone And Bishop.

Montreal, Que., June 30.—Mme. Wilson-Jones is paying her fourteenth visit to Canada, and was interviewed recently in this city on her way to Kamouraska, where she will spend the summer. She was formerly the Countess von Schwartzenberg.

Madame Wilson-Jones had an exceptionally interesting musical training, possessing a voice which might have brought her world fame if her parents had not opposed her entering upon a professional career. During the past few years, she has turned her talents to teaching singing, being on the staff of the University of California, and having enjoyed the distinction of being president of the Music Teachers' Association of California. She studied with the elder Lamperti, Sir Manuel Garcia, and with the great Madame Marchesi, in Paris.

What was perhaps an unique distinction was once gained by this artist. "I was dining with the Aberdeens," she recalled. "Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone were there, and he seemed very tired. After dinner, Mrs. Gladstone asked Lady Aberdeen if I would sing. 'Something very soothing,' she whispered to me. I sang 'Angels Ever Bright and Fair,' and to this day I can see Mr. Gladstone and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Benson, seated side by side, their venerable white heads bowed.

"When I had sung, the Archbishop came up and thanked me, adding, 'It is not every little girl who can say that she kept the Queen waiting.' Both he and Mr. Gladstone had been notified that Queen Victoria wished to see them at 10 o'clock, and it was then a quarter past!"

Madame Wilson-Jones has been presented at every court in Europe. She recalled particularly the charm and simple tastes of the Empress Elizabeth of Austria.

There are over 20,000 women farmers in England and Wales.

MARION'S MAIL

DEAR MARION:

I have read with a great deal of interest the letters published in your column. It is clearly to be seen that many wives have similar problems, and probably most wives have some problem.

There is one question that I think must affect nearly every mother at some time—how to keep up her husband's interest in the children and their interest in him. Many men devote practically all their waking hours to business, and while their womenfolk may understand and maintain their interest, children are likely to let father grow out of their lives with rompers and teddy-bears.

It seems to me that business men are so efficient in other ways they should be able to devise some way of having a little home life. But between office hours there are lodges and committees of this and that which must be attended in the interests of business. If they are in the interests of business, why not take them out of business time and not out of the shorter "home time?

Yours sincerely,
JUNE."

This is a problem, June, which was well discussed in a magazine of fifteen months ago, when J. G. Frederick suggested application of the time magnifying principle. T he father with short periods to spare with his children should pack into every period something that will make the children remember it. A story told by dad; a bedtime yarn ending in a pillow fight; a ramble when interesting reminiscences are called forth by the surroundings; all of these will linger in the child's memory—and in father's

After all, June, this is a familiar problem in business, where most men make minutes count. Unfortunately, many men allow themselves to become loaded with detail. I know one Peterborough business man (proprietor of a big factory) who goes to his office at 7.30 and after personally examining every trivial paper and answering scores of minor inquiries all day, leaves at 5.30. He boasts about his attention to detail, but it is not flattering, surely, to do work which a secretary could do just as well, leaving the proprietors' mind free for big enterprises—and his time free for home life.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties.

By LAURA.

Have you ever tried a Mock Canteen for a party at your summer cottage? It is extremely interesting and everyone must take part or he will be minus his supper. Choose an even number of boys and girls and upon their arrival present them with slips containing the name of some article of food for supper. Duplicate slips, of course, are given to the boys. When all have matched for partners they are shown to the kitchen, and we hope it will be large enough to accommodate them all easily, and there they are told to cook the item on their slip. The hostess and her partner do no cooking, but manages the cafeteria.

On the dining-room table are arranged knives, forks, spoons, and other necessary silverware, and over this is posted a bulletin-board in good imitation of a real cafeteria. There would be, of course, listed on it such things as a roast of beef, pie, and puddings, which could not possibly be made in the short time. These are heavily scored out in black.

When the cooks have finished their part of the meal, everything is arranged on the kitchen table (a good big one) and everyone after obtaining the necessary silverware, passes on and pretends to select from the counter. In reality, of course, everyone takes everything and receives a "check" from the hostess with a punch on some "stunt" which is written on it.

The menu may consist of: scalloped salmon; fruit salad; lettuce sandwiches; chocolate pudding and whipped cream; and tea or coffee.

A great deal of additional fun may be had by placarding a number of very prominent articles in the room, such as "Water" over the tap; "Reserved for Ladies," on a table; and a huge one on the stove.

After supper, the stunts would be given which were received from the hostess. These should be very simple and as silly as possible, such as counting to fifty, substituting the words "Oh, Fudge" for fives and every multiple of five. This would do for the girls, while the boys could give an imitation of a lady and her pet "Toodles"; or show in five different ways how reveille affected your friends.

WELCOME LEAGUE LOOKS FOR TRUTH

Discovers Facts in Cases Where Immigration Privileges Are Refused.

Toronto, Ont., June 30 (CP).—"My husband has been refused admission into Canada because he is 50 years old," a woman recently told officials of the British Welcome and Welfare League. Upon investigation it was found he had been suffering from an ailment many years, and his case had been referred to Ottawa for further investigation.

The incident recalls the case of a young woman, who, it was claimed was barred from Canada because she weighed 157, when later evidence proved the girl weighed more than 200 pounds. The Welcome League, the other day, received an appeal from a girl whose friend was refused admission into Canada "because she had warts." It turned out the girl's arms were covered with warts of a contagious nature.

ARTISTS PLEAD TO KEEP TREES

moval of Old Pines Near Toronto.

Toronto, Ont., June 29 (CP).—A recent open letter of the Ontario Society of Artists calls attention through its president, F. H. Brigden, to a threatened removal of very old pines on the Clarkson Road, 20 miles from this city. "The Government should see that the asset we have in our Province in the way of natural beauty is preserved. Even from the monetary standpoint a beautiful district may be as valuable as a gold mine or pulpwood section. The falls on the Montreal and Missisauga Rivers are among the finest in Canada, with unusually romantic setting—power developments are proposed— these points of interest should have the same consideration as the scenic attractions of Niagara. Homer Watson and other artists bring a sad story of devastation. The veteran landscape painter whose pictures of the Grand River Valley have won him an international reputation has come back from Doon with tales of the passing of the big trees.

"The Ontario Society of Artists will welcome any support which nature-lovers of Canada can give to this movement to preserve what is still left of our magnificent heritage."

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE SHACK

The children call our cottage small,
And tourists call it quaint.
The neighbors talk of sash in fall,
In spring they talk of paint.
They say it's just a shack, is all—
But not to me it ain't.

How could it be, when you and me
For thirty busy years
Have smiled its little lamp to see,
Smiled even through our tears,
Here lost our one and raised our three,
And had our hopes and fears?
It's just a cot, a simple spot,
Without a gilded dome,
A little house, a narrow lot—
But when the world you roam
The bigger places are forgot
And all you want is home.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS THE HOME DOCTOR

Baby's Own Tablets meet all the need that exists in every home where there are young children. They are a laxative, but do not gripe. They are soothing but do not contain one particle of opiate or other ingredient that can in anyway do the slightest harm to the most delicate child.

Baby's Own Tablets reduce fever, relieve colic, banish constipation and indigestion, check diarrhoea, sweeten the stomach and allay the irritation that accompanies the cutting of teeth. They quiet the nerves and promote health-giving sleep and repose. In fact they are as good as a doctor in the home and once a mother has used them for her little ones she will use nothing else. Thousands of mothers bear testimony as to this. Among them is Mrs. Hurst, Pine Falls, Man., who says: "I was told to try Baby's Own Tablets by a friend who had used them for all her little ones and said she could not do without them. After using them for my baby boy I quite agree with her and certainly think they are the finest medicine in the world for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NURSES TO PLAN WORLD MEETING

International Convention to be Held in Montreal Next Year.

Montreal, Que., June 29 (CP).—Arrangements for the meeting in Montreal next year of the International Congress of Nurses are expected to figure largely in the discussions to take place during the convention of the Canadian Nurses' Association, which will be held in Winnipeg during the first week of July. This convention will be attended by a representative delegation from Montreal.

The problem of lodging accommodation for the visiting nurses is a very considerable one, as the attendance is estimated as likely to be anywhere between 5,000 and 7,000. The congress will be in session during the week beginning July 8, 1929, when nurses from many parts of the world will gather here.

Britain and United States Break Even at Wimbledon

FRENCH PAIR TAKE MATCHES

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon Advance in Men's Singles.

HELEN WILLS WINS.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30. — (Canadian Press).—Britain and the United States broke even in the feature matches of yesterday's championship tournament. Miss Naomi Trentham, of London, and Miss Helen Wills of California, were triumphant, and Miss Penelope Anderson of Virginia and Miss E. H. Harvey of England, were the victims.

Miss Wills' victory over Miss Harvey was anticipated, but the champion was called upon to use every resource to overcome the sturdy English woman, whose tenacity brought repeated rounds of applause from the spectators. Miss Harvey accepted the swinging, battering pace set by the driving Helen Wills and made some beautiful returns of difficult shots from all parts of the court. The score was 6-2, 6-3. The score hardly indicates the remarkable fight put up by Miss Harvey.

Miss Trentham in defeating the seventh ranking player of the United States drove forcefully to win 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Anderson started well, but her control went to pieces before the hard shots of Miss Trentham, and she seemed to tire as they progressed through the third set of a bitterly fought match. The result was a surprise.

Eileen Bennett, the British hope, Cecilie Aussem of Germany and Daphne Akhurst, Australian, who eliminated the American threat, Helen Jacobs, yesterday, all reached the quarter finals in the woman's single along with Miss Wills and Elizabeth Ryan. Miss Ryan crushed the Australian, Esna Boyd, 6-0, 6-2.

King Alfonso of Spain arrived at the courts just in time to encourage Senorita Elia De Alvares to victory over Evelyn Colyer, the English girl, 6-4, 6-4.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of France advanced in the men's singles to the quarter finals yesterday. Brugnon fought keenly with Gerald Patterson, the Australian veteran, who won the singles title ten years ago, to pull out the match, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. Cochet trounced the Argentine, Ronald Boyd in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

There was a surprise in the spectacular straight set victory of smiling John Hennessey, Indianapolis star, over the big German, Frans Frenz, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Franco-American Struggle.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The men's singles tournament is now converging on the inevitable Franco-American struggle, the first battles of which will be between Cochet, resent holder of the title and Hennesey in the quarter-finals and to-day's fourth round encounter between Tilden and the rising young French star Pierre Laundry.

Brugnon of France has reached the quarter-finals but his oppenent has not yet been decided though it will be either Moon, Australia or the French left-hander Boissus, another member of the small battalion of French youth, who, although outclassed by those in the first flight in their own country seem able to divade British territory without serious opposition.

The woman's singles is a different story. Six of those to be included among the first eight have reached that group. Great Britain is represented by Eileen Bennett and Mrs. Watson; the United States by Helen Wills and Miss Ryan; Germany by Fraulein Aussen; Australia by Miss Amhurst. The Spanish star Senorita De Alvarez is assured of reaching this stage as well so that a wide international representation in the final stages is assured. Yesterday's matches were played under difficult conditions with a strong wind prevailing throughout the day. Towards the close the wind increased to half gale with the matches being interrupted by rainstorms. From the British point of view probably the greatest blow of the day was the passing of Gerald Patterson, Australia, who has held the championship twice but who succumbed to the French stylist Brugnon.

STARS AT OLYMPIC TRIALS TO-DAY

To-day the cream of Canada's athletes go to the post to earn the right to wear the Maple Leaf at Amsterdam this summer. Cyril Coaffee, the famous Winnipeg sprinter, has been rapidly rounding into shape, and expects to break records all over the track. With every thing the "last word" as far as track apparatus is concerned and one of the fastest tracks in the Dominion to work on, it is expected that some new records will be set up to-day.

The fact that Coaffee made his first appearance on the Canadian Olympic team eight years ago, brands him as an old-timer with little to learn. He seems to be still in good condition and ready to work wonders. Coaffee's presence has meant a great deal to the younger athletes as he has been coaching them along.

George (Buck) Hester, of Windsor, has shown results in the past year at a number of track meets in the States. In the Canadian Olympic trials in 1924 he forced Abrahams to smash a world's record to beat him. At present he is attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where he is also being coached in running. Hester looks like a sure member of the Olympic team.

Johnny Fitzpatrick, the speedy tract artist from Toronto, who was the Ontario champion in 1926 and 1927, and ran second to the famous Coaffee at Toronto Varsity last fall, is expected to hang up some records worth gazing on. It is the general belief that the track team that represents Canada this year will be the best this country ever has turned out.

HOLIDAY GAME WILL PROVIDE THRILLS GALORE

Belleville Aces Ready To Go Into Action Against Petes.

MUCH AT STAKE.

Win Will Put the Petes Right Up in the League Race.

Belleville will be here Monday morning for a Central Ontario League battle that will play a big part in the League race.

The Railroaders, who had been sitting on top of the world until last week, have received two bumps that hurt and a loss here Monday might pull them down out of first place. They will surely fight all the way to avert a third successive defeat and have both Gibson and Utronki primed to hurl in against the Petes.

On the other hand the home crew realize that a win will put them right up in the race and they can be depended upon to give the invaders a real argument. The Petes have lost three games at home but they are determined to show the local fans that they can step with any outfit in the League when they get working right.

The holiday morning game will start at 10 o'clock sharp and will attract the biggest crowd of the year.

Ken Colling of Belleville will be the umpire-in-chief.

The Petes play two games on Monday travelling to Deloro in the afternoon for a battle with the Smelters. A double win on the holiday would help a whole lot.

YANKEES LOSE IN FINAL GAME

Last Trip of Season to Philadelphia Profitable, However.

WIN FOR CLEVELAND.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Athletics had to put down a ninth-inning rally by the Yankees at Philadelphia to win the final clash of the series, 6—4. The games closed the 1928 engagements of the champions at Shibe Park, with the New Yorkers having won nine out of eleven, including two out of the three in the series just ended.

Combs' single, Koenig's home run and a pass to Ruth cut short Howard Ehmke's reign with one out in the ninth. Bob Grove, who has lost five out of six to the Yankees this season, entered the box to "fan" Gehrig and Lazzeri, Meusel slipped to first on a fumble by Hale between the two strikeouts.

Three successive hits, a wild throw by Barrett and a wild pitch by Connally enabled Cleveland to score three runs in the ninth inning, but was credited with his seventh straight victory. He also got a single and a double. Barrett hit a home run for Chicago in the second inning with two men on the White Sox scored six runs in this inning. Hudlin stopped the Chicago threat in the last inning after one run had been scored.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mas, and the Belleville papers will back me up, I want to tell you the Petes looked a smart ball team for 1 day anyway this week. The way they performed down at Belleville Wed. the customers what seen that Kingston mess at the local ball yard wouldn't of believed it was the same outfit. I been telling you all along Mac that they aint no reason why this gang shouldn't knock off any outfit in the loop anyd believe me fellow, down there Wed. they acted like as if they was the League leaders and them Railroaders was down in the cellar. It looked like a cinch to Mister Gerow's men when Mister Hoot Gibson drew the pitching job, for the same Hoot has been working mighty smooth all season and it was thought to be all over but keeping track of the score when he strolled out to the hill top. The trouble with Mister Gibson was he couldn't get going for about 3 frames and by that time two Peterborough runs had sneaked home from third while Mister Harry Mills and his pals was playing tag with base runners caught between 1st and 2nd and then Mister Harrison boomed a long 1 over the outfielders' heads to score two more and the ball game was over although they hadda play 6 more innings to find out. By the way it is some feat for Mister Harrison to hit a ball beyond the gardeners for they tear back in the general direction of Stirling every time he comes up.

Mister Hardill, with efficient help from the ensemble, was way ahead of the Railroaders all afternoon. Only once he got in a real jam and then with the bases clogged he gave the next batter the whole works and struck him out. And when the same boy throws in the works they aint no batting averages getting fattened. He can make any of the League teams look sick when he bears down all the way, and he'll do that same thing for the rest of the season or I'm a rotten guesser.

Mister Harrison gave the Belleville customers a surprise by playing 2nd base like a big leaguer. Don't be surprised, Mac, if he don't bob up some day as the receiving end of the Peterborough battery. He has been nearly everywhere else.

Mon. Mister Gerow and his talent play at Stevenson Park at 10 o'clock and the battle oughta make a real treat for the holiday crowd. The Railroaders will fight their heads off to grab this fixture but the Petes played Wed. as if somebody'd been feeding them meat and if they battle that way Mon. that morning fracas oughta to produce plenty fireworks.

In the p.m. th lads hafta motor to Deloro for a League battle, which ain't so good, but can't be helped. Up to the time of writing they ain't got nothing to do for the rest of the day.

By the way, Mac, I see where somebody's been writing to you to get the low down on me. They want to know whether I'm a brilliant talker. Well you can tell the lady that I been married 8 years so she can figger for herself what chance I got to do any talking. And as to what I look like, Mac, well naturally after being in the newspaper business for longer than I like to tell you and travelling on my face all the time you can't expect that I'd look like the answer to a maiden's prayer. If they's anything else she'd like to know tell her to please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I'll do the best I can.

Well old thing, I gotta date with the circus so take care yourself.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

TRAINING PART PAST AND PRESENT

Jimmy DeForest Tells of Training For Fistic Champions.

In my rounds of the various public gymnasia in New York, says that noted trainer of champions, Jimmy De Forest in the July issue of "Fight Stories" magazine, I often have been asked the following question:

"What is the difference, if any, between the training methods of today and those of, say, a quarter of a century ago?"

The answer is easy. In the first place in my span of experience a marked difference has grown up in the methods of training fighters, for the simple reason that the purpose of their training itself has changed. In those early days, the methods were what might be described as "loose" training. The efforts were not specialized to special needs. Any sort of body strengthening exercise was regarded as good. It was nearly all of a heavy character, such as ditch-digging, hay-harvesting, wood-chopping, tree-climbing, all carried on for hours at a time—to the back-breaking point.

And these methods were all right for what they were then principally intended to do for the benefit of the fighter. Endurance was the main thing he had to have. Those backroom fights in the resorts all over the country, and even the more formal and regularly scheduled matches, invariably were slated to go to a finish, and they did unless the police popped in on them.

Of course, there were some of the old-timers who went in for shadowboxing, which was not by any means unknown in those days, and also indulged in practice bouts. But the whole glove game was slower. The haymaker and the long jab were the favorite blows. The school of close, sharp infighting, with its hooks, short uppercuts, rib tattoes and the like awaited development.

In those days trainers had only a superficial knowledge of anatomy, vital organs and nervous systems of the men in their charge. If a fighter didn't recover in a hurry from a knockout, the trainers would be white-faced and calling for doctors in a panic. Even in this day there are too few trainers who have attained an expert knowledge of physiology, and such as have acquired this knowledge naturally work at a tremenous advantage.

Years ago I studied training, physical training, in British and German military camps. I also studied the science in Paris.

The German system of training was by far the most efficient because they divided their men into six classes, ranging from the very strong down to the spindly and weak. They worked the weaker ones up gradually. Besides, they had gymnasium specialties for correcting shortcomings of muscularity and nervous weaknesses.

The British, though, used a standardized system of training that failed to take into account the physical condition of the individual. It was the same for the strong fellow as it was for the weak ones. This standardization without regard to the individual physical qualifications of the men under training, with the big and the strong, the small and the weak, all getting the same dose, aided some, but it wrecked others.

REDS FOURTH PASSING CUBS

Defeat Rivals For Last Berth in First Division 4-2 at Home.

PIRATES BEATEN.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Reds, who have been something like poison ivy to Charlie Root all season, took a deep breath after a short vacation and beat the Chicago Cubs by 4 to 2 at Cincinnati yesterday. The victory put them back into fourth place. Three hits in the first inning and three more in the second netted three runs and enough to win, while Luque held the Cubs runless until the eighth when they scored twice on a single, a triple by "Hack" Wilson and an infield out.

In spite of a 13 to 11 advantage in hits, the Pittsburg Pirates lost by 9 to 4 at St. Louis, due to the timely array of extra-base wallops credited to the Cardinals. All of the Pirates' runs came in the ninth when P. Waner connected for a home run with the bases loaded.

The Cards collected five doubles and a triple, batting Kremer out of the box in the first inning. Harper hit a pair of doubles, while Roettger slugged out the triple. Hafey was not in action yesterday, due to a thumb injury of Thursday. The Cards now lead by five games.

AT THE REGENT.

NEW COMEDY TEAM CO-STAR GOES THROUGH VARIED CAREER TO FAME.

Several years ago, after Conklin had run away from home to make his own way in the world, he got a job in the baking establishment, "kneading," as he puts it, "the dough."

Then he tired of the baking business and launched a bell-hop career in Des Moines. He rose rapidly as an elevator operator, but a chance to enter an Omaha lawyer's office came along and he took it. After a year studying law, he decided that he wasn't cut out to be a barrister, so he came west.

For months, he had been accumulating jokes, and on arriving in Los Angeles, he turned his steps to vaudeville booking offices, heralding himself as a very able Dutch comedian.

Al G. Barnes wanted a clown for his circus ,and sought out Conklin. So Conklin became a comic under the big tops. One day during the winter vacation at Venice, California, Conklin met an old friend of the stage, a chap named Charles Ray, who was appearing in a series of broncho-busting pictures. Ray suggested that Conklin locate Mack Sennet and get himself a job in Keystone comedies, which Sennett was directing, Conklin waited two months and finally landed a place in a two-reeler.

Now Conklin is being starred with George Bancroft, his new comedy team-mate, in 'Tell It To Sweeney," which will be at the Regent next week, a comedy of railroad life. Gregory La Cava directed.

Thursday — Peterborough Milk Products Dairy Products

Peterborough Milk Products, the purveyors of the pure, sweet pasturized milk that is the mainstay in so many hundreds of homes in Peterborough. Food and health for the child, the modern system of the milk products always safeguards this vital product.

Now, folks, just sit down, read over their respective advts, and exercise your memory and think out the slogan you would like to have Mr. Free use on the different firms he has chosen to do business with and mail to to Mr. Free, care of Peterborough Examiner. He may use it and you will be $5.00 to the good.

On account of Monday being a holiday and observed by The Daily Examiner, the slogans for Monday and Tuesday are appearing in to-day's issue, so save The Examiner to greet Mr. Free with each day's magic words.

Monday's Slogan

Gee, Mr. Free from The Peterborough Examiner, if you had not called I would have forgotten to call Fanning's Modern Laundry. I will guess the mileage on your Hudson Super-Six Seven-Passenger Sedan.

Tuesday's Slogan

Welcome, Mr. Free, from The Daily Examiner, the paper that tells us of the wonderful bargains in shoes at Lillow's Shoe Store. I see you are driving a Super-six Hudson Sedan. $5.00, please.

WATCH FOR THE SEDAN

The best tip that Mr. Free can give you is to watch for the blue Hudson Sedan. Just as soon as you see the car, reach for the most recent copy of The Examiner and take it to the door with you. Take plenty of time while saying the words, for Mr. Free will not say anything in any way to interrupt you. That is where so many persons fail in the attempt. They feel too sure of themselves, try to say the words too fast and make a mistake.

Mr. Free was asked why he chose a Hudson Super-Six Sedan, and his answer was "Because of power-pep in Hudson Super-Six. Service counts, and all authorized Hudson-Essex dealers give service."

Mr. Free will make twenty calls in Peterborough each day this week. Grab The Examiner and say the magic words of greeting to every person who rings your door bell or knocks at your door.

Mr. Free uses Super-Power and Peerless Gasoline, distributed by the British American Oil Co., Ltd., because it fires quickly and cleanly and their stations everywhere are ready to serve you.

In response to a telephone call from J. Primeau, Peterborough's most popular Haberdasher, saying that a Scotchman passing his door, noticed Mr. Free's car parked in front, dropped dead, with a copy of The Daily Examiner in his hand, Mr. Free rushed to Primeau's store and found Mr. Primeau had made a mistake. It did not happen to be a Scotchman, but an Irishman, in the person of George Graham, the popular proprietor of the Empress Hotel, where they serve large portions of well-cooked food, by courteous uniformed waitresses, and Mr. Graham had just partaken too freely of one of his own meals.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Graham has sufficiently recovered to be about as usual this morning.

Mr. Free believes in safety always, so he has L. L. Maguire protect his car with fire, theft, collision and liability and property damage, and has his clothes cleaned at Parker's, Cleaners and Dyers, where they make old garments look like new, and buys his shoes at Lillow's Shoe Store for Foot Kumfort and perfect fit.

MR. FREE'S CAPITAL PRIZE

One of Mr. Free's Special Prizes.

Mr. Free will give to the first fifteen persons that guess closest to the mileage on the speedometer of his car at the end of his stay here, cash cheques from $25.00 to $350.00. The speedometer on the Hudson Super-Six Seven Passenger Sedan was sealed from view when Mr. Free started to drive and will be uncovered at the end of his stay, so fill in the coupon and mail it to Mr. Free, care of The Daily Examiner.

of a couple hundred dollars," said the Mayor.

Ald. Greene moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that no action be taken.

Ald. Stocker moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Ackerman, that the city guarantee up to $500.

"Who's going to be responsible" asked Ald. Macdonald, precipitating discussion on this point which ended in Mr. Dutton volunteering leadership by the Chamber of Commerce.

The vote was a tie on each motion, and a second motion by Ald. Greene and McIntyre that the regiment be informed that the city cannot handle the matter this year but hopes to entertain the regiment at some future date was passed.

The vote was: For guaranteeing $500: Aldermen Stocker, Ackerman, Huffman, Macdonald and Phelan; Against, The Mayor, Aldermen Greene, McIntyre, Hamilton, and Lowe.

Go to Convention

Men may come and men may go
But I go on forever.

Ald. Stocker did not exactly paraphrase "The Brook," when he suggested that City Clerk Armstrong and City Assessor Henry should again represent the city at the meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association, rather than aldermen who might not be in the council after the next election. His suggestion was adopted.

A petition was read from a large number of residents of Euclid avenue asking for some attention to that street.

The William Hamilton Company asked that Murray street, where it passes through the factory, be paved, but it is now too late for advertising it for this year, and the company will be so advised.

A petition from the residents of Aylmer street south of the C.P.R., asking for pavement, was received. No action will be taken this year.

As you lounge in the roomy, high-backed form-fitting seats, every evidence of quality and comfort surrounds you.

You have before you every control in their most natural and handy place. And all about you, the paneling, the weather-stripped doors, the silenced body construction, the floor-matting and the hardware in graceful silvery patterns speak quietly and certainly of quality.

In this and such things as the black rubber, steel-core, finger-scalloped steering wheel, the worm and tooth disc steering mechanism and the vertical radiator shutters, Essex visibly duplicates costly car practice, as it does also in the hidden things you never see.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SUNDAY, JULY 1st 1928

Sunday under the rule of the stars as read to-day by astrologers should be favorable to rest, relaxation, and courtship.

Romance is supposed to be well directed while this configuration prevails and women may expect homage as well as appreciation.

Under this sway it is generally easy to appear at one's best, the seers declare, and for this reason many midsummer engagements may be expected.

Under this planetary government, meetings of all sorts are believed to be successful and by these signs the churches should benefit.

Again interest in cathedrals and imposing edifices for public worship will be strong.

America is to build in the next two decades structures as beautiful and as majestic as any in Europe, astrologers prophesy.

Spiritual awakening is to be widely noticeable before the end of the year, and to-day's rule of the stars appears to indicate that congregations will be hospitable toward the teachings of the clergy.

Because all progress arouses opposition there may be many dissensions among persons of differing religious faiths.

The seers' forecast for the political campaign much bitter conflict which will be profitable in the end.

The national election is to result in a surprise that is to be recognized as fortunate within a year, it is prognosticated.

The era of high finance has arrived, astrologers announce, and where millions previously have been counted billions will be considered as the general estimate of national business transactions.

Banks continue under a sway making for tremendous expansion and extension of scope.

Persons whose birthday it is should be extraordinarily cautious regarding finances. The year may bring problems.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly ambitious, but inclined to take too many chances. The subjects of this sign are often too sanguine for their own good.

MONDAY, JULY 2, 1928

"The stars incline but do not compel."
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Good and bad planetary influences are read by astrologers as conflicting while this configuration prevails.

This is a rule believed to be stimulating to business and most promising to bankers and financiers.

The morning is said to be lucky for all who invest in constructive enterprises. Engineers and builders are well directed.

The day is auspicious for transportation projects and foreshadows great achievements in aviation.

While aerial navigation is subject to the best possible rule of the planets this is not a lucky day for taking any risks in flying.

News of a nature more or less discouraging to certain political candidates may be expected while this sway continues.

There is a sign presaging many misleading reports and much befogging in regard to politics.

Under this rule inventors may meet with disappointment, but the stars foreshadow many amazing successes in labor-saving and life-saving devices.

It is wise not to express opinions to-day, for the mind may be biased and judgments unfair in business as well as politics.

Real estate is subject to plentary influence that seem to promise great activity in certain parts of the country.

Again the seers warn against stock speculation and counsel conservative methods in managing personal as well as business affairs.

Hotels will profit greatly through the summer season, astrologers predict.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful about signing legal papers or contracts. The year should be fairly prosperous.

Children born on this day probably will be clever executives and successful in financial matters. Both boys and girls usually make important personal contacts.

REMARKABLE SALES RECORD

Willys-Overland Company Now Stand Second Highest in the Automobile Industry.

POPULARITY OF WILLYS-KNIGHT AND WHIPPET

Mr. J. J. Duffus has returned from Toronto after attending a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, who are holding their Annual Plowing Match Tractor and Farm Machinery Demonstration near the city of London this year.

While in Toronto Mr. Duffus had a conference with some of the officials of the Willy Overland Sales Company, who are very much elated over the fact that they now enjoy second place in volume of production in the automobile industry.

They have every reason to be proud and gratified in view of the fact that only five years ago they stood seventeenth on the list of automobile manufacturers and to now occupy the enviable position of second in the industry shows progress greater than that ever attained by any other automobile firm, which is concrete evidence of the utility and popularity of Willys Knight and Whippet cars and trucks.

Since Mr. Duffus' return he has received the following telegram from Willys Overland Sales Company:

"To-day, in less than six months, we have exceeded in number of units our total sales for the whole of last year. Such a sales record is most significant of Willys Overland progress when considering that the same feat was accomplished last year and our sales have steadily been increasing since nineteen twenty-two. We want to thank you for the part you have played to make this possible and we count on your co-operation to double last year's business for the last six months.—Willys Overland Sales Co."

UTILITIES MEN AT CONVENTION

DISCUSS WATERWORKS.

Ross Dobbin, manager of the Peterborough Utilities Commission and Gordon Matthews, chairman, have been attending the recent forty-eighth annual convention of the Waterworks Association, held in San Francisco. This was held in the Fairmount Hotel, and over 600 delegates were present. There were only seven representatives of Canada, two of which were from Peterborough. The convention dates were from June 11 to 15.

The convention consisted mainly of about seventy technical papers. President Gibson opened the meeting. The most important business transacted and discussed was:

(1) The abolition of the standardization council, and the decision to appoint a committee on waterworks practice;

(2) The decision to appoint a committee to see about constitution revision; and

(3) A serious consideration of the plan to add to the A.W.W.A. staff a secretary to serve the technical committees.

The membership of the association increased last year from 2,403 to 2,442 and reached the figure of 2,524 up to June 1st this year.

There was a practical field demonstration given near the hotel to illustrate the various methods used in making difficult pipe connections as well as jointing, and tapping in general. An experienced field crew was supplied by the East Bay Water Company of San Francisco, who carried out the work in the same manner as if it was a real job, only the pipes were not in a trench but located to give the best view for demonstration purposes.

The entertainment program was in the hand of an active San Francisco committee, who entertained the ladies during the convention periods with motor trips, bridge, theatres and golf.

The Wednesday was free for golf or the choice of two trips. One to the Spring Valley Reservoirs and Stanford University and to see the new pipe line across San Francisco Bay, and the other to the East Bay cities, San Pablo, and San Leandro, and the filtration plants of the East Bay Water Company of that district. The usual smoker was held on Wednesday evening.

William W. Bush of New York City was elected president for the coming year and the probability of having the convention next year in Toronto was given careful consideration. The selection is not definite, but general opinion is favorable to that city.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Some preachers try to make it appear that eternal punishment and "eternal torture" are one and the same thing.

Death is complete destruction: and such is the punishment that God will inflict upon the wilfully wicked.—Psalms 145:20, 2 Thess. 1:9.

If preachers were correct in their conclusions, that the destiny of each one is fixed at death, that the good go to heaven, and that the evil go to purgatory or a place of endless torment, then why should there be a resurrection at all?

It is meaningless to speak of the resurrection if the dead are already conscious.

The Scriptures plainly say, if there is no resurrection then the dead are perished.—I Cor. 15-12-18.

COLORED DELEGATES DISCUSS POSITION

Baptist Clergyman Tells Convention of Race's Hopes in Southern States.

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Baptist World Alliance Congress, now in session here, is proving a welcome stamping ground for the Negro element in the Baptist Communion. Southern colored pastors find the meeting of their church in Canada, once a refuge for runaway slaves, a safe place to give eloquent expression to the longings of the hearts of Southern colored folks.

Rev. John Hope, of Atlanta, Ga., addressing the Alliance to-day on the 'contribution of colored people launched forth into discussion of the negro's contribution to politics and business and his hopes and fears for the future. The United States, he maintained, was making a political blunder in preventing the negro from expressing himself in political and civic affairs. "Unless this condition is changed", he remarked, "I expect to see my native south in a more embarassing position than it has ever been before, even in the civil war."

WHERE PLANES SEEK EXPLORERS

Somewhere in the wild Polar area shown above, with its ring of relief ships and airplanes, are members of the crew of the ill-fated dirigible Italia, and daring airmen who flew in vain into Arctic oblivion in attempts at rescue. Other fliers are waiting more favorable weather to start new search flights to fix the fate of those who may have died and to bring succor to the living. Rescued from his "red tent" encampment on an ice floe, General Nobile is assisting by directing the search.

LAKEFIELD LODGE DECORATES GRAVES

Oddfellows Hear Address By Rev. T. M. Wesley During Ceremonies.

(Examiner Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD, June 30. — Sunday, the decoration day of Lakefield Lodge No. 358, I.O.O.F., saw scores of cars and hundreds of people thronging the streets and gathering at the two cemeteries for the ceremony which was impressive and dignified. The brethren gathered at the Lodge Room at 1.30 and marched to Hillside Cemetery, headed by the Citizens' Band, which played some of the dear old hymns which tell of the love of God to man. At the cemetery the grave of Bro. Milton Nelson was decorated, and the procession reformed and marched back to the Memorial Hall, where the men entered motor cars and were driven to Lakefield Cemetery, where a larger number of graves were decorated and an address given by Rev. T. M. Wesley. The procession in its march up Queen Street and back was probably the most impressive part of the beautiful ceremony, for it was an object lesson typifying the brotherly love which reaches beyond the grave and unites living and dead in the great lodge where the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man is the rule which governs one and all. The spectacle of forty men, representative of the manhood of the village, marching through the streets bearing bouquets of flowers to decorate the graves of deceased brethren is inspiring, and whether one admires the I.O.O.F. or not, at least one must respect this custom, one which every fraternal society might emulate with credit to themselves and their order.

At the Lakefield Cemetery a large crowd awaited the arrival of the procession, a crowd as reverent in demeanor as the I.O.O.F. themselves. Graves decorated included those of William Hamilton, William Curry, George McWilliams James Jory, Gordon Roseborough, Frederick Anderson, Melville Pammett, and C. Otis Northey.

Following this beautiful ceremony, Rev. T. M. Wesley addressed them on the subject of brotherly love and its practice following the command of our Lord Himself, giving an address which was both thoughtful and inspirational.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. A. B. Burrows was the hostess of a pleasant afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. J. Scott Mongomery, who leaves this week to join her husband in Napanee. About sixteen ladies were present, Mrs. F. S. Brown and Mrs. W. W. Leonard assisting the hostess in serving tea.

The following address was read by Miss B. Graham, while Mrs. J. H. Sherin presented Mrs. Montgomery with a silver comport:

Lakefield, June 25, 1928.

"Dear Mrs. Montgomery

The poet Kipling says: 'There is no pleasure like meeting an old friend except perhaps making a new one." Three years ago when we first met you we all felt we had made a new friend, one of the kind which lasts and does not depend on bright skies and prosperous circumstances for its life. Now after three years of residence here we feel that the seed sown then has grown into a beautiful blooming flower filled with fragrance like the rose, but in quality everlasting. Now the time has come when you are leaving us to make new friends in a larger town, but we feel sure that you will not forget the little group in Lakefield who will continue to cherish the happiest memories of you, and who will always welcome a return visit. In the hope that we may still linger in your memory, we ask you to accept a little keepsake which we hope will always be a pleasant reminder of Lakefield and your sincere friends there."

Mrs. Montgomery was much surprised at the gift, but in graceful manner thanked her friends for it, and assured them of her remembrance of them.

The funeral took place in Saint John's Church on Tuesday afternoon of Jane Long, wife of Andrew Collins of Lakefield. Rev. W. J. Creighton officiated. The pall bearers were Messrs. P. Condon, J. McManus, Thomas Sullivan Jr., Thomas Rowe, Frank Pringle and James McConnell

Mr. Creighton spoke of the new life in Christ which is the heritage which came to men and women for the sacrifice and death of our Lord on the cross. This blessed hope of everlasting life has robbed death of its terrors and given to Christians a ray of [illegible] in the midst of their sorrow at losing their loved ones.

Interment was made in the Lakefield cemetery.

Sunday, June 24th was celebrated as the patronal festival of St. John the Baptist church, Lakefield, the rector, Rev. W. J. Creighton being in charge in the morning and Rev. C. C. Blagrave, D.D., of St. John's Peterborough in the evening. At both services the sermons dealt with the life and work of St. John the Baptist.

The public library has received a grant from the Provincial government of $109.00 which is considerably larger than last year. The library will, for July and August, be open for exchange of books only on Tuesday afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock. This is following the custom of past years.

There will be a strawberry social held on Fri. evening on the grounds of the Baptist church, Selwyn from 5 to 8 o'clock with a good program to follow.

Miss Gladys Shewer of Kansas City is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. deCourcy Fletcher and children have taken Point o' Rocks, Clear Lake for the month of July.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blewett leave on Thursday for Burleigh Falls where they will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Creighton, Miss Marjorie and Master John motored to Lake Simcoe on Thursday. The children will remain for the summer at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. B. Marling are spending a few days at "Point o' Rocks" their summer home near Kawartha Park.

City Boy Drowns---Two Men Narrowly Escape

SKIFF UPSETS IN LOWER CANAL, MEN ARE SAFE

Two Irishmen Get On One Side of Boat While Landing.

HELP WAS NEAR.

Lockmaster and Assistants Hear Woman's Cry and Rescue Men.

Two Irishmen who set out to enjoy the holiday had a narrow escape from drowning at the lower lock number 19, yesterday. While attempting to land their skiff at the west side of the lock, instead of at the place where canoes and skiffs are supposed to be taken from the water to portage them, they both happened to get on the one side and were upset into the deep water of the lock. Neither of the men could swim and as the lockmaster was busily engaged in duties around the place he did not notice them. They struggled for a few minutes before assistance could be had. A woman's scream gave the warning and at once the lockmaster and assistant dropped their work and with the aid of a pike pole they fished them out of the water.

However, on the return trip they seemed none the worse for their ducking and rowed happily home singing and playing the mouth organ as if nothing had happened.

PRESENTED WITH PURSE

Rev. James Guiry, who was given a purse of gold and an address by his East City Parish on the eve of his departure for Port Hope.

MORE PERMITS ISSUED IN JUNE

Grand Building Total For Half Year Amounts To $171,647.00.

SLIGHT DECREASE.

Building totals for the month of June, 1928, indicate a healthy growth in the City of Peterborough. Thirty-seven permits were or will be responsible for an expenditure of $25,013.00, the total of the year so far being increased thereby to $171,647.00. The month of May, however, appears to have been a much better period in that sixty-four permits were issued for a total of $79,187.00.

In the month of June, 1927, there were thirty-one permits issued, the total amount of these added to totals of preceding months bringing the expenditure for the first six months of 1927, up to $234,328.00.

REV. GUIRY GIVEN PURSE

East City Parish Presents Purse of Gold and Address.

GOING TO PORT HOPE.

Rev. James Guiry, who has been administrator of the parish of the Immaculate Conception in Ashburnham, since the appointment of Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl to the Roman Catholic Church in Lindsay, was presented with a purse of gold and a complimentary address, at the conclusion of benediction services at the church on Sunday evening. Rev. Father Guiry leaves to-morrow for Port Hope, to assume his new duties in charge of the Catholic parish there, while Rev. Dean Frank O'Sullivan of Port Hope takes his place here, in charge of the parish of the Immaculate Conception.

The presentation to Rev. Father Guiry, who has endeared himself to the members of the East City congregation by his constant and unfailing interest in their welfare, by the quiet kindliness which has animated his relations with them at all times and by the thoughtful subject matter of his weekly sermons, was made, on behalf of the entire congregation, by William E. Perdue, while the accompanying address was read by Daniel J. Holland and prepared by J. A. O'Brien.

Rev. Father Guiry made an appropriate acknowledgment of the presentation and address, expressing himself as thankful to the parishioners for their thoughtfulness in his regard and speaking of his term at the Church of the Immaculate Conception as constituting three very happy years.

The address follows:

To Reverend Father J. J. Guiry.

When on Sunday last we heard your announcement that you were to leave this congregation, we all experienced a feeling of deep regret, and while we realize that the best of friends must sometimes part, we had sincerely hoped that you would continue on with us.

Since coming to this parish, first as curate, and later in your capacity as administrator, you have endeared yourself to us all. We have been edified by your simple piety and sincere devotion, and we looked forward to a continuation of that happy association we have enjoyed with you.

You have at all times, by your kindly guidance, genial personality, wholesome simplicity and humanity, been a leader whom it has been our privilege and sincere pleasure to endeavor to follow.

Your all too brief sojourn in our midst will always stand out in our memories as a period of happy encouragement and cheerful leadership.

We congratulate you on the fact that your sterling qualities as priest and man have been recognized by our beloved Bishop, in appointing you to the important parish of Port Hope, and in leaving us we desire you to know that we will never forget you, and that you will always hold a high place in our admiration and affection.

We wish you many years of happiness and we know that your sterling worth will win you higher and greater rewards.

As a small token of our appreciation and as an evidence of our highest esteem we ask you to accept this purse.

Signed on behalf of the Congregation of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Peterborough, this 30th day of June, 1928.

CITY TOURISTS SAILED FRIDAY

Fifteen Persons From Peterborough and District Boarded Steamers.

AT MONTREAL.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, July 3.—Fifteen persons, from Peterborough and district, were included among the 2,500 passengers who sailed for Great Britain on Friday in miserable weather from the port of Montreal. Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Miss Lilian Hamilton, Mrs. A. Bentley, Mrs. Homer Meyers and Miss Jean Meyers were included among the 750 passengers who sailed on the Canadian Pacific steamer Melita; Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Neal, their son Allan Neal, and Dr. Neal's brother, William Neal, of Walton, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Roy, Mrs. M. W. Lyle and Miss L. Lyle, Miss Claire Mason and Mrs. J. Holdcroft, wife of Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock, were among the 950 passengers, the record sailing to date this season, carried by the Anchor-Donaldson liner, Letitia, sailing for Glasgow. Yesterday's sailing was the third in succession in which the Glasgow steamer has figured carrying the largest number of passengers. On the other occasions she took 850 and 900 passengers.

The Cunard liner Ausonia carried 700 passengers.

The Peterborough contingent is divided among two conducted touring parties, the King and the Withrow, both of which have mapped out visits to countries of Western Europe after visiting the historic and beauty spots of the British Isles.

The peak of the year's traffic was supposed to have been reached on Friday, June 22, but steamship officials state that the season so far has proved even better than the banner season they experienced last year, and is continuing in satisfactory volume.

Travelling by the St. Lawrence route to Europe is rapidly gaining in favor, not only with Canadians, but also among tourists from the United States. This year the total number of passengers from over the border shows an increase of fifty per cent. to date over last year. A steamship passenger manager in Montreal stated that one woman, when booking her passage, said she had been advised to travel by the St. Lawrence route, because she would "find her sea legs" before she reached the sea. Many people declare that by travelling via the great Canadian waterway to Europe, and being in enclosed water for four days enables them to get used to the ship before she reaches the ocean, thereby overcoming seasickness when the open waters of the Atlantic are reached.

Next week the port will welcome back many people who sailed at the beginning of the season, the tourists who left early now beginning to return. Some Peterborough people are believed to be included among the passengers of ships now ploughing the waters of the Atlantic.

OFFERED SEAT ON BENCH?

TORONTO, July 3.—It is rumored here that Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, Minister of Immigration in a MacKenzie King Government, is to be appointed to the Supreme Court Bench. This will be the first appointment of the kind from Peterborough.

It is well-known that Mr. King regretted losing Mr. Gordon from his Cabinet, because of the former Peterborough member's organization ability and his executive success. It had been thought that possibly Mr. King would insist on Mr. Gordon making a comeback, but the report of elevation to the bench is so circumstantial here that credence must almost be given it.

Little Lake Claims Life Of Joe Goselin In Tragedy To-Day

Gallant Effort at Rescue by James Welsh Fails to Save Boy Who Was Not a Good Swimmer — Wilfrid Gynane Tells About Brave Attempt.

BODY RECOVERED AFTER TWENTY MINUTES BUT ALL RESPIRATION METHODS FAIL

While swimming with a chum near the southerly shore of Little Lake at 1.45 this afternoon, Joseph Goselin of thirteen years, got into difficulties and was drowned, despite the heroic efforts of two lads who hastened to his assistance. Untiring attempts by firemen and police to promote respiration after the body had been recovered from the water were reluctantly abandoned late in the afternoon when it was finally announced that life was extinct. He had been submerged twenty-five minutes when the finding of the body permitted resuscitation work to be commenced. Dr. G. Murray Fraser was called to the scene and lent every effort to the reviving of the lad, but desisted when it became evident to his trained mind that further struggle would be useless.

Not a Swimmer

Joseph Goselin, whose parents are dead, had resided at 57 Crescent street with his brother, James. He had gone in swimming with a chum, James Welsh, who resides nearby, and the two had commandeered a punt.

Another lad, Wilfrid Gynane, Crescent street, gave The Examiner a modest account of the drowning. He had been swimming some distance from the other boys when he noticed them in the water beside the punt, young Welsh making a vain effort to keep his chum above water. Gynane, realizing that Goselin could not swim to any extent, hurriedly swam out to give assistance but Goselin had gone under. Gynane thought that Jimmie Welsh had made a heroic effort to save the drowning boy.

Called For Assistance

The cries of the boys for help immediately roused residents along Crescent street who in turn summoner police assistance, and the firemen, who hastened to the scene with the pumotor. Boats were obtained and within twenty minutes after Joseph Goselin had gone down for the third time his body was recovered. Dr. Fraser supervising the attempts at resuscitation did not at first advise application of the pulmotor. Later however, it was put to use, without avail.

BRITISH CRUISER DAUNTLESS FOUNDERS IN HALIFAX HARBOR

Runs On To Tribune Ledges While Steaming Through Dense Fog.

CREW TAKEN ASHORE.

Officers True To Naval Tradition, Remain Aboard Vessel Throughout Night.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 3 (Canadian Press).—A thirty-foot hole, just forward of the main funnel on the port side, was torn in the hull of the British cruiser Dauntless when she crashed upon Tribune Ledges inside Halifax harbor yesterday in a dense fog. This damage was revealed today following an inspection of the hull by a local diver, but full extent of the damage remains to be ascertained, as the starboard side of the warship was not inspected, it being considered too dangerous by the diver.

Daybreak found the British light cruiser Dauntless grinding relentlessly in the lazy swell on the jagged Tribunte Ledges inside the entrance to Halifax harbor, where she crashed while feeling her way through the dense fog trying to make port.

There was little hope to-day that her salvage would be effected, although there was practically no wind and a heavy southerly swell that lifted her onto the ledges yesterday was subsiding.

Water poured into the partly abandoned fighting ship throughout the night, and it was believed a sharp boulder had pierced her bottom amidships, causing her to pivot.

Ship's officers, true to naval tradition, had remained aboard the vessel throughout the night, but the bulk of her crew of 425 were safely placed on shore at the naval dockyard last night.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Steaming slowly up Halifax Harbor through a dense fog early yesterday afternoon, the British light cruiser Dauntless, a unit of the North Atlantic and West Indies Squadron of the British Navy, crashed on Tribune Shoals, well inside the harbor entrance and was last night expected to become a total loss. There were no casualties among the 425 officers and men of her crew, and late last evening all had been removed except Captain K. D. W. Macpherson, her commander, and 50 officers and men, who planned to remain aboard all night.

It was understood from information gathered by those on salvage vessels that the navigators of the Dauntless had mistaken Thrum Cap buoy for Never Fail, the latter marking the fairway up the harbor. The cruiser was spoken by the pilot boat off Chebucto Head, but in keeping with naval custom did not take on a pilot.

RAILWAYMAN DIES.

G. A. Montgomery, one of the best known railwaymen in the country, who died at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on Wednesday after a short illness. He was vice-president and general manager of the Algoma Central Railway. He was born at Bradford, Ont., and early in life started his railway career with the C.P.R. He rose rapidly to the top, and in 1900 became chief clerk to the superintendent of the Lake Superior division. He joined the Algoma Central the following year, becoming general manager, and vice-president in 1916. Doctors fought desperately to save his life, but the illness could not be overcome. A specialist was called in at the last minute, a special train making a record run to the Soo to reach the bedside.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Employees of Colonial Weaving Give Miss Myrtle Freeburn a Clock.

The employees of the Colonial Weaving Company met in the office at the noon hour on Saturday to present on address and a beautiful mantel clock to Miss Myrtle Freeburn, whose marriage takes place this week. The address was read by Mrs. McKirdy, while Miss Laura Lang made the presentation. The following is the address:

Dear Myrtle:

Having learned with pleasure of your approaching marriage we could not let the occasion pass without extending to you in small tangible manner our sincere congratulation and would, therefore, ask you to kindly accept this mantel clock as a slight token of our respect, and in which we all join in wishing you a long and happy life.

Miss Freeburn replied in a few suitable words, thanking her fellow employees for their beautiful gift.

INCREASE SHOWN IN CITY BIRTHS

While Marriages and Deaths Show Decrease Over June, 1927.

Cupid and Stork combined nicely to completely defeat Father Time in the June, 1928, campaign according to the vital statistics at the City Clerk's office. A total of fifty-four births and thirty marriages was recorded during the month as compared with twenty-nine deaths.

The above figures appear more favorable than those of the corresponding period in 1927, when forty-eight births were recorded along with thirty nine marriages and thirty-one deaths.

FOUR MEN NOMINATED

North Monaghan Will Have Election For Councillor.

TWO IN FIELD.

Four candidates were nominated for the vacant position of councillman for the Township of North Monaghan at the nomination in May's School on Saturday afternoon. Up until noon to-day two of the nominees had qualified, which makes an election necessary. The four who were nominated are William Stevens, William Whitfield, ex-Alderman Robert Morrison and George Ward. William Whitfield and William Stevens have already qualified and these two names in all probability will be the only ones on the ballots. Polling will take place next Saturday in the various booths throughout the township.

The nomination was necessary due to the resignation of Councillor Geo. Patton.

THE WEATHER

During the month of June rain fell on fifteen days, and the total was 2.39. In June of last year, the corresponding figures were 1.87 and nine days. The past month was cool and the temperature was considerably below average. There was a marked deficiency in sunshine during the day, and a larger number than usual of cool nights. The higest temperature was 83 degrees on the 13th; the lowest, 38 degrees on the 3rd. In June of last year the highest was 93 degrees on the 30th, and the lowest 32 degrees on the 3rd. July has come in warm. On Sunday the temperature was 81 in the shade, and yesterday we had real summer heat with 85 degrees registered.—W.P.

City Pays $28,000 to Help Hydro Give Power to Other Cities At Lower Rate

Says R. R. Hall, K.C., in Commenting On Hydro Electric Power Commission Report For Year Ending October, 1927—Belleville Company Gets Power at $17, While Peterborough Pays $32 Wholesale.

The Twentieth Annual Report of the Hydro Electric Power Commission for the year ending October 31st, 1927, just issued, shows some very interesting figures and surprising facts for the power and light consumers of this City.

On page 213 there appears an entirely new item charged to this City and which reads as follows: "Share of amount by which cost exceeds the revenue from power sold to private customers and companies—Peterborough, $28,036.85."

Thus we find by a few strokes of the pen in the hands of the high and mighty Hydro Commission that this City is "soaked" and paid last year for the benefit of outsiders the sum of $28,036.85 without the knowledge of the City Council, and without any public protest or inquiry by the local commission as to whose benefit this new annual contribution is arbitrarily imposed upon this City.

Why should this City pay an annual tribute of $28,036.85 to enable the Hydro Commission to sell power to the Canada Cement Company at Belleville at a cost of $17.00 per H.P. while this City is charged $32.00 per H. P. per annum at wholesale cost plus the cost of distribution by the local commission as well?

Why should this city pay an annual tribute of $28,036.85 to enable the Hydro Commission to sell power to the City of Kingston at $25.00 per H.P. while this City is charged $32.00 H.P.? Kingston is 100 miles away from electric power producing plants while this city has two power plants within her city limits.

This is certainly selling "power at cost" with a vengeance. This City certainly has been "humbugged" by the Hydro Commission and more particularly when the plain facts show that she is now compelled to pay a tribute to power users in Belleville and Kingston and elsewhere.

Those of us who have good memories will recall the promise made on behalf of the Hydro Commission, that if Peterborough took power from it, that in 30 years this City would own its share of power producing and distributing plants of Central Ontario and power could then be furnished at the cost of operating the plants. Since 1921, however, this City's share of the capital cost of the system on which interest is charged has increased to the extent of $217,323.00, or to put it another way, Peterboro is now paying interest on $1,132,189.00 as her share of producing power in the Central Ontario district.

But that is not all. The contribution for the benefit of other municipalities and companies to the extent of $28,036.85 is equivalent to interest a 5% on $560,737.00 which at in reality Peterborough's share in the Central Ontario Power development amounts to no less a sum than $1,702,926.97 upon which interest and levies are made upon the power and light consumers of this city. This City's share is not worth 50 cents on the dollar.

What is the remedy? If the vast majority of the citizens of Peterborough will get the "Hydro Bug" entirely out of their minds and will give their moral support to a private syndicate having the opportunity of developing and selling power to this City, an annual saving could be made to the power and light consumers of this City to an amount sufficient to pay the interest on over $1,000,000.00, each and every year.

It will also be of interest to the readers in Havelock, Lakefield and Norwood to know that their respective contributions are $1,026.93 $810.84 and $370.40.
